Quick relief can be felt in many cases of aneurysm if the patient takes a short fruit-juice fast. This will cut down the quantity of blood and increase its quality and an immediate absorption of calcium will take place. All of the walls of the arteries will be affected to some degree and will become slightly softer and more pliable. This lessens the strain upon the aneurysm, and if the proper diet is taken from that time on and the patient takes up a systematic course of physical culture exercises, it is possible to restore the arteries to practically their normal tone.

I have records of patients in my files whose cases were declared incurable over ten years ago, who were restored to normal health under such treatment and have remained so up to the present time. Only yesterday, in my office, I re-examined a case which I had first examined thirteen years ago. At this last examination I could not discover any evidence that the patient had ever suffered from the serious aneurysm which she had over thirteen years before.

This case is cited to show that aneurysm is curable if the patient will persist in following the proper habits of living to cure calcification of the arteries.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE LECTURE.

A place to see at baseball games,
Or anything of any kind.
"You mustn't hide your father, James,"
Or "Jackie, sit where Ma can see,"
Or "Where's that boy?" That boy, that's me.

At parties older folks take all
The chairs, and nearly all the floor,
And we must stay out in the hall,
Or else just hang around the door.
Is always for some older one.

They crowd us back, and nearly out,
And, if we dare to say a word,
They turn around and fairly shout
That children should be seen, not heard.
But how can any child be seen?
Behind a davenport, I mean.

But I can sit in one front row
And not be told to hold my horse;
And that's when Ma makes Father go
And listen to some lecture course.
Then ev'ryone sits way, way back,
Excepting Jimmy, me and Jack.

At lectures people always stay
Where they can't hear what speakers say,
And speakers can't hear people snore;
And parents don't object a bit
When we go down in front to sit.

So just remember, lecture man;
That we don't do like old folks do;
But get as near you as we can.
And that's a compliment to you.
But other folks, like Ma and Dad,
I guess must think you're pretty bad.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she was betrothed. Neither Kildare nor Murtough hold steady jobs and Sheila works as a waitress. Her only friends are the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer whose kindness interests her. Murtough joins a band of bootleggers and when tempted by a cabaret girl, Clarice, enlists with rivals and betrays the hiding place of $150,000 contraband.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

The Clocker building stood well screened from the road and in the rear a slightly inclined path led down to the beach. This also was screened on either side by a high hedge which had been left to grow wild. The hedge had been set out by the old fashioned owner of the estate in the days when bathing parties preferred not to be seen until they were safely in the water. It provided a perfect camouflage for the bootleggers' purposes. There was a pier which had been rebuilt and stdengthened since Clocker had taken over the estate.

Murtough was not completely familiar with the place. He never had engaged in any of the expeditions to the ships at sea, nor had he ever helped to unload incoming cargo brought in by motor boats. He had driven down there in the daytime, however, and he knew that there was no house within a mile in any direction from the Clocker buildings.

Schermer was the man of action. It was he who had encircled the buildings half a dozen times and who had gone down to the beach in the darkness and surveyed the layout there. He would place his men about the place and personally direct the attack on the house and its guards. The four men slipped quietly through the timberland and to the spot where they had parked their car, a quarter of a mile away from the estate.

"We can count on jumping them at one o'clock, I think," said Schermer to the mysterious thin leader who sat by his side in the front seat. "We'll have to start then because if they haven't begun to load their trucks, it means we'll have to do it, and you know it takes time to handle as many cases as that in the dark. If there's a fight it means more delay. I don't expect much of a fight unless Clocker intends to take it out on Saturday night." He turned to Murtough. "Clocker will be at the West End Club dance, won't he, Saturday night?"

"Sure, he goes to everything there."

"Then it's a cinch he doesn't plan to move it until after Saturday night at least. I figure we will need eight trucks and we've got to have a pilot car and rear car for each pair. That's eight trucks and eight fast machines. We'll need thirty-two men alone for drivers and guards and I think we ought to take down a half a dozen more for emergency. What do you think of Hymie Goltz. He's got two shoulder machine gun rifles, you know and they may come in handy."

"Do whatever you think best. I don't care how many or who you get, but don't fail."

"We can't." Again he turned to Murtough. "How many men does Clocker have as guards there regularly?" he asked.

"Simmons and two others are all I've ever seen."

"Well, we'll be prepared, because he may put on an extra watch with all that stuff on hand."

Further details of the plan for the raid were to be [illegible] upon the arrival of the leaders in the City. There was no more conversation until the four of them had reached safely the suite in the Marmaduke Hotel. After they had refreshed themselves Schermer turned to Murtough.

"Murtough, your job is done. Now let me warn you, don't try to tip off anybody. It only means that we'll prove that you gave us the information, and you'll have not only us on your neck but Clocker as well. You've got to be new and good and deep, so you better walk straight."

"Just to be sure that he does not somebody on to trail him, stay out until after Sunday," suggested the tall, thin leader. "That'll hold him safe."

"Good, I'll do that. And, Murtough, on Sunday, I'll meet you at the Circle Garage, have your money for you and provide a car and driver to take you and the girl up into Connecticut. There you can get married and start your honeymoon. How's that, that's treating you fair, isn't it?"

"What time will you meet me?"

"Two o'clock in the afternoon. In the meantime go on about your business just as you usually do. Go to the dance on Saturday night and forget what you did today. All clear."

"Right."

"Goodbye then until Sunday." and Murtough was dismissed.

Murtough made his way to his lodgings and threw himself on the bed. It was after three o'clock in the morning. He was worn out, but sleep evaded him. The whole of his adventure to America passed before him. There was Sheila and Old Tom, and Clarice, and Clocker, and Rory. Rory O'Shea! He would win Sheila now, Murtough speculated. Well, what did he care; he would have enough money to start a real business some place else. After all, Clarice was the more up-to-date of the two girls.

But how did all this come about, these events which had overtaken him in twenty-four hours? Trapped into turning informer, promised a fine sum of money and a new chance? Who could have tipped off these men? The very fact that another knew that Murtough had talked, frightened him. That persons could tell Clocker of his treachery, as well as not, and what would Clocker do? Would he dare face Clocker at the Club tomorrow and the next night, the night of the dance? He decided that he must find out from Clarice what had prompted her to send him the note. Had she been forced to do so by whoever it was who had heard the conversation at Corrigan's? Wearily he changed his clothes, but as the problem grew in immensity and his eagerness to learn the truth advanced within him he forgot weariness and soon was on his way to the Castle.

Schermer as soon as Murtough had gone called the Castle and asked to speak with Miss Clancey.

"Murtough came through and you're going to get yours all right. But, don't tell him what part you played in it. Say that you never met me but that one of your friends in a big party suggested that you send him to me. I don't think Murtough even suspects that you had anything to do with it."

"Okay, everything! Just so the coin is safe for me," said the shrewd Clarice as she hung up the receiver.

This warning was fresh in her ears when Murtough found her in the ballroom and signaled her to sit down.

"I got a lot to tell you, Clarice. We're set. I made a deal today that runs into thousands and its all for me and you. We can get married and get the right kind of a start I can promise you."

"Well, don't talk too much here, Big Boy. Better order something to eat and later we'll go have a real talkfest together where it's quiet."

"Any place but Corrigan's," said Murtough.

"Why, that's where we were the other night."

"And that's why we're not going there now," he replied.

"An', darling, he's going to meet us at two o'clock on Sunday with a machine an' the money, all ready to get married in Connecticut."

"That's great," she responded, but in her wise little head Clarice determined that that marriage proposition was something which depended on whether the purse strings were to be in her hands or not. "I knew you'd make good, Big Boy. I knew it, the minute that friend of mine suggested that if I knew a real good truck driver to send him to me. Isn't Mr. Schermer nice?"

"He treated me square; I can say that for him."

KEENE NEWS.

KEENE, Aug. 24.—Miss Edith Cooper has returned to her home in Peterborough after spending the past three weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rennie.

Miss Margaret Payton of Peterborough is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries and children of Peterborough and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gibson and family of Toronto returned to their homes at the week end after holidaying for two weeks at the Serpent Mounds at Rice Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and son, Jackie, have returned home after visiting Mrs. Andrews' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Roache, during the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frick and family of Peterborough are holidaying at Keene.

Mr. Cecil Longmuir of Campbellford was in the village for a few days renewing old acquaintances.

Rev. Mr. Christie of Rhodes Avenue United church of Toronto, who is spending his holidays in Keene and taking charge of Mr. Archibald's services on the Keene circuit, will give his well known sermon-lecture, "The Covenanters" in the United church, Keene, at seven o'clock, on Sunday evening, August 28. In the morning Mr. Christie's sermon will be on "The Plowman."

Mr. Christie's forceful sermons are attracting large crowds and no doubt another large congregation will take advantage of the opportunity to hear Mr. Christie deliver his sermon on "The Plowman" and especially on "The Covenanters."

Mr. and Mrs. Long, Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Butler, all of Toronto, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Melling.

HUMOR IS URGED FOR TEACHERS

CHEYENNE, Wyo, Aug. 24.—Sense of humor, mixed with plenty of common sense, is one of the requirements of a successful teacher, according to Mrs. Katherine A. Morton, State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Wyoming.

Mrs. Morton divides humor into three classes—the elemental includes red noses and odoriferous cheeses, mothers-in-law, sausages, fat persons and drunken men. The next higher is illustrated by Charlie Chaplin's walk and baggy trousers. The most desired is that which enables a person to see a joke on himself and a funny side of a serious situation.

Keeps the Breath Sweet

It is a fine habit to use this pleasant, refreshing lotion to rinse the mouth after meals. The effect is pleasing because your mouth feels clean and antiseptic and you know that your breath will not be offensive to your associates.

There are many benefits from the regular use of this new antiseptic for it keeps the gums in good healthy condition and thereby preserves the teeth from attack by the germs of decay.

You also safeguard your health from the attack of germs which cause sore throat, tonsilitis and similar germ diseases.

A trial of Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash will convince you of the satisfaction which results from its use. At all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

EDSEL FORD BACKS BYRD FLIGHT

Fresh from his conquest of the Atlantic, Commander Richard E. Byrd went to Detroit and got Edsel Ford's promise to back his coming flight to the south pole. The famous explorer and the equally famous auto magnate are shown together here outside Ford's office, with Byrd on the left.

Communication With Sacco and Vanzetti Is Attempted By British Spiritualists

LONDON, Aug. 24 (United Press).—British spiritualists are trying to establish phychic communication with Sacco and Vanzetti.

In ordinary cases, they say, it takes from four to seven weeks after death for a spirit to "recuperate from the shock of its precipitate appearance in the spirit world" and seek communication with the earth. But there are cases, they found, where communication has been effected immediately.

They hope this may be the case with Sacco and Vanzetti, because their long anticipation of death may have minimized the shock of passing.

Deposits Dollar To Be Left 500 Years

CHICAGO, Aug. 24. —Bankers on La Salle Street were puzzled to-day over the vision of high finance suggested by William Stellema, of Holland, Mich. Mr. Stellema had deposited a $1 bill in one of his home town banks and had stipulated that it be left to draw interest, compounded semi-annually, for 500 years. In the year 2427 the resulting fund is to be distributed to his male descendants, if any. Heirs living in Michigan are to receive .75 per cent. of the total, and those in other states, 25 per cent.

C. Eward Jones, of the Continental and Commercial Savings Bank, and his bookkeeper tackled it. After twenty minutes they announced that a $1 bill left to gather 3 per cent. interest compounded semi-annually for 500 years would amount to $2,900,000.

"That's that," said Mr. Jones with satisfaction. "And it's figured as banks really figure interest. We don't compute anything on cents in actual practice, only dollars, and that's the way the $2,900,000 total was reached."

PAYS FOR HANDOUT.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Aug. 20.—Twenty-four years ago a hobo stopped at the house of Mrs. Sarah Haughton of Myrtle Point, Ore., and was given a fat sandwich and a piece of pie. The other day she received a letter reminding her of the incident and enclosing two $1 bills in appreciation of her generosity.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs ,stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation ,and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

L. T. B. LODGE IS IN SESSION

Grand Lodge Holds 53rd Annual Meeting at Ottawa.

ORDER FLOURISHING.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—The freedom of the City of Ottawa was conferred by Mayor Balharrie on the Grand Lodge of the Loyal True Association at their fifty-third annual session convened here from August 23 to 25. His Worship, in an admirable speech, described the welcome to the Order as coming from the last citizen. W. George Farley, Supreme Grand Master for the past ten years, now completing thirty-five years' membership, presided. On the platform were four of his predecessors in office, W. M. Fitzgerald of Toronto, the veteran founder, who has fifty even years' service to his account; James I. Hartt, Orillia; Miles Plumley, St. Catharines, and William I. Cole, Cannifton.

Over two hundred delegates are in attendance at the sessions which are being held in St. George's Hall. Addresses of welcome were given on Tuesday afternoon by deputations representing Ottawa County Orange Lodge and Ottawa L.T.B. 78.

Reports of Grand Lodge officers revealed the Order to be flourishing, the membership at the end of 1926 standing at 9,151, and the cash balance of the general fund on August 1st, 1927, being almost two thousand dollars. The handsome new orphanage erected at Richmond Hill is now absolutely free from debt. There is every prospect of this being one of the most successful Grand Lodge gatherings of the Order.

Mountaineer Fights With Great Eagle

FLORENCE, Aug 24. — United Press. — Dino Mugnai returned from the summit of Monte Morello to-day and related a thrilling story of a fight with a royal eagle.

Mugnai was resting on the summit when the great bird swooped to attack him. Its talons grasped Mugnai's body, but he was able to release himself, grasp his rifle, and kill the bird. Its wing spread was seven feet.

CITY CHOSEN AS BEING FAIR TYPE

REPRESENTATIVE HERE.

The Dartwell Corporation of Chicago, has chosen Peterborough as the city in Ontario in which a study of the distribution of a selected list of nationally advertised products shall be made.

A careful selection of the city is made in order to get as fair a representation as possible. In the United States only one city is chosen from a State. The type of city desired is one that is not influenced too much by any one factor. Diversified industries are looked for; it must be a good farming district, must have a good schooling system and have a population of between 20,000 and 25,000.

Every retail store in eleven different lines of business is visited to see the number of the selected advertised products that are handled in that store. The results of the survey are published in a series of articles in Sales Management, a magazine published by The Dartnell Corporation. Sales Management reaches over 15,000 sales managers and advertising executives.

How Many?

"How many?" is the vital question of hundreds of Peterborough and district shoppers in the city today—Dollar Day—Day of Days for the average shopper in which she lays in a store to last till at least the next great bargain day dawns as bright as this has proven to be.

But after the buying is over, the shopper is left with some colored tickets in her hand that entitles her to compete, by guessing, for some very valuable prizes, if she should estimate the number of dollars that are to be spent in the city today.

Another "How many?" question is asked in the window of The Examiner office, where a quart jar of peas stands, and many passers-by stand outside the window contemplating whether or not the number is six thousand or sixty thousand, and if you counted the peas around the outside and multiplied by a hundred, would you have the right solution?

Tonight will decide the winners, and many will anxiously scan the paper for the next few days for the declaration of the successful shoppers and the latter will maintain that they knew so many dollars would be spent in the city on his eventful day, while others will tell of spending many hours filling up quart jars with peas in an effort to capture the handsome prize donated by The Examiner office.

PRINCESS FLIES ON LONG TRIP

Will Be Companion of Hamilton and Minchin on Flight.

LONDON, August 24 (Canadian Press). — A despatch to the Evening Star from Bristol says it has been learned that a princess will go as a passenger with Captain Leslie Hamilton and Col. F. T. Minchin on their projected trans-Atlantic flight to Ottawa, Ont., which is now scheduled to start to-morrow.

"This intrepid woman is Princess Lowenstern Wertheim, herself almost a pioneer in aviation, for she made long distance flights before the war," the despatch said.

WARNING OF STORM.

WASHINGTON, August 24 (Canadian Press). — The Weather Bureau to-day issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 10 a.m. storm warnings changed to north-west Delaware Breakwater to Boston. Disturbance of great intensity central 130 miles south of Nantucket moving northeast will cause strong north-west winds this afternoon and to-night, reaching gale force off New England coast."

NORTH AMERICA ONCE VERY HOT

First Men Lived on Continent Four Million Years Ago, Says Scientist.

STRANGE ANIMALS

(By Frederick C. Othman, United Press Staff Correspondent).
(Copyright by United Press.)

DENVER, Colo., August 24 (United Press). — Evidence that the most ancient man yet discovered in the world lived in what is now North America in a virtual Garden of Eden 4,000,000 years ago has been uncovered by Dr. Harold J. Cook, celebrated paleontologist.

In view of the belief held by scientists for years that America was devoid of remains of prehistoric man, Dr. Cook's discoveries are looked upon as the most important ever made by archaeologists in the United States.

Some two million years before the ice age enveloped the northern hemisphere in a mantle of continuous snow and ice — and that was 1,250,000 years ago—the northern United States, Canada, and Alaska was a veritable paradise, it was shown by fossils uncovered by Dr. Cook and his associates from the Colorado Museum of Natural History in Denver.

Palm trees grew in Alaska which at that time was not separated from Asia by water as it is now. The whole area was a riot of luxuriant tropical plants ,a fantasy of strange beasts.

There were awe-inspiring mammoths weighing many tons, catz the size of cattle, dogs larger than horses, huge salamanders, the giant rhinocerus, elephants, camels, and all manner of tropical birds.

One skull was found of a weird beast which had a head four feet long and a brain not larger than two hen's eggs. Six horns, in pairs, projected from the skull.

So certain are scientists that man did live in America at that time that the "first American man" recently was named Hesperopithecus Haroldcookii, "the ape man of the west found by Harold Cook."

Dr. Cook's discovery of evidence and remains of man in the United States was made at Agate Springs, Neb., apparently the centre of life in America during the quarternary century.

Deep down in a quarry, rods and rods of fossilized prehistoric animal bones were found. Among them, Dr. Cook came upon bone implements, obviously fashioned by human hands.

The most important discovery, however, was a tooth, the characteristics of which showed it to be even more human than that of the pithecantheropus ape man discovered in Java.

Because of its association with the prehistoric animal bones and with the fossilized tools, scientists believe that the tooth belonged at one time to a man living ages ago, so far back in fact that in comparison to him the American Indians were the veriest of newcomers and Columbus was a mere intruder.

It is but a matter of time, Dr. Cook believes, until much more complete remains of the Hesperopithecus Haroldcookii will be found.

So far, Dr. Cook said, deposits of prehistoric remains in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, and California have only been scratched.

But the mere scratching has disgorged a stupendous amount of evidence, most of which has been mounted in American museums. Fifty thousand horses' teeth, presupposing the existence of tens of thousands of horses in the immediate area, for instance, were found personally by Dr. Cook at the Agate Springs Quarry in Western Nebraska.

Similar remains were found in Northern Colorado, Tillman County, Oklahoma, and in Union County, New Mexico.

TRAIL BLAZER TRAVELS FAST

Covers 1,400 Miles in 37 Hours and Fifteen Minutes.

NOW IN QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 24th (Special) —Covering in the neighborhood of 1,400 miles in thirty-seven hours and fifteen minutes, R. J. Harris, of Asheville, N.C., blazing the trail for the Appalachian Scenic Highway Motorcade, which will visit Quebec next month, reached the Chateau Frontenac last night at 7.50, forty-five minutes ahead of schedule.

Mr. Harris, who covered seven States and the greater part of the Province of Quebec, stated that barring a three hundred mile stretch of blinding rain and fog, while passing through Tennessee and a blow-out on the outskirts of Quebec, the trip had been without any untoward incident, although he was informed at Elkport, Tenn., that his motor cycle escort had been seriously hurt ten minutes before he was due to reach that town, while at Pulaki, Va., his motor cycle escort left him to chase a Ford and went into the ditch.

Two people did the driving, Mr. Harris and his mechanic, Fred Battle, also of Asheville. Mrs. Harris occupied the rumble seat at the rear of their roadster and kept the log of the trip.

Mrs. Harris is a native of Richmond, Que.

Mr. Harris was the recipient of a handsome gold watch and chain, valued at $200.00 from the hotel men of Asheville and Northeast Carolina, as a token of appreciation for his intrepid travelling. He stated that he had been given a motor cycle escort in all States he crossed—North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, West Maryland, West Pennsylvania, and New York, as well as the Province of Quebec.

HAMILTON PLANS START TO-MORROW

British Aviator Has Received Favorable Weather Reports.

UPAVON, England, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press)—Capt. Leslie Hamilton, British aviator, sent word from Bristol today that he had received favorable weather reports and that he would come to the airdrome here this evening with the intention of starting his flight to Ottawa, Ont., tomorrow morning, providing good conditions continued. His Fokker Jupiter plane remains on the field here with everything in readiness for the get-away.

Courtney May Start Today

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—A Napier motor expert was busy all this morning replacing the petrol gauge which was found broken last night on Captain F. T. Courtney's Dornier Whale, in which he hopes to fly to New York. At Captain Courtney's camp it was said he might hop off this afternoon if weather conditions held good. He plans to stop at the Azores, flying thence to Newfoundland and New York.

LONG TRAINING NEARLY ENDED

Petes Play First League Game Of the Season Here On Saturday.

AGAINST OSHAWA.

What is probably the record training season in baseball history is drawing to a close. The Petes, who have been practicing and engaging in exhibition matches since early in May, will play their first game that counts on Saturday next, August 27. Nearly four months of practice should have got the team into pretty good shape. In their exhibition encounters they dished up a pretty fair brand of ball and Manager Swanston is sure that they will play just as well against Oshawa.

The Motor City Boys had a league, but most of the time they had no particular opposition; in fact, old Jupe Pluvius won a lot of their games, so they can't be in better shape. Anyhow, the two teams have been rivals for years, and a real scrap is promised at James Stevenson Park on Saturday.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MICHAEL BARR.

WARSAW, August 24.—Mrs. Michael Barr, of Cottesloe, was found dead in her bed this morning by her husband.

Mrs. Barr was a woman of advanced age but had seemed in good health when she retired last night.

MR. DANIEL E. WARD.

The death occurred at 7.30 this morning of Mr. D. E. Ward at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Stanley, 32 Park street, after an illness lasting several months.

The late Mr. Ward was born in Peterborough 79 years ago. He later lived at Gannons Narrows ,where he farmed but returned to the city several years ago, and has resided here ever since He is survived by his sorrowing wife, Martha, also two sons, and six daughters: Tom, of Rosetown, Sask.; Archie, of Lakefield; and Mrs. W. Russell, Mrs. T. Quibell, Mrs. J. Lee, Mrs. M. Atchison, and Mrs. C. Austin, all of Lindsay; also Mrs. E. Stanley, of Peterboro.

The funeral will take place Friday morning, with service at the house at 11.30 a.m., and thence to Bobcaygeon for interment at 3 p.m.

DREDGE SINKS; CREW RESCUED

CREW IN BED.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Caught in the trough of a sea just outside Port Dalhousie, the dredge Monarch, owned by the Dominion Dredging Company, sank in Lake Ontario early to-day. The crew of thirteen men was saved with great difficulty by Captain Hand, of the tug Dorothy H. The Monarch left Burlington last night and arrived off Port Dalhousie early this morning. A heavy sea was running and the boat suddenly filled and sank within two minutes. Nearly all of the crew were in bed, and were awakened by the captain of the dredge, who almost lost his life in making a search for a watchman who had already been taken off.

PLUMBERS SEEK 15 CENT RAISE

Toronto Union Men Walk Out When Demand Is Refused.

TORONTO, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press).—All the union plumbers in Toronto, believed to number about three hundred, went on strike to-day. They demand an increase of fifteen cents an hour over the present wages of a dollar an hour, and the Master Plumbers' Association declines to grant this.

ANOTHER THEFT ENGAGES POLICE

Learn of Twenty Sheep Being Taken From Farm Near Beeton.

BARRIE, Aug. 24. — (Canadian Press).—Another theft is engaging the Provincial police, who have been investigating depredations in the Beeton district in connection with which eight men are awaiting trial. It has been reported to the police that twenty sheep were driven off the farm of Stanley Fralick, Township of Dedbra. The police learned that they were recently taken away in a truck.

CAP-A-PIE WINS.

Lord Derby's Horse Wins the Ebor Handicap at York.

YORK, England, August 24 (Canadian Press Cable). — Lord Derby's three-year-old colt Cap-a-Pie won the famous Ebor Handicap to-day by half a length from Lord Astor's Poet. Lord Barnby's Review Order was third ,another three-quarters of a length behind. Sixteen went the mile and three-quarters distance. The race was worth about $6,000.

ASKS SPOONERS' PARK.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 24.—"They can't spoon in town and we don't allow it on the highways. Yet young folks are going to spoon somewhere, so we ought to provide a place for them." So says Sheriff Harry Powers, champion of Cupid, who advocates the establishment of a spooners' park where flaming youth can "neck" without interference.

Anyone harboring him after that date will be severely dealt with.

GAS LEAKAGE CAUSES BLAST

Three Buildings Wrecked By Explosion and Fire in Chicago.

EARLY THEORY REVERSED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (Canadian Press).—An explosion, attributed to gas from a leaking pipe, wrecked three stores in a one-storey building here to-day, and fire then destroyed the structure. Firemen found no trace of a body in the ruins, although the report was that a man was asleep in the building. Early theories that a dynamite bomb set by beer gangsters or that a still had exploded were abandoned when firemen found no supporting evidence.

A GRAND OPPORTUNITY TO ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Exhibition Week Makes It Easy To Show Visitors a Good Time.

If you are anticipating visitors during the next month or two, why not suggest to them Exhibition week in Peterborough from September 12th to September 17th. The Peterborough Exhibition is looked upon in Central Ontario as one of the leading Fall Fairs in the Dominion. Any one engaged in any class of farming cannot do better than see the very fine entries that are in competition at this Fair.

In addition to the magnificent exhibit in all lines, the amusements are such as to give entertainment every day and evening during the entire week.

Invite your friends to visit Peterborough Fair week and the Fair programme will be wonderful entertainment for them.

BASEBALL NEWS

The winner of Campbellford-Crescents series, the first game of which will be played here this evening, will probably have the winner of the Port Hope-Stouffville series as opposition in the next round. Local fans would like to see another clash between Port Hope and Crescents, the Hopers having eliminated the locals last season.

Deloro Wins Handily.

Deloro annihilated Havelock at Havelock yesterday afternoon, beating the railroad crew 9 to 0. The second game is billed for Friday. Deloro, as might be supposed, won pretty much as they pleased, which by the way is no discredit to Havelock. It is their maiden venture in the O.B.A.A.

Royals At Port Hope.

Royals will likely start Holmes against Oshawa, in the third game of the juvenile series at Port Hope this afternoon, and with a fair break, the youthful right-hander should win.

"Bo" Hunt's fine Bantams, with a splendid victory over Ottawa at Kingston in the bag, are resting up for their next games. There is no official word at hand, and the youngsters may go into the finals, with the western winner.

Heartfelt Thanks

Mrs. Yeotes and myself desire to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the very numerous friends who showed their sympathy and friendship, both by constant enquiries and sending flowers during the late bereavement, and succeeding visitation of illness on the other members of our family. Our sorrow at our loss has been softened by this kindly consideration so freely extended.

We wish to particularly acknowledge flowers and sympathy from the Women's Patriotic Society, Lady Bowlers, and Women's Liberal Association. Also wish to express our appreciation of the splendid work of the five doctors who worked hard and faithfully to save our boy, and to care for the other four children while they were sick.

Also to express our gratitude to the nurse, Miss Olive Hartshorn, for her untiring care that has so well backed up the efforts of the doctors during the illness of our children.

FURTHER REMAND IS GRANTED IN CASE OF HAMILTON COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Perri Appear in Toronto Court On Perjury Charges.

DENIAL OF BOOTLEGGING.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.— Rocco and Bessie Perri were remanded until September 12 when they appeared in the police court yesterday to answer various charges of perjury arising from statements made at the recent customs inquiry.

1—That he did state in his evidence that he had not engaged in any business or occupation since 1920.

2—That since 1920 he had been living on his income.

3—That he did not state to the representative of the Toronto Daily Star, on or about November 18 1924, that he was in the bottlegging business.

4—That he was not engaged in the bootlegging business in 1924, nor had he been engaged in it for a long time prior to 1924.

5—That he never ordered any liquor over the telephone.

6—That he never buys any liquor.

7—That Mrs. Perri did not put through any telephone calls for shipment of liquor which was sent in the name of J. Penna.

8—That he did not know what business Mike Bernado was engaged in.

Against Woman.

The charges against Mrs. Bessie Perri are that she did not state contrary to known facts:

1. That Rocco Perri on March 30, 1927 was not engaged in any business.
2. That she, Bessie Perri, on March 30, 1927, was not engaged in any business.
3. That she was not on March 30, 1927, in the liquor business.
4. That she had never telephoned to Gooderham & Worts over the long distance telephone.
5. That all her banking business was done with the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the King and James street branch, in Hamilton, and that she had had no other bank account.
6. That she had never handed any money to her husband to be handled in his business.
7. That she had never bought any liquor from Gooderham & Worts or from any other distillery.
8. That none of the telpehone calls from her husband in Toronto had anything to do with the liquor business.

SUFFRAGE LEADER NOTES PATRIOTISM

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—"General" Flora Drummond, former militant suffragist leader, expresses herself as greatly impressed by the evidence of patriotism in Canada. "The further we went, the more patriotic the people seemed," she declared. "I noticed that one little two-room shack we passed on the journey was flying a Union Jack as large as itself."

"I don't think I have yet realized fully the bigness of Canada, and I am eargerly looking forward to my trip to the Pacific coast to get the idea of the immensity of the country." Mrs. Drummond found the landscape very like that of the Old Country.

Eleven Are Killed Wreck In England

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Eleven passengers on a packed holiday-Southern Railway train perished last evening when the engine and all the coaches jumped the tracks 60 miles southeast of London. Twenty others were seriously injured and many less severely injured.

There is no official explanation of the disaster, but it is believed that the heavy rains of recent weeks softened the roadbed, causing the rails to spread. The accident occurred between Dunton Green and Seven Oaks, Kent, half an hour after the train had left London, proceeding to Deal. While travelling at high speed the train began to rock, then left the rails. The engine buried its nose in a wayside bank and three coaches were badly wrecked.

Tea passes through the London market every week at the rate of 80000 chests. These are worth about $2,450,000.

Predict Heavy Storms Along American Coast

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Almost ideal weather for flying to Europe was forecast for last night and today from mid-ocean eastward, but storms of great intensity nearer North America made it impossible for any plane to get to mid-ocean to take advantage of good weather.

James Kimball of the weather bureau, said that a storm of gale force with conflicting winds and violent thunder squalls near the centre was about 130 miles south of Nantucket yesterday morning and moving northeastward.

"The storm will move rapidly," he said, "and will continue a menace to trans Atlantic fliers for 36 hours (from noon yesterday) perhaps longer, over the western half of the ocean."

PRINCES WILL TOUR SMELTER

Royal Brothers To Make Personal Inspection of B. C. Refineries.

PRESENTS MEDAL.

TRAIL, B.C., Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Prince George and party arrived here yesterday for a personal tour of inspection of the big consolidated smelter and its several refineries.

The party was greeted by a reception committee of smelter officials and Lieut.-Gov. W. Lon. Johnston, of the State of Washington, who on behalf of the bordering State, extended greetings from his commonwealth, to which the Prince of Wales responded, cordially shaking his hand twice during the short greeting.

The honor guard of local veterans were inspected by the Prince, who stopped occasionally to have a word with the men who had seen service overseas.

After formal greetings had been extended the Prince made a presentation of a long service medal to Colonel Aspley Cooper. This medal had been awarded some time ago, but had never been formally presented.

Closely following the presentation to Col. Cooper the prince of Wales and Prince George and Mr. Lascelles began their two-hour inspection of the consolidated plant, under the direction of General Manager Blaylock and Comptroller Thomas Bingay.

"HIT-AND-RUN" DRIVER SOUGHT

Local Police On Look-out For Man Who Killed Woman.

ON KINGSTON ROAD.

Local police were notified by telephone early this morning to be on the lookout for an unknown motorist who knocked down and killed one woman and seriously injured another, on the highway between Toronto and Port Hope.

At the time of the receipt of the message the provincial police at Cobourg were not in possession of the names of the victims nor was the license number known of the car which did the damage.

Fire Chief Loses Head, Rushes Into Flames; Old City of Scutari Is Nearly Destroyed

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 25. — A huge fire in Scutari, the Asiatic suburb of Constantinople, famous in Byzantine history as Chalcdon, "The City of the Blind," has destroyed the most picturesque and most Turkish district on the shores of the Bosphorus.

The fire, which started on Tuesday night, destroyed about 400 old wooden latticed houses and drove 2,000 refugees to the famous Scutari Cemetery, celebrated for its cypresses, where they encamped.

The refugees took shelter, amid fallen tombstones and were supplied with bread and water at the order of President Mustapha Kemal, who watched old Turkey burn from the Dolca Bagtche Palace on the opposite shore.

New Turkey's modern fire engines could not combat a high northerly wind fanning the tinder-like houses. The Fire Chief and his aides lost their heads and rushed into the thick of the flames, only to be incapacitated and sent to a hospital, leaving the firemen without directors.

A hurried call brought the Constantinople fire forces across the Bosphorus, but there was so much excitement that they forgot to bring their hatchets and pumps. Finally military caterpillar tractors were called out to roll out and smother the flames.

The loss was estimated at 1,000,000 lire.

Crippled Horse Gets Proper Treatment

Acting on a complaint received, Smith visited Fraserville and inSmith vsited Fraserville and inspected an old horse on an adjoining farm. He found the animal, which was a driver, badly crippled, but in receipt of good attention from its present owner.

Mr. Smith prohibited entirely any use of the animal for work and suggested that it be destroyed.

TOM M'INDOO PRIZE WINNER

GETS 94½ POINTS.

Thomas McIndoo.
W. A. Roseborough.
J. Gordon Mann and Son.
W. Steinkrauss.
W. Whittington.
Walter Brown.
I. Robson.

Mr. McIndoo, heading the list, was awarded 94½ points for his crop of Banner oats. Mr. Roseborough selected the variety known as Sensation. Messrs. Mann pinned their faith on Victory oats. The three competitors next in order grew Banner oats, while Mr. Robson chose Abundance.

In addition to the winners already named, under a ruling which permits those scoring 85 points and over to compete, Robert Armstrong will be eligible to show at the large exhibitions.

J. B. Kaye of Bracebridge was the judge.

READY TO START FRIDAY MORNING

PASSES TESTS.

BRISTOL, Eng., Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Captain Leslie Hamilton expects to be ready to start early on Friday morning on his overseas flight to Ottawa, Ont. One of his assistants flew the plane from the Upavon aerodrome to the Filton aerodrome in Bristol yesterday morning so that some necessary adjustments on the engine could be made by experts of the Bristol aeroplane works, where the engine was constructed. Everything was declared to have been satisfactorily adjusted yesterday afternoon and in the early evening Captain Hamilton and Colonel F. F. Minchen, who is to accompany him on his trans-Atlantic journey, went up for an hour's trial. On coming down it was declared the machine worked perfectly.

Captain Hamilton denied reports that Princess Loewenstein-Wertheim, who has held a flying license for many years, would be a passenger on the overseas attempt. This denial was occasioned by the publication of a report that the princess would be the additional passenger which it was said several days ago Hamilton contemplated taking along. But yesterday the aviator asserted that only he and Colonel Minchen would make the trip.

The plane will be flown to Upavon this morning, where it will be fueled and, according to the present plans, will take off about 7 o'clock Friday morning.

PLUMBERS AT NEW BUILDING GO ON STRIKE

WORK DELAYED.

Task of Completing Collegiate By Contract Date Is Made Harder.

Obeying a telegram received yesterday from union headquarters in Toronto, the plumbers working on extensions and alterations at the Collegiate Institute, struck work in sympathy with the demands made on behalf of the union by the leader. An increase of 15 cents an hour over the present wages of a dollar an hour, was sought. This request was turned down by the Master Plumbers' Association, and a strike was declared. Three hundred men in Toronto downed tools immediately.

The plumbers at the Collegiate, four in number were employed by the Pudy, Mansell Company—a Toronto firm. All were union men, and instantly responded to the appeal from headquarters.

Inquiry at the office of one of the largest firms of plumbers in the city, elicited the information that the men are paid according to the company's estimate of their worth.

The stoppage, holding up work in the present Collegiate buildings, is throwing an additional handicap in the way of the completion of the job in time for the re-opening.

Meetings and committee meetings were held yesterday in Toronto by both sides. The striking plumbers and steam fitters held a largely attended meeting at the Labor Temple yesterday morning and executive meetings in the afternoon and evening, but had nothing to say regarding their deliberations, except to express confidence in the outcome of the strike and to say that the master plumbers were worrying more than they were. The master plumbers held a closely-guarded meeting in an inner lodge room at 22 College street last night, but declined to give out any statement, declaring that to do so would be unfair to themselves and to all concerned, and that some of the master plumbers had been misquoted in interviews given to some of the papers.

The Plumbers' and Steamfitters' Union have called a mass meeting of their members to be held in the main assembly hall of the Labor Temple, Church street, to-night when some 400 or so members of the union will be present and any messages or offers received from the master plumbers will be presented for the men to discuss.

Large Proportion Out.

It is estimated that about 90 per cent. of the men employed in the plumbers' and steamfitters' trades have stopped work already in Toronto on account of the strike order. Negotiations between master plumbers and the members of the union have been in progress since May. It is undersood that the last conference took place about a week ago. Last Friday night the members of the Plumbers' and Steamfitters' Union, to the number of several hundred, enough to crowd the labor assembly hall to capacity, held a mass meeting continuing until after twelve o'clock midnight, and decided that if their demands were not met they would start a strike this week.

Both sides express confidence that victory in the struggle will be theirs.

COSGRAVE WINS TWO ELECTIONS

Irish Government Candidates Elected In Two Dublin Seats.

NOW HAS MAJORITY.

DUBLIN, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—President Cosgrave's Government has gained a majority in the Dail Eireann by winning the two by-elections held yesterday. The count of the ballots to-day showed that both Government candidates, Gerald O'Sullivan and Dr. Thomas Hennessy, were elected.

PAPERS FILLED WITH COMMENT FROM BALDWIN

Canada Gets Much Publicity in Old Country Press To-day.

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY.

Believed That Trip Will Increase British Interest in Dominion.

LONDON, August 25 (United Press). — Canada has a great space of publicity to-day with the newspapers devoting columns to Baldwin interviews, in which the British Prime Minister emphasizes that the Dominion is no place for pessimists, while editorials on the significance of the trip are appearing in nearly every weekly newspaper of importance.

All the editorials refer to Canada as a land of opportunity and express the hope that what Mr. Baldwin learned there will soon influence him in his policy here.

It is believed that the effect of his trip will be to increase British interest in Canada both financially and through emigration.

Three Engineers Will Survey Railroad Line

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press.)— To speed up the work of surveying the territory through which the Hudson Bay railway will pass from the end of the present steel to the proposed terminal at Fort Churchill, three engineers from the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, arrived in Winnipeg yesterday en route north.

Accompanying the engineers was a small party of special craftsmen on their way to The Pas, Man, about 200 more men will be engaged. Some of the party will proceed to Port Nelson to commence the work of retrieving as much of the harbor material as can be used at Fort Churchill. Another group of men will start on the preliminary survey for the harbor developments at the new terminal.

REFUSE APPEAL FOR SCHMIDT

Further Reprieve Pending An Appeal To Ottawa For Clemency.

HANG ON FRIDAY.

REGINA, Sask. Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Chief Justice Haultain yesterday afternoon refused the appeal of counsel for Valentine Schmidt for further reprieve pending an appeal to Ottawa for clemency. Schmidt is to hang on Friday next.

Argument Fails.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—One hour and one half of argument by counsel in behalf of Valentine Schmidt, sentenced to hang on Friday, Aug. 26 before four justices of the Court of Appeal, including Chief Justice Sir Frederick Haultain, yesterday failed of success.

It was the opinion of Schmidt's counsel that on the grounds that the reprieve granted by Mr. Justice Bigelow last week was not within the section of the criminal code under which it was granted they might succeed in having the death sentence commuted. It was not the intention, they declared to ask for the release of the prisoner.

Following the argument Chief Justice Frederick Haultain, and Justice McKay, Martin and Mackenzie, conferred upon the case for a brief five minutes without leaving the court room. It was the Chief Justice who delivered the decision.

"We are all agreed that there is no necessity for reserving our judgment," he said. "We are all agreed further, that the application must be dismissed. We are of the opinion that the order issued by Mr. Justice Bigelow was within his discretion and was properly made."

Following the judgment Mr. Gregory requested a further reprieve in order that he might apply to Ottawa for executive clemency. Decision on this application will be announced after further conference.

FLOWERS TO GO TO TURNBULL CO.

The Gladiolus Society wishes to advise all exhibitors that the gladioli will be the property of the J. C. Turnbull Co. after 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

The Highway Police Might Copy This

PEKIN, August 25 (United Press) —Automatic, cheap, and 100 per cent. efficient means have been devised here to prevent speeding on Legation Avenue, a thoroughfare in the Legation where wast driven automobiles recently have caused trouble.

The authorities are preparing several shallow trenches to reach from curb to curb, while motorists circulate petitions against the trench system of speed control.

FIVE CHANGES OF TEACHERS

New Members of Public School Staff Begin Work Next Month.

SCHOOLS REDECORATED.

When the Public Schools re-open on September 6th everything will be found in readiness for the pupils.

A few changes have taken place on the staff. On the King George staff, Miss Chambers and Miss Kelly replace Misses Crookshanks and Outram, who resigned in June.

Donald Crawford has been added to the King Edward staff to replace Miss Buckham, who also resigned in June.

Miss Olga Johnston returns to the staff as household science instructor, replacing Miss Ryley, who also resigned in June. Miss Isobel Connoly replaces Miss Kelly as supply teacher.

The Property Committee of the Board of Education has given the school buildings careful attention. All the buildings have been thoroughly cleaned and other improvements made.

At the Central, new ceilings have been added, considerable painting has been done, and a new porch has been added to safeguard the pupils in winter.

At the Queen Alexandra a porch has also been added for the same purpose; the halls have been decorated and a bicycle shed has been erected.

At the King Edward, the interior of the whole school has been decorated and a bicycle shed has been erected.

At the Queen Mary, the whole interior has also been decorated.

At the Prince of Wales School, the seating accommodation has been improved.

These, with other improvements, have put the buildings in splendid condition.

NATIONALISTS RUSH TROOPS TO NANKING TO AID IN DEFENCE

Apprehension Deepens as the Northern Forces Advance Under Sun-Chuan-Fang.

PARTIES CONFER.

Tariff Autonomy Programme is Postponed Indefinitely—May Be Modified.

SHANGHAI, August 25. — Three phases of the Kuomintang revolution are absorbing interest as the Northern forces under General Sun Chuan Fang continue to push southward, supporting the strategic points already captured along the Northern bank of the Kangtse.

While at Shanghai the capture of Nanking in the near future is believed to be doubtful, there is no denying that the feeling of apprehension is deepening.

The three phases are:

1. The military situation.
2. The Hankow-Nanking conference at Kiukang, now under way, seeking to weld the divergent revolutionary interests into solidity against the North on which effort rests the life of the Nationalist cause.
3. Nanking's tariff autonomy program, which to-day's events strongly tend to indicate, will be postponed at least temporarily, and possibly greatly modified, and when rejuvenated Nanking regime seeks to enforce its tax schedules.

Reports from up the river state that Hankow is rushing large bodies of troops to Nanking to aid its defense against anticipated efforts by the North to capture this pivotal city.

Wireless reports from Nanking continue to tell of desultory bombardments from Pukow although it is understood that Sun Chuan-fang's forces there are not large.

Sun's return to the Yangtze is meeting with approval in many quarters here, certain foreign interests, particularly, favoring his return to power in the Shanghai area. It is generaly believed that Sun is making a desperate bid to reach Shanghai prior to a Hankow-Nanking accord, which would enable the Nationalists to throw their combined forces against him in sufficient numbers to prevent his crossing the Yangtze. The Nationalists insist that Feng Yuhsiang has captured Suchow-fu near Shantung, which if true, means that Sun's rear has been cut off. His only outlet then would be to cross the Yangtze immediately.

Prepares to Defend Shanghai.

It is understood here that General Chang Tsing-fang, chief of staff of General Pei Chung-hsi, is most likely to become Shanghai's Mayor under the new regime, Pei Chung-hsi being made Shanghai Defense Commissioner. It is reported that he is planning to concentrate large forces here for the defense of Shang-hai, in the event Sun Chuang-fang should seek to cross the Yangtze.

The Kiukiang conference is most important as far as the Nationalists are concerned. The party is expected to emerge invigorated and stronger than ever. In the event the antagonists are able to settle their political differences Nanking will be the seat of the new Hankow government.

The Kiukiang conference is seeking Kuomintang unity looking toward succoring the party before it is too late. Dr. C. C. Wu heads the Nanking delegation, Wang Ching-wei leading the Hankow group. Dr. Wu, it is understood, is seeking to restore the party on its original Canton basis, which would keep him as Foreign Minister.

Sources close to the government to-day asserted that Tu-soong has requested from the regime the post of Minister of Finance which he has been expected to do. Soong said recently that he would not consider this difficult portfolio unless he received absolute authority to solve the financial muddle into which Nationalist China has fallen in the past half-year. Apparently his terms have been accepted.

Soong Opposes Tax Law.

Soong believes that the Nanking customs programme is unwieldly and impractical at present. Hence there seems to be no doubt that fundamental changes in the entire plan which has aroused the widest opposition, especially among foreigners ,will follow his official appointment.

The Governments news bureau announces Nanking's decision to refer the whole tax programme again to the Ministries of Finance and Foreign Affairs which will delay indefinitely this programme due for enforcement on September 1.

Soong is definitely moderate and it is probable that he will alter the tobacco tax enforced since July 1, which has resulted in what tobacco importers call "bootlegging cigarettes" on a large scale.

Influential cigarette bootleggers' rings are particularly active in Chekiang, where one must pay not only the 50 per cent. production tax but an additional 40 per cent. duty on all shipments. The result has been the virtual stoppage of legitimate trade and the organization of their bootlegging rings which reliable sources assert include tax officials as well as former tobacco employees, both making small fortunes, while the tax bureau collects a pittance on the almost stagnant legal trade.

REDS TO STAGE DEMONSTRATION

Will Carry Bodies of Men Executed Through Streets of Boston.

PLANS MEET SETBACK.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—The bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti will lie in state at a north end funeral parlor from this afternoon until Sunday, the Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee announced last night. Sunday afternoon a funeral parade will form at North End Park for a march through the downtown streets and past the State House to the Charles Street Mall of the Boston Common where the caskets will be placed in automobiles and the bodies taken to Forest Hills for cremation.

Extension of a city ordinance requiring burial within four days of death was granted by city health authorities late yesterday otherwise the funeral must have been held before midnight Friday, 96 hours after the men were executed at Charlestown for murder.

Plans to have the bodies lie in state until time for cremation met several setbacks yesterday when the proprietors of several north end halls refused to lend their buildings for the purpose.

The owners of the building housing the defence committee went so far as to nail a two-by-four joist in the doorway to prevent the passage of any casket into the building.

Hurricane Snarls Up Shipping Schedules

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The edge of a tropical hurricane that brought record rainfall to many sections of New England yesterday snarled up shipping schedules when the wind shifted to the northwest and rose to a 60-mile an hour gait even in the inner harbor late yesterday.

The Hamburg American liner Thuringia, due at 9 a.m. from New York to embark passengers for Europe, was held up by the full force of the blow off Cape Code and docked nearly 10 hours late. Captain Buch, her veteran commander said the gale was as stiff as any in his experience on the open Atlantic, but that his ship weathered it with ease.

Press Telegrams Should Get Priority

GENEVA, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Press telegrams should be given priority over ordinary private telegrams, says a resolution adopted yesterday by the International Press Conference at its opening session. The delegates thus emphasized the idea that the news agencies and newspapers of the world, being the great medium for the presentation of daily world events, should be accorded preferential treatment.

The conference is being held under the auspices of the League of Nations for the purpose of studying problems connected with newspaper affairs. Lord Burnham, proprietor of the London Daily Telegraph, presided, and the delegates represented many countries of the world.

Flier Finds Veteran in Arizona Desert Shell-Shocked Wanderer Missing a Week

PHOENIX, Ariz., August 25 (Associated Press). — Alfred Z. Menard, a shell-shocked veteran, who wandered into the desert to lose himself a week ago, was found leaning against a mesquite bush with a pistol in his hand yesterday west of Glendale, Ariz., by Captain C. G. Reynolds, Kelly Field army flier.

Captain Reynolds spotted Menard from the air as he circled over the desert looking for the wanderer. The army flier immediately came down and made a safe landing on the rough desert.

As he stepped from the cockpit of his heavy transport plane, he faced Menard, sagging against the mesquite bush, weary, battered and dishevelled, and holding in one hand an army automatic pistol.

Prior to making the landing the army flier had signalled a second searching plane, piloted by Lieutenant Charles Douglas, that Menard had been located after a week's hunt, and Douglas carried the word to Glendale.

Out of 60,000,000 men and women privileged to vote in the last presidential election, less than 30,000,000 placed ballots in the boxes.

PLANE BEARING FRENCH ENVOY ON WAY TO ONTARIO CAPITAL

PILOTED BY BROOKS.

Forced To Remain Overnight at Buffalo Because of High Winds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—As the guest of Commander Richard E. Byrd, the French Minister of Aviation, host to the United States fliers in France was given a taste yesterday of the weather the commander encountered on his trans-Atlantic flight. Despite a 40-mile gale, both set out for Toronto in a Ford-Stout plane rushed from Detroit especially for the flight.

Learning that Maurice Bokanowski, French Minister of Commerce, Industry, Aviation, Posts and Telegraph, had made a belated sailing from France and would arrive here only yesterday, the very day he had an engagement in Toronto, Commander Byrd, through the courtesy of Edsel Ford, was able to rush a plane from Detroit in an effort to help his former host keep his engagement.

The Minister was met at Quarantine by Commander Byrd, Captain Rene Fonck, French officials in the United States and the Mayor's reception committee when he arrived on the liner France yesterday morning and it was 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon before the official reception was completed. High winds then caused the abandonment of the flight, and the Minister was preparing to go by train, when slightly moderating winds caused his host to decide on a take-off. However, Mr. Bokanowski's son, Jean Francois, remained behind, planning to follow by train.

Other passengers in the large all-metal plane were William B. Stout, head of the Stout Metal Aeroplane Works, a division of the Ford Motor Company, and Harry D. Wilshire, in charge of the Ford works in Canada. Harry Brooks piloted the plane.

Delayed In Sailing.

M. Bokanowski was eager to make the flight, in an effort to keep his engagement to address the Canadian Bar Association. He had been delayed in sailing by the formalities of signing the Franco-German commercial treaty.

Adventure is no new experience to the French Minister, who was decorated for bravery five times in the World War and was aboard a transport which was torpedoed. He clung to a spar for hours before he was rescued.

It was the plan of the Bokanowski party to fly to Detroit to-day. The Minister expects to visit Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, returning to Buffalo next week, where he is scheduled to address the American Bar Association. He is considered one of the leading members of the French bar.

He plans also to visit Montreal and Quebec returning to New York in time to attend the Lafayette's birthday celebration at Westpoint on September 6. He expects to return to France on the Ile De France four days later, after visiting Philadelphia.

Forced Down.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—High winds, apparently the tail-end of a hurricane that has whipped the eastern seaboard for two days, last night forced Maurice Bokanowski, French Minister of Commerce, Industries and Aviation, and Commander Richard E. Byrd to abandon an air trip from New York to Toronto, and remain here overnight.

Generator Trouble Delays Ocean Hop

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 25. — (Canadian Press.)—Postponment for at least 24 hours of the start of Captain F. T. Courtney's proposed trans-Atlantic flight followed a futile attempt by the aviator to take off late yesterday. Not only did the "Whale" refuse to rise with its heavy load of fuel after having taxied several times long distances on Southampton waters, but it was found that the front motor was not functioning perfectly and that the wireless generator was burnt out.

It was announced that repairs would be made this morning and that a quantitly of the petrol would be removed to lessen the weight. Probably short test flights will be carried out in the afternoon.

It is hoped to have everything working properly by evening so as to permit a take-off.

MISS M'PHAIL GIVES ADDRESS

Urges Federation of Education to Keep in Touch With Others.

FOR WORLD PEACE

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Miss Mcphail, speaking at the World Education Conference to a recommendation that the committee should keep in touch with other organizations and new developments ending towards world peace, said in part:

"Sometimes great movements come not from the teaching profession, but from people who have not had the greatest opportunities, but carry economic burdens. I am not in the Labor movement, I belong to the farmers' group but we are close together. Labor, women and youth have done a great deal. I feel there is more hope from them than from education, unless teachers are made free.

"There is a great deal of intellectual snobbery. In a great measure governments control educated people." Miss Macphail concluded with the hope that the next generation and W.F.E.A., would stand for 'teachers being free to teach the truths of life." "They are sat on propely now—I am speaking for my own country", she ended.

TORONTO NEEDED BIG CONFERENCE

Has Odd Mentality, Miss MacPhail Tells Educationalists.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., presided at a luncheon given by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and welcomed the delegates to the World Federation of Education Association.

"Of all the places in Canada which needed the education conference, Toronto did," Miss Macphail said. "It is a beautiful city as you know, but it has an odd mentality and the official channels of thought are so at variance with the ideals and thoughts of most of the people that it seems a most excellent and kindly thing that this conference be held here to create a better understanding."

Miss Macphail went on to tell the delegates that in her opinion it was impossible to take any steps for the prevention of war in this country, without incurring the charge of lack of patriotism, if not disloyalty. A reference was made by her to her famous "Chinese" letter.

"As a consequence of that letter," said Miss Macphail, "the federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario canceled my invitation to their banquet. The fact is that they allowed themselves to be dominated from a higher source, I have no doubt of that."

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, Aug. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Dagleish of Campbellford spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Knox.

Miss Effie Knox of town returned with her sister and is visiting in Rochester.

Miss Hilda Phillips has returned after visiting her brother and other relatives in Toronto.

In spite of the frequent showers of rain on Tuesday, a very enjoyable picnic was held by one of the classes of St. Paul's S.S. The class was under the direction of Misses Ada Archer, Dora Lawrence, Stella McGarvey and Hilda Phillips. Games were indulged in. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Bill Keene returned to town after spending his vacation in Toronto.

Miss Gladys Gehan of Ottawa is visiting at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Gehan.

Sold $40,000,000 Australia Bonds

NEW YORK, August 25 (Canadian Press). — A banking syndicate sold yesterday $40,000,000 Commonwealth of Australia external loan of 1957 thirty-year 5 per cent. gold bonds. The bonds offered at 98 and accrued interest to yield a little over 5⅛ per cent., were disposed of soon after the books were opened.

This is the first Australian borrowing since the formation of the Loan Council instituted to administer public borrowing, the various states having agreed to borrow only through the Commonwealth Government.

The bonds are redeemable at the option of the Commonwealth of Australia as a whole or in part, upon sixty days' notice on any interest payment date, as follows:

On and after September 1, 1947, and prior to September 1, 1952, at 102 per cent. and accrued interest; on or after September 1, 1952, at 100 per cent. and accrued interest.

BUSINESS SECTIONS FOR SUB-DIVISIONS

Town Planning Commission Would Allow for a Few Stores.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—The vexed question of large subdivisions of the highest type—miles away from a drug store or grocery, has been the cause of much plain-speaking here. The Point Grey Town Planning Association believes there should be facilities for a small shopping centre in each half-mile radius. Complete units are suggested with a school somewhere near the centre, a church or two and on the main highway, skirting it, an opportunity for the corner drug store and other small shops.

In the United States, it has been found by large subdivision companies in districts where residences were of the highest type, that they had made a mistake in not providing for a small business section. As traffic became congested it became more necessary to be able to send a servant or child on foot a reasonable distance for small purchases.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, August 25. — Wheat continued its downward trend yesterday and at the close the net loss for the day was 3⅜c to 3 5-8c — October at 1.45; December at $1.41 3-8, and May at $1.45¾.

The favorable weather map which showed decidedly warmer conditions in the Canadian west and a forecast promising further warmth, encouraged the bears to unload wheat. Prices responded to buying which appeared from time to time, but the response was feebie. The trade volume was large with spreaders quite active in the pit. Outside interest was lacking.

Excellent business in rye featured the coarse grains. Barley is also being sold in fair quantities. Flax moves along within a narrow range. Cash markets were quiet.

Forced Air
—the Greatest Heating Discovery of Modern Times

DO you suffer from large fuel bills? Cold rooms? Sluggish air flow? Slow heating or extremely hot air?

All these cause discomfort and ill health. Yet all may be eliminated by using Forced Air—the greatest home heating discovery of modern times.

Miles Automatic Furnace Fan attached to your present furnace transforms it from a gravity to a positive pressure system. Large volumes of air are forced over the heating surfaces, pushing the heat units into the rooms before they have time to escape into the basement or out the chimney. Result:—a great saving in fuel, better health and solid comfort in bitterest weather.

Miles Automatic Furnace Fan is also wonderfully effective in keeping the house cool in summer. Can be used with all makes of warm air furnaces, old or new. Mail coupon for interesting particulars.

FLAPPERS WRECK MATCH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The modern flapper has wrecked the "December-May" match of 67-year-old Nellie Eliaby Doyle and her 22-year-old husband, James. She gave him an automobile and a restaurant business, but no youthful companionship. When he started feeding flappers in the restaurant and then taking them riding in the car, Mrs. Doyle sought divorce.

WOOL MARKET STRONGER NOW

Prices 20 Per Cent. Higher Than at Start of Shearing Season.

AUGUST ACTIVE MONTH

The man who refused to be stampeded into selling his wool outright at the beginning of the shearing season can now regard his stand with a good deal of satisfaction. As so often happens, especially during a season of good markets, prices have strengthened since shearing time, and only those wool growers who held or shipped on consignment will reap the benefit of this firmer market.

"In Ontario and the Range areas of the West, some men sold their wool for 18 and 19 cents per pound and even lower in the domestic wool areas of the West, at the beginning of the season," states W. H. J. Tisdale of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers in reviewing the situation. "If these men had shipped their clip on consignment, there is a good possibility that they would have received about 20 per cent. more for it according to present market conditions."

The Wool Growers, according to Mr. Tisdale, are going to handle about 3,500,000 pounds this year, which is about the usual amount of wool graded and sold by this organization. Of this a million and a quarter pounds have been received at the Weston warehouse from the range territory of Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan and another million from the farm flocks of the West.

The market is active and firm, according to the same authority. "August, which is generally a quiet or holiday month, has been the most active for some time past," he reports, "and it is generally conceded by the whole trade, both on this continent and abroad, that September will witness a very wide inquiry for all grades of wool, and that prices will continue firm. There is no large surplus of wool anywhere in the world at the present time."

WILL USE RADIO AS AUXILIARY

For Present Commercial Communication System To Provide Complete Service.

SPAN PACIFIC OCEAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press)—Radio communication shortly will be used by the Mackay Companies as an auxiliary to the present commercial communication system to provide complete land telegraph, ocean cable and land and ocean radio service, it was announced yesterday by George V. McLaughlin, vice president. Not only will the radio be used to span the Pacific Ocean it was explained but it will be employed in the development of a point to point communication service within the United States, supplementing existing land wires.

The Mackay Companies have signed a contract for the acquisition by a subsidiary of the Federal Telegraph Company, which now operates point to point and ship to shore radio service on the Pacific coast, whereby the Mackey Companies will have the right to use and to expand the Federal radio system and use radio apparatus manufactured under Federal and other patents.

The Federal Company controls the development of the long wave length arc system of radio transmission which has been found advantageous for long distance communication, and has rights in the DeForest and other patents on short wave transmission for use in the point to point service. The company also has a research laboratory and engineering system which are engaged in the fields of television, facsimile and photo-electric-telegraphy and telephony so that the Mackay Companies may exploit to the fullest extent any pertinent developments in these fields.

Mr. McLaughlin, who said the proposition has been submitted to the United States Department of Justice and the Federal Radio Commission, explained that radio has not been developed to a point where all difficulties of trans-oceanic communication have been overcome, but that it will be useful to relieve congestion and in emergencies.

TRENT RIVER NEWS

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 25.—The afternoon bridge and euchre held by the Cottagers in aid of the Star Fresh Air Fund, at Coral Gables Casino, Monday afternoon, was a wonderful success. About one hundred were in attendance, 16 tables of bridge and 4 tables of euchre, and there were first and second prizes given for bridge and euchre. First prize bridge won by Mrs. Stewart, Campbellford, who scored 2,922. Mrs. Wilson, Campbellford, was second with 2,470.

Miss Loretta Bennett scored highest for euchre with 67 points, while Mrs. Thomas Bennett came second with 52 points. Refreshments were served at the close of the game during which time Mrs. Fred. Free, Campbellford, delighted the assembly with three vocal numbers; Mrs. John L. Nicol playing the accompaniments. Miss Vivian McCormack, Toronto, gave an exhibition of fancy step dancing. The sum of $38.17 was realized for the worthy cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and family, Dunsford, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Inkster and family.

Mrs. Cuthbertson, Toronto, is holidaying at "Sans Souci."

Seeing the World

A Jaeger rug sees the world. It goes wherever your family goes. It wanders over Europe—useful everywhere. When at home, it is not above serving in the motor and when a picnic is planned is in its element.

Always smart and serviceable—like all Jaeger pure wool wear—it does not show its age but accompanies you through life with a really annoyingly youthful appearance. Its colouring never fades and time makes it only a little more soft and woolly and lovable.

When you figure the moderate price of a Jaeger rug along with the number of years it will serve you, you find that it has cost you nothing and is, indeed, paying you for its services.

JAEGER is more than a mere brand or label. It is an absolute guarantee for the quality of raw materials employed in the making of all Jaeger pure wool wear.

SEVERAL HURT IN CAR WRECKS

Bridegroom Seriously Hurt Near Chatham Soon After Wedding.

AUTOS COLLIDE.

CHATHAM, Aug. 25. — Howard Lynch, 5756 Townsend Avenue, Detroit, will be confined to St. Joseph's Hospital for the next two months as the result of injuries received in a motor car crash late Tuesday night, a few hours after his wedding.

Five miles west of Chatham on the Provincial Highway, Lynch and his bride collided with a car driven by K. Ellis of Appleton, Wisconsin. The impact sent the Detroit machine into the ditch. Lynch was brought to St. Joseph's Hospital, this city, and yesterday afternoon X-ray photographs disclosed the fact that he had sustained a fractured pelvis and femur.

The attending physician, Dr. Ferguson, stated that he will be confined to the hospital for a couple of months. Mrs. Lynch escaped with slight injuries, while the occupants of the Ellis car were uninjured.

CHATHAM, Aug. 25.—Two Windsor people, Mr. and Mrs. James Keeley, sustained painful cuts and bruises yesterday in an automobile accident near Wardsville. It appears that the Keeley car, proceeding west over the Provincial Highway, was struck by a machine driven by R. S. Ford of Baltimore, Md., when the latter attempted to pass. The Windsor car plunged into the ditch.

Three Slightly Injured.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 25.—An automobile accident which might have had more serious results took place yesterday on the Innerkip Road at the top of the McIntyre Hill. A car driven by Homer Bright, who was accompanied by his sister, Miss Pearl Bright, and John Callan, was proceeding along the road, when, it is believed, the steering gear became defective and the car plunged into the ditch. It turned turtle and pinned the occupants underneath. Miss Bright was able to crawl out, but the other two had to be lifted out.

All three were bruised and cut up considerably, and had to have medical attention.

Man and Girl Hurt.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 25.—When his motor car became out of control on a slope of the Oak Hills on his return trip to Oak Lake about midnight, Earl Mossman, Thurlow, and Miss G. Godfrey of the staff of the Ontario School for the Deaf, were injured. Both are now in the hospital suffering from cuts. Mossman has cuts on the legs below the knees, and Miss Godfrey sustained a laceration which necessitated ten stitches.

CASINO OWNER PAYS $3 FINE

Harold E. Burgess Kept Coral Gables Open Too Late.

ON REGATTA NIGHT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25 — Harold E. Burgess, who operates the Coral Gables Casino, Trent River, appeared before Magistrate Payne to answer to a charge of late closing.

It appears that Mr. Burgess failed to close his pavilion at the legal closing time on the night of the Trent River Regatta, Wednesday, August 17th.

After hearing the charge read Mr. Burgess pleaded guilty and was fined three dollars and costs, amounting to fifteen dollars and ten cents in all. Constable Seaborne, of Seymour Township police laid the charge, and had four witnesses at hand ready to be called, should he so desire.

The Casino was closed for dancing last evening owing to weather conditions. It is understood that it will continue uninterrupted for the remainder of the season.

PIMPLES ON FACE ITCHED BADLY

Skin Became Scaly, Arms Later Affected. Cuticura Heals.

"I suffered from pimples that broke out all over my face. They were large and red, and itched so badly that I scratched them until they would bleed. My skin became scaly and started to peel off, especially around my mouth. Later my arms became affected with pimples.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I continued the treatment and in about two weeks I was healed." (Signed) E. M. Bradley, 185 Queen St., Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 11, 1926.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum to promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health; the Soap to cleanse and purify, Ointment to soothe and heal, and Talcum to powder and refresh.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address Canadian Depot: "Stenhouse, Ltd., Montreal." Price, Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c.

ROSENEATH MAN BADLY BURNED

Milton McMillan Injured While Repairing Gasoline Iron.

FLUID EXPLODED.

ROSENEATH, August 25. — Milton McMillan met with a painful accident on Tuesday morning. While he was repairing a gasoline iron, a spark caught fire to a paper cork in a bottle, which contained gasoline. Mr. McMillan took the bottle and threw it out of doors. In so doing, he was badly burned on the hand and arm by the explosion.

TOLL OF WRECK IS RAISED TO 15

Three Die To-day From Injuries Received at Seven Oaks, England.

CANADIAN HURT.

LONDON, August 25 (Canadian Press and United Press). — Three of those injured when a Southern Railway train left the track and dashed into a wayside bank last night died during the night, bringing the death toll to fifteen. Eleven persons were killed outright and twenty seriously injured and many received minor injuries.

Among the slightly injured in the Seven Oaks railway smash was Col. E. R. Wayland, formerly of Fort William, Ont., and well known in the Canadian grain trade, now residing in Kent, England.

BOY IS KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Driver Turns Into Ditch, But Fender Strikes Child's Head.

NEAR HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, Aug. 25.—Struck by a car on the Lake Shore Highway, 10-year-old James Carmale, 573 Gage Avenue North, died last night at the General Hospital. The driver of the car was Edward C. Braschwitz of Cleveland.

The youngster was walking beside the highway between La Salle Park and Woodland Cemetery when, according to witnesses, he ran directly in the path of the Cleveland car, which was travelling toward Hamilton. In an effort to avert the accident Braschwitz swerved to his left and went into the ditch, but the right fender of his car struck the child's head. Farquharson Read drove the lad to the General Hospital here, where he died an hour after his admission.

Neither Braschwitz nor his passenger, Oscar Mantley, Cincinnati, Ohio, was injured when the car entered the ditch. Mantley stated last night that it would have been impossible for Branschwitz to avoid striking the boy.

AUGUST WEATHER IN ENGLAND BAD

Ten Planes Turned Back and Channel Attempts Held Up.

LONDON, August 25 (United Press) —Great Britain counted the cost and inconvenience of one of the wettest, stormiest, and coolest Augusts on record here. British weather has helped to delay or to turn back two British, five French and three German trans-Atlantic flight projects, a score of attempts to swim the English Channel have been prevented. Sports events have been postponed or rained upon so severely that games could not be completed. Some three-day cricket matches have ended without a ball being bowled.

AGED GALT MAN FOUND DROWNED

Had Apparently Fallen Into Creek While On Way To Work.

WATER SHALLOW.

GALT, August 25. — The body of Robert Sudden aged 60, of 42 Shade street, was found yesterday afternoon in the creek in Soper Park. Death was due to drowning.

He had been home for dinner and was on his way to work when he met death. It is surmised that he suffered a fainting spell as he had been subject to heart attacks, and falling had struck his head on the rustic stone bank of the creek, rolling into the water which at that point is 2½ feet deep. There was a bad gash on the cheek and the face was discolored. The body was found by John Spencer, a boy, who noticed it in the creek as he was walking in the park.

A widow and four children survive, Misses Robena and Bessie Sudden of Toronto, Howard of Galt, and Edward, at College, in Toronto.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM WEST.

CAMPBELLFORD, August25.—The funeral of the late Agnes Hall Watters, wife of the late William West, took place at 2.30 yesterday afternoon from the home of her son, Alfred West. The service at the house and at the grave was conducted by Rev. James Grier, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mr. Grier spoke very highly of the deceased to the host of friends, relatives, and acquaintances gathered to pay their last respects to one of Seymour's most highly respected citizens.

Mr. William and Mr. Thomas Watters, brothers of the deceased, and Messrs. Andrew Govan, William Anderson, Robert Waddel, and William Clark were pall-bearers.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Arnold Grant, Ioco, B.C., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dunstan, Ranney street. She is accompanied by her two young sons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ashton are in town for a few days. They are spending the month at Brighton Beach.

Mrs. W. Johnston and family, Ottawa, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton.

Miss Helen Carnahan paid a brief visit to friends in town to-day. Miss Carnahan, accompanied by a girl friend, is motoring to her home in Toronto after spending a few days at Bon Echo Inn on Lake Mazinaw. Miss Carnahan is a former resident of Campbellford.

Mr. C. S. French of Norwood, formerly of the staff of Hume Bros., has accepted the position of manager of Pattenick's dry goods and ladies' wear. His duties commenced yesterday.

The citizens of Campbellford were surprised and disappointed but certainly not down-hearted when the news reached here that their team had come out of the eight inning ball game on the short end of a very lop-sided score. They are all confident that after the game Friday afternoon there will be a different tale to tell.

Master Harold Slogget, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Slogget, injured his right leg this afternoon when he fell from an apple tree near his home. The injured boy was immediately placed under medical care and his leg has been X-rayed. It is understood that no bones are broken but it will be some time before the limb is back to normal again.

The streets in the business section of the town were filled to capacity with parked automobiles. Of these, a large percentage bore American and other than local markers. This seems sufficient proof that the town is receiving a fair share of the tourist traffic.

A MUSICAL EVENT.

The approaching concert season in Peterborough will set its best wine down at the very opening with the visit of Edward Johnson, the renowned tenor of the Metropolitan Opera New York City, who comes to this city under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club.

Last winter the Kiwanis gave us the pleasure of hearing the Australian Band, which deserved even a larger patronage than it received And continuing their policy of contributing to the aesthetic side of the city's life, the Kiwanians will offer music lovers of Peterborough and the nearby district the splendid voice and talent of Edward Johnson.

This justly celebrated Canadian singer has not the popular reputation which Caruso won everywhere, but it is not more than a year ago that John McCormack acknowledged him as the greatest tenor of today. This praise from the sweet Irish singer is one of the finest compliments Edward Johnson could receive.

TRENT RIVER POWER.

The Toronto Globe has taken up the question of the lease of the Dam No. 1 on the Trent River, and editorially is opposed to the proposal. The editorial in question says:

"The Trenton Courier understands that negotiations with the Dominion Government have resulted in the town of Trenton securing a lease of Dam No. 1 on the Trent River. As Trenton has no facilities for distribution of power it may be assumed that the proposal is to turn the power over to a private corporation or private industry.

"This is an unwise action under the circumstances. The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission has large interests in the Trent system, with operating plants of 50,000 horse power. Why should the power at Dam No. 1 be divorced from the other plants, when all could be co-ordinated and operated for the general advantage of the whole valley? Such a plan would be efficient and harmonious, and most likely to give satisfaction to the surrounding municipalities."

STREPTOCOCCUS.

James Oliver Curwood, the novelist, said he expected to live one hundred years. He died two weeks ago at the age of 49, struck down in the prime of his manhood by a microscopic but virulent germ that reached his blood through a small scratch on his nose.

Such is the baneful potency of the streptococcus. In size it measures less than three twenty-five thousandths of an inch, is round in shape and appears in chain-like groups. Found on almost all healthy mucous membrane, the streptococcus attacks through a cut or an abrasion, for example, and is aided by the body's impaired power of resistance.

It is a vegetable body of many varieties and special affinities for different tissues. One type attacks the kidneys, another the tonsils, and so on. In the treatment of a streptococcic infection two courses are offered. One is to destroy the infecting organism, the other to increase the patient's resistance. The first possibility has nowadays been practically abandoned. Antiseptics, strong enough to destroy an organism, are strong enough to destroy living tissue. So the main reliance of the physicians in acute cases of this infection has been on the patient's vitality. And this matter of resistance is what should concern the public.

The effect produced by any organism depends on just two things, the virulence of the infecting agent and the resistance of the person. Humans have no control over the former, but they greatly modify the bodily resistance. And this is the lesson to be learned from the untimely deaths of men of the Curwood type.

Live simply and in harmony with Nature. Get some exercise every day. Be temperate in all things. Visit a competent physician at regular intervals and have a thorough examination. Do not overlook an ache or pain. It is Nature's warning. Call on your dentist frequently and have him look for root abscesses.

DO WE MEAN ANYTHING?

What do we mean when we plaster an American tourist's automobile with a conspicuous sign, "Guest of Canada?"

The word "guest" generally connotes the idea of privileges which the host might deny to himself. Certainly we are inclined to overlook a guest's little infringements of our customs, because he is not only a guest but also perhaps a stranger. And if we have been in strange places we feel that we have some time offended against local rules because they were unfamiliar to us.

When we ceremoniously placard a tourist's car with one of those guest signs we probably do not imply, although the guest might suppose, that we have the fatted calf cooked and garnished somewhere up the road. We rather suspect that the guest is likely to be ambushed by a dutiful constable of the Sapp family.

And if, for some more or less trifling infraction of the statutes, that officious gentleman directs the "guest" to Police Court, on a first offence, since it is his first trip to this country, no one will find fault with the magistrate if he decides to dispense friendly advice instead of a fine.

If we must treat tourists in the same manner as natives, let us not pass out those embarrassing guest signs. Let the emphasis fall on our relations as hosts, without parading our intentions, but nevertheless with a kindliness that might be more effectually corrective than a constable's attentions, and that would leave a better impression than those rather meaningless and silly signs.

We should, in fact, avoid the mental habit that fails to see the shallowness and sham such excessively polite formalism may lead to.

It is all part of the same artificiality as the telephone central's "Thank you." Surely the discriminating patron asks only that the telephone operator evince her desire to please by an alert, kindly manner and a voice that naturally carries the friendliness of a sweet disposition.

She can't possibly mean that phrase which some expert in public relations has tacked onto her greeting, because in the rush of calls she hasn't time.

These amenities must be of the heart, not of the lips.

FROM IMMIGRANT TO MINISTER OF THE CROWN.

Addressing the British Newspaper Association visitors at Ottawa, Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, declared himself a living example of what Canada held in store for the British immigrant. Mr. Dunning, a Welshman by birth, came to Canada when a young man, and went west just like many other British immigrants have done. Before forty he was Premier of Saskatchewan, and while still in his forties, he is a member of the Canadian Government. The British editors may well go home and tell their readers about Mr. Dunning, who in his early years did not ask what the Government of Canada was going to do for him, but who started in to help himself and the country of his adoption at the same time. That is the kind of immigrant Canada wants—not the kind who want to be fed with a silver spoon and generally waited upon. It is the Dunning kind who will make this country a still richer and greater British dominion.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

NATURE VS. THE KNIFE.

Mr. Fishbein, in Hygeia, the medical house organ, protests against The Vancouver Sun giving its readers plain commonsense health information from Dr. Tilden, Dr. Frank McCoy and that rapidly growing school which advocates natural health methods in place of the knife. People have been eating themselves into ill-health and disease and are just waking up to the fact that they can, through short, sensible fasts and proper food, also eat themselves out of ill-health and disease. The McCoys and the Tildens are showing people how, and that is what is making the Fishbeins mad.

Serums and surgery as a means of health are on the defensive and no one realizes that better than Mr. Fishbein. Commercialized surgery on the scale it is being carried on in this country today is a hideous crime. Commercial surgery is taking annually tens of thousands of victims. If you doubt this, just check up on the numbers who are carried out on hospital dead-wagons in your city every month as a result of unnecessary surgical operations. Trace back the history of these cases and find how many times they were previously operated on. You will also find in almost every case there was a lack of right living, a lack of health knowledge and of simple body mechanism, and you will see where a little health knowledge along the lines of exercise, diet and right living would have probably saved those lives.

But medical doctors have intolerantly resisted the giving of health knowledge to the masses. Why? Possibly the following letter, written to Dr. Frank McCoy by a medical doctor in Denver, explains the reason: "If every family based its life habits upon the articles published under your name each day in our Denver newspaper, we medical doctors would soon have little to do." —Dr. W. V. Gage, M.D., Metropolitan Bldg., Denver, Colo.

Must newspapers be compelled to withhold from the public useful health information simply to keep a few medical Fishbeins in business? Are editors of this continent to be silenced while thousands of lives of our readers are being taken by the black magic of serums and unnecessary surgery? The medical doctors have arrogated to themselves the right to do the public's health thinking, just as the church and state in the past demanded the right to do the public's religious and political thinking. Can newspaper editors tolerate this outrage on public freedom, especially when the public want and need this health information, written, not from the old medical angle, but from the newer and commonsense point of view?

This phase of a newspaper's obligation to its readers was never more plainly and courageously stated than by Editor and Publisher in an editorial dated July 2, which read: "Preach the gospel of right living and sensible diet and don't be too sure that the medical doctors of your city know it all. When a newspaper is fighting for the physical up-building of its city, it is only functioning a primary duty."

Replacing serums and surgery with natural living is in line with evolution, while the present medical craze for serums, poisonous pus, and surgical mania, is too remindful and shows little advance on its ancestry of, first, voodooism, then witchcraft, and latterly the Indian "medicine man." In a few years it will be as hard to "sell" the public an operation as it is today to sell them the efficacy of the old Chinese formula of drinking tiger's blood for strength or cockroach dung to develop cunningness. There is only one real doctor—Nature. There is only one medicine—right living. Many medical doctors know and secretly preach this doctrine, but the Fishbeins are in control of the medical machine and their closed mind and intolerant attitude have forced the press of the country to take steps to protect the public.

For this reason, when the editor of The Vancouver Sun or any other editor advances commonsense health ideas like those of Dr. Frank McCoy—written, not in Greek or Latin, but in plain English—that can be easily absorbed and understood and followed to the health advantage of the public, we feel we are giving a long overdue and much-needed public service to our readers.—The Vancouver Sun.

The value of Canadian production, according to a survey just completed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, was greater in 1925 than in any other year since the peak of the post-war inflation in 1920. With the exception of trapping, increases were shown in 1925 in all the nine branches of production. The greatest gain was in agriculture, the crop output in 1925 being $1,342,900,000, an increase of $302,000,000.—Ex.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—There was little business transacted on the Montreal grain market yesterday, the demand from local and foreign buyers being small.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour, prices were well maintained.

The millfeed market was active and firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was inactive, but prices were unchanged.

Further strength developed in the cheese market under the improved demand and prices were marked up ½c to ¾c per pound. The receipts were 9,047 boxes.

The butter market was without any new feature to note prices being steady under a fair demand. The receipts were 71 packages.

Prices for all grades of eggs were firmly maintained under a moderate demand. The receipts were 1,936 cases.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—General liquidation was on in all grain yesterday, with prices crumbling under hedging sales. Wheat led the decline with a net loss of 3¼ to 4½c at the finish. Corn was 1¼ to 2½ down. Oats declined ¾ to 1c, and provisions varied from 7½c loss to 15c gain. Failure of the wheat market here to respond to bullish news recently did much to discourage the longs and improved conditions in Canada started liquidation.

Winnipeg advices that the Prairie Provinces would have 400,000,000 bushels of wheat, which was more or less in line with other reports from United States exports, took away the incentive for buying wheat. Weather conditions on both sides of the international line were more favorable. The harvest is making rapid progress, being reported as fairly general in some of the more advance sections of Canada. Export demand at the seaboard was again fairly active with sales of 900,000 bushels estimated in all positions.

The market started downgrade in initial dealings and ran into fairly liberal selling that carried prices through the indemnity price. Part of the offerings were from houses with northwest connections and local longs who were discouraged by the general tone of news from the Canadian and our own northwest. The only support on the break appeared to come from holders of privileges.

Corn was easy with wheat despite talk of light frost in parts of Iowa as well as Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. The forecast was for fair and warmer weather, although temperatures continue much too low for rapid development of the crop.

Oats were lower in sympathy with corn.

Provisions were firmer with cotton and hogs.

A Thought For To-day

THE NINTH HOUR.

Any man who is willing to work eight hours a day can make a living. But he must work nine to make a profit.

Men of ordinary brains who are satisfied to stand still can always "get by" if they work the so-called "full day." But men of a higher type must pay a higher price for the satisfaction of large success. The ninth and tenth and eleventh hour are the golden hours or profit hours that are spent, not in indulgence or pernicious grouching, but in work and study and self-equipment for the better opportunity that is sure to come. To make your life increasingly effective and happy, seize that ninth hour and use it for progress.

An army airplane will be used by the government this season to scatter poison over land infested by the alfalfa weevil.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

As soon as Faith laid eyes on Peggy Lytton she felt that she had found the one girl in all the town with whom she could be fast friends. It had been only a few months since Fred Lytton, middle-aged and quite rich department store owner, had brought his beautiful young wife from a career in musical comedy in Chicago.

The two young wives were almost of an age. Where Faith was dark-haired, brown-eyed and ivory-skinned, Peggy was all gold and blue and pink and white. But hers was not the bisque doll type of blonde loveliness. She was taller even than Faith, and she carried herself like a princess, a little disdainfully and indolently, but Faith caught at once the flicker of wistfulness in her violet-blue eyes.

Peggy Lytton was lonely and bewildered by the social distinctions of a town which she would once have referred to dismissingly as "the provinces." For society, which Fred Lytton as an eligible had made no effort to conquer, showed no signs of recognizing the advent of Fred Lytton's too-beautiful young wife.

The four of them had played bridge less than half an hour before Faith discovered that Peggy Lytton did not love her middle-aged, red-faced heavy-jowled husband. Her slim white hands twitched nervously with distaste whenever his hairy, red paw fell heavily, possessively upon it. Once when, as dummy, Lytton was leaving the table and bent to kiss his wife's bare shoulder, Faith saw Peggy clench the hand convulsively that held the cards. A great pity for the girl rose in Faith's throat.

For a minute or two after she had capitulated to Peggy's golden exquisiteness, Faith had been jerked up short by the most ancient of all fears—that this lovely creature would attract Bob as irresistibly as she had attracted her. But Bob, chestnut-blonde and blue-eyed himself, had appeared to take only the most casual interest in his hostess. He had concentrated from the first on Fred Lytton, and Faith, although she was allowing herself to like Peggy whole-heartedly, had been grateful that Bob apparently could not "see" her.

At twelve o'clock Faith and Peggy went to the latter's room to freshen their complexions after the strenuous hours of playing, for Fred Lytton and Bob Hathaway took their bridge very seriously.

"May I call you Faith?" Peggy Lytton asked wistfully, in her lovely, slurring, low voice. "I like you so much, you know. It's awfully kind of you and your husband to come. We—I'm rather lonely here—a stranger"—

I'm sorry, Peggy," Faith answered softly. "Won't you come to see me—often? I'm rather lonely, too, but I'm so frightfully busy that I don't have much time to brood over it. You must see my baby—or rather, my sister, Cherry's baby. And you'll like Cherry. She is as beautiful as you are, in such a different way."

"Oh, but it is you that are beautiful," Peggy Lytton protested, taking Faith's face between her long, slim hands, while tears sprang into her violet eyes. "You look so heavenly sweet and good. Will you—do you mean it?—will you be friends—real friends? I—I need a friend, Faith."

"I need a friend, too," Faith said gently, and she kissed Peggy Lytton.

Faith did not tell her husband of the pledged friendship as they drove homeward along Serenity Boulevard. She was afraid he would think her silly and too emotional.

"Lytton thinks you're a peach," Bob told her exultantly, as they walked hand in hand up the path to the door.

"I'm glad," she answered. "I'm sure you'll get the job, darling. Look! The lights are out. Cherry must have gone to bed. I hope she isn't sulking because I wouldn't let her entertain Glen Andrews this evening. I'll just peep in to say goodnight to her, dear, if she's still awake."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, AUGUST 26, 1927

Astrologers find this an uncertain day in planetary direction and they counsel caution in all important matters while this configuration prevails.

There is a rather threatening sign affecting farmers and all who till the lands. Dissatisfaction with government restrictions as well as with unfavorable weather is indicated.

Under this direction of the stars there may be strikes and labor troubles of various sorts, although there is an aspect read as of special advantage to workers of every vocation.

The old continue under rather a sinister sway, making for the end of many noteworthy careers in art as well as in public life.

Although it may seem that few super-men and super-women are developing to take the place of those who are passing out of life, the seers declare that many brilliant minds are prepared for big service.

Great events are to demonstrate that the United States has citizens equal to supreme emergencies, astrologers announce.

This is a fairly favorable sway for wooers, if they permit the mind to rule the heart.

Weddings today should be fortunate, especially in a worldly way for the stars presage prosperity, even though it is Friday.

Contracts signed today should be lucky and actors may be assured that agreements made today will bring success.

This is an auspicious planetary government for all sorts of publicity and advertising. Newspapers and magazines will benefit.

Neptune is in a place which is believed to foreshadow many dubious schemes for obtaining money. Speculation should be avoided.

Much agitation regarding public enterprises for the building of bridges, hospitals and even fortifications may be expected.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of gain through friends who will open doors to wonderful opportunity.

Children born on this day are likely to be endowed with great charm of personality, strong character and power to attain sensational success.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Long but my no means dowdy is the skirt of this frock of black crepe satin trimmed with pink satin and bead embroidery.

Mrs. Vincent Astor is just one of a large number of well-dressed women who seem to have grown a little tired of the very short skirt.

Funny thing—this question of short skirts. Just about the time that your great aunt Maria, who used to blush at the sight of a skirt that showed even so much as the ankle, has got up enough courage to wear a skirt that reveals on occasions the contours of her none too shapely knee you find that a number of the most fashionable women have gone to Paris and come back with skirts that are decidedly longer.

And just as your great-aunt Sarah has decided that it isn't really going contrary to scripture to cut off her hair, and is ready to admit that it's a heap sight more convenient to wear it short than long—then you will notice that the most charming debutantes are letting their hair grow again.

"In words, as fashions, the same rule will hold.
Alike fantastic if too new or old:
Be not the first by whom the new are tried,

Please excuse the quotation, but those lines from Pope have been running through my head all the time that I have been thinking of these new long skirts. Unless you are quite sure of yourself as a leader of fashion you probably haven't adopted the fashion for longer skirts as yet. You would run the risk of having someone think that you were very old-fashioned instead of very new. But be not the last to lay the very short skirt aside when fashion has actually rung its knell.

There still are plenty of short skirts, but among the French dressmakers the tendency is in the direction of a gradual lengthening.

And before I forgot it—don't you want the pattern for the shoe design that I have had made for this week? Some of the smartest shoe shops are showing light slippers with flower decorations on vamps and heels. It is the simplest thing in the world to paint the design on a pair of white kid or canvas shoes—that is, if you have the pattern. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ends Hygienic Worry

for Women Wearing

Thin, Summer Dresses

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE lovely flowered chiffons and pastel crepes of this season—one loves their gay lightness, but sometimes fears to wear them.

Kotex makes them safe. Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent, it ends the risk of old-time "sanitary pads" by being 5 times more absorbent!

Deodorizes, too. Discards easily as tissue; no laundry or embarrassment. And thus ends most women's greatest hygienic worries.

To 8 in 10 better-class women, Kotex means more than a mere sanitary pad—it means proved and positive scientific protection. See that you get the genuine. If name "Kotex" is not on the box, don't accept it

FASHION NOTES.

ABOUT VACATION WARDROBES.

By HEDDA HOYT
(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(United Press).—The summer girl has a wide and varied selection of smart clothing at her disposal this year. Not for several years have summer clothes been so varied as to fabrics and silhouettes.

Demanding first attention are sports costumes which may be worn for almost any daytime occasion. Even costumes of this type are divided into two distinct classes, since some are designed expressly for real sports or morning wear, while others are of almost "dressy" type. For morning wear, jersey dresses of one or two-piece types are especially well liked. These may be in monotoned color or in contrasting tones, as where the jumper has horizontal stripes of contrasting color or the skirt uses diagonal stripes of contrasting shade. Washable silk dresses of two-piece type, either with or without sleeves, are chosen for tennis as a rule. Gayly colored bandana scarfs are worn about the necks, being tied on one shoulder. Low-placed belts often harmonize with the bandana color. Compose sports suits are often of the semi-dressy type. These include jackets which contrast with the pleated frocks. Often the jacket is made of velvet and the pleated skirt of the frock is banded in the jacket color. Two-piece costumes with frocks of silk matched by cloth or velvet jackets are particularly smart at most resorts. As a rule these are carried out in pastel shades and are worn with matching hats.

For afternoon occasions printed chiffons are perhaps the most popular summer fabric. Skirts are fluttering, sleeves are long and shades or hip-drapes are generally used. Large straw hats of matching color or of black or natural straw shade are worn with these colorful chiffons. Nearly all prints are small and of conservative floral or geometrical designs. Usually but two colors are used for printed frocks this season, the lighter color being the background.

For the dinner hour nothing is newer than satin gown of simple lines and without any ornamentation except self-drapery. There is no finishing or decoration about the neckline, no buckles or beaded belts. Lace and chiffon dinner gowns are also popular. These gowns usually have slender bodices, low hip-drapery or sashes and tiered skirts of either the lace or chiffon.

For dancing purposes scintillating beaded frocks of straight lines are the choice of matrons, while fluttering tulles or chiffons are the choice of youth. Silk shawls without embroidery, although bordered with deep matching fringe, are popular. Brocaded metal shawls bordered with velvet are also worn.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. What is the best taste in private stationery?
2. Which is preferable—individual looking oblong or irregular shaped envelopes with matching paper, or regulation square shaped envelopes?
3. Is the use of sealing wax still in vogue?

The Answers.

1. Quiet, plain paper, with severely simple crest or monogram.
2. Square.
3. Yes.

THIS SHOWS THE GREAT NEED OF FLY-TOX

United States government authorities show that under favorable conditions with a beginning of one male and one female fly, they may increase in one season to over 50,500,000,000,000 flies. This shows the need of Fly-Tox. Sold everywhere.

REGINA EXHIBITION GROUNDS UNSHADED

Start Made, But Trees Won't Be of Use For Many Years.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 25 (by the Canadian Press).—Cora Hind, writing of the great success of this year's exhibition has this word also to say, in the way of mild criticism:—

"One never visits the grounds of the Regina exhibition without keen regret that all these years the management has neglected the planting of trees and shrubs so that at present the grounds possess no beauty and no shade whatever. The beginning of the little park is possibly an augury of better times to come, but trees cannot be developed to give any shade by 1932, the year of the proposed world congress for grains and grasses." She suggests the transplanting of trees ready-grown.

About one-third of the world's population—some —600,000,000— are Christians.

A MILLION A YEAR IMPLORE HIS HEALING BENEDICTION

FRERE ANDRE'S POWER SOFT-SPOKEN WORDS

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—The "miracle shrine" atop Mt. Royal ministers now to more than a million ailing pilgrims a year.

Drawn from every quarter of the globe by tales of miraculous cures, this vast army of the maimed, the halt and the blind has grown so rapidly that the rude little wooden hall in which they have been received for years is giving way to a magnificent basilica, reared largely by thanks offerings.

Medieval Mosaic.

Like some mosaic of medieval life is this pageant that moves steadily up the great stone stairway seeking the spiritual aid of Frere Andre, who awaits all supplicants at the oratory of St. Joseph. Only at the ancient grotto of Notre Dame de Lourdes, France, can one find such another spectacle. But here, on the outskirts of this colorful Canadian town, there is less of the dramatically emotional.

Frere Andre, the "Little Brother," quietly speaks his benediction first to one and then another. He stands behind a little counter in a shabby room as the pilgrims pass before him—some on crutches; some cadaverous of face; some limping; some, led, with sightless eyes; now and then a short-skirted flapper; now and then an overdressed woman—a cross-current of all life.

They All Smile.

The "Little Brother" is himself frail. His priestly robe is faded. There is no effort at ostentation. He reflects a spirit of humility. It is the power and brightness of his brown eyes that attract one. He has a smile for all.

They pass by him—more than a million a year! That means nearly 400 a day or one a minute if he were to be constantly on hand for eight hours.

The "Little Brother" has a way of bringing a laugh from even the sorriest sufferer. For a moment there is a serious conversation, then the "Little Brother's" eyes twinkle and the solemn supplicant smiles. It happens time after time. Not all the suffering he has seen can dim the ever-present twinkle. And yet, as the day drags on, Frere Andre leansleans a bit wearily upon a chair itchis little counter.

In a small ante-room, just outside, impatient sufferers wait their turn. To each he repeats this admonition:

"Rub yourself with the oil and with a medal of St. Joseph. Make a Novena to St. Joseph, and persevere in praying to him." Then he makes some personal and cheerful commentary and the suffering one gives place to another.

Sometimes a cure seems about to be made almost immediately and the "Little Brother's" voice rises commandingly:

"Carry your crutches to St. Joseph."

He refers to a great pile of crutches all about a shrine where, just beyond in the basilica, other fathers hear confessionals throughout the day.

The tales of cures are endless, covering every conceivable ailment. Thousands of the supplicants follow a long established custom of ascending the interminable stairway on their knees and repeating a prayer on each step.

Frere Andre himself was bornAlbert Bessette. Frail of constitution and forced to make his own bread as a boy, he worked in American factories and on the farm. At the age of 23 a priest heard him speak of spiritual leanings and, in 1870, he began the life of Frere Andre. His duties in the College of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart were menial. He scrubbed floors, patched clothes and barbered the students. He earned $200 and, with this, established the initial fund for St. Joseph's Oratory. Then strangers began to appear, asking for an interview. They had heard that he had been secretly working among the ailing and remarkable cures had been attributed to him.

Thus began the pilgrim pageant which has grown to more than a million, and increases yearly.

Purify them daily

EVERY day, restore to false teeth that fresh cleanliness which they had when you first got them. The sterilizing and cleansing action of HYGEOL requires no tedious brushing to aid it in ridding them of all greasy film, germs, food particles, discolorations and odours. A twenty-minute immersion in a solution of one part HYGEOL to three parts water accomplishes a thorough cleansing, besides killing every germ. You can leave the entire job to HYGEOL, while you dress.

There is another method, which you may prefer, if you can sleep without your teeth. Leave them all night in a glass of water to which one teaspoonful of HYGEOL has been added. This method is equally effective.

It is important to note that HYGEOL is absolutely non-injurious to the gold, platinum and vulcanite composing dental plates.

129 JAPANESE SAILORS KILLED IN MANOEUVRES

Two Collisions Occur While Warships Practice at Night.

ONE DESTROYER SINKS.

Each Accident Occurs When Cruiser Rams Destroyer.

LONDON, August 25 (Canadian Press). — One hundred and twenty-nine lives are feared to have been lost in two collisions of warships during the manoeuvres off the Japanese port of Matzuru last night, says a Tokio despatch to Reuter's.

One destroyer sank and another was damaged.

The news received by the Navy Department at Tokio, the despatch adds, was that the Japanese cruiser Jintsu collided with the destroyer Warabi in the darkness. The destroyer sank in fifteen minutes with the loss of ninety men and petty officers and twelve officers. There were only twenty-two survivors of the whole ship's company. The Jintsu's bows were badly damaged, and she was towed into port.

About the same time, the cruiser Naka collided with the destroyer Ashi, cutting through her afterpart, which resulted inthe loss of twenty-seven other men. The Naka was not seriously damaged, and proceeded to port after temporary repairs, but the Ashi was towed in.

STRANGE UPHEAVAL STARTLES SEAMEN

Ship Lurches Badly, Although Sea is Fairly Smooth.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The French liner France arrived yesterday with a tale of a strange oceanic phenomenon

At 11 o'clock Tuesday night while the orchestra was playing for dancers and the ship was proceeding through a calm sea, there was a series of heavy lurchings which flung passengers from their chairs and scrambled dignity right and left.

For three minutes the uproar lasted. All during the turmoil, according to Captain Marius Aubert, the surface of the sea remained free of exceptional swells.

"Never in my forty years of experience have I seen anything like it," the Captain said. "I can account for it only one way. We had changed our course about ten points. I think we got at the exact crossing of a ground swell and a current. At such a crossing there would be terrible force.

"Some of the younger officers thought we had run aground. I knew our position, however, and was sure we were in deep water. There was a light fog, but otherwise the weather was excellent."

The France was between Fire Island and Ambrose Lightship at the time.

ELWOOD MATCHETT BRINGS UP BODY

Dives To Botton of the Lake To Becover Drowned Man's Body.

Lieut. Cadet Elwood Matchett, of Hamilton, son of M. W. Matchett, formerly of this city, who was one of the five Hamilton cadets who went over to Bisley, where he did some remarkable shooting, also did some fine shooting at Ottawa last week, winning the Imperial Cadet Cup, awarded to the cadet making the highest aggregate in the Tyro, McDougal, Walker, Lankers' and Cadet Matches.

He also won the Gooding junior prize of a gold medal, awarded to any boy under 21 years of age making the highest score from any part of the British Empire.

On Monday of this week, a short distance from their summer home on Lake Ontario, at Winona, he was instrumental in bringing to the surface a young man named Smith, who was drowned after diving from a boat some 100 yards from shore. Owing to the deep water it was necessary for him to dive some twelve times before locating the body. Unfortunately the doctors were unable to revive the man owing to the length of time he had been in the water.

POLICEMAN KILLED.

Sacco-Vanzetti Demonstrators Stab Officer in Berlin.

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 25 (United Press).—Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrators today dragged a policeman from a street car and stabbed him to death.

NECK BROKEN IN TWO PLACES

With his neck broken in two places as the result of diving into shallow water, Douglas Anderson of Toronto, Ont., is said to have better than an even chance of recovering. Going out on a launch he dived from the deck and despite injuries to his neck was able to swim back to the boat. He went to work next day, felt a pain a day later and then an X-ray showed his broken neck.

Standard Exchange Movement Erratic

TORONTO, Ont., August 25 (Canadian Press). — Erratic price movements ruled in the Standard Mining Exchange this morning when trading was again almost double the average volume. Laval Quebec and Amulet, as well as Wright Hargreaves, were strong leaders. Laval gained three at 43½, Amulet 30 at 540, and Wright Hargreaves 31 at 670. Few losses of any account were shown. Dome Mines eased ten points at 840, and Noranda slumped forty at 24.00. Central Manitoba firmed three at 198.

High Class Issues Continue To Go Up

TORONTO, Ont., August 25 (Canadian Press). — High-class issues continued to make good gains on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, although the active leaders in the oils and liquor stocks slumped somewhat. Bell Telephone climbed four and a half points at 153½, and Brazilian advanced more than three points at 177¾, while Alberta Pacific Grain went up five-eighths at 29⅝. Gooderham & Worts was the weakest of the liquor stocks, losing 1⅝ at 47¾. Walkers dropped 1¼ at 47. Carlings was steady at 29. National Bakeries 29¼ was ⅝ lower.

General Motors Gain Feature At New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Heavy buying of General Motors Common stock, which soared seven points to a new high record at 246, a gain of 18 points within the last week, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. Pools lifted about a score of other issues to new peak prices but considerable irregularity developed in the general list, due to extensive shifting of speculative accounts.

The rise in General Motors presumably was in further reflection of optimistic forecasts of that corporation's business by William C. Durant, prominent stock market operator, and Louis G. Kaufman, a director. Under cover of this strength, however, heavy selling took place in other industrials, particularly in steel, copper, oil, mercantile, and the public utilities group. Famous Players broke four points.

Great Dane Bears Litter of Fourteen

Fourteen pups—eight males and six females—are in the large litter brought into the world by a two-year-old Great Dane, belonging to Arthur Jobe who lives at 300 Monaghan Road.

The Dane was formerly the property of Chief of Police Samuel Newhall, who purchased it from a man who proposed to destroy it, on account of his apprehension that the massive animal might inadvertently cause injury to his small children when playing with them.

Although in the rapid changes of ownership which the dog has undergone, the papers of its pedigree haev been lost, it is pedigree have been lost, it is valuable strain. The dog was originally brought to this part of the country from Vancouver.

Mr. Jobe is very proud of his possession which he describes as an animal of great sagacity and gentleness. It is stated that the Great Dane some time ago pulled a child from the railway track saving it from being crushed under the wheels of an approaching freight train.

Strength At Liverpool Affects Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Relative strength in Liverpool led to moderate buying of wheat early and a fractionally higher range here today. Less pressure was in evidence and with weather conditions in the spring wheat territory generally favorable the market soon eased off. Opening unchanged to ⅜c higher, wheat later underwent a setback all around. Higher temperatures over the belt gave easiness to corn. Fair buying on the dips brought about a slight recovery but as the offerings were absorbed, the market suffered a further decline. Starting ¼c to ½c off, corn recovered somewhat and then fell lower than before. Oats were affected by the action of corn and provisions ruled firm in line with higher quotations on hogs.

Opening prices were: Wheat, September 1.37⅝, December 1.40⅜. Corn, September 1.10¼, December 1.14⅜. Oats, September 46, December 49¾.

CONCENTRATES ON LOCAL ROAD

Highway Traffic Officer Wilson Transfers Headquarters To Peterborough.

HAS BIG DISTRICT.

With this city made the headquarters of an officer, with special instructions to enforce the observance of the speed limits laid down under the Highways Traffic Act, reckless drivers in Peterborough and district will have to be a little less reckless from now on.

Highway Traffic Officer Hugh Wilson, patrolling the roads between Peterborough and Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay, and Lindsay to Whitby, a district totalling 105 miles of roadway, has made Peterborough his headquarters, and will pay special attention to the Peterborough to Port Hope Highway.

Highway traffic officers are under the sole control of the Department, and are empowered to issue summonses against offenders who violate the provisions of the Act, and to appear as complainants in the Court.

Mr Wilson is a University of Toronto student, and anticipates resuming his studies in the fall. He is provided with a fast motor cycle to enable him to overtake the most flagrant violator of the prescribed speed limit.

PLANES LEAVE FOR LONG HOPS

Two Start To-day For Take-Off Points—One Leaves To-morrow.

AVIATION NEWS.

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y. — The Stinson-Detroiter Monoplane 'Sir John Carling' took off at 12.50 o'clock to-day for London, Ont., where it will begin a non-stop flight to London, England, just as soon as the weather permits.

The 'Sir John Carling' was occupied by Captain T. Tully and Lieut. J. V. Medcalf, the pilots who will fly it across the ocean, S. G. Erickson, a Canadian sportsman, and E. Reshnic, a Canadian newspaperman.

The departure of the 'Sir John Carling' for its starting point followed shortly after the departure for Harbor Grace of another Stinson-Detroiter plane the monoplane, the 'Pride of Detroit,' which took off this afternoon for Old Orchard, Maine, bearing Edward F. Schlee, Detroit, and William S. Brock, pilot. They will fly from Old Orchard to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

Still a third Stinson Detroiter monoplane, manned by Duke Schiller and Phil Wood, will leave to-morrow night for a flight to Windsor, Ont., there to hop off for Windsor, England.

With the departure of the Sir John Carling to-day, it became known that the crews of at least two of the three Stinson Detroiters hoped for a three-cornered flight across the Atlantic.

Phil Wood formally asked Schlee and Brock to wait at Harbor Grace long enough so that the planes leaving from Windsor and London could start the ocean hop at the same time. Brock declined, but the pilots of the other planes expressed confidence that the weather conditions would hold his plane at Harbor Grace until they could be in a position to take off.

PLANE REACHES OLD ORCHARD.

STARTS FOR BRAZIL.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., August 25 (Canadian Press). — Paul Redfern hopped off to-day on his non-stop flight to Brazil, in his Stinson Detroiter monoplane, "Port of Brunswick." He took off from the beach at Glynn Isle at 12.46 o'clock for the 4,600-mile trip.

BERTAUD TO START.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Long Island, August 25 (Canadian Press). — Lloyd Bertaud announced this afternoon that barring unforeseen occurrences he and James D. Hill would take off for Rome in the Fokker monoplane, "Old Glory," at six o'clock. "We're going to take her up for a little spin right now," he said, just before two o'clock, "and if everything is all right we leave at six."

Hamilton Held Up.

UPAVON, England, August 25. — Canadian Press — New complications which threaten to delay the flight of the Fokker Jupiter plane that Capt. Levie Hamilton the British aviator, hopes to pilot over the Atlantic to Ottawa, arose to-day. Captain Hamilton telephoned the airdrome that the Air Ministry had refused to give him a certificate of airworthiness for his plane until a change had been made in his rudder arrangements.

There are several countries in which a census never has been taken. They are Persia, Afghanistan, the Indo-Chinese peninsula, half of Africa, parts of South America and most of China.

TAX ON TICKETS TO BE REMOVED

Toronto Paper Predicts That Change in Act Will Be Made.

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—A Toronto paper today forecasts that at the end of the fiscal year, October 31, the amusement tax on theatre tickets of less than 25 cents will be removed and thus provincial taxation will be decreased by about $700,000. Legislation to this effect was passed last session and it is predicted will be put into force at the end of October.

ISLAND VOLCANO LIKE FIRE CRACKER

Danish Consul Tells of Eruption in the Aleutian Islands.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 25 (A.P.). —Intense activity of Bogoslof Island, a volcanic peak in the western Aleutian Islands, which rase from the sea in May 17, 1796, was reported by Henning Plaun, Danish Consul in Seattle, who is here after completing a trading trip to Siberia. He said the volcano appeared as though it would explode like a giant firecracker.

"We went within three miles of the island," Plaun said. "The entire island seemed afire. Smoke and steam was issuing from every part of the island and many huge cracks could be seen.

"Hundreds of sea lions were in the water off the island roaring as if in protest of the actions of their island home. We could hear their roaring for six miles."

Thousands of birds swarmed about the island the Consul said. The water was discolored and a strong smell of sulphur was in the air.

Cable advices from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, last month reported that Dr. T. A. Jagger, volcanologist from Hawaii, making an investigation for the United States Survey, saw twenty large volcanoes in action in the western Aleutian Islands.

Dr. Jaggar expressed the opinion a new spell of intense activity resembling the eruptions of 1909 was in progress. Both Bogoslof and Fire Island, which arose nearby in 1813, have been spasmodically erupted, being joined and separated several times by the rising and lowering of the bottom of the sea.

LATEST FIGURE GIVES 12 KILLED

LONDON, August 25. Canadian Press. — Twelve persons were killed and forty eight injured, twenty four of the latter seriously, in the wreck of a Southern Railway train last evening, official revision of the casualties to-day showed. Four of the bodies were still unidentified to-day.

Among the slightly injured were Lord and Lady Lewisham, both of whom suffered cuts on the legs. They were able to leave the hospital after treatment.

COMMITTED TO ASYLUM.

Owen Sound Man Goes To Brockville Hospital.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Melvin Lougheed, 25 years of age, of Owen Sound, was today committed to the Ontario Hospital for mental defectives after having received medical treatment. He was injured when he jumped from a highway bridge into Grant's Creek last night, striking the rocky bottom in only two feet of water.

FRENCH MINISTER REACHES TORONTO

M. Bokanowski Arrives After Overnight Stop at Buffalo.

TORONTO, Ont., August 25 (Canadian Press). — The Ford stout monoplane, with Commander Richard E. Byrd and Maurice Bokanowski, the French Cabinet Minister, on board, landed at Leaside, near here, at 9.05 a.m., after a flight from Buffalo. The plane had lain at Buffalo over night from New York.

The trip was made in forty minutes, under ideal weather conditions.

Crowds began to assemble at the Leaside airport fully three hours before the plane left Buffalo, and it was greeted by about two thousand persons. Harry Brooks was pilot and Carl Wenzel, mechanic, while besides the French Minister and Commander Byrd, the plane carried D. W. Wilshire of the Ford Company of Canada and William B. Stout, its designer.

Col. Parsons, representing Premier King, and T. Cowley, Comptroller of Civic Aviation, greeted the visitors and a representative of the French Consulate at Montreal was also on hand.

ROBBERY CHARGE IS WITHDRAWN

Will Be Relaid at Future Date, McDermott's Council is Told.

BARRIE, August 25. Canadian Press.—The Crown Attorney to-day withdrew the charge of attempting to rob Alex. Hodge, which had been placed against Joseph McDermott, a cattle drover, when McDermott appeared for preliminary hearing on further counts to-day. He is already committed for trial on counts of cattle stealing.

The Crown Attorney requested an adjournment, and when the defense counsel objected, announced the charge would be withdrawn and relaid at some future date, stating the police would forge several important links in the chain of evidence within the next few days.

PRINCE'S HOME IS DESCRIBED

Ranch House is Much Larger Than When He Bought It.

HIS BEDROOM SMALL

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—On the Princes' Eastern tour Isabel Ross was the only woman press representative from the United States. She was writing for the New York Herald-Tribune. Miss Ross, who is Scottish born, was at one time on the Toronto News under Sir John William. During the war she was associated with the food board in Ottawa.

A Calgary writer describes the present bungalow in the E.P. Ranch. Much larger than the old homestead it is bordered with beds of old-fashioned flowers—phoix, candytuft, forget-me-nots, petunia, and canterbury bells. Trim lawns gird it and gravelled walks lead to its entrances. The farm buildings are beautifully white.

The old log house has been incorporated as a dining room, and on its cream-colored interior walls the sole adornment is a livestock calendar and a "motto" bearing the text, "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord—Joshua 24:25." Hard by is the Prince's private sitting room with its buff-colored walls hung with pictures, its low wicker chairs, generous fireplace, davenport and buffalo rug.

The bedroom of the Prince is just large enough to accomodate a double brass bed, a walnut writing desk, a mahogany dresser, a chest of drawers, and a small bedside table. The walls are papered blue and white and a small iron stove serves in cold weather. There are four other bedrooms, and since the Prince's last visit, a commodious lounge has been added with hardwood floors and seven French windows.

HAWAIIAN MUSIC IN MIDWAY SHOW

Good Troupe Here for Exhibition Week With Zeidman and Pollie.

Entrancing Hawaiian music, played as only natives of those romantic isles can play, will be heard at the Peterborough Exhibition this year, as part of the diversified entertainment being brought to Peterborough by the Ziedman and Pollie Shows, engaged to furnish the midway amusements. The KeKai troupe of Native Hawaiian singers, musicans and dancers, will be seen, heard and appreciated in "Hawaiian Nights", one of the twenty-two shows that will be erected on the gladway for fair visitors. This well known troupe is the identical organization that was featured during the Broadway run of "Aloma of the South Seas." Featuring Miss Emma KeKai, dainty and diminutive interpreter of the Hula, native Hawaiian dance, this troupe will be heard in a program that includes, besides singing and dancing, music on every type of Hawaiian instrument.

While the Zeidman and Pollie Shows offer Mike and Ike, incomparable midget twins, and their troupe of performing Lilliputians, as the feature attraction of the organization, it is said to be by no means the only one for among the twenty-two shows will be found entertainment appealing to every decent amusement taste. For those with strong hearts who enjoy real thrills there is the Mammoth Motordrome in which is featured Miss Irene Dare, only woman on earth who drives an automobile on the straight walls of a drome, while motorcycles, ridden by daring girls and boys, race around her.

The fair this year will be held week of September 12.

It looks creamy
It tastes creamy
It is creamy

AREN'T there many, many times when you would like to have cream's flavor, if it weren't for cream's cost? On fruit and cereals, in soups and gravies and sauces? Use Carnation! Here is double-rich pure milk with the consistency of cream—at one-third the price.

And Carnation is so good because we take extra precautions,—first, in selecting our source of fresh milk supply and, second, in every process in bringing the milk from the farm to you.

For example, Carnation is "homogenized". The cream is blended in, so that the last drop from the tin is just as rich and smooth as the first drop.

Undiluted, Carnation takes the place of cream. Diluted, it adds richness and smoothness to all cooking. Order from your grocer several tins or a case of 48 tins. Carnation keeps.

U.S. CAPITALISTS SEEK DEAD SEA SALT

Group Among Those Asking For Concessions in Palestine.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—United States capitalists are seeking a share in the trillion dollars' worth of salts of the Dead Sea. Dr. Thomas Herbert Norton of New York, a leading United States chemist, is organizer of an Anglo-American syndicate which hopes to obtain a concession for extraction of the enormously valuable mineral deposits.

The British Colonial Office has been considering the bids of various competitions for the last year and a half. Announcement of their award may be expected at any time.

Potash, bromine salts, gypsum and magnesium chloride are the principal products of these Dead Sea fruits. But according to Dr. Norton who is now in London, the United States members of his group are chiefly interested in the potash.

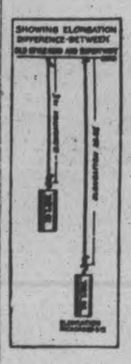
They believe that if they possessed the Dead Sea resources in that mineral, the United States would not only be independent of German and French supplies, but would be able to cut drastically the price of this essential fertilizer to the American farmers.

It is understood Dr. Norton has obtained guarantees for the necessary capital to undertake such a huge work, and has also collected an entire technical, chemical and engineering staff so that the work could begin as soon as the concession is granted.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover is said to be greatly interested in the possibility of United States participation in the concession, even though the company which would be formed by Dr. Norton's group would be incorporated in Great Britain if given the award.

However, there are three other strong bidders in the field. The first group represents the British Chemical Trust, presided over by Sir Alfred Mond. The second is headed by a Russo-Jewish engineer said to have the backing of Zionist interests in Palestine and also, it is believed, certain affiliations with Sir Alfred. The third is an independent British syndicate.

Superwist adds life and mileage



THREE things give a tire mileage.

The cord used in the carcass.

The rubber and compound used.

The engineering skill or construction which combines the two.

No matter how good the tread, no matter how skilful the building, if the cord breaks down, the tire goes.

And in Goodyear Cord Tires alone do you find SUPERTWIST, the sensational Goodyear- developed cord which adds to the strength and life of the carcass.

For SUPERTWIST is super-elastic. It stretches and recovers like sturdy rubber ropes. SUPERTWIST cords are 61% more elastic than old-style cords—more able to withstand blows of the road without injury.

And the net result is new mileage records from Goodyear Cord Tires on all kinds of cars in all kinds of service.

All Goodyear Cord Tires are made with SUPERTWIST—high-pressure and balloon, at prices to meet your needs. Goodyear Selected Dealers have them.

METAL MARKET IS UNCHANGED

Operations Being Maintained at Summer Rate—Expansion Likely.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Conditions in the metal markets in Canada are substantially unchanged from a week ago, with operations being maintained at the summer rate, and industry bordering on a fall expansion which promises to be unusually good.

Reports from Western Canada are not yet sufficiently broad in their scope nor certain in their tone to give definite indication of the crop possibilities, but it is certain that there will be a good yield, and quite possible that the record will be surpassed. Eastern Canada is in a similar position so far as agriculture is concerned.

Promising developments in the automotive field, and enlargements and re-openings in steel mills indicate that increase in consumption of iron and steel can reasonably be expected in the next few months. Particularly encouraging is the report of the Algoma Steel Corporation, which indicates that the value of orders on the books at June 30, 1927, was $3,150,931, as compared with $1,628,662 at the close of the previous fiscal year. Rail orders included in this figure will keep the rail mill employed on single turn until well into September, when further bookings are expected. Sales of all Algoma products during the past year amounted to $10,262,189, which compares with $8,792,599 in the preceding twelve months.

Interest of both manufacturers and buyers in Eastern Canada at least, and to a considerable extent all over the Dominion centres, naturally, in Toronto in the next few weeks, where will be staged two exhibitions, both of which are sure to stimulate business. The Canadian National Exhibition opens for the 49th consecutive year, on Aug. 27, with a program that promises to eclipse all former records. Canada's First Steel and Power Show, at the Varsity Arena, will commence a three-day run on Aug. 31, promising to bring both actual and potential business to three or four hundred manufacturers of machinery and equipment.

The markets have been steadily active during the week, and prices on the whole appear to be steady and unchanged. Fluctuations in the United States have had some effect, but the changes there require to amount to a considerable alteration before affecting Canadian quotations. It is generally believed the Canadian market will continue on its present course for several weeks yet, or until fourth quarter tonnages are discussed.

In the United States, with buyers concerned chiefly about supplies for their definite immediate needs, prices are not under special attack, and the present state of low consumption, with only seasonable prospects for an increase in sight serves to strengthen the price stand of producers, on the score that concessions would be of little avail.

'QUAKE KILLS TEN; INJURES HUNDRED

TOKIO, Aug. 25.—(United Press.)—Ten persons were killed, a hundred injured, and many homes destroyed by a severe earthquake early to-day in the southern part of the Island of Formosa. The earthquake shock was most severe at Yensu, where nine persons were killed and 40 injured.

Formosa is an island in the China sea belonging to Japan. Several ranges of mountains traverse it. Active volcanoes are found in the mountains.

STUMPS EXPORTED.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 25.—Walnut stumps, heretofore considered valueless, are so much in demand as a result of the scarcity of walnut wood that they are being exported to France and Germany. Several carloads have been shipped to foreign ports to be used in furniture manufacture.

CAMPBELLFORD LOSE OUT ON DEFENSIVE END

Moundsmen Fail to Get Right Fielding Support From Teammates.

HEAVY SLUGGING

Locals Score Six Times in the Third Due to Misplays.

Straying far away from their usual form, on the spick-and-span diamond of Exhibition Park, with its elevated pitching mound, Campbellford failed on the defensive end of their first O.B.A.A. start with Crescents last evening, the East Peterborough League champs winning by a score of 18 to 5 in six innings. Both Ibey and Christie who divided the hurling for the visitors shaped up as good as the best of them, but their teammates could do nothing right. And the jinx worked at all corners of the playing field. Even Umpire-in-chief Bill Wellman from Hastings became rattled at times and was in difficulty in his decisions.

It will be a different story at Campbellford, when the second game is played on Friday afternoon. The team has hitting strength, and, with the worst exhibition of the season out of their systems, the team will no doubt give the Crescents many uncomfortable moments.

Taking away the misplays from last evening's contests and the score would read 3 to 1 for Crescents. In the third when the locals crossed the plate six times, the side should have been retired without a tally. And in the fifth when five more counters were registered, errorless support would have held Crescents from the plate.

A crowd of nearly five hundred fans turned out to support the Crescents and they saw their favorites do some tall hitting. Kenneally had four singles in five times up; Barry whacked out a triple with two on; Scully had three singles and a double, and Billingsley, whose single brought cheers and sobs on Monday, enjoyed the distinction of a perfect batting evening with a sacrifice, three singles and a pass. Joe Jones with three hits went in for three runs, and brother Fred with one hit tallied three times. The latter was passed twice and was winged by Christie.

Campbellford went out in a row in the first. Cook fanned. Cowell walked and took second only to be picked off going into third on a throw from Kenneally. Christie fanned.

LeBarr drew a pass to start Crescents. J. Jones hit, and Kenneally popped to Holmes. Ranger's single into right scored LeBarr and Jones. Barry fouled to the catcher. Scully who beat his hit to first, went on to second and Ranger scored, when Idey threw wildly to first. The third baseman walked over to the box, and Scully promptly stole third. Corbett fanned.

A pass to F. Jones, Billingsley's sacrifice, LeBarr's infield out and Maybee's failure to hold J. Jones' fly gave Crescents their run in the second.

The third saw Campbellford throw a big scare into the Crescents' camp. Blakely beat out a bunt and Cooke singled into middle. Cowell fanned. A wild pitch advanced the runners. Blakely was safe when Corbett's throw to the plate off Christie's grounder, failed to get the runner. Holmes lined out to Barry. DeCarroll inserted a corking single to right to score Cooke and Christie, and the score was tied.

In Crescents' half, Cowell uncorked a wide throw to first when he had Barry easily beaten, and then followed a wild frame in which six runs materialized out of three errors, three hits and a pass.

Christie relieved Ibey, the latter going to first. The visitors settled down and disposed of the local in quick order.

A double play stopped a Campbellford rally in the fifth. Crescents, after two were down, scored five runs on two errors and five hits.

Four hits, three errors, a pass and a deadhead, gave Crescents three more runs. After the first of the seventh in which Campbellford went out in a row. Umpire Wellman called the game on account of darkness.

OUTSTANDING FIGURES AT CANADIAN OLYMPIC

Here are some of the outstanding figures at the Canadian Olympic trials held in Toronto. The big cut at the TOP LEFT shows Cyril Coaffee, the Illinois A.C. of Chicago, winning the final of the hundred yard dash in 9 4-5 seconds. He won by four yards and two of the three watches gave him 9 3-5 seconds, which equals the world's record. In the cut from LEFT TO RIGHT are shown Laurie Cohen of Winnipeg, the Manitoba sprint champion for the last four years, who finished a hang up third to Johnny Fitzpatrick, who is running next to him with his arms extended. Third from the LEFT is Buck Hester of Detroit, who, like Coaffee, is an expatrioted Canadian. Coaffee, the winner, is on the extreme RIGHT. On the LEFT TOP is the Manitoba relay team which won the relay event. From LEFT TO RIGHT are Jimmie Bell, the Manitoba quarter mile champion, who won the quarter mile championship on Saturday. Brant Little, who ran third in the half mile championship event and lost his title, Bill Brown and Bert Frankham. On the extreme RIGHT is Walter Robertson, the coach of the Manitoba contingent. From LEFT to RIGHT, BELOW, are Spence of Detroit, who won the 120 yards hurdles and winner of the high jump championship. John F. Davenport of the Hamilton Olympics, winner of the pole vault title, and Dave Griffin of the Hamilton Olympics, the flying reporter, who furnished an upset when he trimmed a classy field in the mile championship event.

CUBS BREAK LOSING STREAK

SCORE 5 IN 9TH

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Chicago Cubs ended their losing streak at five in a row at Philadelphia yesterday by winning the second game of a double header with the Phillies by a score of 13-1, after dropping the first by a 7-6 margin. The Phillies scored five runs when Blake weakened in the ninth inning of the first game, and overcame a 6-2 handicap. A double by Spalding drove in two runs that tied the score and then he romped home with the winning run when Sand greeted Bush with a single. The second game was settled in the first inning, the Cubs scoring six runs on five doubles, a walk and a costly muff by Cy Williams. Hack Wilson brought his home run total for the season to 23 by hitting one in the first game and two in the second.

Rain caused postponement of a doubleheader at Boston between the Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates. No other National League encounters were scheduled.

YANKEES WIN FROM TIGERS

Detroit 13-Game Winning Streak Broken by Yank's 9-5 Victory.

HOMER FOR LAZZERI

NEW YORK, August 25 (Canadian Press). — The Tigers 13-game winning streak struck a snag yesterday at Detroit when Tony Lazzeri produced his 17th home run of the year with the bases loaded and two down in the ninth to break a 5-all count, and give the Yankees a 9 to 5 victory. Nevertheless, the Bengals' stretch of triumphs stands as the longest in the majors this year, the Cubs having held the honour previously with 12 in a row. Hoyt started on the mound for the Yanks and withdrew after six innings, Wiley Moore finishing. Owen Carroll went the route for the Tigers. Harry Heilmann connected safely on four times at bat.

The Athletics halted the belated spurt of the Browns at St. Louis at six straight wins when Pitcher Walberg clinched his own 4 to 3 victory by hammering out a home run in the sixth inning. Walberg pitched the entire game, holding the seventh place Browns to five hits, while he and his team mates bunched eight for their four runs. Wingard was relieved in the ninth by Crowder, relief hurler, who allowed no hits in the final inning.

Win Fourth Straight.

At Cleveland the Indians broke their season's winning streak record when they won their fourth straight game, defeating Washington 7 to 1. Washington escaped a shut-out in the seventh when it bunched two singles with an infield out. Onslow of the Rochester International team, played first base for Washington. Manager Bucky Harris, of the Nats., was held hitless, making 28 straight times at bat without a hit.

Chicago Wins Series Opener.

Chicago bunched its hits in the second and fifth innings to defeat Boston at Chicago in the series opener, 4 to 3. Barrett's one-hand stab of a long drive in the seventh inning prevented the Red Sox from tying the score. Todd smashed a home run in the ninth with none on base. Boston's other runs were scored in the first and fourth.

VON ELM OUSTED OPEN GOLF PLAY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., August 25 (Canadian Press). — George Von Elm, national amateur golfer champion, yesterday was eliminated from competition in defence of his title by Harry Legg, of Minneapolis, who defeated the Californian one up in the second round.

Legg shot par 72 to down the champion, who had not been defeated in the event for the last three years, except by Bobby Jones. At the time Von Elm was ousted, Jones was two up on Eugene Homane of New York, and seemed safe to win.

In contrast to the morning's excitement, when Bobby Jones was threatened by a college stripling, Von Elm was put out by a man almost old enough to be his father. Harry Legg has been a prominent figure in golf for more than thirty years. He has been Minnesota State champion ten times. He won the trans-Mississippi title five times, and was western amateur champion in 1919.

The card:
Von Elm, out .... 344, 433, 545—36
Legg, out ..... 343, 543, 556—38
Von Elm, in ..... 444, 534, 544—37 —73.
Legg, in ..... 333, 444, 544—34 —72.

Chick Evans, of Chicago, won from Allen Moser, of Los Angeles, 3 and 2, while Roland Mackenzie, of Washington, defeated Dave Martin, of Los Angeles, at the 19th green.

Bobby Jones could not find the cunning that gave him a record 67 on Tuesday, but revived his wizardry sufficiently to stall off defeat when McCarthy got frightened in his attempt at giant killing and to shoot par in the afternoon against Homans. The other second round match went to Phillips Finlay of New York, who overcame Clarke Cochran, of Philadelphia 3 and 2.

To-day's rounds at 36 holes will consist of Legg and Mackenzie, Evans and Held, Ouimet and Finlay, and Johnston and Jones.

BISONS TAKE DOUBLE BILL

Grab Both Games of Double-Header From Baltimore, 18-7 and 7-6.

BISONETTE FEATURES

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Bisons grabbed both games of a doubleheader from Baltimore at Buffalo by scores of 18 to 7 and 7 to 6. Bisonette featured in the first game with two home runs, making his season's total 27. Mangum was credited with his eighteenth triumph of the season, getting credit for the first game.

Rochester made it four straight victories over Newark by defeating the Bruins in both ends of a doubleheader at Rochester, 4 to 3 and 1 to 0. Lee Head's single in the eleventh inning broke up the first game. Collins' homerun inside the grounds in the fourth inning was the deciding score of the second contest.

At Syracuse the Stars scored their ninth straight victory yesterday and their third in a row over Jersey City, defeating the Skeeters 14 to 2.

WILLS CONQUERS LILLIAN HESTER

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., August 25 (Canadian Press). — Smashing her way forward with irresistible power, Miss Helen Wills conquered Mrs. Lillian Scharman Hester, of Brooklyn, former fourth ranking star, yesterday, and advanced another notch towards her goal, the national women's tennis championship.

The California girl's triumph by scores of 6-0, 6-2, was the most impressive of a day of competition on wind-swept courts that reduced the field to 16 players, including all six of the British contenders, as well as Miss Kea Bouman, champion of Holland.

As a result, the third round to-day will witness seven international contests, featured by those in which Mill Wills opposes Mrs. John Hill of England, Mrs. Molla Mallory, the defending champion, meets Miss Gwynneth Sterry of England, Miss Helen Jacobs, 18-year-old Californian, plays Miss Eileen Bennett of England, and Miss Betty Nuthall, the 16-year-old British star, encounters Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va.

Where dinner is an adventure long remembered

Go into any of the great hotels or clubs in midday or of an evening when the soft lights twinkle on glistening silver, and you will see an old, old friend gracing the tables or being borne majestically on high by the waiters who move so silently to and fro.

"Canada Dry!" Somehow you know that no other ginger ale could be quite so much at home amid such distinguished surroundings. It adds an aristocratic, crowning touch to every meal and makes it something to linger over and remember.

Thousands upon thousands of men and women now drink this fine old ginger ale regularly at luncheon and dinner because of this very reason. They know that it gives even the simplest meal something of the sparkle and splendor of a dinner at a great hotel or exclusive club.

A wonderful flavor and matchless quality have made this fine old ginger ale the sensation of New York and leading capitals throughout the world.

SHARKEY STORIES NOT SUPPORTED

Inference That He Is Yellow Unfair Says Farrell.

By Henry L. Farrell,

(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (United Press).—Ever since Jack Sharkey disappointed those who had picked him to beat Jack Dempsey and those who had bet on him as the winner, stories have been circulated that he can't take it and that he is yellow.

It is true that he can't take it but no other fighter with the stoutest heart in the world could have taken the body-punishment he took from Dempsey and stand up under it. The inference that he is yellow is unwarranted and grossly unfair.

The records do show that Sharkey claimed fouls in a number of fights but it is no trait of cowardice and it is no crime to claim anything if you can get away from it.

It did appear in his fight with Dempsey that he curled up and stepped back but he couldn't do anything else under the punishment he was forced to take.

Sharkey is not yellow, and he doesn't lack a fighting heart.

He couldn't have been yellow when he went after Harry Wills. The big negro heavyweight had been dodged by every heavyweight in the division for years. The impression always will remain that Dempsey was afraid of him but that also is untrue. Dempsey never fought Wills because the match couldn't be staged for some reason that can only be guessed at.

After the Tunney-Dempsey fight, Sharkey decided that his time had come and he told his manager, Johnny Buckley to get a match with Wills. Nearly everyone thought that it was a sucker match for him and that his future would be ruined. But Sharkey showing the courage of a fighter carried the fight to Wills and beat him up so badly that he sneaked out on a foul.

Sharkey also fought and beat George Godfrey when he was considered bad news by all the other fighters. A good many smart managers regard Godfrey now as one of the best heavyweights in the division.

Sharkey didn't have to fight Dempsey. It is well to consider that.

After he had won a decisive victory of Jim Maloney, Tex Rickard decided that he was ready for a big shot but he had doubts about his drawing power against Tunney. He was willing to match them regardless and Sharkey was willing.

When Dempsey decided to return to the ring, Rickard suggested the match to Sharkey. He didn't have to take it but he did and the result gave him a setback and much less money than he might have secured in a championship match.

Muldoon, although a great admirer of Sharkey, would not let his opinion be influenced by sentiment. He thinks too much of his judgment.

"It is unfair and almost damnable to call Sharkey yellow," he said. "I would like to see some of those who are accusing him of cowardice enter the ring and stand up under just one of the dozens of punches Sharkey took to the body. The blow to the solar plexus that Dempsey landed would have stopped any man alive. I know of what I am speaking. Sharkey's a game fighter or he could not have gone as long as he did."

It's impossible to show a lot of fighting spirit when you're badly hurt and dog tired. The spirit is there but the flesh will not respond. It may be that despair did overcome him in the first round when he hit Dempsey with everything he had and failed to drop him but there was certainly nothing to indicate that it put fear in his heart.

It is more reasonable to assume that Sharkey was the victim of his own inordinate vanity instead of a yellow heart. He had enough courage to ignore the instructions of his corner to box Dempsey and stay away from him. He knew that he might win that way as Tunney won, but he feared that he would be charged with bicycle riding.

He had enough courage to go out and swap punches with Dempsey in the hope that he could prove his class and his heart by winning with a quick knockout and he just about did that in the first round.

Sharkey had the heart in the Dempsey fight but he didn't have anything to go with it after the first round and the body punishment Dempsey gave him caved him in.

ROYALS COME FROM BEHIND; WIN IN TENTH

Defeat Oshawa After Being Four Runs Down in Ninth.

IN PLAY-OFF GAME.

Score of Long Drawn Out Battle at Port Hope is 15-12.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Aug. 25. Special.—With a tenth inning rally for three runs after scoring five in the ninth, to go ahead by one run, and have the score knotted at the close of the ninth, Peterborough Royals defeated Oshawa Mets here yesterday afternoon 15 to 12 in a wide open, long drawn out game.

The fixture was the third game in the first round of the O.B.A. Junior Playdowns, Peterborough will now go into the second round.

To Holmes, the Peterborough pitcher, goes the credit for the win. Although he was knocked from the box in the seventh inning, he took sweet revenge in the tenth when he came through with the hit to score two runs, and scored later himself with the third run of the innings, and the last of the game.

Considering the fact that Oshawa were leading by four runs going into the last of the ninth, it was a tough game to lose, but Peterborough's rally for five runs in the ninth and three in the tenth was no fluke and the Motor City were outplayed in both sessions.

The following are the line-ups and the score by innings:

EXPORTERS MUST HAVE CLEAN COWS

Stables Also Must Be Inspected Before U. S. Will Accept Milk.

Dr. Thomas Johnston, V.S., attended a meeting on Wednesday, August 10th, in the Laing Produce and Storage Company's dining hall in Brockville to discuss the regulations governing the exportation of milk and cream to the United States.

After discussing the regulations the Department demonstrated the inspection of dairy farms in the Brockville district. The reason for this is given as follows in a letter from the veterinary director-general:

The American Federal authorities have passed an Act entitled "The Federal Import Milk Act," which will become effective in the course of two or three months. The regulations passed under this Act govern all interstate and foreign shipments, which includes Canada, of raw, pasteurized and processed milk and cream in, and into that country.

Under the provisions of this Act exporters of these products from Canada, must first obtain permits for this purpose from the American authorities. These permits will be limited to such producers as are recommended by the Canadian Federal authorities who must endorse the certificates of inspection of herds and premises for which provision is made in the regulations.

The regulations referring to raw milk and cream differ from those governing the pasteurized products in that they provide for a tuberculin test of the herds.

The exportation, however, of the raw product from this country is very limited, and we are consequently principally concerned with shipments of pasteurized milk and cream. The American regulations require that a system of inspection of herds and premises at the sources of supply be undertaken and they provide scoring sheets for this purpose. Their requirements in this connection are very exacting, and they have placed the responsibility upon this Department for their careful enforcement.

It has been decided that the producer must pay for this inspection, and it will therefore be necessary for the veterinarians selected and authorized to do this work, to collect their fees from the producer or shipper. As it is essential that these charges be uniform, the approved veterinarian will be authorized to collect the following fees from the shipper or producer for his services:—

A flat rate of $1.00 for the physical examination of a herd, with an additional charge of ten cents per head; for example the fee to be charged for a herd compriaing ten cattle will be $2.00, for a herd of 20 head $3.00. The above mentioned fees refer to cows in milk or springers. Young stock and bulls must be inspected also, but no fees are to be charged for such animals.

The premises and equipment must also be inspected and scored, and an additional fee of $2.00 is to be collected for this work.

The total fees there ore to be collected for the inspection of a herd of 20 dairy cattle in milk and the premises and equipment would be $5.00.

As it would seem desirable to promote and encourage this trade, and as its success will depend entirely upon a strict compliance with the requirements of the American authorities, this Department wishes to select veterinarians who are capable of rendering efficient service. It therefore held a meeting to discuss these regulations and make some demonstration inspections in the neighborhood of Brockville during the week of August 8th.

Dr. Johnston has been appointed to conduct these inspections in this district.

The inspection will take in the following points:

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co. Ltd., McDermid & Jury sells lots of it.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DOLL'S EYE

Baby Bunty ran across the sandy beach one day to where Uncle Wiggily sat in the doorway of his seaweed house, carrying her rag doll in her paws.

"Oh, Unkie Wig!" sobbed Baby Bunty, "one of her eyes has dropped out and what shall I do?"

"One of whose eyes?" the rabbit gentleman wanted to know, making room for Bunty to sit beside him in the seaweed house. The rabbit gentleman had built himself another cabin of driftwood and seaweed after the wind had blown away his first one, saving him from the Sea Lion as I told you last night. "Whose eye, Bunty?"

"My doll's," answered the little rabbit girl. "This morning she had two, good shoe button eyes, but now one has popped out and she can only see from half of her face." She held up the doll as she spoke and Uncle Wiggily could see but one eye.

"Oh, that's too bad," said Mr. Longears. "I think I can fix her for you though, Bunty. Let me take her."

Mr. Longears poked around in the weed, the sand and the things cast up by the sea on the beach near his queer little house, until he found a small round, red thing about the size of a shoe button.

"How will this do as an eye for your doll, Bunty?" he asked. "I know it is red, while the other eye is black, but does that matter?"

"Not at all, thank you," answered the little rabbit girl. "She will look like a moving picture actress, maybe."

"Ha! Ha! So she will!" chuckled Mr. Longears. So with a bit of sticky tar from a piece of a wrecked ship that had been washed up on the beach, the red eye was fastened on the rag doll's face across from her black one.

"How is that, Bunty?" he asked.

"Oh, fine!" cried the little rabbit girl, clasping her paws. "Now my doll is all right again," and, clasping Tootie (which was the doll's name) in her paws, away ran Bunty to play with the other little rabbit girls in the shade of some little pine trees not far from the beach.

It was there, a little later, that Uncle Wiggily, who was hopping around looking for adventures, saw Bunty playing with Jingle and Jangle. But something seemed to be the matter, for the three little rabbit girls stood up and were looking at something propped against a pile of sand at their feet.

"Did you ever see anything like it?" whispered Jingle.

"I never did. It's quite magical!" gasped Jangle.

"And to think it should happen to my rag doll!" added Bunty. "Oh, I don't know what is going to happen!"

"Maybe we better run and tell Daddicums!" said Jingle.

But Uncle Wiggily hopped along just then, and, hearing what was said, called:

"You needn't run far to tell me. What's the matter?"

"Oh, Unkie Wig!" shouted Baby Bunty, "do you 'member my rag doll that you made a new red eye for?"

"Surely I remember that," said the bunny gentlemen. "Has the eye that I pasted in with tar come loose?"

"Oh no," answered Baby Bunty in a sort of frightened voice, "but that eye is crying tears and the other eye, her shoe button one, isn't doing anything. And my dollie looks so funny, crying tears with one red eye on one side of her face and not crying with the other eye on the shoe button side of her face."

"Oh, you are teasing me!" said Mr. Longears.

"No, really, Daddicums!" exclaimed Jingle and Jangle. "Look!"

And when Uncle Wiggily looked at the rag doll, propped up on a little hill of sand, he saw that from the red eye he had made, tears really were dribbling down. The shoe button eye was dry.

"Well, this does seem to be magical!" said Mr. Longears, hopping closer. "But I think——"

"Be careful! She may be coming to life and might bite you!" warned Baby Bunty.

"Nonsense! I'm not afraid of a rag doll, with one shoe button eye!" chuckled the rabbit. "Still it is queer why tears come from this red eye, and——" Then Uncle Wiggily laughed harder than ever as he said: "I see what makes it. That red eye which I put on your doll's face, Bunty, is made from a red sea shell. There was some sea water in it and this sea water is now running out, looking like tears. It's all right—just sea water from the red shell. Your doll isn't really crying with one eye. It's just salty sea water."

"Oh, I'm so glad!" laughed Bunty. "I was getting worried about her." Soon all the sea water from the red shell eye had run out and then everything was all right and the rabbit girls had fun playing with Bunty's rag doll while Mr. Longears hopped away adventuring.

HAVE YOU PILES

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in hundreds of cases with a marvelous record of success, such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid Drug Store, McDermid & Jury today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and must do the same for you or money back.

PETES TO HAVE FULL STRENGTH AGAINST MOTORS

Al. Heckman Likely To Be Called Upon To Face Invaders.

FIRST OF SERIES.

Winners Will Play Toronto Champions in the Semi-Finals.

The Petes hope to be at full strength on Saturday, when they tackle Oshawa Motors at James Stevenson Park in the first game of the five-game series for the championship of the Lake-Shore League, and the right to play off for the Ontario Senior title. Al. Heckman will undoubtedly get the assignment in the first battle against the winners of the other section, with Manager Swanston doing the receiving. This battery combination has made plenty of trouble for Oshawa teams in the past and will be working strong on Saturday to repeat the dose. The Petes all round are in good shape, although short of work and are very confident of grabbing the series and getting a crack at the Toronto winners in the Senior semi-finals.

The second game will be played at Oshawa a week from Saturday and the third here on Labor Day.

"PRO" RUMORS AT OWEN SOUND

MARKLE LATEST.

Owen Sound Sun-Times: Wonder what all this talk means? This talk of the Owen Sound O.H.A. Juniors turning professional is growing wider every minute. Jack Markle, hard-shooting right-winger, is the latest name to join the group, which now includes Lauder, Markle, Moore, Paddon and Benny Grant. Somebody will spring one on "Shrimp" McDougall one of these days, and then all the regulars will be there. The players won't confirm reports that they have signed with pro teams. Markle denied the report on Saturday. Lauder claimed he hasn't—but will. Boston will evidently get him. Grant, Paddon and Moore are said to have tied up with London.

BLACK WATCH WINS GIMCRACK STAKES

YORK, England, August 25 (Canadian Press). — James Reid's two-year-old Black Watch won the famous Gimcrack Stakes over a six-furlong course to-day. Celandine was second by a neck, and Aga Khan's Three Star II. was third, a length back. Fourteen ran. The race, the feature of the York meeting, was worth about $6,000 and is eighty-one years old.

PLANES READY TO START HOPS

WEATHER FAVORABLE.

CURTISS FIELD, N.Y., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The monoplane Old Glory was taken from her hangar this morning for the first time in a week and placed on the inclined mound at Roosevelt Field in the expectation of hopping off for Rome late this afternoon. Weather conditions locally appeared unusually favorable.

An attempt to circle the globe in less than 28 days, the present record, is to begin to-day, in the monoplane, Pride of Detroit, in which Edward Schlee, president of the Detroit Oil Company, and W. S. Brock, a former air mail pilot, plan to take off for Old Orchard, Maine. They plan to fly from Old Orchard to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where they will wait favorable weather before taking off for Croydon, England, the first leg of the proposed journey.

Bowling Match Ends When Skunk Arrives

MONTREAL, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Lawn bowling came to a sudden stop at the Montreal West greens last night, when a skunk took possession of the property. There was a match between ladies and gentlemen in progress and a few moments later a dog that was nearby attempted to chase the animal, which retaliated as only skunks can. In a short time the green was deserted and a "rush" call for police was sent. The officers killed the skunk, but only after he had scored a moral victory.

ICE-CREAM IS A REAL FOOD

It is well to understand that the food value of ice-cream is very high, and it should at all times be considered a real food and not a delicacy. Most ice-cream manufacturers use a certain standard formula which they consider produces the best grade of ice-cream. There is no secret about the formulas or methods of making ice-cream, and most of them contain the following ingredients:

10% milk fat	14% to 15% cane sugar
10% to 11% milk solids	Less than 1% of edible gelatin

It will be seen that ice-cream contains more than twice as much milk fat as the best grade of certified milk. This makes ice cream very rich in vitamin "A," which is so necessary to the proper growth of children. The large amount of milk solids contain an excellent kind of protein and a large amount of lime and other organic minerals. Ice-cream is especially rich in calcium, containing from 30% to 50% more than does milk. A half pint of ice-cream contains as much lime as ½ pound of butter, or 4 pounds of meat, or 3½ pounds of potatoes.

Most foods are deficient in calcium, but ice-cream furnishes a very large supply of this valuable mineral which is essential to bone and cell structure.

Manufacturers are often criticized for using gelatin in ice-cream, but I would suggest that the laws be changed to admit of the use of even more gelatin; as this is an excellent food product which makes the ice-cream still more palatable and nutritious.

When ice-cream is used with a regular meal, it is wise to serve only small portions because of its high food value; but if ice-cream is made the principal part of the meal, it is all right to use as much as a half pint at a time. I suggest that you try some summer lunches with ice-cream as the principal part of the meal, using with it any one kind of the acid fruits, such as cherries, peaches, oranges or berries; or, in place of the fruit, use whatever is desired of cooked and raw, non-starchy vegetables. With this meal you should leave out meat; potatoes, bread, and all other heavy foods, as they are not needed with such a highly nutritious food as ice-cream.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: M. H. R. writes: "Will you kindly tell me what is the cause of pains in the tips of my fingers and numbness in my arms? Also, I have white spots on my hands."

Answer: If you do not also have the same trouble in your legs, the numbness in your arms may be caused by an impingement of the nerves issuing from the spine which carry the nerve impulses to your arms. An osteopath or chiropractor can tell you if this is causing the trouble.

Question: F. E. R. writes: "I work in an office from eight a. m. until five p. m. Would it be advisable for me to continue work while taking a two weeks' orange fast?"

Answer: Plenty of people have been able to fast while doing their work and I feel sure you will be able to do so.

Question: J. T. W. writes: "Will you kindly explain in your health talk what locomotor ataxia is? Is it anything like shaking palsy? Is there any cure for it?"

Answer: Locomotor ataxia is a disorder of the nerves which affects principally the legs. Persons so affected must walk with a characteristic knee-jerk; where the knees are snapped straight out at every step. They cannot walk with the eyes closed, and sometimes cannot even stand still in the dark without falling. If taken in time, it is possible to arrest this disorder, and cures have been effected through certain dietetic and physio-therapy treatments.

BIRDS YOU OWN

I'll say just this
To man and miss
Who seek for joy
And search for bliss:
That birds that sing
Soon take to wing
When foolish folk
Their cages bring;
And joy's a bird
As sweetly heard
That frightens at
Some selfish word.
Yes, swiftly flies
When someone tries
His joy to count
And analyze.

Around the door
The songbirds soar,
And some have less
And some have more,
But two or three,
Or what it be,
My own birds are Enough for me.
I'll say just this
To man and miss
Who seek for joy
And search for bliss:
Don't weep and moan
For joys unknown
And miss the song
Of joys you own.

PRISONER CLIMBS OVER WALL OF JAIL

Man Held at St. Catharines For Vagrancy Escapes.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 25.—Robert Williams known also as Antonio Wabegesick, escaped yesterday morning from Lincoln County Jail here where he was being held on a vagrancy charge.

Officials believe that Williams scaled the 18-foot prison walls, but investigation has not yet definitely revealed his method. Other prisoners who were known to be with him refuse to give any information. The police believe that he has escaped from Burwash.

He is described as being 37 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall, 145 pounds in weight, with black hair and blue eyes. He wore black trousers, a black and white shirt and white running shoes.

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she is betrothed. Neither Kildare nor Murtough hold steady jobs and Sheila works as a waitress. Her only friends are the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer, whose kindness interests her. Murtough betrays to a rival bootlegging gang the hiding place of $150,000 contraband. A chorus girl plans to double cross him out of his reward which was to have been $5,000.

"You'd never get any place with Clocker except driving a car and there's no money in that. At least not enough to buy what your little sweetie wants to have. You'll have to make a lot of money, Big Boy, after we're married, but we two can work together. I got a real bright mind, you know."

"When we get it all set and straightened out," she went on, "we'll hop out to Detroit. I got some friends out there. I got some friends in Chicago, too. They'll all help put us in right and we'll be getting big money before long. All anyone needs is the capital to start and what with five grand in our kick we'll be all set. You sure pulled it off fine! And we'll have our last blowout at the West End Dance, won't we, Big Boy, right under the nose of Mannie Clocker and his whole gang."

"Don't be a simp. Who knows you had anything to do with this, and besides, who's going to wise up Clocker that the raid is going on, until it's over. Them babies you was dealing with aren't going to let none of the Clocker crowd down there get to a telephone, you know."

"Let me have a couple more, Bigt. Boy."

"We'll go, Big Boy, and I'm going to look my best, so let your sweetie have enough for a new party dress. I want to buy it this afternoon after I get my beauty sleep."

Murtough counted out some bills and gave them to her. Clarice spied three remaining twenty dollar bills.

"Let me have a couple of more, Big Boy. I need shoes and stockings, too. A twenty will get us out from under this check all right."

Murtough frowned, but he passed the money to her and shoved the remaining bill into his vest pocket. Clarice was certainly an expensive person, he thought.

CHAPTER XII

The West End Club Dance

Sheila sang with joy as she bustled about the flat making ready for the dance at the West End Club. Not only did she have her own pretty self to primp and make more beautiful, if that could be possible, but there was Old Tom to help. His fine, old broadcloth long coat, turned a bit green with age since the days when it was cut for him by the traveling tailor from Dublin who visited Killanmaul every two or three years, had to be brushed and made ready and the buttons put in his Sunday boiled front shirt and all, but Sheila did not mind this night.

A new dress and stockings and shoes had been purchased and even Emmett, in spite of all his entangling adventures, had not forgotten a corsage of flowers. Every once in a while Sheila stopped in the midst of her preparations to run to the stand and smell the precious bouquet. It would be her first big party, the first ball that she ever had attended in all her twenty years. And how she loved Emmett for escorting her to this proud affair, where she would meet the people who were his fine business friends!

It was after ten when Emmett, dressed in a Tuxedo that fitted so snugly that the biceps in his huge arms stood out, arrived. He had spent an hour with the barber; his face had been shaved to satin softness and his hair sleeked to his head until hardly a ripple of the wave in it showed. Certainly Emmett was a fine figure of a man and a very proper representative in this new country of Killanmaul, thought Sheila. She kissed him gratefully upon the cheek for his flowers and if Emmett blushed it was absorbed in the flush of his own face due to the hot towels of the barber.

"Ah, Emmett," she cried, "I am so happy tonight! To think that you an' me an' father are all going together to this grand affair. 'Tis lovely of ye to take us, so it is, Emmett Murtough, an' I love ye fer it."

Emmett made no reply. He was in a silent mood. Too many confusing thoughts ran through his mind to permit much of the boasting badinage that usually marked his treatment of Sheila, even when in a gentle humor.

"Well, 'tis a happy father I am the night," Old Tom added to Sheila's thanks. "What with ye taking yer rightful place among the big-wigs an' dressed as good an' grand as the next one, I'm thinking, an' you an' Sheila having patched it up, 'tis indeed an' indeed happy I am."

"Sheila will be the queen of the ball, I'm thinking," said Murtough in an effort to join in the spirit of the occasion. "My, but 'tis a pretty girl ye are!"

"None of yer blarney now," cried Sheila but more than pleased at the compliments of her lover. "An' there'll be many a prettier girl there that'll be wishing to know who I'm with," she added.

"I couldn't see any of them, blinded as I am with you, Sheila, darling."

The assembly room at the club from which all furniture had been removed for the dancing was festooned gaily. Flags of America and the Irish Free State were intertwined and hung at every conceivable place and bunting draped all the four walls. An orchestra was hidden behind palms and ferns and a spotlight played from one corner, while catercornered from it was a projector of different colors to be used when the dances were on. The clubrooms downstairs were thronged when Murtough and Kildares arrived. A committee of club officials greeted every comer and Murtough met men whom he never had so much as seen before. Sheila was presented to everyone and men from all over the hall flocked to be introduced to her.

Her modesty and fresh prettiness, straight from the "ould sod" as one patriarch said, appealed particularly to the elderly men and women. In her they saw the old fashioned girl, with long hair, and with becoming blushes at their compliments, and they loved her for it. These oldsters did not approve so much of their children and grandchildren who had clipped their fine tresses and who depended upon rouge and lip stick for their healthy appearance instead of fresh air and sunshine which has made the cheeks of Irish colleens famed the world over for their beauty.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Shea were among the first to recognize and greet her and it was through them that Sheila was presented to a score of the heads of the fine old Irish families whose sons were now famous for their accomplishments. Rory was not with his father and mother when Sheila arrived. He had joined some of the younger men of the club and was idling away the time watching the dancers. It was on the ballroom floor that he caught his first glimpse of her. Emmett and Sheila were dancing and as she recognized Rory she waved to him and smiled at him around the heavy set Murtough.

"I must leave ye' now for a little while," he told her. "'Tis some business for the club, for the good of the party," he explained.

"Don't be gone long, Emmett, an'" she hesitated and drew him down to her, "ye won't be drinking the night?"

"Of course not," he answered, but there was the old surly tone in his voice. The smile fled from Sheila's face as he disappeared in the crowd. Soon she was laughing and talking, however, and when Rory came to her for the next dance she was a-sparkle with gaiety. At the end of the dance Rory asked if she would go downstairs for lemonade and she accepted.

They made their way through the crowd to the stairs and pushed their way through a greater crowd below until they stood near the refreshment stand. Rory obtained cool drinks and as Sheila lifted the glass to her lips she spied Emmett and with him was a girl whom she never before had seen.

AIRPLANES USED IN MAP MAKING

Prove Especially Useful Along Manitoba-Ontario Boundary.

MAZE OF WATERWAYS

WININPEG, Man., Aug. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—Such an important part is the aeroplane now playing in the development of Canada's natural resources that it has become necessary to prepare special maps of certain wilderness regions for the use of the roamers of the upper air. After a lengthy period of exacting survey work the Topographical Survey, Department of Interior, Ottawa, recently issued the Winnipeg District Aeronautical Map, covering the area from Winnipeg to the point where the Manitoba-Ontario boundary line turns in its course from north to northeasterly. The map is printed in colors on the scale of eight miles to an inch.

It is a vital to the airman that all water features which it is possible to show on the scale mentioned be mapped in order that he may at all times know his location from the ground features below. As the most striking feature of the district is the intricate maze of waterways in the vicinity of the Ontario-Manitoba boundary, the result is that the map displays a mad tangle of lakes and rivers which could not fail to confuse the layman were not special means taken to simplify their indication. To this end the regular travelled water routes and the most important waterways are shown in a different color from their minor companions.

Less than a decade ago this region was an uncharted wilderness, known even by repute to few citizens of civilized Canada, but today the limelight of public attention is playing upon it, having been directed thence by the widely-heralded mineral discoveries in the vicinity of Red Lake and other districts of Western Ontario north of the transcontinental railway lines. To meet the consequent demand for maps, the Topographical Survey, working in co-operation with the Canadian Air Force, has carried out successfully a considerable amount of aerial photographic work and several large scale maps covering various portions of the region have been issued, including the Red Lake map itself.

Though prepared specially for the sky cruisers, this latest wilderness chart will, it is believed, be in great demand with all whom the lust for riches or the pursuit of sport draw into the district. As it shows the ground features in much greater detail than is usual with the scale employed, those who travel by dog team in winter or by canoe in summer will find it of much greater value than the maps previously issued.

Thus the northward moving tide of civilization is inundating another strip of the fast-retreating Canadian wilderness. Hard on the heels of the prospector follows the surveyor and the map-maker. In their footsteps will inevitable march the developer, the colonist and the merchant. And the aeroplane, typical of twentieth century speed, is playing a major role in the conquest of the unknown lands.

CHANG ANNOUNCES RE-ORGANIZATION

Follows Up Official Appointment as Dictator of North China.

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PEKING.—(United Press).—"Generalissimo" Chang Tso-lin, having now swallowed the Peking political canary feet and feathers after long dallying, has announced a program of general re-organization to include both Government and Northern Armies.

Chang's change of status is more apparent than real. For several months he has operated both military and governmental matters from his yamen in the West City, and in taking the title of "ta yuan sui," which means "dictator" in effect, he simply makes a convenient springboard from which to hop off into more sweeping changes.

In other words, he has held sufficient power previously to bring about this semi-comic "election" by his subordinates, together with his ceremonial inauguration at the presidential palace on a day and hour picked by ancient soothsayers in solemn fee-fi-fo-fum congress assembled. A curious blend of the old and new, this affair; a former bandit and his superstitious cohorts togged out in gaudy raiment to enact, in the midst of a maze of machine guns and beheading swords, the form of assuming a dictatorship in a hall dedicated to republican government.

Of course, the American and other foreign Ministers could not lend their presence to such an affair, since to do this would imply a recognition their home Governments are not prepared to authorize; but they were all very glad to drop in at the Foreign Office an hour later for a tea party at which the newly installed and much pleased generalissimo arrived, with pomp, in an American-built motor car bearing a machine gun in place of spotlight.

Eliminating the melodrama, Chang's latest move boils down to an assumption of full responsibility both civil and military. Previously he has had the military responsibility, though in less direct form, and has dominated the political situation without having direct responsibility.

The Northern armies, formerly a rather loose confederation, are now to be known simply as the Ankuochun or Peace-of-the-Country Army, without division into Shangtung, Fengtien and other forces as heretofore. The Government is to be re-organized, or rather organized, into some semblance of reality. Such is the program in brief.

Among the ambitious projects to be undertaken by this new Chinese Mussolini are: Encouragement of industry, establishment of harmony between capital and labor, revision of the military system together with some consolidation, leveling of class distinctions, re-establishment of an examination system for the choice of officials and revision of the Cabinet.

Moreover, a new Nationalist party pledged to certain of the more harmless Southern Nationalist doctrines is to be organized with a strict proviso against the communistic taint.

Foreign observers in Peking regard the whole development with, for the most part, hope mingled with skepticism. Business interests in particular would like to see Chang make his move a success, but fear that the latest change may prove to be form without substance.

CAR KNOCKS DOWN LOCAL RESIDENT

Pennington Alexander Painfully Hurt—Was Crossing Street.

Pennington Alexander, residing at 318 Boswell Avenue, is nursing painful injuries to his arm and shoulder, following an accident in which he was knocked down by a car on George Street.

Crossing the street from the west side to the east, Mr. Alexander stopped to allow two cars to pass him. Being somewhat deaf, he did not hear the approach of a third car, which knocked him off his feet. He was taken to the Clinic, where his injuries were dressed by Dr. J. H. Eastwood.

HEAVY GALE OVER NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Aug. 25.—(Canadian Press).— A sixty mile an hour gale was blowing over Newfoundland from the west to-day, but unlike the storm that swept Nova Scotia last night, the wind appeared to be doing no serious damage, as none had been reported up to noon. A peculiar feature of the gale was the cloudless sky and intense heat that accompanied it.

SURVIVOR TELLS ABOUT SHIPWRECK

Saw Six Companions in Open Boat Die From Exposure.

STOCKHOLM Sweden, August 25.—Canadian Press. — The sole survivor of the lost Swedish steamer 'Tryggve,' was brought here to-day by a Finnish vessel, and told the story of seeing six companions perish as they drifted in an open boat.

The 'Tryggve' left Stockholm on August 13th for Leningrad. It was wrecked the next day, six members of the crew going down with the ship. The remaining five members, with two passengers, got away in a small boat. Their sufferings from exposure were so great that some perished in the boat and others became insane and threw themselves overboard. The survivor, a stoker, was picked up last Sunday.

Ninety-six per cent of the 54,318 rural mail routes now are covered by motor car.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ERASTUS ANDERSON.

There passed away at the home of her son, James M. Anderson, North Monaghan, Jane Bell, widow of Erastus Anderson, in her 89th year. She leaves to mourn her loss three sons: William B. Anderson, city; George Anderson, Winnipeg, Man., and James Anderson, North Monaghan, and one daughter, Mrs. J. H. George, Millbrook, Ont.

The funeral will leave her late residence on Saturday, August 27, at 2 p.m., and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery.

W. J. LEESON.

W. J. Leeson, who was drowned at Clark, near Gary, Indiana, was buried yesterday. The funeral was from his parents' home in Douro, and interment was in Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. J. W. Gordon officiated.

His death followed the collapse of a forty-ton crane on which he was working on a construction job. The crane fell into the river, and Mr. Leeson was caught in the ropes, with no chance to escape. Two other men on the job narrowly escaped injury. The remains arrived at Douro on Tuesday.

Surviving him are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Leeson, of Douro; one brother, John Leeson; four sisters: Mrs. E. V. Sparling, Toronto; Mrs. P. McNaughton, Nassau; Mrs. J. McGee, Burnt River, and Viola at home.

The funeral was largely attended, and there were many floral tributes.

MRS. JOHN CLANCY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Clancy took place at nine o'clock this morning from St. Peter's Cathedral, where Solemn High Mass was offered up in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the deceased lady.

The Mass was solemnized by the late Mrs. Clancy's son, Rev. Raymon Clancy, of Austin, Texas, assisted by two nephews of the deceased, Rev. Victor McFadden of Trout Creek and Rev. Edward Welsh, acting respectively as Deacon and sub-Deacon. The Libera was sung by His Lordship, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough, attended by Rev. J. J. O'Brien and Rev. P. Galvin, of Downeyville. Present in the sanctuary were Rev. P. Costello, Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore and Rev. Wm. Meagher. Rev. C. Moloney acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The sermon, emphasizing the virtues of the Christian mother, was preached by Rev. P. Costello, who alluded to the late Mrs. Clancy as an example of true Catholic womanhood, whose family included the priest who solemnized the last earthly rites for his mother.

Prayers at St. Peter's cemetery, where interment took place, were offered by Rev. Father Clancy. Present also were Rev. V. McFadden, Rev. J. McAuley, Rev. W. Meagher, Rev. P. Galvin and Rev. E. Welsh.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Samuel Clancy of Toronto, James Clancy of Peterborough, John Corkery, Senior, James Lynch, L. D. Letellier and F. Fairen.

NAVY CONTINUES SEARCH FOR FLIERS

SAN FRANCISCO, August 25. — Canadian Press — With authority to continue the search for the missing Dole fliers, six men and a girl, lost while trying the flight from the Golden Gate to Honolulu, as long as the officers in charge think there is a chance of finding them, the the U.S.S. Omaha, the flagship of the destroyer division, and six destroyers, to-day were ploughing the Pacific with renewed energy.

The navy sent vessels to every point at which it was considered possible that the fliers might be found.

FERRIES GROUND DURING BAD FOG

Passengers Marooned When Big Boat Hits Sand Bar.

RESCUER STUCK, TOO.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.— Twenty-four passengers on the Rockaway Point Company's ferry Manhattan were marooned for three hours early yesterday when the ferry and a second one sent out to search for her went aground during a dense fog on a sandbar near Rockaway Point.

The passengers, most of whom were women and children, started their trip from Sheepshead Bay at 11.30 o'clock Tuesday night. They were finally taken off the ferry about 2.40 a.m. by a police launch.

The ferries were not floated until about 4 o'clock when the rising tide freed them. Neither boat was damaged.

The distance between Sheephead Bay and Rockaway Point is short, but there are four or five sandbars along the way. Last night when the Manhattan left for its last trip the fog was as dense as it has been in that vicinity in years.

BODIES TO LIE IN SMALL ROOM

Hall Owners Refuse To Receive Remains of Sacco and Vanzetti.

OFFICE BLOCKED.

BOSTON, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press) —Banned by the owners of half a dozen halls and one church, the bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, beginning to-day, will lie in the cramped quarters of a small funeral parlor in the north end. Even the room from which the fight in their behalf had been conducted for seven years was denied them in death. The owner erected in the doorway a post which permitted persons to enter while blocking anything of the width of a casket.

Finally the members of the defence committee stripped from the walls of the undertaker's rooms religious insignia inconsistent with the theories of the two men and substituted floral decorations. Here, where the room must be emptied of one group of mourners before another can be admitted through the single door, the bodies will lie until Sunday.

PRISONER TAKEN IN PLANE TO JAIL

Brought From Blackstone Lake To Hudson, 250 Miles.

PORT ARTHUR, August 25. — For probably the first time in history, certainly in Canadian annals, an arrested prisoner was conveyed to jail by airplane, after the constable had made an airplane flight to apprehend him, when Edward Cook, a half breed, was arrested on Tuesday on the shores of Blackstone Lake, 250 miles from Hudson, the portal to the Red Lake mining field.

Cook is held as a material witness in the murder of George "Shorty" Austin, whose body was found in his shack last Friday after an Indian had carried some days before, the story of the crime to Hudson. The arrest was made by Constable Duncan Finlayson, who went out to Blackstone by airplane. Here he arrested Cook, who, only 17 years of age, big and husky, offered no resistance, and a telegram to Provincial police headquarters here yesterday, stated that Finlayson had arrived safely with his prisoner, and had him in custody at Hudson

The inquest into the death of Austin is to be held on Friday at Hudson Coroner Mitchell of Sioux Lookout presiding.

LEGION NOTES.

Advice has been received today from the Acting National President of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, urging all branches to endeavor to have as large a representation as possible in attendance at the Warriors' Day Parade to show in a tangible manner, their appreciation of the high honor conferred on the Canadian Legion by the acceptance of the invitation extended by the National Council to His Royal Highness.

Members of the local branch of the Legion, and all unattached Veterans who are desirous of being present at the review on August 30th, are requested kindly to communicate with the local branch secretary of the Legion, so that arrangements may be made for a supply of tickets for themselves and families for the grand stand.

Parade

The Parade will form up at the Maple Leaf Stadium, Fleet and Bathurst Streets, on August 30th, at 9.30 a.m., under the command of Brig.-General A. H. Bell, C.M.G., D.S.O., District Officer Commanding M.D., No. 2.

Dress—Mufti, with medals.

Order of Parade

G.O.C. and Staff Officers.

Ex-Service Men in units of 200 under Unit Commander, in columns of eight (8).

Unattached officers in uniform.

Toronto Militia Units.

Route.—Maple Leaf Stadium, West on Fleet Street, to Princes' Gate, where head of column will halt until His Royal Highness has opened the new gates. Then west on the new Jubilee Boulevard, through Stanley Barracks and Exhibition Grounds to Grandstand enclosure, entering on racetrack on south and proceeding around track westward past saluting base.

In the event of His Royal Highness wishing to address the parade, it will be reformed on the racetrack immediately in front of reviewing stand, immediately after the march past.

All ex-service men not physically incapacitated are expected to join in the parade, with the exception of those appointed to special duty by the National President.

Grand Stand

Tickets admitting holders to the grounds and to a seat in the grand stand, will be distributed to all branch secretaries by the provincial secretary, and to all ladies' auxiliaries by the provincial secretary of the Auxiliaries.

Ticket holders must be in the grand stand prior to 10.30 a.m., as the gates will be opened for standing room in front of the lawn until it is comfortably filled, punctually at 10.30 a.m.

Secretaries of local branches and auxiliaries should immediately advise the provincial secretary regarding the number of tickets required for the families of ex-service men attending the review, and every effort will be made to meet the requirements by return of mail.

As the supply of stand tickets is limited, care should be taken by all branch secretaries to ensure that the distribution be on as equitable a basis as possible, and all ex-service men should be requested to join in the parade, and leave the grand stand free for the relatives of ex-service men. Wherever possible, secretaries are requested to meet the demands of unattached veterans and relatives of deceased ex-service men who may make application for tickets.

Entertainment will be provided through the kindness of the Canadian National Exhibition Board in front of the grand stand from 9 a.m. until the arrival of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

Railway Rates

Efforts were made to obtain a rate of one cent per mile, but this was found impossible, but a reduced fare at a single rate, plus one-third is available.

Special space to the west of the saluting base has been reserved for veterans in hospitals, nursing sisters in uniform, severely incapacitated and elderly ex-service men. Tickets for this space can be obtained from C. J. Brown, 52 St. Albans Street, Toronto; telephone, Kingsdale 5997, who will also endeavor to provide transportation when necessary, if advised not later than August 26, or through the provincial secretary, who is in charge of the Toronto arrangements.

All members of the Legion and the unattached veterans intending to take part in this review are requested to communicate with S. Whatley, secretary of the local branch without delay, so that tickets may be pro-

Lindbergh Visits Home Town To-day

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., August 25. Canadian Press. — A blond-thatched lad flew into the dawn across the Atlantic, and to Paris, bringing the world to its feet, cheering, and giving Little Falls an undisputed right to be proud of itself.

To-day the blond-thatched and lanky frame of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh were coming back home—back to the place where he lived from time he was two years old until he was twenty and the home folks were ready with a welcome which only home folks can give.

Cosgrave Government Announces Election in September

MORE REPORTS OF LOSS COME ALONG COASTS

Severe Damage Done On Sea and On Shore During Storm.

LIVES LOST AT SEA.

BOSTON, August 26 (Canadian Press).—Seaports from Cape Cod to Newfoundland to-day awaited with trepidation further reports from their fishing fleets, which had already told of nine dead, four missing and many injured, with ships lost or broken by the force of a tropical hurricane which swept up the coast.

Severe damage to crops and highways was reported from land but the toll of life was exacted at sea. As the storm swept northward came reports first of the grounding of three yachts at Nantucket, then the grounding of one schooner and the dismantling of another off Cape Cod, three vessels and dozens of small craft wrecked in Nova Scotia, one sunk, six grounded, and two forced adrift at St. Pierre, Miquelon, with the storm still raging at St. John's, Newfoundland.

Nova Scotia felt the full fury of the storm and the damage there was estimated at more than a million dollars. The Dominion Atlantic Railway reported twenty-two washouts between Halifax and Yarmouth alone, while the highways in some sections were eight feet under water.

Huge Wave Caused.

CURLING, Nfld., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—A ninety-mile gale swept a tidal wave up Humber Arm, the bay at the mouth of the Humber River in Western Newfoundland, in the course of the storm which raged all over the island yesterday. One life was lost and extensive damage was done.

COMMUNICATION RESTORED.

HALIFAX, N.S., August 26 (Canadian Press). — The lines of communication thrown into untold confusion when Wednesday night's gale and rain storm suddenly swept over the province, destroying light and communication facilities, levelling crops and wrecking shipping, wiping out the lives of at least nine people, were being slowly restored to-day, but reports from outlying districts were still meagre and the whole story of the devastation following the worst storm experienced in Nova Scotia in

RESUME SITTINGS OF ROYAL BOARD

Preparations Under Way For Re-opening of Session at Oshawa.

OTTAWA, Ont., August 26. Canadian Press. — Preparations are now under way for the re-opening of sittings of the Royal Customs Commissions here. The Ottawa sittings, which will open early in September, will conclude a period of investigation of approximately eight months by royal commission into the administration of the customs department, the operations of the anti-smuggling treaty, the transactions of breweries and distilleries in Canada, and other matters coming within the scope of the Department of National Revenue. The sittings at Ottawa will put the finishing touches on a number of cases which were looked into while the commission was on the road.

Departmental officials will probably be asked to explain why Ottawa gave instructions to do this or to do that, wh. there were delays in making important decisions, and, generally speaking, to tie up the loose threads which were left from the outside sittings. It is anticipated that two weeks will be required to finish up here.

The Ottawa sittings will be followed by preparation of a report for submission to the government and to parliament. That this report will contain imporfant recommendations, possibly involving drastic changes in departmental procedure, is to be expected. Improvement of the appraisal system at various ports in Canada, more rigid inspection of persons crossing the line between Canada and the United States, at international bridges and ferries, possibly a decrease in number of customs ports and outports in the Dominion, may be matter for recommendation. There are numerous other points which may be taken up.

About the end of this month, the commissioners will pay a visit to Washington, where they will discuss with United States officials the operation of the anti-smuggling treaty between Canada and the United States. Some amendments to the treaty may eventuate from the evidence which the commission's investigation has adduced.

Four Lose Lives In Schooner Wreck

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.)— Meagre advices received from Sydney, N.S., early last evening stated that four persons had been drowned and two saved in a schooner wreck at Gabarush. Owing to the disruption of communication occasioned by Wednesday night's storm, news of the damage done in Cape Breton did not reach here until last night. Sydney's telephone and telegraph service with the mainland and Cape Breton centre was cut off for fourteen hours.

Shipping suffered mostly on the island. Sixteen small fishing boats sunk in Louisburg Harbor, and the tug Ida Lou and five small fishing craft were either sunk or ashore at North Sydney. Several yachts also foundered or went aground at Maddeck. The schooner Ella Deveaux sunk at its wharf in Sydney Harbor. A large warehouse at Sydney was lifted by the wind and carried 300 feet.

LONE AVIATOR SOARS SOUTH ON RECORD HOP

Paul Redfern Wings His Way Over Atlantic on Non-Stop Flight.

MAKES FALSE START.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Alone in his monoplane, Paul Redfern was roaring south over the Atlantic last night on the first non-stop pan-American flight ever attempted.

Taking off from Glynn Isle Beach at 12.46 o'clock, Eastern standard time, yesterday afternoon, the "Port of Brunswick" went winging toward the West Indies. Porto Rico, 1,200 miles away, is the first land on the route.

Beyond wind-swept seas and impenetrable jungle masses, the lone flier hopes to reach his goal—Rio de Janeiro—on a flight that, if attained, will mean new world records for endurance and distance.

Makes False Start

"God willing, I am going to Rio," said the son of the President of Benedict College, as he waved his hand in farewell. After a first false start the plane was hauled higher on the beach and straightened out. For more than half a mile it taxied down the beach. Then the heavily-laden ship rose slowly and with a roar turned seaward — South America bound.

To the throng their "Ambassador to Brazil" was on his way. But to the sobbing young wife, her husband had gone down to sea and a long and anxious vigil had begun. She had fought back her tears but now that he could not see them, what did it matter if she cried?

Visibility was not good over the ocean and the some three thousand spectators strained their eyes as the silvery plane became a speck on the horizon, then disappeared.

Given Definite Instructions

Paul Varner, chairman of the flight committee, said Redfern had been given definite instructions.

"If you find conditions bad after striking the South American mainland, follow the coast to Para," Varner told the pilot. "If moderate conditions prevail and you think it advisable, swing inland and try for Pernambuco. Or if everything is fine and you are still confident you can, make Rio. God be with you."

"If I should be forced down in the Amazon Valley," he said, "I believe I can live almost indefinitely with what equipment I am carrying. I have emergency food rations to subsist for at least two weeks. And after that I will have found means by which to carry on."

"With my collapsible rifle, which also shoots .410 calibre shotgun shells, I can bring down enough small game to satisfy my needs for quite a period and I also understand that tropical fruits and vegetables abound throughout the territory. Therefore, unless I come down before passing into the interior of South America, don't lose hope of my return for at least six months or more."

DEATH LIST NOW 21.

Thirty Others Injured in Railway Wreck at Chamonix.

CHAMONIX, France, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—The death list of the Montenvers rail wreck last night in which a crowded car on the Cog Railway tumbled into a deep ravine, to-day stood at twenty-one dead and thirty injured.

DETROIT PLANE GETS AWAY TO STARTING POINT

HOPES TO START TO-DAY.

Wind Prevents Start of New York-Rome Non-Stop Flight.

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, August 26 (Canadian Press). — The monoplane "Pride of Detroit" hopped off at 5.25 (eastern daylight time) this morning for Harbor Grace, Nfld., where the start of the attempt at a new world circling record will be made.

COURTNEY TO TRY AGAIN.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, August 26 (Canadian Press). — Mechanics worked all through the night drawing oil from Captain F. T. Courtney's flying boat Whale, and making a thorough structural examination of the flying boat, whose heavy fuel load has balked several attempts to get her into the air. It was stated at Captain Courtney's camp to-day that another attempt will be made to start the trans-Atlantic flight to America not later than six o'clock to-night.

WIND DELAYS FLIGHT.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, August 26 (Canadian Press). — The monoplane "Old Glory," loaded and fueled, perched at the runway top to-day, earth-bound by a fresh east wind that definitely precluded a take-off on a non-stop flight for Rome. The hop off is set for the first moment between ten in the morning and seven in the evening that wind and other atmospheric conditions are favourable.

REDFERN KEEPS SILENCE.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., August 26 (Canadian Press).—The vast expanse of sea and sky stretching away to the tropics to-day held behind its walls of silence the fate of its newest explorer. Roaring away from Brunswick at noon yesterday in the face of unusually favourable weather conditions, Paul Redfern, Georgia aviator, piloted his huge Stinson Detroiter monoplane seaward on a proposed 4,600-mile non-stop journey to Rio de Janeiro. He sought to establish new endurance and distance marks.

Despite head winds, Redfern today should be far along on his route through the tropics, steering a course east of the Bahamas. The young birdman is headed for Porto Rico, which his schedule indicated he should have reached by midnight. Pressing on, Redfern hoped to be speeding during the day over the waters of the Caribbean Sea toward the Isle of Trinidad. The daring birdman had not been heard of since the plane winged its way out over the Atlantic.

J. H. CALLANDER SHOW DIRECTOR

Elected To Office At Annual Meeting of Gladiolus Society.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 26.—The flower show of the Hamilton Horticultural Society and the Canadian Gladioli Society came to a close last night in the Memorial School, when another capacity crowd turned out to see the wonderful display of bloom. The Gladioli Society held its annual meeting in connection with the show and elected officers as follows: Honorary President, J. W. Crow, Simcoe; President, F. W. Warren, Hamilton; 1st Vice-President, W. C. Glaspell, Galt; 2nd Vice-President, F. W. Sutcliffe, Lindsay; Directors, Mrs. G. A. Bonisteel, Belleville; J. B. Spencer, Ottawa; J. F. Marr, Guelph; Prof. H. Schmidt, Regina; Dr. Allan Adams, Toronto; R. L. James, Mount Pleasant; T. J. Hannigan, Guelph; J. H. Callander, Peterborough; William Harris, Rockwood; H. Thomasson, Hamilton; Mrs. E. Schumacher, Hamilton, secretary-treasurer. The next annual show will be held in Lindsay on August 22 and 23.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer was down to 42° this morning, and white frost was visible in some places. Highest point yesterday 75°. The recent showers have greatly revived the parched grass, which was becoming much browned. Frequently during the last week in August we have our first severe frost—severe enough to blacken the tomato plants and cucumber vines, as well as the more tender flowers. If Jack Frost overlooks us this week, his next visit is not due until about the end of September.—W. P.

FREE METHODIST CONFERENCE IS BEING HELD AT WARKWORTH

Many Ministers and Delegates Attend Eastern Ontario Sessions.

BISHOP PRESIDING.

Preaches Very Instructive Sermon—Business Session To-morrow.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 26. — The first sitting of the Eastern Ontario conference of the Free Methodist Church of Canada was held in the church at Warkworth at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Bishop William Pearce of Evanston, Ill., opened the meeting, the secretary, Rev. A. F. Dawe of Warkworth, and the assistant secretary, the Rev. A. F. Ball, of Kingston, being present. The most important feature of this sitting was the election of the stationing committee, namely: William Goodbury, Verona; George Hughes, Picton, and William Wrightman, Newmarket. Rev. T. L. Fletcher and Rev. Philo Chase of Saskatchewan were received into this conference.

The following are the names of ordained ministers of the conference present at the opening session. Besides these, a number of student ministers and delegates were present: Bishop William Pearce, Evanston, Ill.; Rev. F. A. Dawe, Warkworth; Rev. A. F. Ball, Kingston; Rev. A. Sims, Toronto; Rev. R. Burnham, Kingston; Rev. E. Snyder, Uxbridge; Rev. C. Goodrich, Marmora; Rev. W. V. Uxbridge, Toronto; Rev. B. L. Gunter, Gunter, Ontario; Rev. E. J. Lee, Kingston; Rev. R. Bloye, Bracebridge; Rev. C. V. Fairburn, Kingston; Rev. W. P. Gregory, Toronto; Rev. E. A. Mitchell, Newmarket; Rev. J. S. Gregory, principal, Lorne Park College, Port Credit; Rev. R. Babcock, Frankford; Rev. P. L. Crowder, Holt; Rev. J. W. Potter, Cordova; Rev. N. F. Perry, Westport; Rev. Frank Loft, Peterboro; Rev. J. W. Corry, Picton; Rev. B. E. Stevenson, Balhaven; Rev. F. L. Fletcher, Saskatchewan; Rev. Philo Chase, Saskatchewan; Rev. J. W. Peach, Western Ontario Conference.

In the evening the Bishop preached a very interesting and instructive sermon to a large audience in the Town Hall.

On Thursday the meeting was called at 8.30 a.m., with twenty-five ministers and twenty-six delegates within the bar of the conference. The special order was the election of district elders and balloting for the same. Rev. E. J. Lee, Rev. W. H. Gregory and Rev. F. A. Dawe were elected. The later is the present Warkworth pastor and Mr. Gregory a former pastor.

Reports were received from the following preachers on the condition of the work in their circuit: Rev. B. E. Stevenson, Rev. J. F. Gregory, Rev. F. A. Dawe, Rev. B. F. Griffith, Rev. W. H. Linstead, Rev. R. Bloye, Rev. I. M. Loucks, Rev. R. Babcock, Rev. W. W. Brown, Rev. H. J. Crowder, and Bishop Pearce.

The afternoon session was largely attended. Rev. B. F. Wartman of Corona preached. In the evening Rev. T. L. Fletcher of Saskatchewan preached, the service being held in the Town Hall. The business meeting today will be dealing with reports and resolutions.

SCHMIDT HANGED FOR KILLING WIFE

Asks Forgiveness As He Stands on the Gallows at Regina.

REGINA, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—Valentine Scmidt, sentenced to hang for the murder of his wife on December 28 last, was executed here to-day. Before he marched to the gallows Schmidt shook hands with the prison officials. On the scaffold he said he forgave all for everything that had transpired and asked forgiveness.

Courtney Makes Fresh Attempt This Morning

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Captain Frank T. Courtney, unsuccessful in another attempt last evening to start for the Azores in his flying boat the "Whale," en route to the United States at midnight jettisoned more gasoline in order to lighten his ship and definitely decided to make a fresh attempt about five o'clock this morning.

Captain Courtney made three attempts to get into the air, but the "Whale" merely kicked up spray and failed to rise. About 100 gallons of gasoline was thrown overboard in order to lighten the craft, but further attempts proved futile.

Almost perfect atmospheric conditions prevailed during yesterday's attempted hop-off. There was virtually no wind and the water was extremely smooth.

AMERICAN NAVY EXTEND SEARCH FOR THE FLIERS

Twenty-five Ships To Hunt South-west of Hawaii.

NO TRACE FOUND.

Announce Plans For Five-to-Six Days Prolongation of Search.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (United Press).—The United States Navy yesterday announced plans for a five to six-day prolongation of its Pacific-wide search for the seven missing Hawaii aviators.

More than 25 ships will participate in the continued search, which will be extended far to the south-west of the Island of Hawaii.

Admiral R. H. Jackson, battle-fleet commander, has ordered Admiral Luke McNamee, fleet destroyer chief, to take the light cruiser Omaha and six destroyers straight across the Pacific to Hawaii. The Omaha with six destroyers is now searching areas 500 to 600 miles out from San Francisco.

Rear-Admiral John D. McDonald, naval commandant at Honolulu, reported he would send the mine-sweepers Widgeon and Ortolan to search south-west of Hawaii for 520 miles.

The mine-sweeper Pelican and the tug Sunnadin will search near the islands north-west of the sland of Kaui, of the Hawaiian group, as far as French Frigate shoal. Eight submarines, now stationed at Pearl Harbor, will cover the area south-south-west from Pearl Harbor for 300 miles.

Prepare Price Lists For New Brunswick

FREDERICTON, N.B., August 26 (Canadian Press). — The price lists of the liquors which will be sold by the retail stores of the New Brunswick Liquor Control Board are now being prepared according to the statement made by E. G. Fulton, chairman of the Board. Reductions varying from 5 to 10 per cent. from prices which have been current are to be made.

VISITING BOY BADLY HURT

OPERATION NEEDED.

Falling from a tree at Bear's Creek, two miles out of the city, Neil Chavigny, the nine-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. C. Chavigny of New Orleans, is in Nicholls Hospital suffering from a flesh wound in the head.

Accompanied by his elder brother Charles, two sons of Dr. A. W. McPherson, Billy and Doug., and Nelson Stanger, young Chavigny went on a scouting expedition to the creek, travelling by way of the old railway track. Shortly after arriving at the creek, he climbed a fairly high tree, and in trying to seat himself comfortably on one of the branches, he lost his balance and fell to the ground. He was picked up, bleeding profusely, by his brother, who instantly 'phoned to Peterborough and got in touch with Dr. H. M. Yelland. Dr. Yelland, on examining the wound, found that the boy was suffering from decompression of the brain and after giving him some first aid treatment, hurried him to Nicholls Hospital, where he performed an operation on the head.

Dr. Chavigny is a member of one of the most ancient families in France, and is descended from some of the most prominent leaders of society in the days of the French regime in Louisiana. He has rented a house on McDonnel Street for the holiday season.

BOY BITTEN BY RATTLESNAKE

Trying To Break Reptile's Neck By Snapping Like Whip.

AT PORT COLBORNE.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., August 26. — In an attempt to pick up a rattlesnake by its tail here at noon on Wednsday, John Haun, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haun, received a bad bite on the hand.

Haun and some of his chums got the rattler when picking berries in the marsh and carried it on a forked stick to the home of one of the lads. From what can be gathered, young Haun was trying to catch the snake by the tail and to break its neck by snapping it like a whip. He was rushed to the office of Dr. G. N. Black of Humberstone, where he was treated for the wound. Dr. Black states that Haun was very fortunate and would soon be none the worse for his experience. Haun's hand is badly swollen.

This is the first rattlesnake bite known in this section though it is common knowledge that the marsh through which the new Welland Canal is dug harbors a large number of the reptiles.

ISSUE PROCLAMATION CALLING FOR IMMEDIATE DISSOLUTION OF FREE STATE LEGISLATURE

Council To Take Advantage of Present Favorable Situation.

WIN BY-ELECTIONS.

Prevent Republican Rally From Weak Position Shown in Elections.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Swiftly following two great election victories, the Cosgrave Government yesterday threw a bombshell into the political situation in the shape of a proclamation calling for the immediate dissolution of the Free State Legislature and for a general election which will be held about the middle of September.

As soon as the results of the election had staked its existence were known, the Executive Council met and decided to take full advantage of the present favorable situation for the Government and advised Governor-General Healy to proclaim dissolution of the present Dail Eireann.

This course, which caused tremendous surprise in political circles, it is felt will prevent a Republican rally from the weak position shown by yesterday's polling figures in the two by-elections in Dublin County held Wednesday. There had been some doubts about the legality of the Government's course, since it was generally believed that the Government would require the assent of the Dail to justify dissolution, but it is assumed that the Ministers have taken legal advice on their constitutional position.

Showed Overwhelming Defeat.

The results of Wednesday's by-elections to fill the vacancies caused by the deaths of Vice-President Kevin O'Higgins and the Countess Marcievicz, showed that an overwhelming defeat had been inflicted upon the Republican party. Gerald O'Sullivan, running to fill the vacancy caused by the assassination of Vice-President O'Higgins, captured the seat for the Government party by a plurality of more than 22,000, polling 31,966 votes to 16,126 for Robert Brennan, De Valera candidate, and 1,332 for Dr. Kathleen Lynn, Sinn Fein candidate.

In the other by-election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Countess Marcievicz, the Government victory was not so overwhelming. Dr. Thomas Hennessey, the Government candidate, received 24,139 votes; R. Briscoe, of Fianna Fail, the De Valera Republican group, polled 18,647, and Charles Murphy, Sinn Fein, 1,119.

That the Republicans would suffer a reverse as a re-action against the assassination of Vice-President O'Higgins had been fully expected, but that they would be so completely snowed under caused astonishment. Mr. O'Sullivan, after the declaration of the polls, said:

"It was not a personal victory, but a victory for President Cosgrave and his Government and for law, order and stability."

Government supporters last night said that large as their pluralities were, they would have been still larger if it had not been for the absence of many Dubliners who are now on holidays and normally support the Government party.

Fifteen Are Killed When Train Derailed

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Chamonix despatches to the Daily Mail report that 15 people were killed and 70 injured in the wreck of the Montenvers mountain railway train descending to Chamonix which plunged into a ravine late yesterday.

No English had been identified among the victims at the time of the filing of the despatch late last night. Many Dutch tourists were aboard the train. Rescue work was extremely difficult because no road runs to the place where the accident occurred.

The bodies of children could be seen among those in the wreckage, said the despatch. The Hotel Mer De Glace was crowded with the seriously injured. Several injured were taken to Chamonix where doctors performed operations.

A pouring rain hindered the work of rescuers, the despatch said, adding that the train was the last descending one of the day. The exact time of the accident was indicated by the watch of one of the victims, which stopped at 6.09 p.m. The train failed to take a curve when the brakes did not hold, and one car fell about 200 feet, the despatch said.

BRITAIN FIRM IN DEMANDING WITHDRAWAL

Says France's Security Assured By Locarno Pact, Not By Troops.

BRIAND IS ILL.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (United Press). —The British Government is taking a firm line in the controversy with France regarding reduction in the occupation troops in the Rhineland, the British United Press understands.

It wants a substantial proportionate reduction in the troops of all countries and refuses to agree that the occupation has anything to do with France's security because that is covered by the Locarno pact, and the presence of troops is only necessary to ensure reparation payments.

All this was placed before the Cabinet yesterday, and officials are still maintaining the British position.

It is hinted that the illness of Foreign Minister Briand is giving Premier Poincaire a chance to direct France's foreign policy far more than before, and that Briand's Locarno spirit is slowly evaporating under the vigorous anti-German mentality of Poincaire.

SLAVERY FOUND IN SIERRA LEONE

TAKEN UP IN HOUSE.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (United Press). —Sir John Simon and other Liberals are determined to insist upon a probe into the existence of slavery in the British colony of Sierra Leone.

Judges of the Supreme Court there recently decided "that a fugitive slave can be recaptured by use of reasonable force," and the revelation that slavery still exists under the British flag has caused much astonishment here.

The matter will be ventilated in the House of Commons and it is likely that the Privy Council will be requested to give a decision on the case, and the Government asked to intervene and abolish this remnant of slavery.

WIFE WAITED 38 YEARS.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan.— Thirty eight years is long enough to wait for one's husband to come home, so said Mrs. Etta Warner when she appeared in court to ask for a divorce. She said John A. Warner left her and their ten children in 1889 and now she has decided he never intends to return.

EIGHT PERSONS LOSE LIVES DURING NOVA SCOTIA STORM

Disruption of Communications Throughout Province Delays Reports of Destruction.

TRAFFIC HELD UP.

Untold Damage To Shipping Craft—Many Small Vessels Destroyed.

HALIFAX, N.S., August 26 (Canadian Press). — Eight deaths, untold damage to shipping, with dozens of small craft smashed to pieces or sunk, disruption of communication throughout the province, trains and highways traffic held up by washouts in railways, tracks, and roads, and damage to crops, buildings and divers other objects of its wrath — these were the outstanding features of one of the worst storms in the history of Nova Scotia, full details of which, because of the lifeless telephone and telegraph wires, were unknown here early last night, twenty-four hours after the gale broke.

With the discovery of their badly battered boat on the rocks at Digby, no hope was held out for the safety of Warren Ossinger and his son Kenneth, who were on the fishing grounds on Wednesday when the storm reached that vicinity, and were swamped by heavy seas before they could make shore. Stafford Rice was also believed lost when long after the gale was over no sign could be seen of the boat he was operating.

No details have been received of the four deaths, which are reported to have occurred when an unknown schooner was wrecked at Cadarus, Cape Breton.

Small Boats Destroyed.

More than a score of small boats are known to have sunk off Cape Breton. Sixteen fishing vessels went down in Louisburg Harbour, while five others either sank or went ashore at North Sydney. The schooner Ella Deveaux was sunk at its wharf in Sydney Harbour, and several yachts foundered or went aground at Baddson.

The coast along Digby County also was a scene of havoc. Fishing boats were forced to abandon their gear, and one yacht owned by James Merkel, of Digby, drifted ashore and became a total wreck.

Halifax city and harbour received the full force of the tempest. The schooners J. C. Weston ,of Calais, Maine, and Clementia, of Halifax, piled up on the shore, and the four-masted vessel Veronica dragged her anchors and crashed into the schooner M. H. Eastwood. Fourteen or more motor boats were smashed into matchwood.

Trees Uprooted.

Uprooted trees, broken windows, and debris throughout the city bore testimony yesterday morning to the strength of the wind. A travelling circus which was parked on the commons was wrecked, but the most serious result of the storm here, aside from the damage sustained by shipping, was the collapse of the huge steel crane at Pier No. 9. Fortunately no one was in its path when the massive structure tumbled over.

Train service over both the Canadian National Railway and Dominion Atlantic Railway systems was in most cases greatly impeded, and in many wholly paralyzed, due to numerous wash-outs.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island was cut off from communication with Halifax until around noon yesterday. Cape Breton remained isolated from here until shortly before three o'clock.

TOM M'INDOO PRIZE WINNER

GETS 94½ POINTS.

Thomas McIndoo.
W. A. Roseborough.
J. Gordon Mann and Son.
W. Steinkrauss.
W. Whittington.
Walter Brown.
I. Robson.

Mr. McIndoo, heading the list, was awarded 94½ points for his crop of Banner oats. Mr. Roseborough selected the variety known as Sensation. Messrs. Mann pinned their faith on Victory oats. The three competitors next in order grew Banner oats, while Mr. Robson chose Abundance.

In addition to the winners already named, under a ruling which permits those scoring 85 points and over to compete, Robert Armstrong will be eligible to show at the large exhibitions.

J. B. Kaye of Bracebridge was the judge.

STILL HUNT LOST TREASURE IN ROCKIES.

By NEA Service

The treasure is a large quantity of Scotch whisky imported by the Earl of Dunraven, English sportsman who once owned thousands of acres of land in what is now Estes Park, 75 miles west of Denver.

It was in the late 70's that Dunraven built a lodge for the great number of guests he was accustomed to bring from England to enjoy the hunting on his Colorado estate. Large quantities of liquor were imported each year and cached near the lodge. It was buried during the winter and recovered when the snows left the mountains.

In 1897 an unusually large quantity was buried by servants who unable to find it the following spring. It is this store that old-timers still are trying to discover.

STABS BIGGEST CATFISH

CRESCENT, Okla., Aug. 26.—An enormous catfish which high waters had left stranded in a pool near the Cimarron River near here, defied fisherman for two weeks. But a bather armed with a knife plunged in after it and stabbed it to death. The fish weighed 9 pounds, was 5 1-2 feet in length and had a head 18 ins. wide.

LANDS AT LONDON.

LONDON, Ont., August 26 (Canadian Press). — The Stinson monoplane, Sir John Carling, which will attempt a non-stop flight from London, Ont., to London, England, landed here at 5.45 last evening on its return trip from New York, where the instruments were given their final adjustment.

CAR CATCHES FIRE WHILE TRAVELLING

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 26.—Ross MacLaren, local insurance agent, barely escaped what might easily have been a serious accident. Mr. and Mrs. MacLaren, Mr. and Mrs. Dolman and daughter Betty, and W. Curtis of the Merchants Marine Insurance staff were motoring from Trent River late last night, after spending the evening at "Bonnie Bank." When about two miles from Trent River, Mr. MacLaren noticed considerable heat coming from under the seat. He stopped the car quickly and noticed fire coming from under the body. The other occupants got out quickly and began to empty the car of everything movable. With great presence of mind, Mr. MacLaren crawled under the car and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before serious damage was done.

The party arrived in town none the worse for their experience but with nerves still tense. The car is fully insured.

FLIERS PREPARE FOR OCEAN HOP

SCAN WEATHER REPORTS.

Paul A. Redfern, youthful Georgian was believed to be in the vicinity of Porto Rico at midnight on his almost arrow-straight 4,600 mile jump to Rio De Jeneiro. "God willing, I'm going to Rio," was his thrilling promise as he left ground at Glynn Island, Ga.

At Old Orchard, Me., Edward F. Schlee and William Brock regroomed their monoplane, "Pride of Detroit," preparatory to continuing to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, when they will "step off" for a world flight with London as the first port of call.

Deserted by the wind needed to raise its great bulk, the huge Fokker "Old Glory" lay on her runway at Curtiss Field, N.Y., ready-fuelled for a journey to Rome today, weather permitting.

"Duke" Schiller and Phil Wood of Detroit, also are at Curtiss Field preparing for a Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England trip.

The Stinson monoplane Sir John Carling returned last night to London, Ont., to complete preparations for a flight from that point to London, England.

On the other side of the Atlantic, Captain Frank T. Courtney worked late last night getting his flying boat "Whale" in shape for a take-off at dawn. Repeated efforts to rise from the water failing, Courtney ordered the gasoline supply drastically reduced to lighten the craft.

Other foreign fliers at half a dozen points scanned weather reports as a basis for new and renewed plans.

Flight Postponed.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., August 26 (Canadian Press). — A wind that died just when it was needed most yesterday caused another last minute postponement of the proposed flight to Rome of the monoplane, "Old Glory."

When weather conditions seemed to be shaping up satisfactorily noon, the great single motored Fokker was flown here from its Curtiss Field hangar by Floyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, its co-pilots.

The afternoon was spent in taking on fuel, and shortly before this was completed, the wind, a good west breeze, died almost to nothing.

Hope of a take-off survived until 7 o'clock, and then the flight was postponed.

A westerly breeze of at least 15 miles is necessary to lift the plane into the air.

A crowd of about 5,000 thronged the field all afternoon, waiting patiently for the thrill that never came.

When the postponement was announced Bertaud said that the take-off would be made as soon as conditions should become favourable between 10 o'clock in the morning and 7 at night.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Wheat was under steady selling pressure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. In the early dealing values slumped around 1¼c. Buying orders inspired a temporary mid-session rally but a belated wave of liquidations discounted the recovery. Prices were ½ to 5-8c. down at the finish, Oct. at $1.44¼; Dec. $1.40 7-8 and May, $1.45 1-8.

The ideal crop weather in the Canadian west was the principal factor in the downtrend.

A good volume of business was worked in rye on the coarse grain market. Prices advanced nearly two cents during the session, with demand keen. Oats were firm, while interest was lacking in the other commodities.

Justice Department Shows Clean Sheet

OTTAWA, Ont., August 26 (Canadian Press). — The Justice Department has no capital cases before it at present. It is seldom that there is a clean sheet, but that is the case just now. The Fall Court sittings will, however, probably provide further cases for the Justice Department and Cabinet to deal with.

DAWES RETURNS FROM NORTH

MANY STORIES OF OLD DAYS STILL TOLD IN FREDERICTON

"Pistols For Two; Coffee For One" Duelling Slogan.

IN GARRISON DAYS.

Great Extent of City Caused By Attempts To Suppress Practice.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Aug. 26—(By Canadian Press).—Away back in the good old days when Fredericton was a British army post and the Redcoats lent color to the streets of the little New Brunswick capital, the noble pastime of duelling was persistently and enthusiastically indulged in by the best regulated of families. The hills back of the city provided favorite meeting places for gentlemen who thirsted after each other's blood.

An interesting survival of that age of ready pistols is to be noted in the fact that the city limits extend far back into the hills, including, much farm and bush land. The limits were so extended by the civic authorities in a laudable effort to discourage the duelling habit. In this they were more or less successful, the gentry not appreciating a five-mile ride over bad roads as a preliminary to an affair of honor. Within the wide flung town limits they were of course liable to unwelcome interruption from the town constabulary—such as it was.

Though the custom of duelling died out in Fredericton a good century ago, old residents still remember talk of challenges and encounters and can point out spots on Maryland Hill where honor was vindicated in properly romantic style.

Of course the presence of officers of the regular army, for whom duelling still constituted an integral part of daily life in the early years of the nineteenth century, went far toward making the practice popular in Fredericton. It is also rumored that the dashing captains and subalterns played such havoc with the affections of civilians' wives that those with fair names to uphold were forced to oil up their pistols and send their friends to call at the officers' quarters or be for ever shamed.

Fortunately for the old families of the capital few of the meetings ended fatally. An exchange of shots was usually sufficient salve for wounded honor. Occasionally a gentleman was mysteriously confined to his house for a few weeks, to appear finally tastefully decorated with bandages, or the regimental surgeon was called upon to dig a bullet from the shoulder of some fire-eating captain, but for the most part the encounters were innocuous exhibitions, staged with all pomp and ceremony in the prevailing army style.

Not all were so fortunate in their issue, however. One which involved four of the leading families ended with one of the principals dead on the field of honor, a bullet imbedded in his brain, and the other, accompanied by two seconds, in full flight for the American border. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the missing duellist and his companions, but the affair was allowed to blow over and a few years later they returned and took up their old life. It was this tragedy which applied the final wet blanket to the revered tradition of "pistols for two —coffee for one" in Fredericton.

A memorable lawsuit fought out verbally in the Fredericton courthouse, resulted in two duels—the defendant challenging the complainant and counsel for each party staging a secondary event on their own. Whatever the result of the meeting at the bar of justice, those in the woods back of the town terminated without bloodshed.

WORK BEGUN ON STIRLING HALL

SACK OF SUGAR STOLEN.

STIRLING, Aug. 26.—Work on the new Community Hall and Opera House has begun in real earnest. The excavation for the foundation walls is completed and some of the forms for the cement work are in place. The gravel for the cement work is to be taken from Robert Christie's pit. He has been busy getting it ready for the hauling which is to begin soon.

Thieves Around.

Some petty thieving was done last Thursday night. A bag of sugar was taken from R. P. Coulter's back shop, and all the tools and a spare tire and rim from Mr. Harry Hulin's car which was standing in the shed at the rear of the store.

Thomas Montgomery, Reeve of the village, and A. E. Dobbie of the News-Argus were guests at Warden Harryett's banquet at Bancroft last Friday night.

THE EASIER WAY.

Fireman (to captain)—Please, sir, the schoolhouse is burning down, but we can't get up to the second floor without ladder.

Captain— That doesn't matter; you just wait 'till the second floor is burnt down and then you can get in. —Kikeriki, Vienna.

QUEBEC MISSES CANADIAN BOOKS

French Canadians Read Own Literature and English Books.

EVEN LEACOCK UNKNOWN.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 26.—(By The Canadian Press).—Why is it that the literature of English-speaking Canada is so little known to French-speaking Canadians? While the books of several of our leading authors have been translated into French and are widely read in Paris, they are practically unknown in the Province of Quebec.

Probably the principal reason for this ignorance lies in the fact that the universities and colleges of the oldest province entirely omit English-Canadian literature from their curricula. They provide comprehensive courses in English literature; French-Canadian writers receive due attention; but an important national body of novelists, poets and historians is ignored.

The French-Canadian collegian completes his education without having received any encouragement to read the novels of Sir Gilbert Parker, or the poems of Archibald Lampman, Charles G. D. Roberts, and Duncan Campbell Scott, — works which are innately Canadian and play an important part in interpreting the life of the nation. Though he will read some Canadian books in English, he will naturally turn with greatest pleasure to those published in his own language and the works of English-Canadians available to him in French will be pitifully few.

But if this student travel abroad, the situation will be very different. In Paris he will come upon French translations of several of these authors and will find that they are enjoying wide popularity.

Thus M. Laroche, who writes upon literary and artistic subjects for French-Canadian periodicals, remarked the other day that he never heard of Professor Stephen Leacock until he went to Paris. There he heard Leacock's nonsense books greatly praised, but it was not until he had read several of them in French that he learned that the author was one of his own countrymen. Yet he had been educated in the province in which Prof. Leacock resides.

A few of Sir Gilbert Parker's novels have undergone translation in France, but they have not reached the French-Canadian reader. Surely such stories as "The Seats of the Mighty", and "When Valmond Came to Pontiac," both of which portray in graphic manner of the early life of French Canada, would find a ready public if they were published in the Province of Quebec today in the French language.

Of recent years a number of books dealing with Canada's senior province have been published in English and have been read and appreciated in every province save that of which they treat. One of the most interesting of these is a collection of French-Canadian studies prepared by Frank Oliver Call which, it has been pointed out, would lend themselves readily to translation. It is suggested by M. Laroche that capable translations of such books would be welcomed by the French-Canadian reader.

OBITUARY.

MRS. A. L. ANDERSON.

STIRLING, Aug. 26.—Mrs. A. L. Anderson, who was staying at her daughter's cottage at Oak Lake, was suddenly stricken last Thursday morning. Having arisen in her usual health, she went to the door to open it, but fell and expired before medical aid could reach her.

Deceased was a sister of Mrs. E. B. Fralick, Belleville, and of the Misses Mary and Louise and Messrs. Alfred and Alex. Judd, of Stirling. She also leaves two sons and three daughters to mourn. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon at the Judd home here, the service being in charge of Rev. A. U. Reid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, burial being in Stirling Cemetery. The bearers were relatives of the deceased.

JAMES McCOMB.

STIRLING, Aug. 26.—An old resident of Rawdon Township in the person of Mr. James McComb passed away on Wednesday morning in his 82nd year. Mr. McComb was a member of Rawdon Council for a number of years, and also held the position of Deputy-Reeve. He was stricken with blindness a few years ago and had been in failing health since. Deceased was married three times, being survived by his third wife.

MR. WILLIAM CURTIS.

STIRLING, Aug. 26.—The funeral of Mr. William Curtis, a former resident of Rawdon, was held from Trenton last Monday, burial being at Hubble Hill Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE ASHLEY.

STIRLING, Aug. 26.—The funeral of Mrs. George Ashley, a former resident of Huntingdon Township, also took place on Monday from Belleville, burial being in Stirling Cemetery. Deceased was in her 86th year.

MRS. R. McKELVIE.

NORWOOD, Aug. 26.—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. R. McKelvie was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from her late residence, Colborne Street, Norwood. Many old friends and neighbors from far and near came to pay a last tribute of respect to the departed. The service was conducted by Rev. J. P. McLennan of the Baptist church, in the absence of the deceased's pastor, Rev. G. Atkins of the Presbyterian church. The floral tributes were numerous.

SUGGESTS $5 DIVORCE

CHICAGO, — With the Chicago divorce courts so crowded that investigation of the cases is impossible, Judge Joseph B. David suggests a law permitting divorces to anyone at a flat rate of $5. As it is to-day he says, "the man cheats the wief, the wife cheats the husband; they both cheat the children and conspire to cheat the judge. So why gum up the courts with fraudulent divorces."

PROMINENT ENGLISH JURISTS ATTEND ONTARIO BAR ASSOCIATION MEETING

The principal figure at the Ontario Bar Association's meeting is Lord Hewart, chief justice of England. With him is Lady Hewart and their daughter, Katharine. Another of England's legal fraternity is Sir Thomas Willes Chitty, who is accompanied by Lady Chitty. Sir Thomas, shown in his robes of office, recently resigned as king's remembrancer, an honor dating back to Henry Third. He was also senior master of the supreme court of England. Lord Hewart has been a journalist and member of parliament and is widely known for his wit. Above are shown, left to right, Lady Hewart, Lord Hewart and their daughter. R. R. HALL GIVES SPLENDID TALK ON TWO RACES

Improvement of Relations Central Theme of Address to Kiwanians.

POINTS OUT OBSTACLES.

Means of improving the relations between English and French Canadians were discussed to-day by R. R. Hall, K.C., the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club.

Commencing his speech, Mr. Hall deftly turned to account a pleasantry of J. A. McKone, presiding at the luncheon, who, referring to Mr. Hall's long term of service in public and political life, suggested that Mr. Hall was present at the Plains of Abraham when Wofe and Montcalm fought out their great struggle 150 years ago. To understand the obstacles to unity between English and French Canadians, said Mr. Hall, one had to go back to the Battle of the Plains of Abraham in 1759. Both leaders fell in the struggle. To-day a common monument is erected to their memory and the two races have common aspirations and future hopes for the growth of their common country. The cessation of Canada left Great Britain with fourteen colonies, thirteen English and one French, in North Amerca. Discontent arose among the colonists of both races and in a few short years the older colonies broke out in a rebellion. During the revolution the French, who so recently had been conquered remained loyal to the British Crown. This was attributed to the Quebec Act passed in 1774, which satisfied many French Canadian aspirations and laid the foundations of the Canada that was to be.

In the bitter hostilities and hatreds of war, the Loyalists were treated without consideration by the successful revolted colonies. Many of them, penniless and denied all rights, crossed Niagara and came into Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and Quebec and were treated with great hospitality by the French Canadians with whom they fought in former years. Between them, the two races tried to build up the new country. When war broke out in 1812 the U. S. troops invaded Canada and the French Canadians again remained loyal to the British Crown.

The British Canadians under Brock, fought the invaders, and the French under De Salaberry beat back the Americans, although outnumbered by four to one.

There were 60,00 French in Canada in 1759. To-day there are 250,000 in Ontario, and in the whole Dominion they form three-tenths of the population. The French-Canadian more than any others in Canada, remained on the soil.

As a means of encouraging interprovincial trade, Mr. Hall advocated the acquiring of greater knowledge of each other, and the creating of mutual confidence.

Education is another factor, not merely the education gained in public schools, but that which makes for knowledge and understanding of men. Knowledge of the two languages, thought Mr. Hall, is essential, both for understanding, and for greater commercial intercourse. There were more French in Lower Canada, who could speak English, than there were English in Ontario who could speak French.

There are 170,000,000 English-speaking people in the world. There are 70,000,000 French-speaking people. The population of countries speaking tongues kindred to French, such as Italian or Spanish ,is 125,000,000

Eighty-three per cent. of our commerce, is done with these English-speaking peoples. Our trade with France, Belgium and Spain is only 5 per cent. of the whole. Our ignorance of the languages of other nations is written right across the reports of our trade and commerce. Trade was impossible with countries like the South American republics until commercial houses trained men capable of speaking the language of the buyers.

Canada, declared Mr. Hall, ought to copy the ideal of Great Britain as shown in her granting of self government to South Africa, and the Australian states, rather than that of the Balkans. He heard Sir Wilfred Laurier, shortly before he passed from the stage, say in a speech: "Faith is better than force; hope is better than fear; and love is better than hate." If Canada proceeded along this path it would be found that the road to peace and prosperity was not so difficult to travel. Respect in the provinces for the rights of each other would be to their mutual advantage. If Ontario trusted Quebec and Quebec trusted Ontario these two would go out on the march of progress and be in the vanguard of movement wherever the Canadians' tongues were spoken.

The soloist of the day was Mrs. Willis Hohner, who sang "Roses of Picardy" and "The Piper of Love" in splendid voice.

The thanks of the club to speaker and singer were conveyed by Kiwanian Joseph Wearing. Mr. Hall, he said, was a living answer to Socialist propaganda, which said that a man should work only four hours a day. Mr. Hall would be found working in his office up to 11 and 12 at night. Mr. Hall was an outstanding figure. As a business man he had large investment in this city. As a politician he was one of those who stood by Sir Wilfred Laurier and spent between five and ten thousand dollars in fighting an election on behalf of Sir Wilfred's policies—for no other reason than those of principle — at a time when even many Liberals deserted Sir Wilfred. Mr. Hall never recovered any of that money, and to Mr. Wearing's personal knowledge never tried to get any of it back. Finally Mr. Hall as a lawyer could, if he had gone to Toronto, have climbed to the very front, and in a few years would have been earning $100,000 a year.

The boosters for the day were Kiwanians W. S. Merrill and John Meyers. Prize-winners were T. McGovern, John I. Allen, Dr. Frank Neal, J. John, Ivan Lillico, and J. A. McKone.

ONE OF TWO MAIN OBJECTS SECURED

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—The Canadian Good Roads Association, which will hold its fourteenth annual convention at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, Ont., on September 27th, 28th and 29th next, was organized in 1914 with two main objects—one being the carrying on of an educative campaign regarding the benefits of improved highways and the other the creating of a clearing house for the interchange of methods, experiences and ideas between road engineers, governmental and municipal officials, contractors, and members of the general public interested in the cause of good roads. The first purpose was achieved so successfully that today the necessity of modern highways is taken for granted, but in pursuing its second object the association finds the scope of its work and its influence broadening yearly. Its claim to be a none-partizan and non-commercial body, seeking only the advantage of the whole body of Canada's citizenry, has been so convincingly established that provincial premiers and highway ministers of all shades of politics occupy places on its directorate, take an active interest in its affairs and participate in its conventions and in the interprovincial conferences for highway departments heads and functionaries which are held periodically at the call of the association. At one of these gatherings no less than five of the nine provinces were represented by their premiers, while all nine had highway ministers, deputies or chief engineers present. Probably no other non-governmental body or non-political occasion has ever called together so many provincial dignitaries in one assemblage in the Dominion.

The present aims of the association were succinctly set forth at the Edmonton convention last year by Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Highways for Manitoba, now the honorary president. Mr. Clubb, in presenting his report as retiring president for 1925-26, concluded with the following words:

"After all, among the big things and the important things in our national life are those that are planned and executed by men of the various callings represented here. In the interests of our Association and of all Canada, I ask your continued cooperation and support for what I believe to be the ten essentials in creating a Dominion-wide co-ordinated and efficient system of local, provincial and national highways:

"1. The united participation of the provincial governments in the interprovincial conferences.

"2. The loyal service of the personnel of the various highways departments.

"3. A square deal from the contractor, in honest workmanship and complete fulfillment of obligations.

"4. A square deal from the machinery man, in quality and efficiency of product.

"5. A square deal from the supply men, in furnishing materials according to specifications or accepted standards.

"6. The application of sound economics in all highway plans and expenditures.

"7. The proper use of the highways by the travelling public.

"8. A renewal of federal financial assistance for provincial road construction.

"9. Sane and vigilant control of traffic by governing bodies, and stern enforcement of regulations and laws by the courts in the interests of public safety.

"10. Intelligent study of highway problems and a greater interest in all road matters by taxpayers and the public in general.

"The progress in road construction by the various Canadian provinces is especially worthy of mention. When our association first started, back in 1914, the total annual expenditures of all the provinces for the contruction and maintenance of roads and bridges amounted to less than $15,000,000, whereas, during the present year, the gross expenditures will amount to close on to $40,000,000. In making this comparison I do not wish to infer that we, as an association, take the whole credit for this; but I do feel that our organization has done its part in helping to bring about such a vast improvement in the highways of Canada as has taken place during the last decade."

A request addressed to the secretary-treasurer, Canadian Good Roads Association, New Birks Building, Montreal, will bring the tentative programme and other information regarding the approaching convention

CHOIR PICNIC HELD.

Mark Street Choristers Enjoy Boat Trip To Gore's Landing.

Ideal weather and a large, happy crowd combined to make Mark St. Church choir excursion to Gore's Landing yesterday afternoon the best in the choir's history from both financial and social points of view. Great credit is due to the committee and to Choirmaster V. Boorman who had arrangements in hand. As usual the unfailing courtesy of the officers and crew of the Stoney Lake added to the enjoyment of the picnickers. Community singing on the homeward trip was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Area Again Features Standard Mine Market

TORONTO, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Area was the active feature in a market that was firm despite occasional losses on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. In a turnover of well over a hundred thousand shares the Quebec stock reached 94 and at noon was at 87, a gain of 5½ points. Kirkland Lake firmed four at 192, Wright Hargreaves twenty at 695, and Central Manitoba one at 199.

Dome was one of the weaker issues with a loss of 40 at 7.75, while Hollinger receded 25 at 17.65. Amulet sold down nine at 523.

Investment Stocks Make Sharp Gains

TORONTO, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Sharp gains in Steel of Canada and other investment issues featured the active morning session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The active oil and liquor stocks were firm but made little headway Steel of Canada, however, in active dealings, gained almost six points at 165. Smelters was up three at 245 and Massey Harris, the active leader of the whole market, climbed 1⅞ at 38⅞. Brazilian gained two at 180½, and Bell Telephone one at 157.

Carling-led the breweries with a ⅜ gain at 29, Walker, in fewer dealings, gaining a half at 47½. Imperial Oil firmed an eighth at 43⅜.

Wheat Prices Firmer In Line With Liverpool

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).Better Liverpool cables than expected and scattered buying by houses with seaboard connections gave a lift to Chicago wheat values during the early trading today. Corn was affected by the action of wheat, but as profit-taking and local pressure developed, both grains suffered a setback. Opening ⅜c to 1c up, wheat later declined all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅜c higher and subsequently eased off with wheat. Oats sympathized with other cereals and provisions were firm in line with stronger hog values.

Opening prices were: Wheat, September 1.38¼, December 1.41⅝. Corn, September 1.10, December 1.14⅜. Oats, September 45⅝, December 49⅝.

Three Big Companies' Shares Hit High Marks

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—The establishment of new high records by United States Steel Common, General Motors, and General Electric featured the mixed price movement in today's stock market. Trading was again in large volume.

Publication of the pamphlet report of the General Motors Corporation showing record breaking earnings for the first six months and widespread circulation of private analyses and forecasts of that company's earnings and prospects stimulated the demand for the old stock, which advanced close to the 250 level. The new stock crossed 125. Despite predictions of a drop in the August unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, Steel Common advanced to a new peak at 141 on buying influenced by predictions of a quickening demand from the automotive industry when the uncertainty regarding the new Ford car is cleared up. The buying of General Electric was based, in part, on the expected retirement of the company's special stock. Violent advances took place in several specialties.

We have received the following from a Northern correspondent through Stobie Furlong & Co., A. C. Hawley, Peterborough:

KIRKLAND LAKE DISTRICT

Teck Hughes—A visit to this property shows the tuning up process of the second half of the first unit of the new mill continuing. It will be a few days yet before this half of the mill is run to capacity. At that time not only the above addition but the high grade 10 ton plant will be put into commission. It is the intention to run this latter plant to capacity on ore that will average in the neighbourhood of $100 per ton. The mine is well supplied with ore of such grade and its feeding to the 10 ton unit will assist the management in increasing extraction as well as in maintaining a uniform mill feed for the 300 ton plant. It is expected that the 300 ton unit will now be able to show an extraction of 95% of the total value in the ore. All equipment for handling the increased bullion production in the refinery is ready for operation and by the end of the present month we can expect a production of approximately $430,000 per month for a total of over $5,000,000 per year. Such production means an increase in dividends in the very near future.

The second 300 ton unit is well on the way, with the equipment ready to instal. This service was the first to intimate that this second 300 ton unit would be producing by the end of the present year. Indications based upon an inspection of the construction now under way are that this unit will be ready to operate well before the end of the present year. Its putting into commission means an increase in production of approximately $3,600,000 per year, for a grand total of at least eight and one half million dollars. Of this total production at least $5,000,000 per year will be profit. This is equivalent to 100% on the capitalization of the Company and gives some idea of what dividends may be expected, commencing early next year. A profit such as the above is sufficient to pay approximately 12% on shares selling at $8.50, the present price. This bears out our statement of some time ago to the effect that we looked for still further material appreciation in the shares of this Company.

The No. 3 vein system alone between the 13th and 16th levels should yield approximately $50,000,000. The shaft at present has reached the 19th level. The 19th level, however, is at a depth of only 2230 feet, while the management are prepared to go to at least 6000 feet provided the ore continues, and we see no reason to believe that it will not. With such tonnages and depths in view it is extremely risky to prognosticate as to the life and depth of the property.

Kirkland Lake Gold—The shaft from the 2475 foot level is well on the way and a station should be cut at the 2625 foot level within the next two weeks. The shaft will then be continued a further 150 feet. We feel that there is no doubt but that ore will be found over various lengths and widths as lower horizons are reached. What the importance of this ore will be is anybody's guess.

On the 2475 foot level a length of ore of approximately 425 feet has now been developed. This length is slightly over 100 feet longer than anything developed on the upper levels.

Exploration work is continuing as before on the upper levels of the property, with nothing of importance being located recently. This work is purely prospective, and we do not look for it to develop any ore of material importance.

HOPE TO SAVE MAN IN WELL TO-NIGHT

Workers Continue Efforts To Reach Entombed Man.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Although the feverish effort of the rescue party to reach Fred Lenneay, 37, of Auburn, has continued through the night, those directing the work have little hope of reaching him before six o'clock tonight. Ninety men are trying through a parallel excavation to reach the man who has been trapped in a forty-foot well since it caved in on him at 6.30 last night.

Lenneay is still alive, although he has grown considerably weaker through the night. Held by timber and earth in an upright position, he is unable to move. His head is protected so that he is able to breathe freely.

LAWN BOWLING

The annual doubles tournament of the Peterborough Bowling Club was held yesterday and was a great success. There were eighteen couples entered, and the tournament was conducted on the plus system.

The winners were:

J. Sedgewick and E. Wall—3 wins plus 21.

G. Coleman and E. Wilson — 3 wins plus 15.

M. B. Chenhall and J. McDonald —3 wins plus 14.

J. Bacon and A. Sorensen—2 wins plus 19.

The usual Friday tournament will be held to-night.

FRENCH CABINET PAYING HOMAGE

Visits "Eternal Flame," Desecrated By Communists in Rioting.

SOLDER'S TOMB.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(United Press.)—Premier Raymond Poincaire and the entire French cabinet arranged to go to the tomb of the unknown soldier at the Arc De Triomphe today to pay homage at the "Eternal Flame" which was desecrated by communists during Tuesday night's rioting.

MORE REPORTS OF LOSS COME

fifty-four years will not be told in its entirety for some days.

Death Toll Increased.

HALIFAX, August 26. Canadian Press. — The toll of known dead in the storm of Wednesday night was increased to ten when it became known to-day that the ten ton schooner Sligo, which was found awash off Prospect, this county, yesterday, with the drowned body of a boy in the forecastle, was manned only by the owner, Arthur Covey, and his fourteen year old son. It is presumed that the little craft was struck by the storm and capsized while making for shelter, and that the man was washed overboard while the boy was trapped in the forecastle.

Ships Report Storm.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. — Canadian Press. — Ocean liners arriving to-day report winds of from 80 to 100 miles an hour which churned the sea into 40 and 50 foot waves during the big blow which swept the Atlantic Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Toll of the Storm

HALIFAX, Aug. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Among the known marine casualties in Wednesday night's storm were the following:

Schooner Stanley Hurley, wrecked on reef near Cape Breton. Capt. Lemoine, two young sons, and William Bonner, North Sydenl, drowned. Two others carried ashore on wreckage and saved.

Stanford Pyne, Digby, drowned when dory capsized.

Schooner Sligo drifted ashore. Captain and son drowned.

Schooner Ella Deveaux sank at moorings in Sydney Harbor and Coaster Steamer McHenry broke from moorings and piled on the beach.

Two schooners piled up at Halifax Harbor, but may be refloated.

Schooner John Cooney went ashore off Louisburg, Cape Breton. Crew was saved but vessel is total loss.

When a cook in Paris was so injured in an accident that she lost her sense of smell, a jury awarded her $800 damages.

Delegate To Bar Association Says There Are Many Talented Men.

OPPOSES INCREASE.

TORONTO, Ont., August 26 (Canadian Press). — F. T. Condon, Yukon delegate to the Canadian Bar Association's meeting threw a bombshell into the deliberations of the Association, which were presided over by the Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., today.

"If every judge in the Dominion should resign there would be no difficulty in filling every position in the country with men of just as much talent and ability," he declared. "There is no reason why the Bar should yearly burden itself with such unpopular topics as bringing back titles, as suggested by W. N. Ponton, of Belleville, or raising judges' salaries, as suggested in committee," he went on.

The question of higher salaries for judges has been much discussed at the present gathering, and Mr. Condon's opposition was much more outspoken than the opinion expressed by Sir Robert Borden yesterday.

LICENSES FOR RADIO MAKERS

Those most familiar with conditions in the radio industry express the opinion that the issuance of licenses to responsible radio manufacturers will do much to clarify conditions in the industry, and eventually result in better merchandise and better prices.

The chaotic patent situation that has existed since radio attained a position of importance has not been conductive to sound progress. With this situation satisfactorily settled radio will really come into its own.

The Canadian license covers the numerous patents originally owned by the Canadian General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Company, De Forest, Marconi, Northern Electric Company and the Standard Radio Company, and covers practically every phase of radio receiver construction.

It is worthy of note that the first Canadian license to be issued was granted to King Quality Products, Ltd., Bridgeburg, Ontario.

TOO MUCH TERRITORY.

The patrolling of 105 miles of highway in this district is the duty assigned to one highway traffic officer, who is responsible for checking speeding, wild and reckless driving and other infractions of the Traffic Act on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway, the Peterborough-Lindsay highway and the Lindsay-Whitby road.

This officer, who is making Peterborough his headquarters, is doubtless an efficient and reliable official who will do his utmost to ensure safer driving conditions.

If all the members of Ontario's traffic squad are assigned beats of this length it will be a long time before all the wild drivers and the motorists who defy the law in the matter of glaring headlights and the violation of other regulations are brought to account.

From all parts of Ontario newspapers are demanding a more rigid enforcement of the traffic laws in the hope that the sickening record of motor disasters will be materially reduced.

But, will Hon. Geo. S. Henry please explain how there can be any real law enforcement when traffic officers are expected to look after a hundred miles of roadway?

SIGNS NOT ENOUGH.

Two signs have recently been erected by the Ontario Motor League, on George street at Murray street and between London and McDonnel streets, warning motorists that there are schools in the vicinity and advising them to drive slowly.

Both the warning and the advice were very badly needed.

Unfortunately, however, there is little indication as yet that the signs are having much effect.

It may be that many motorists drive past them so fast that they have not had a chance to read the warning.

Possibly a Police Court summons that could be read quietly at home might be a more direct and a more effective means of conveying the lesson.

Certainly something will have to be done to curb that portion of the motoring public which chooses to regard this and other Peterborough streets as speedways.

There is altogether too much fast driving at points where such driving is dangerous, and while warning signs may do something to bring about better conditions, it is evident that the evil will not be definitely checked until firmer methods have been called into play.

MORE SIR HENRYS NEEDED.

Sir Henry Thornton's tribute to the press of Canada is a refreshing novelty, especially to newspaper staffs, quite accustomed to comments of an entirely different nature from many people not nearly so big as Sir Henry.

"It is my honest opinion," declared the head of Canada's National Railways in an address at Winnipeg, "that no country has a more courageous, a cleaner, a fairer, more honest press than the Dominion of Canada."

Sir Henry has not been especially favoured by Canadian newspapers—in fact, he has been singled out for a good deal of criticism by more than one journal in this country.

But, as The Montreal Star puts it, "he is a man who can give and receive hard knocks without any feeling of animus."

He is big enough to be fair, and so he ignores the criticism to pay a tribute to the general tone of fairness that he finds in the newspapers of Canada.

Unfortunately, there are too few Sir Henry Thorntons and too many smaller people who, despite all the favours they may have received from newspapers, are prepared at the first hint of criticism of some policy or cause in which they are interested to forget all the good things and to condemn as unfair and unreliable the journal that happens to offend.

ONTARIO'S MINERAL WEALTH.

The opening of the important Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress in Toronto happily coincided with an announcement of great interest from Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario's Minister of Mines, to the effect that the mineral output of the Province for the first half of the present year shows an increase of $2,500,000 over the record set for the first six months of 1926.

The Minister's statement will undoubtedly attract the attention of delegates to the Congress, who will find in it very cogent reasons why Canada's mineral wealth should be developed as far as possible by Empire capital.

We ourselves, residents of Ontario, scarcely realize the extent of our mineral resources or the opportunities for development that exist in the Province, as well as the chances that are offered for a profitable employment of capital.

One financial writer declares that there are opportunities in Northern Canada "sufficient to challenge prospecting efforts for the next two centuries."

Mr. Ontario Man, did you ever stop to think that Canada enjoys practically a world monopoly in nickel and asbestos, and that she already stands third in the list of the world's gold-producing countries, with excellent prospects of capturing second place before many years have gone?

And that it is the resources of your own Province that make this showing possible.

Ontario, you should know, produces 90 per cent. of the world's nickel.

Ontario is the third largest gold producer in the world.

Ontario has produced 374 million ounces of silver in 22 years.

Ontario's metal production to the end of 1926 had reached the stupendous total of $882,343,799, including gold to the value of $215,367,290, nickel worth $227,916,520 and silver $233,953,244.

The first six months of 1927, Hon. Mr. McCrea is able to announce, shows a gold production of $15,824,821, a new high record, almost a quarter of a million dollar increase over the total produced during the corresponding period of last year.

Empire delegates to the Mining Congress will undoubtedly be impressed by these records, which indicate the vast possibilities of mining development in the wonderland of Northern Ontario.

DISCHARGED PATIENTS.

The decision of the Provincial Government to discharge a number of aged patients from the Ontario hospitals for the insane creates a serious problem for municipal authorities. As regards the situation in Hamilton, which is particularly hard hit by the suggested change, it means that about thirty former inmates of the local institution will become a charge on the city's resources. The difficulty is aggravated by reason of the fact that there is no suitable accommodation available for their reception. They are, for the most part, without relatives or friends and have no prospect of finding a home without the assistance of the city. Some of them have attained extreme old age, having passed the greater part of their lives in the Ontario hospital. It seems callous to impose so drastic a change on those infirm old people, who have known no other home for many decades than the institution from which they will be abruptly turned out.

The Government itself admits the difficulties involved, and will no doubt give a sympathetic hearing to the representations to be made by a local deputation which will wait upon Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary, this afternoon. It is felt that the Government should accept the responsibility for providing for these displaced patients and that they should not be made a charge upon the municipality. If it is deemed proper to remove them from the category of insane patients, they could be accommodated in a separate building at the Ontario hospital. On economic and humanitarian grounds, the Government should be willing to show a generous disposition in finding an equitable solution of the problem.—Hamilton Spectator.

AUTO CONTROL.

The Toronto Globe is carrying on a vigorous campaign against reckless and speedy auto drivers. It is all too true that the death toll is appalling, and more stringent means should be adopted to control it, but what form should these restrictions take?

Thirty-five miles per hour for a good car, if carefully driven, is not a dangerous speed. The difficulty, however, is that the Smart Alex driver refuses to adhere to even an approximation of the speed permitted by law, but insists on tearing over the roads at a much higher rate of speed. There are drivers who can handle a car at a speed in excess of the legal limit in Ontario, but when these are allowed to break the law, drivers less competent presume to do the same thing, with serious, often fatal, results. The highway is the scene every day of not a few hairbreadth escapes, the situation being saved only because one driver in each case has sufficient brains and presence of mind to guard against what some other driver who is foolish or drunk, or both, may do. Reckless rounding of curves at an excessive rate of speed is a very dangerous practice, and it is most difficult for even the steadiest of drivers to protect themselves against such devilry. Seldom is speed the result of necessity, but is rather indulged in because some silly owner or driver wants to be in a position to boast that he has "done" a stated distance in record time. Not infrequently silly boys, desirous of showing off a bit before others, "hit it up" to the danger limit. Alas, too, lady drivers have been known to drive in a most reckless and dangerous manner. Country driving is enjoyable and health-giving, and the law as to speed limit should be rigorously enforced, in order to impress drivers with respect for the law. It is safe to estimate that at least seventy per cent. of the autos driving on the Provincial highway travel faster at times than thirty-five miles an hour. True, many drivers can go at this clip with safety to their own party and to others, but in order that the public may be protected against the reckless and incompetent drivers, the law should be enforced. Few serious accidents occur except through the carelessness, stupidity or recklessness of some driver or pedestrian. Occasionally there is an accident in which no person appears at fault, but these are few. If all people had brains in their heads and no booze in their stomachs, the list of auto accidents would be small.

It is easier to drive on Fifth avenue, New York, than to work one's way along King street, Brockville. One of these days some driver who is driving in a perfectly legitimate way will bang into a car that is turning out from the curb without warning of any kind. It is a marvel that a greater number of accidents do not occur on account of the neglect of drivers stopping or turning out for the curb giving any indication whatever of their intention.

A strict enforcement of the laws now on the statute books would result in a marked diminution in the number of accidents.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Over four hundred swimmers will start in the Toronto marathon. And most of them will be out of the race an hour afterward.

Premier Baldwin, back home in England, says that he was impressed with the bigness of Canada. And Canadians, it might be said in return, were impressed with the same quality in Mr. Baldwin.

The hit-and-run driver should be put in a place where there is no room to "step on the gas."

The North Huron by-election will at least serve to give the voters of that constituency a chance to inspect members of the Dominion Cabinet at close range.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 26 (Canadian Press). — Considerable export business was transacted in grain here yesterday under a good demand from United Kingdom and Continent buyers. Rye was heavily bought, and there were also some sales of barley and oats.

The domestic trade was moderately active and values for oats and corn were steady.

The flour trade continued dull, but prices for spring and winter wheat grades were well maintained.

The local and country inquiry for all lines of millfeed was again active, and the undertone was firm. Standard grades of rolled oats were quiet and steady.

The cheese trade was dull and featureless. Prices ruled steady. The receipts were 5,874 boxes.

A moderate trade was done in butter and the feeling to the market was firm, but prices showed no change. The receipts were 2,398 packages.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 26 (Canadian Press). — Wheat was erratic in the final hour of trading yesterday, the market meeting with increased selling on all bulges and fair support on the breaks. At the finish wheat was ¼c higher to ¼c lower; corn was steady to ⅝c down; and oats ¼c to ⅝c off. Provisions varied from 5c higher to 2½c lower.

While crop news was not especially bullish, the recent decline put the market in a better speculative shape as well as in position to develop a larger export business. Seaboard reports indicated total sales of upward of 2,000,000 bushels in all positions, and local sales to exporters were 470,000 bushels. Late reports from abroad indicated widespread rainstorms in the United Kingdom, France, and Germany.

Wheat averaged lower with further liquidation early which carried December off nearly 1c to 1⅛c, with a strong rally above Wednesday's finish later on shorts covering and buying by commission and export houses.

Corn was weak early with prices dropping around 1⅛c from Wednesday's finish, but selling was quickly absorbed and the market rallied sharply, with scattered liquidation in evidence in the September delivery. The weather over the corn belt was more favourable.

Oats averaged lower with corn.

Provisions were firmer.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

Demand—$4.85 7-16.
Cables—$4.85 15-16.

IS BIG FAILURE

Ralph H. Raynor automobile salesman de luxe, of Picton and Belleville Ont., in custody at Picton, facing six charges in connection with his business failure, involving liabilities reported to reach in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars with assets of approximately 25 per cent. if they could be realized upon. It is the biggest business failure in the district's history.

A Thought For To-day

(From the Silent Partner.)

THE HANDS AND THE FEET WILL FOLLOW.

Preaching methods is not so important to the individual as teaching manners.

Most people know enough but they seldom think enough. Nearly every one knows enough but a lot of people will not do as they know they should do.

You KNOW HOW to do things, and it is not necessary to TEACH YOU, but TO GET YOU TO DO THINGS as you know they should be done is a part of the programme of this Magazine.

Silent Partner editorials are directed at your HEART and your HEAD. The technical methods are presented by magazines that specialize in this information.

Get the heart and the head going right and the hands and the feet will follow.

See the $50,000 Swim

At 8.30 a.m. sharp Wednesday, August 31st, more than 300 champion swimmers from 30 countries of the world take the water in the largest and most thrilling athletic event in the realm of aquatic sport.

Four times they will pass directly in front of the Exhibition sea-wall. At all times their progress will be clearly visible. Who will win the money? Who will gain the world championship crown? Thousands will line the Canadian National Exhibition shores throughout the day to witness the second Wrigley Marathon. They will be there for the starting spectacle (considered to be one of the most amazing and spectacular of sights); to watch the contestants' progress, and particularly in the evening to cheer the victors as they cross the finishing line, just south of the Province of Ontario Building, and receive their well-earned laurels.

See the entire Canadian National Exhibition Aug. 27 to Sept. 10

Hear the famed 2000-voice Exhibition Chorus and the music of noted bands. Watch the thrilling dirt track motor races. See the thousands of exhibits of practically every product known in every land. Enjoy the glorious Pageant "CANADA" presented by 1,500 performers on the world's largest stage. Arrange to attend the entire 1927 Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, Ontario, the last week of August, the first week of September.

George Young, Conqueror of the Catalina, is favoured by many to win. But he has never been opposed by such a galaxy of internationally famed aquatic stars and English Channel swimmers as Vierkotter (Germany), Michel (France), Farstad (Belgium), and nearly 300 other crack swimmers who will strive for the Grand Prize, and the consequent world championship honors.

By all means come to the biggest sporting event in history and the greatest annual exhibition in the world.

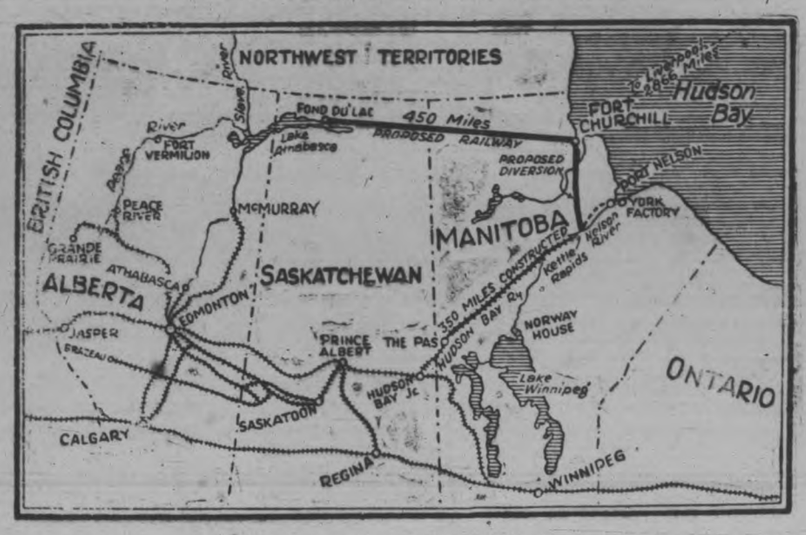
TRIBUTE TO YPRES DEAD

Unveiled by Lord Plumer, this memorial at the Menin Gate, Ypres, Belgium, is a tribute to the 50,000 British soldiers who died in defense of the Ypres salient. The inscription at the top reads: "To the armies of the British Empire who stood here from 1914 to 1918 and to those of their dead who have no known grave." Through the great arch can be seen some of the work of reconstruction still under way in Ypres. —NEA Service-London Times Photo.

SUCCESSFUL HOSTESS

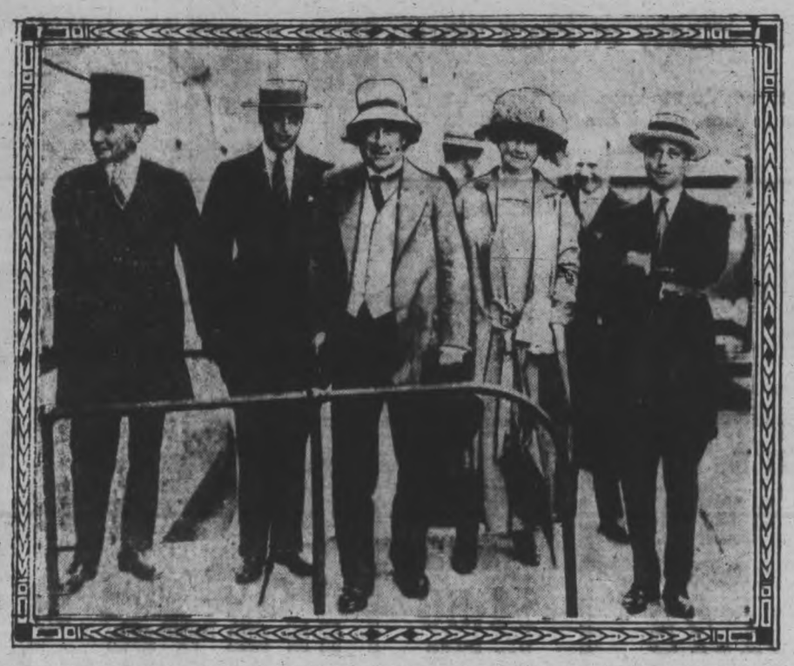
"The season's most successful" hostess is the title which London has conferred upon Lady Loughborough, who recently capped her social triumphs with a great ball at the Albert Hall, which was attended by both the Prince of Wales and the American trans-Atlantic flier, Col. Charles Lindbergh. Lady Loughborough is an Australian by birth.

FORT CHURCHILL TO BE TERMINUS



Fort Churchill, recommended by Frederick Palmer, engineer investigating the Hudson Bay port situation for the Dominion Government, as the best terminus for the Hudson Bay railway, has been chosen also by the Hon. Charles Dunning. Mr. Palmer describes it as boasting a natural harbor, in which practically unlimited shipping accommodations can be provided. Above map indicates completed portion of railway, the earlier proposed roadbed to Port Nelson, and the new route to Fort Churchill. The change involves 70 additional miles of railway, which will cost about $5,000,000. The economies effected on harbor improvements and aids to navigation, will, however, cancel this. Already six million dollars have been spent on harbor improvements at Port Nelson. Mr. Palmer was so impressed with the excellent bottom at Fort Churchill that he had no hesitation in recommending the change, despite this expenditure.

PRINCES' STRAWS CAUSE HUBBUB

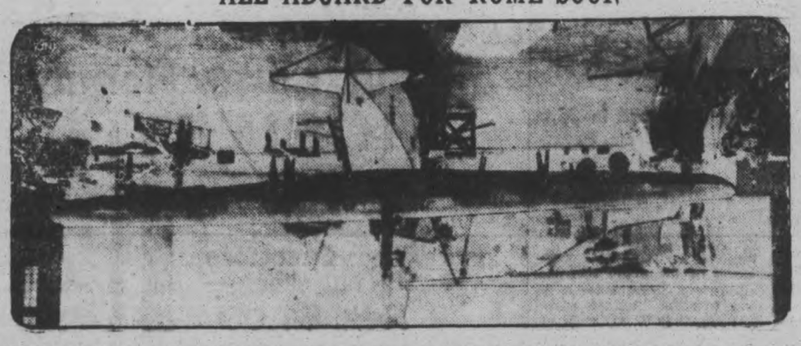


Mayfair is said to be greatly exercised over the fact that the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, have been wearing the common variety of "straw" on their Canadian trip. When this picture reaches England it should cause even greater hubbub, since Their Highnesses' cereal skypieces accompany formal morning wear. The picture, which incidentally was taken at Buffalo during the peace bridge celebration, shows besides the brother Princes, Vice-President Dawes in "topper" et al, Premier Baldwin carrying his borrowed hat, and Mrs. Baldwin.

A DOG'S LIFE

A cat and dog life isn't so bad after all, according to these two orphaned kittens. Losing their mother when they were only a few days old the kittens solved their problem by having a Boston bull terrier adopt them, and the new foster mother is doing very well—although in this picture she looks a wee bit worried. The animals' master lives in Buffalo, N. Y.

ALL ABOARD FOR ROME SOON



Craftsmen are rushing work on the Fokker plane, Old Glory, for the flihgt to Rome, which Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill will attempt. The plane, pictured above, is being built at the plant of the Atlantic Aircraft Company, Hasbrouck Heights, N J. It has a wing spread of 62 feet and will carry a 450 h.p. Bristol-Jupiter motor.—(Nea Service, New York Eureau).

PLANE OF NEW TYPE CRASHES

This odd-looking airplane was one of the entries in the recent San Francisco-Honolulu air race. It crashed however with Arthur V. Rodgers, former British air service ace, who was killed. This picture shows the finishing touches being put on it at Los Angles.

BROKEN WRIST SPOILS CAREER

Musician Cannot Play Now Because of Work During War.

CAN'T HOLD VIOLIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26 (by the Canadian Press).—Fate played a harsh trick on Michael Matoff, who in Ekaterinoslav, Southern Russia, began a musical career which carried him far, first as a child prodigy and then, when he matured, as a wizard of the bow, and is now a commercial traveller for a Winnipeg firm. Among Matoff's samples when on the road is a well-worn violin case containing a violin, and the violin is the background of a story of a professional career cut off suddenly, when on the high road to fame, of a musician who had won the encomiums of two continents, and was on the way to share the honors of those illustrious masters of harmony who have come out of Russia to enchant and surprise civilization, when fate cruelly intervened.

Matoff was introduced to Canadian audiences at a concert attended by Earl Grey, when Governor-General, and a distinguished suite. He went forward winning praise in many recitals in the United States and Canada until the war came.

Then he turned to the production of foodstuffs, and had the misfortune to break his wrist, inducing paralysis of the fingers, so that he cannot hold the instrument more than 10 minutes a day, thus his career on the concert stage ended abruptly.

He travels, however, with the beloved violin, and after the duties of the day tries out some of the airs, with which he gained the applause of admiring audiences in earlier days.

LOCAL MUSIC HAS CLAIMS

Should be Supported in Spite of Mechanical Rivals, Says Mason.

OWN MUSIC MAKING

By ARTHUR MASON

The world of music—that widespread world of the many countries where music is a living art—is of fascinating interest. Always something is happening there, and always it is expected that something will happen which will transcend whatever has happened. In the music, for example, which comes pouring from the pens of composers everywhere, and in bewildering volume attains the dignity of the printed page, who knows the hour when some hitherto mute, inglorious Beethoven will rise from the chaos of modern musical experiment? And, in any case, what unending interest there is in the music actually created by the composers of the day—here a music on the verge of greatness, there a music at all events of a high accomplishment—music that attempts more than it can achieve—music that makes no attempt beyond that of pleasing its patrons—music of infinite range and intention—masses of it, steadily accumulating in every land where music is alive! What an interest for the music-lover is here, once he can surmount the confusion of it!

Music Everywhere.

The world of music is a mammoth activity, also, of musical performance. The concerts alone are without number or end. Orchestras are always playing. Conductors grow more, or less, famous. Known singers delight unending audiences. Unknown singers sin in hope of that reward of their powers. Fabulous new singers are heralded. Singers' reputations shine fixedly or twinkle star-like awhile, and, like ineffectual stars, fade out. Opera, another vast activity save in our own country, makes music night after night for hosts of music-lovers. Tens of thousands of instrumentalists exploit their art in a world-wide competition for fame and fortune. Students of music of every grade throng the academies. Music of infinitely varied type, expressing itself in many forms, is unceasingly and universally active.

We do well to have an eye and an ear for the music of other places than our own. Those who limit themselves to the concerns of their immediate surrounding grow insular and, in consequence, narrow-minded. They live in a groove, and to do that is to be groovy. Their sense of values is awry. Little Pedlington was for the Pedlingtonians the centre of human activity—an inevitable result of their constant thinking in terms of Little Pedlington. Quite obviously the affairs of our own small circle can only come into true focus when we measure them by the larger affairs outside them.

The Claim of Local Music.

But, on the other hand, let us not forget the claim of our immediate surrounding. We shall be doing our own affairs less than the justice they deserve if we ignore or neglect them in favor of the claims of outside affairs. Let us have a properly balanced interest in music, for example. Those vast-spread activities of the great world of music beyond our own corner of it ought to be of interest to us, but they should only share the local, the intimate, interests within which we live. Our touch with that world of music outside us should, that is to say, be used for the benefit of our influence upon the music of our own city, town, or village. After all, our local music is a ring in the great chain of music which encircles the world. We owe it the duty of maintaining it as its best possible strength.

Mechanical Marvels.

More of the music of the world beyond our own borders is being brought to us today than ever before. Even the isolated music-lover, by virtue of wireless, the gramaphone, the player-piano, can come into energizing contact with it. In every town and village and city in the land the music that is brought from outside by these means is now so much a commonplace of life that their music-lovers can hear a concert that it hundreds of miles away, can enjoy the playing of a famous but ever so far-off pianist, and can listen to the voices of singers they have never seen as easily as they may go to their local concert-halls or make their own music at home. But if, as a result of these gifts of the gods, they neglect their local concert-halls and give up their home music-making, this music that has been so marvellously conjured within their range of hearing is less a benefit than a hindrance to their musical life.

For one thing, the music we ourselves make is worth a great deal of the music we hear other people make. For another thing, if we cannot ourselves make music, by helping others to do so we assist in preserving the musical life of our own community—a thing worth preserving. The best value of wireless, player-piano, gramaphone music, is in the pleasure it gives us. Its next best value is in the inspiration it gives us for our efforts to improve our own music-making. The musician who visits some musical centre where he hears a great deal more music than he can hear at home will, if he be wise, return home determined to make his own music a better music by reason of what he heard. The great boon of music by wireless, by player-piano, by gramaphone, should be similarly used—not wholly as an end in itself, but also for the benefit of the common music of the community.

We cannot all make music; but we can all encourage those who do. Your local musical activities—the choir, the choral society, the musical competition festival, the glee club—whatever it may be—are all trying to provide a better and better music. Some of the musical enthusiasm inspired in you as the result of your wireless music, of the stored music of your gramaphone, or your player-piano, might very profitably be translated into enthusiasm for the music of your local music-makers.

CANADA HAS MUCH FUEL

Electric Heat, Coke and Modern Methods Increase the Supply.

TO BE INDEPENDENT.

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—(By The Canadian Press).—"An English fuel expert makes the prediction that within seven years Canada will be independent of both American and British coal because of a patented process which will turn Canadian coal dust, lignite and even peat into fuel for domestic and industrial purposes'" says the Montreal Gazette in an editorial. "The prediction is interesting, whether or not the hopes expressed are wholly or partly realized in the time mentioned, or longer. In any event, Canada is better off as regards fuel supplies than ever before. In industry the 'white coal' from the great water sources that are being harnessed is being put to more use every day, and additional waterfalls and rapids are being studied and their potentialities estimated in advance of demands. A vast supply of steam coal is being mined and the coking industry is being enlarged and its product advertised.

"As for household fuel, the people in Canadian cities and towns are in an enviable position, for they have the domestic fuel source of both American and British supplies at their service. When there was a strike in the American mines, Canada was supplied with Welsh and Scotch coal, and some Dutch and German fuel as well. When the British miners quit their labors, there was hard American coal to fill the bins and feed stoves and furnaces.

"Prior to the great strike in the United States anthracite field in 1902, very little, if any, British coal entered the Canadian market, but since then the importations of coal have grown, and the last three or four years have seen a tremendous increase in the use of Welsh and Scotch coal in Eastern Canada, Montreal being a particularly heavy user of British hard coal. American anthracite is still the most used fuel here. The householder also has coke in plenty for his home if he prefers it.

"With domestic, American and British coal available, and coke into the bargain, there is less likelihood than ever of a fuel famine in Montreal, and competition should keep prices at a reasonable level. The fuel situation to that extent may be considered satisfactory.

HIGHWAY SAFETY TO BE MAIN THEME

Canadian Good Roads Officials Study Speeding Problem.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—Officials of the Canadian Good Roads Association report an increasingly intensive interest in the motor speeding controversy now heard in Ontario and Quebec. Opinion for the present is much divided as to the best methods of curbing the speed menace. When the association holds its annual meeting at Niagara Falls on Sept. 27, 28 and 29 it is certain that much discussion will centre around speed regulations or other methods taken to lessen dangers on the highways.

At the moment the experiment of Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Highways in the Quebec Provincial Government, is attracting much attention. Not long ago Mr. Perron bluntly announced that speeding in Quebec must stop. He intimated that traps would be set along important highways, and that cancellation of licenses would follow infractions of the law. This was no idle bluff on Mr. Perron's part. A number of licenses actually have been cancelled, some of the victims being people highly placed in Quebec Province. Word has gone around that Mr. Perron is doing exactly as promised. A wonderful change has taken place, but whether permanent or not, is too early to state. It is a singular fact, however, that for the past two weeks accidents which could be ascribed to excessive speed, have been reduced to almost nil in Quebec.

"Last week-end I drove over the Laurentian highway," stated an official of the Canadian Good Roads Association. "The change was most marked. This road has been used by speeders quite a bit heretofore. During my drive I saw no cause for complaint in this respect. All speeds were moderate and drivers seemed to be exercising unusual courtesy and common sense. I believe such a desirable state of affairs, even if but temporary, must be attributed directly to Mr. Perron's action."

The recent letter of Sir Thomas White, former Federal Minister of Finance, protesting against the "motor killing which goes on on the highways of Ontario" has added much fuel to the controversy. He stated that no more important topic was before the public and the Government. Those who have given time and study to the problem praise Sir Thomas for bringing a serious matter so forcibly to the public's attention, though there is by no means agreement with his contention that a speed limit of 30 miles an hour is "high enough and 25 better."

It was stated here by Good Roads Association leaders that their outstanding problem in Canada now was not the building of more highways, but making safe and maintaining those we already have. They are tackling the menace seriously and the question of safety is being put first everywhere. Road experts are now devoting practically all their time and thought toward some solution.

Doubts are expressed that constant and more stringent regulations will of themselves make for permanent safety. There is general agreement, however, that the reckless and unfit drivers must be weeded out, and regulations are necessary if such a weeding-out is to be accomplished by legal means. Good Roads Association officials here who have had long experience in motor matters apparently place more faith in education and active agitation. They assert that drivers must be taught the common sense and courtesy of the roads if regulations are to serve any useful purpose. Efforts are being bent to this end. Plans are now in process of preparation, so that some definite proposals may be placed before the association's convention.

POST'S BED BUG POISON.

Post's Bed Bug Poison is composed of carbolic acid, Methyl Hydrate and Corrosive sublimate. When this preparation is used according to directions, it is sure death to bed bugs, cockroaches and insects of all descriptions. Two or three applications are all that is necessary, but as it is very poisonous, this preparation should be kept out of reach of children.

BEEFEATER'S DAUGHTER CHOSE 'SADDEST SPOT' FOR WEDDING

IN CHAPEL ROYAL.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(By the Canadian Press).—Macaulay described the Chapel Royal of St. Peter and Vincula, within the Tower of London, as "the saddest spot on earth." He was thinking of all those of high birth, men and women, three Queens among them, whose headless corpses were hurriedly buried within St. Peter's after the executioner had swung his axe on Tower Green.

Despite its age-long mournful memories St. Peter's was chosen as the place for her wedding by a bride of 21 the other day. A very bright and charming wedding it was, too. The bride was Miss Louisa Margaret Austen, daughter of Yeoman Warder Albert Austen, one of the famous "Beefeaters" of the Tower, who for the last 10 years has been keeper of the Bloody Tower, and in that time has told its story to tens of thousands of visitors from all over the world. The bridegroom was John Harry Beames, a member of the Orchestra of the Olympic. It was in the Olympic that Mr. Beames met his bride 18 months ago.

It is seldom that a bride's father makes as brave array as the bride, but it was so at this wedding. The bride wore a shell-pink dress with orange blossom. Her father was arrayed in the full glory of his office of Yeoman Warder—doublet of red and gold, spotless white frill with Tudor Roses; a uniform which warders of the Tower have worn on state occasional for over 500 years. Anyone who has seen Gilbert and Sullivan's Opera, "The Yeoman of the Guard" will realise what a brave show Yeoman Warder Austen made.

There was a reception at the Casemates, the quarters of the bride's parents within the Tower, and the bride cut the wedding cake with a sword which has been in the Tower for many centuries.

APPLES FOR EXPORT MUST BE BETTER

Canadian Growers Should Pay More Attention to British Market.

The Dominion Fruit Branch's "Fruit and Vegetable Crop and Market Summary" for June, just to hand, contains some timely advice to apple shippers by J. Forsyth Smith, the Canadian Fruit Trade Commissioner in the United Kingdom. He points out that since Canada is dependent on the British market as an outlet for 35 per cent. of her commercial apple output, she cannot afford to consider the United Kingdom as a dump market, but must be prepared to put out a standard of grade and quality that will establish a definite reputation as compared with competing fruit.

More attention should be paid to the distribution of varieties and sizes to right markets. It is folly to ship small sizes to the North, when they can be sold to advantage in the South, to ship McIntosh apples to London when Glasgow will pay the best prices for this variety, or Ribstons and Cox's Orange to the North instead of to London. Definite steps should be taken to concentrate on the production of varieties that are acceptable to the market, and the shipping of uncommercial varieties should be discontinued. The export of lower grades should be reduced to a minimum, and every effort should be made to reduce the quantities of apples in miscellaneous lots of many varieties. In this regard Canadian shippers of barrel apples should follow the example of their principal competitors and offer considerable quantities of one variety, grade and pack. It should be noted, too, that in the case of barrel apples size is regarded as one of the principal factors in No. 1 grading. Smaller apples in boxes are acceptable if of good quality and colour, but sizes above 216 should not be exported. Boxed apple shippers should take every precaution against the bruising of the fruit. Finally, more attention should be given to the solution of the problem of delivering "tight barrels."

NO QUESTION ABOUT IT.

Tom—Have you bought your girl a question book?

Jerry—Say, the only thing that has the answers to her questions is a check book.—Judge.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

REPENTANCE

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 28. Repentance: What It Is and What It Does. 2 Samuel 12: 1-10, 13.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.

Text: 2 Samuel 12: 1-10, 13.

And the Lord sent Nathan unto David. And he came unto him, and said unto him. There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor.

The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds.

But the poor man had nothing, save one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished up; and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter.

And there came a traveler unto the rich man, and he spared to take of his own flock and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him; but took the poor man's lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

And David's anger was greatly kindled against the man; and he said to Nathan, As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this thing shall surely die:

And he shall restore the lamb fourfold, because he did this thing and because he had no pity.

And Nathan said to David, Thou art the man. Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul.

And I gave thee thy master's house, and thy master's wives into thy bosom, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and if that had been too little, I would moreover, have given unto thee such and such things.

Wherefore hast thou despised the commandment of the Lord, to do evil in his sight? Thou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

Now therefore, the sword shall never depart from thine house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

And David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said unto David, The Lord also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die.

* * *

David, as every Bible reader knows, had in him the capacities of a great sinner as well as those of a great saint, and the Biblical story reveals the seriousness of his moral lapses as well as his finer aspects as poet and singer.

Possibly in few characters in history have good and bad been so strangely blended. The man, who has become known in history as the "sweet singer of Israel," the zealous young patriot who slew Goliath in the hour of his country's danger, the king who so solidified the national life of Israel that he might almost be spoken of as the founder of Israel's political history, was, in plain words, an adulterer and a murderer.

Lesson Seldom Realized.

The lesson of this, while it is sufficiently obvious, is not always realized by men and women in their life conduct. So many times the sins of life seem easily justifiable, or are so pleasant and alluring, that men and women are almost trapped into them before they realize the way upon which they are entering.

It is remarkable in history how closely adultery and murder have been associated.

Let us remember, also, that the finer aspect of David's love for Bathsheba, and the evidences of a deep and permanent affection between them that transcended momentary temptation and gusts of passion, did not alter the evil of their course or the fact that their illicit love led to the death of Uriah, a man whose only fault was, apparently, that he was too trusting and too loyally devoted to his soldierly duties to play the part of a gracious and easy-going husband. The record indicates that he was a good and faithful man, yet David deliberately had him placed in the thick of the fight that he might be killed.

Thank God for his prophets and ministers in every age who have not hesitated to speak the truth even in high quarters where their own safety was in danger. Thank God for a prophet like Nathan who did not hesitate in the form of a clear and unmistakable parable to drive home the truth to David, and who, when David, roused to indignation against the man who had done the gross wrong that Nathan described, dared to say directly to David, "Thou art the man."

It is a glorious figure of "the man of God," which some of the modern prophets who sit in the seat of the scornful, especially where the ministry is concerned, might well take to heart. There have been many of these true ministers of God in the history of religion.

When Repentance Is Late.

It is only the small man who justifies himself when his fault and his sin are made plain. Possibly most of us are small men. Our natural course when we are accused of wrong that we have committed is to seek in some way to excuse our fault or justify ourselves. The way of repentance is not only the right way, it is the way of strength and courage, and it is the only way to the real restoration of life.

Unfortunately, even repentance, sincere as it may be and powerfully as it may accomplish the restoration of the sinner, cannot re-establish the things that sin has destroyed. David was repentant, but Uriah was dead. How much better is that repentance of soul which keeps a man from sinning before it is necessary to turn from the havoc sins already committed?

J. Ogden Armour, who died in London, Eng., the other day, is credited with having lost more money than any man of modern times. At his death his estate was valued at not more than $26,000,000 while only nine years previously his fortune was actually over $100,000,000. He inherited from his father the vast meat packing business with which the family name is associated, and during the world war visioned a business which might more than double. But he came into conflict with the British in his ostensible endeavors to sell meats to neutral countries, but which it was believed were destined for Germany and Austria. From that time on his fortunes declined, the climax coming when a grain business he had financed was forced to refund $60,000,000 after its managers were found guilty of fraud.

Weight is Standard of Millinery Chic

SCALES IN FRENCH SHOPS DETERMINE SMARTNESS OF NEW FELTS

It is all a matter of ounces where millinery smartness for the fall season is concerned. Fabrics are of little importance in the Hat displays of the bigger French houses, for every wearable day-to-day Hat is of felt or velours. The great point of interest centres in weight!

The lighter the Hat, the better, say the fashion dictators. Felts are steamed and shaved and pressed, and steamed and shaved again to comply with the mode for "zephyr-weights." Some of the high-class milliners in Paris have even installed scales as part of their show-room equipment, so that prospective buyers may have Hat bodies weighed right before their eyes.

An assortment of these light-weight Hats, of a fine quality Austrian velour, has been secured through our head buying office and is now on display in our Millinery Department. They include several styles in the favorite beige and Brown shades, both large and small head sizes.

'THE HAWTHORNES' BARNS ARE RE-BUILT

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 26.—Exactly four months after the home and barns of Mr. A. B. Mann, "The Hawthornes," Smith, were destroyed by fire more than one hundred friends and neighbors gathered for the opening of the new barn, which has risen Phoenix-like from the ashes of the old. It was a community event in every sense of the word, and on every hand one heard expressions of gladness at the splendid progress being made at the re-construction work. The new structure, which is of steel, stands on the site of its predecessor, and already it is housing thirty-five loads of this year's hay crop. In spite of the rain, the barn dance was the attraction that drew friends from near and far to "The Hawthornes" on Tuesday night.

The Mann home for generations has maintained the tradition of hospitality, and the sort of greeting which the Prince of Wales says is typically Canadian. They don't say "Goodbye," but "Come again," and the new regime carries on the old spirit famous throughout the countryside.

Rev. W. S. Edgar of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church and pastor and friend of the Mann family, was master of ceremonies, and inaugurated the new barn in an appropriate speech, brief yet full of deep feeling for his friends in this hour of happiness. He made a touching reference to the sad scene just four months ago when the home and barns were destroyed. "Mr. Mann, instead of giving up in dismay, followed the method of the Prince of Wales, who says that when he feels tired and discouraged he bucks up and carries on, and that is what Mr. Mann has done, and the celebration tonight marks the achievement of a big part of the great task before him," he said. "In April last we sadly viewed a scene of destruction, and tonight we see all around the evidence of splendid re-construction."

Mr. Edgar said he knew he was voicing the opinion of all in saying that he hoped that the new era would mean even greater things than the old, and that Mr. Mann would enjoy the prosperity he so richly deserves.

Miss Daisy Davidson sang, "When You Come Home, Dear," very sweetly, and Mr. Allan Milburn sang, "The Garden of My Heart," in good voice. The Snelgrove orchestra rendered several selections, and Messrs. Pratten, Huffman and Simpson, Deputy-Reeve of Smith, spoke briefly congratulating their host in the work accomplished and expressing good wishes for the future.

Mr. Joe Mann was called for a speech, but was too modest to respond, although he was referred to by the chairman as the foreman of the operations and stories of his splendid co-operation were heard on every side, as he had assisted his cousin, Mr. Allan Mann, in every way possible.

Mr. G. W. Mann, father of Allan Mann, was present and welcomed his friends in his kindly manner as he has done so many times in the past at the numerous gatherings for which "The Hawthornes" has long been famous.

Following the programme, Mrs. A. B. Mann, assisted by some of the young ladies and gentlemen present, served bountiful refreshments, and then, with Mr. Bert Jones as floor manager, the barn was opened properly with an old-fashioned country dance, old and young joining in right merrily, saluting partners and corners, and away for a happy evening.

Besides being the scene of an interesting social event, the barn is already functioning as the store house of the season's crop, as one load of grain is already threshed and stored in the granary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mann and Mr. G. W. Mann are to be congratulated on the success of the "barn-warming" and in its success is seen a happy omen for even a happier future in the dear old place so well known and so well beloved.

NORWOOD NEWS

NORWOOD, Aug. 26.—Mrs. G. A. Brethen was hostess at a kitchen shower given at her home, "Hillcrest Farm" in honor of her niece, Miss Vera Finlay, whose marriage takes place next week. Many useful gifts were received by the bride-elect, every conceivable article of kitchen utensil being presented to her. As the guest of honor arrived at the door, Mrs. (Dr.) Norval, of Havelock, began playing Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, and shortly after little Miss Yvonne Finlay, of Windsor, and Miss Margaret Brethen, dressed as bride and groom, entered the living-room, followed by a gaily decorated cart and trailer containing the gifts. As the bride-to-be opened each parcel Miss Jean Buck read the verses attached, after which Miss Finlay thanked all present for their kindness to her. Dainty refreshments were served later and a very pleasant time was spent by all.

NOBODY GUESSES JUST RIGHT; TWO ARE TIED FOR FIRST PRIZES

There Were 12,144 Tickets in Box — Winners Estimate 12,143 and 12,145—Four Deadlocked For Next Money—Two Country Winners.

MR. ROBINSON AND MISS JUGERMAN WIN.

The August Dollar Day more than held its own as the one big Community Event of the Summer. A joyous crowd monopolized George Street and the seventy-one Dollar Day Stores from opening hour to close. There was no let up in the steady stream of shoppers from start to finish. The very evident enthusiasm of the crowds was catching and the day was, without question one of the outstanding Dollar Days since their inception. The spirit of the shoppers was reflected in the faces of the merchants, who quite evidently enjoyed seeing the people revel in the bargain offerings they had provided. And to judge by the satisfied remarks heard in the stores, the values presented were never better, or more thoroughly appreciated.

The number of tickets dropped in the box is no criterion of the amount of business done, as thousand of them were never filled out and deposited, many people being well enough pleased with their bargains, without bothering to go after the merchants' treasury box bonuses. However, with the added handicap of one of the large stores not taking part, and therefore, not issuing the tickets they usually do, the number was practically the same as that of August, 1926. Twelve thousand, one hundred and forty-four blanks were filled out and dropped in the box; about six hundred less than the year before.

The successful numbers were so close to the mark that none of them were more than six from being correct. The two who tied for first and second bonus, were just one below or above the actual figure, their close estimate netting them the nice sum of $37.50 each. Four more ties, all of them only three distant from the mark receive $12.50 each, and the remaining five each took the $5 bonus without further breaks.

The money will be paid out at The Examiner Office, on Monday, August 29th.

OSHAWA MAN ARRESTED FOR CAR ACCIDENT

Walter Symns Taken Near Newcastle—Woman Killed By Car.

OWNED IN PETERBOROUGH.

Ladies Were Standing Beside Car When Passing Auto Struck Them.

OSHAWA, Ont., Aug. 26.—Struck down on the Kingston highway about three miles east of Oshawa while alighting from a car about one o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. Helen Brown, Oshawa, was instantly killed, while Miss Florence Appleton, Toronto, was severely injured. The death car, taken late Wednesday night from a lane at the side of a house on Alexander Boulevard, sped onward dragging the body of Mrs. Brown a distance of eight feet. At Courtice the driver stopped, abandoned the car and fled but after an all-day search the Provincial police made the arrest at six o'clock yesterday evening near Newcastle of Walter Symons, who gave his address as Oshawa.

Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock an inquest was opened at Bowmanville by Coroner Dr. A. S. Tilley. The jury after viewing the remains adjourned.

The car in which Mrs. Brown and Miss Appleton were riding had just drawn up in front of "The House that Jack Built," a roadhouse on the Kingston highway, operated by Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. L. M. Prior. Detective Ward of the Toronto police force was driver of the car and the fourth occupant was Henry Levy, 21 Manion Street, Toronto.

Ward had driven up from the east and had parked his car with lights on, partially off the pavement on the left or south side of the road. Suddenly the lights of the swiftly approaching car appeared. At the same time Mrs. Brown, followed by Miss Appleton, stepped from Ward's car on the north side and stood for a second waiting for the approaching car to pass. The right front fender of the oncoming car, a roadster, owned by David Prusky, of Peterboro, crashed the open door of the Ward car, then struck Mrs. Brown and Miss Appleton.

In the confusion which followed not a thought was given to following the offending car. Mrs. Prior and her son, Kenneth, were aroused and after a short search Kenneth found the body of his aunt in the south ditch.

On examination it was found that Mrs. Brown had suffered a fractured skull and terrible internal injuries and that death had been instantaneous. Miss Appleton was suffering from severe cuts and bruises and from shock. She was taken to the Oshawa General Hospital to which she will be confined for a few days.

town. They are former residents of this locality and at present holidaying at Belmont Lake.

Mr. William Garrett and granddaughter, Muriel, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Williams. Mr. Garrett will spend some time at Percy Boon, the guest of Mr. Winters of Cobourg. Mr. Garrett is well known here. For many years his son, R. J. Garrett, was one of the leading business men of the town.

Mr. William Garrett's tales of the railroad are both interesting and entertaining. He has been superannuated from the C.N.R. service after fifty-two years of 100 per cent efficient service. During these years not one black mark was chalked up against the veteran railroader. When one recalls the fact that his services commenced on the old-time wood-burning locomotives and hand brakes and ended with the ultra-modern International Limited, it is an exceptionally enviable record.

Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Gibson of Highland, California, are guests at the Alex. Walkinshaw farm, Seymour East.

The Birmingham Hardware store is undergoing exterior decorating. There are also some improvements being made inside the premises.

Miss Helen Bygott was hostess yesterday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower given for her friend, Miss Reta Baker, whose marriage will shortly take place. The thirty guests acclaimed Miss Bygott an ideal hostess, and Miss Baker was the recipient of many articles which will be very useful.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Nichol of Galt, who have been holidaying at Trent River, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross MacLaren yesterady.

At the Regent Theatre, a Pathe comedy is being used to give theatregoers a little light stuff before "The Fighting Edge" affords them a little real food for thought. This picture is a Warner Bros. production and stars Pasty Ruth Miller and Kenneth Harland in a complicated tale of the smuggling of aliens across the U.S.-Mexican border. Well worth seeing.

BRITISH LINES TAKE TO ROADS

Seek Legislation Enabling Them to Compete With Truck Companies.

TO RUN AS FEEDERS

LONDON, Aug 26.—(By The Canadian Press).—"Get out upon the roads yourselves." This is the exhortation which is now being addressed to directors of British railways when they bewail the increasing and—as they allege—unfair competition to which the railways are subjected from motor transport. Seemingly the companies are taking the advice to heart, for they are jointly about to promote a Bill in Parliament to enable them to compete freely in road transport. It is hoped by the railways that powers will be may develop road services as feeders to the railways themselves. Separate efforts towards this end have previously been made. The North-Western and Midland companies promoted a measure some few years back, but it was withdrawn because the Ministry of Transport insisted that the companies must not charge less upon the road than upon their railways.

The London and North-Eastern Company announce a new experiment in rail transport in the near future which they claim will meet the public need for more intensive passenger services, and which will be applied wherever road competition is being felt acutely.

The experiment will be with steam rail coaches, single carriage vehicles embracing engine and coach in one, capable of accommodating 65 passengers. At first the coaches will be run in the industrial districts of the North, but it is likely that they will be employed subsequently on London suburban services during the slack times of the day and on the less congested lines.

The past few weeks of the holiday season have been marked by an abnormal number of road accidents. The railway companies have issued a notice which, rather unctuously, it is pointed out that not a single railway passenger lost his life or even was injured in the same period.

VISITORS PRAISE NEW BUILDING

Campbellford School Board Holds Special Meeting Before Opening.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 26. — At a special meeting of the Campbellford Board of Education, held in the Council Room, Campbellford Public Library, the following officers and members were present: Dr. O. C. Watson, chairman, Mr. Wesley Stevens, secretary, Messrs. Charles Benor, James Anderson, Dr. Richardson, F. Jeffs, J. C. Birmingham, James Loucks, D. J. Lynch, and George O'Sullivan.

The secretary read a letter from the inspector of boilers which stated that he had fulfilled the requirements relative to his inspection, and expressed his approval in detail of the High School heating plant. The secretary was instructed to show the letter to Mr. James Massey, caretaker. He replied that Mr. Massey already had a copy. Mr. Massey, being present, agreed that he had.

Trustee Lynch reported that he had interviewed Mr. Thain regarding the removal of certain material which he (Mr. Thain) had stored on the High School grounds, and which he was supposed to have removed. Mr. Lynch explained that some of the material had already been removed and that Mr. Thain had been ill. The remainder of the material would be removed as soon as he was able. This was satisfactory.

Referring to a matter related to S.S. No. 8, Mr. Lynch reported that it was outside the Board's jurisdiction and came under the township. Dr. George Hay, he said, had been duly notified.

J. C. Birmingham, Grounds Committee, reported that one more day would be sufficient to complete the work on the grounds. He was authorized to carry the work to completion.

Mr. Massey, when asked to address the Board, stated that he had shown many visitors through the new building, and all had been loud and sincere in their praise. Mr. Hume, many years ago principal of the school here, was greatly surprised and pleased to find such a modern institution here. The principal of Stratford Collegiate Institute also admired the building and grounds. Mr. Massey then reported the schools ready for the opening of the fall term.

The Board, in an unofficial manner, expressed satisfaction with the teaching staff. In particular, the members were pleased with the showing made by Mr. Stevens, assistant principal of the High School. His percentage of pupils passed was unusually high. Thees remarks were made with reference to the results of the departmental examinations.

Dr. Richardson offered the suggestion that a special teacher be engaged for the Public Schools for the benefit of pupils who, for any of various reasons, were unable to learn with the usual amount of instruction. Dr. Richardson considered it the duty of the Board to make every effort to give every pupil at least two years in the High School. In support of his suggestion, he mentioned that Peterborough and Cobourg had adopted the special teacher plan.

Mr. O'Sullivan read the list of accounts due and payable. They were mostly routine accounts, and the secretary was instructed to pay them.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 26.—Dr. and Mrs. William Walkinshaw of Stillwell, Indiana, are visiting Mr. Walkinshaw's brother, Alex, Seymour East. Dr. Walkinshaw, as a young man, was a resident of Campbellford. He has, however, practised medicine in the United States since his graduation. Mr. James Walkinshaw of town is also a brother.

Mr. Harold Batty of Port Hope visited friends in town yesterday.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., is in Toronto for the meetings of the Canadian Bar Association.

Mr. John O'Neil, of Kemptville, accompanied by his sister, Miss Barbara O'Neil, and his aunt, Mrs. M. McGirn, motored to the city to spend several days with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. Doherty, Rubidge street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kidd and daughter Marguerite, Hunter street west, have returned from a delightful five weeks' trip to Alaska. Taking the boat at Vancouver, they arrived at Skagway, to spend some time in this town which, with a population during gold rush days of over fifteen thousand people, now boasts only five hundred and fifty citizens. They returned by way of Nelson, taking the famous Kootenay trip through the Arrow Lakes, to Victoria and Seattle, then back to Vancouver. They were much impressed by the sight of the great Takau Glacier, which is supposed to cover ten thousand square miles in its extent and to be two hundred feet deep. The arm visible above the water is two hundred feet in thickness, a mile wide, and extends back ninety miles. On approaching this glacier, the boat pauses for about twenty minutes, during which time the passengers don much clothing to protect them from the bitter cold. The boat whistle, blown half a mile away, causes large pieces of ice to drop into the water from the glacier, which can be heard creaking and groaning in its century-old place. A lecture from a fellow-voyageur, Rev. Father Hubbard, was much enjoyed by the party, recounting, as it did, a trip with Swiss guides made over this glacier to spots hitherto untrodden by man.

Little Neil Chauvigny, son of Dr. and Mrs. Chauvigny, of New Orleans, and guest at present, with his mother and brother, of their grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Laing, is progressing satisfactorily after the accident of yesterday, when his skull was injured in a fall from a tree at Bear Creek, near Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mixer, of Detroit, have returned home after visiting Mr. Mixer's parents in Maine, and Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. James Clancy, Water street.

Miss Olive English, Charlotte street, entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening, followed by a miscellaneous shower, in honor of Miss Jennie Frederick, whose marriage to Mr. Homer Borland takes place on Monday.

Miss Jennie Frederick, Dublin street, was hostess to about seventy of her girl friends yesterday at a trousseau tea held at her home. The table was charmingly arranged with pink antirrhinum and pink tulle, with blue candles in silver candlesticks. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. J. Martin and Mrs. Howard Clegg cut the ices. Assistants in the tea room and for the trousseau were Mrs. Burwell Moore, Miss Miriam Rutherford, Miss Cleo Fowler and Miss Berenice Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wegmiller and daughter Marie, of Akron, Ohio, while motoring through Canada, were the guest for a few days of Miss A. Armstrong, 697 George street.

Mr. Bryer Carpenter, of Jasper, Alberta, is visiting his parents in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kidd, Benson avenue, are holidaying at Birch Point Lodge, in Haliburton.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clancy, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Hyland of Toronto, were in the city yesterday for the funeral of the late Mrs. John Clancy.

Mr. Charles A. Rubidge and daughter Violet of Altamont, Manitoba, formerly of Peterborough, who were called here owing to the death of the former's mother, the late Mrs. John Harper, are returning home after spending a month renewing old acquaintances in and around the city.

Mrs. Leonard Pattrick, of Belleville, has returned home by motor after spending some time in the city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clementi, Monaghan road.

Mr. Walton Stevenson is in Toronto, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. D. L. McLaren, for the meetings of the Canadian Bar Association. The names of Mrs. McLaren, Mrs. Kerr and Miss Reinhardt appear in the published list of guests attending the dinner given to the visiting ladies by the Toronto ladies last evening in the Pompeiian Room of the King Edward Hotel. A luncheon at the Granite Club and a garden party at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club were also portions of the social festivities of yesterday in connection with the Bar Association meetings.

Mr. John Willan of Fraserville has been spending a month's vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas, Water Street.

Mr. Joe Reddie and Mr. George Heard of Detroit, also Mr. J. M. Heard, were home for the funeral of the late William Leeson.

Through an error, the name of Leo Begley was mis-spelled in the item appearing in this column yesterday with reference to winners of bronze medals awards in the special contest in Canadian History conducted recently by the Department of Education throughout the Province.

Mrs. Kerr of Campbellford was in the city yesterday, and attended the funeral of the late Mrs. John Clancy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fletcher have returned from Toronto, where the former was in attendance at the annual convention of managers of the Paramount Theatres. An innovation at this year's meeting, announced by the general manager, N. Nathanson, is the granting each year of six special awards to managers doing the best business during the year. Out of one hundred and nineteen managers of Paramount theatres, three of the six initial awards, made at this convention, went to managers at present or formerly associated with the City of Peterborough. The purse of gold and gold pin which constitute these special prizes went to Harry Dahn of Montreal and W. P. McGeachie of Sault Ste. Marie, formerly of this city, and to J. D. Fletcher, present Capitol Theatre manager.

Mr. W. J. Doyle, former Inland Revenue Tax Collector at Belleville, with Mrs. Doyle, motored home to Belleville after spending some days at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Doyle, who has been appointed as manager of the new brewery to be located in the Red Arrow Tire Company's building on Water Street, will take up residence in the city next week.

About twenty-five members of the Queen Alexandra Circle of the A.O.F. motored last evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Park in Fraserville, where a jolly corn roast was held, followed by an evening spent in the enjoyment of games and dancing.

Mrs. Harding of Montreal attended the funeral yesterday of the late Mrs. John Clancy.

"E. I. Feemster, city attorney, accompanied by Mrs. Feemster and by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cowie, will leave the first of next week on an extended automobile tour to many points in the United States. They will leave California, via Sacramento and Grass Valley. The exposition in Reno will be visited, after which they will coritinue to Salt Lake City, by way of Lovelock and Winnemucca, Cheyenne, Wyoming, will be the next stop on the itinerary, and later the travellers will visit Denver. One of the most interesting trips planned is that by automobile to the top of Pike's Peak.

Middle Western cities to be visited are Wichita, Kansas City, St Louis, Springfield, Ohio, Chicago and Detroit. In the automobile manufacturing centre, Mr. and Mrs. Cowie will leave Mr. and Mrs. Feemster, for a ten-day visit in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Feemster will proceed to Toledo, Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Buffalo.

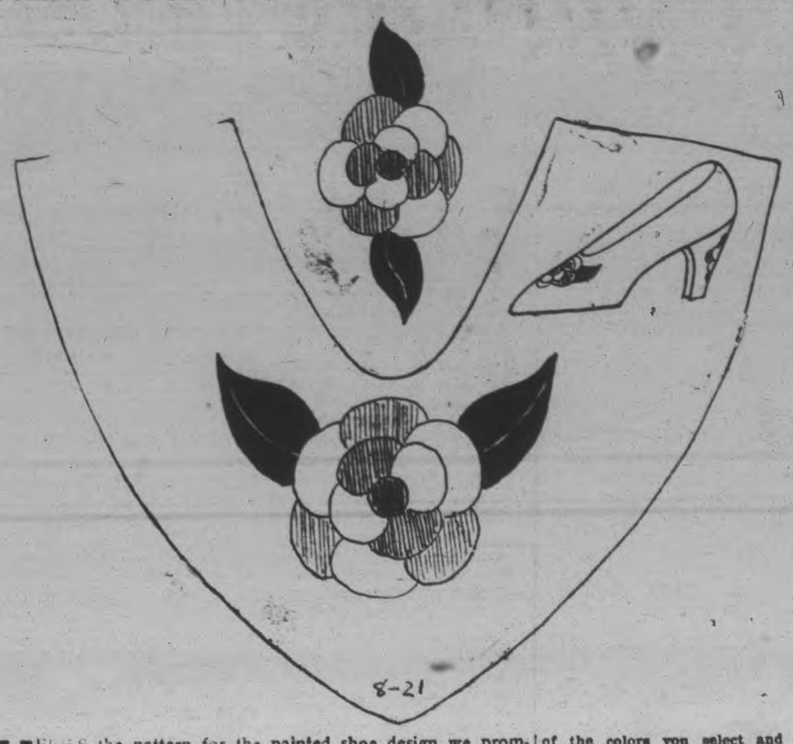
At Niagara Falls the four travellers will assemble again and together will continue their travels, expecting to stop in Rochester, New York; Albany, Utica, Boston, Providence, New Haven, New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Nashville and Memphis.

Returning by the southern route across the United States, the tourists will visit Little Rock, Dallas, Fort Worth, Rosewell, New Mexico; El Paso, Douglas, Tucson, Phoenix, the Grand Canyon and thence enter California by way of San Diego.

Parts of a total of twenty-six states will be negotiated during the trip, requiring about two months."

The above item is from The Visalio (California) Times, and the Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Cowie referred to are now in the city, visiting Mr. Cowie's mother on Simcoe Street. Mr. Cowie, who was at one time with The Examiner, has lived in California for a number of years, and, with his partner, owns a successful job printing establishment. The party left Visalia on August 2nd, encountering very wet weather in the South. They do not expect to reach home until October and by that time will have travelled about twelve thousand miles. Mr. Cowie is still much interested in Peterborough and notices improvements on each visit, the last being made about four years ago. He admires the city for its clean and businesslike appearance, its well-kept homes, its front street and its manufacturing plants. He also thinks that the merchants here must be doing a wonderful business, as he saw very few, if any, summer towns of the size of Peterborough that catered especially to tourists that could afford to lose half a day's business each week in the tourist season, in addition to legal holidays. Mr. Cowie, who, with his wife, will be in the city for about ten days, is renewing old acquaintances.

PAINT YOUR OLD WHITE SHOES FOR PARTIES



HERE'S the pattern for the painted shoe design we promised you. You see how pretty it is. And I'll tell you how easy, as well.

First, you can see where the toe decoration is placed by cutting out the shoe pattern and laying it over one of your slippers. Now you can cut out the design, and trace around its edges on your two shoe toes. Then, looking closely at the pattern, you can mark the outline of the little petals or sections.

Or, if you want, you can trace the design carefully on the shoe by putting a piece of carbon paper between it and the shoe. This, of course, gives you a clearer tracing to work from.

Now, plan your color scheme. It can be of four, three or two colors—rose and green, rose, green and blue, or rose, green, blue and lavendar or yellow. Buy a small tube of oil paint of each of the colors you select and a little turpentine, and lay the colors on carefully, without using too much turpentine—just enough to make the paint smooth on your brush. Let each color dry thoroughly before you put on another. If you use three colors make the center of the flower and the shaded petals rose, the white ones blue, the leaves green.

Having finished the toes, go to work on the heels. And then you will agree with me that you have a pretty pair of evening slippers for small expense of time and work.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1927

During the active hours of this day benefic aspects rule, according to astrology, and there is supposed to be stimulation and even inspiration in the planetary government.

This is a day for settling bills and putting all one's financial affairs in order, so that autumn business may start with a clean slate.

Mercury is in a place supposed to be most fortunate for bankers and brokers, who are to have a period of extraordinary activity.

New kings of finance are to rise in the coming year and again new millionaires will be added suddenly to the long list in America.

All the signs indicate for the press immense profits, due to a renewed interest in reading on the part of the public.

World affairs will stimulate interest in newspapers, magazines, the radio and movies, it is prognosticated, for there is to be the most tremendous momentum in progress.

Rumors of wheat shortage will be disseminated more than once in the next few weeks and there will be much speculation, it is persistently prophesied.

From Europe will come various military suggestions in the fashions, which should be accepted reluctantly, the seers say, as they may forecast serious events.

Scandals may be whispered at the European courts at this time when royal marriages will be widely discussed.

Warning again is given that motor accidents and aviation disasters will show a marked increase.

Changes in the modes will affect the manner of hair-dressing and cause many to return to old-fashions, astrologers foretell.

Manufacturers of cosmetics are warned that there may be a decided falling off in sales, for the vogue for natural beauty is to be followed by social leaders it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have certain anxieties about financial affairs in the coming year. Employees should be most faithful and industrious.

Children born on this day may be keen of intellect, but too much inclined to form fixed opinions. They should be broadly educated.

During its first year, a normal baby sleeps at least two-thirds of the time.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The new shade of reddish brown called pottery is shown in this frock of double-faced satin. It is especially interesting to the fashion observer as it shows the new tendency to make use of curved lines instead of the straight and angular lines which have so long had sway with the dressmakers.

For years the straight line and the angle have been in the ascendancy. Curves have been regarded as either quaint or actually dowdy. Frocks have been made so as to reduce to a minimum the natural curves of the body; panels, plastrons, incrustations have been as straight or as angular as possible.

Curves now venture to return—if not in bodily contours at least in the shaping of yokes, plastrons, panels and all the various parts that make the whole of a dress.

The frock sketched for to-day is an excellent example of the frock that curves. It was designed nW curves—not in angles and straight lines. And among the new frocks that I have seen for late summer and autumn a surprising number of them have shown this new tendency to curve.

At a gathering of over three hundred well-dressed club women recently I amused myself by counting the bobbed and the unbobbed. They averaged up this way: For every twenty, eight had been bobbed for some time, four had taken the fatal step within a few months, three had been bobbed but were now "letting it grow," and five out of twenty had so far sidestepped the fashion entirely.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. How should a bridal party enter the church? Should the bridegroom and his attendant come from the vestry to meet the bride at the altar, or should they precede or follow her up the aisle?

2. Does the bride's father or guardian bring the bride to the altar? And how and when should he leave her?

3. When there is only one bridesmaid, does she walk alone, and if so, should she follow the bride or precede her?

4. Are the guests all seated before the bridal party enter or do the immediate family follow?

Answers.

1. Just before the arrival of the bride, the clergyman enters the church from the vestry, and the bridegroom and best man appear just back of him, walk to the chancel steps, and remain standing at the right of the aisle where they wait for the bride.

2. The bride advances up the aisle on her father's right arm or on that of her nearest male relative. Later, when she has taken her place beside the bridegroom, the person who is giving her away stands back and to the left of the bride. When the minister asks, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" he steps forward, takes the bride's right hand and places it in that of the clergyman, who in turn places it in that of the bridegroom. Then he turns and takes his place in the front left-hand pew which has been reserved for the bride's immediate family.

3. Yes, if there is only one bridesmaid, she walks alone, directly in front of the bride.

4. The guests should be seated in their pews before the bridal party enters the church. As a rule, the immediate family of the bride, excluding the father or relative who is giving her away, arrive just before the bride, and also take their places in the special pews reserved for them, shortly before she appears.

SAINT and SINNER

Bob banged the door of the ice box and went to meet Faith, munching a juicy, red-cheeked peach with what seemed to Faith to be heartless lack of concern.

"I'm so angry I could die!" Faith told him with unexpected violence. "She promised me that she'd not let Glenn Andrews come here tonight, and that she'd stay and look after the baby. It's a pity she can't play nurse to her own baby one or two evenings a week, without slacking on the job!"

"Whoa, old lady!" Bob attempted to soothe her. "Maybe she's in our room, doing something for the baby now. Did you look?"

"No," Faith acknowledged in a small voice, then turned and ran toward her bedroom. "She's not here," she called oevr her shoulder in a loud whisper, as she opened the door into the darkened room. "Don't talk out loud, dear. You may wake up the baby," she admonished, as Bob switched on a light above the dressing table.

The baby's crib at the foot of Faith's bed was a magnet for both pairs of eyes. Then, in a split second, all of Faith's dreadful premonitions of frouble of the night before were realized. The crib was empty!

Faith stood staring, her eyes wide and fixed with horror. Then she sobbed forth a shrill, wailing cry that was like nothing human.

"Stop that, Faith!" Bob commanded, springing forward to grip her shoulders. But his face was as white, his eyes as fixed with horror as her own. "Don't go into hysterics, for God's sake! Stop it, I say!" He shook her almost roughly as that weird, unearthly wail still issued from her throat. "Cherry's got the baby somewhere with her, of course. Probably Andrews came and tempted her to take a drive and not wanting to leave the baby alone in the house, she simply bundled it up and took it with her."

"I'll—I'll whip Cherry for this!" he cried passionately, over her tearing sobs. "Frightening me to ... this! Can't you do something, Bob? Don't stand there like that! Do something! Find her—find the baby!"

Bob's hands dropped from her shoulders. "Don't be unreasonable, dear. Cherry will be back any minute. She didn't expect us back so soon, or has forgotten what time it is herself. The air," he added cunningly, "will do the baby good. We've taken her out ourselves, you know"——

"But not at midnight," Faith cried angrily. "Don't talk like a fool, Bob! Think of it—waking up my precious baby to take her driving at midnight!

Oh, I would like to whip Cherry until her body was black and blue! Why can't she grow up? Why can't she be unselfish once in her life? If the baby gets pneumonia and dies, it will be her fault, and I'll never speak to her again! I'll"—

"Shut up!" Bob commanded her harshly, in an effort to jar her out of her hysteria. "Undress and get to bed. You're just tired out and unreasonable, dear," he added more gently, as she raised swimming, pleading eyes to his.

"I can't undress. I can't go to bed," she said brokenly. "I'm going to watch for Cherry."

She tore out of his grasp and ran through the hall to the front door. Bob snatched up her silk summer coat and wrapped it about her tenderly, then drew her down to the steps, where he sat beside her, chaffing her ice-cold hands.

They had been sitting three almost half an hour and Faith was almost calm, soothed by her husband's gentleness and understanding, when a car glided to a stop before the curb. Cherry sprang out, her light, high laugh tinkling on the quiet air.

"Night, darling! No, don't come in! You might get shot! See you tomorrow! Wonderful time tonight!"

Then she sped lightly up the path, her arms swinging free at her sides, unaware of the two who watched her, so locked in horror that they had not cried out. For Cherry had not taken the baby with her.

Kingston Falcons Eliminated by the Belmonts

CLUB BOYS WIN SECOND GAME OF O. S. SEMI-FINALS 8 TO 5

Heavy Hitting By Petes Main Feature of the Game.

ERRORS COSTLY.

KINGSTON, Aug. 26. — Peterboro Belmonts eliminated Kingston Falcons from the Ontario Softball semi-finals here last evening, when they defeated the locals by the score of 8 to 5, in the second game of the play-offs. The winners won by their heavy hitting, every man on the Peterboro team getting one or more hits. In direct contrast to their playing in Peterboro, Falcons were on their toes and played errorless ball, but long drives by the Peterboro batteries soon put them in the discard.

With the exception of the fifth inning, McLean was never in very great danger. He was given good support in the pinches through while his team mates collected only four errors, they were all costly.

The batting of Green and Frick were the features of the game. Frick landed on the ball for a terrific drive in the eighth, after Delahaye had tripled, and made the only home run clout of the game. Green secured three singles and a triple in four times to the plate. For the losers, Elliott and Hunt were the leading clubbers. The fielding of Batten at second was also outstanding, he having ten difficult chances which he handled faultlessly.

It looked like a Peterboro victory from the very start. Green led off with a single, and Haskill hammered out to centre for a base. Hall popped to Buck, but Ash doubled to send in both runners. Batten flied to Elliott, and Holyman singled, but Ash was caught flat-footed off third for the third out.

Falcons got one run back in the third. With one out, Buck got a life on Frick's error. Elliott popped to the catcher, and Hunt doubled, Buck scoring on the throw in.

In the fifth Peterboro increased their lead. Frick started with a single, and advanced when Murray had a passed ball. McLean was thrown out by Sanders, but Green's single sent Frick home. Haskill then rapped into a double play.

Falcons went into the lead in the fifth, but they only held it two frames. Sanders got a life on Hall's error, and Frick missed Buck's hit, both runners being safe. Elliott laid down a bunt, and the bases were filled. McLean lost control and walked Hunt, forcing in a run. Day hit to Holyman, and Buck scored on the out. On Boyd's rap to Hall, Elliott counted. Gamble ended the innings with a fly to centre.

Falcons went ahead in the sixth on a single and a double, but in the seventh, Frick's walk, McLean's single, Green's triple and Ash's single scored three runs.

The final runs, to make the game sure, came in the eighth. With one out, Delahaye tripled, and scored on Frick's mighty drive for the circuit.

YANKEES WIN SECOND GAME

Pennock Holds Tigers Seven Hits For 5-2 Victory.

HOMER GEHRIG.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 26 (Canadian Press). — Herb. Pennock eased the Tigers down with seven hits yesterday while the New York Yankees hung up their second triumph in the series at Detroit by 8 to 2. Lou Gehrig tied Babe Ruth for the home run leadership by driving the ball over the right field screen for No. 40 in the second inning. Whitehill retired under fire in the fifth during a four-run rally by New York. Marty McManus saved Detroit from a shut-out by knocking a homer with one on in the fifth. About 20,000 fans were in attendance.

Cleveland ran its winning streak to five games and Washington its losing streak to nine games when the Indians won seven to 5 at Cleveland. Hudlin and Zachary, who started the game, were knocked from the box and Buckeye, who replaced Hudlin, proved to be a better relief pitcher than Marberry. It was Buckeye's first victory over the Nats in the three years he had been with Cleveland. He has been beaten nine times by the Senators.

Paced by Ty Cobb, who got five singles in as many times at bat and drove in three runs, the Philadelphia Athletics pounded two St. Louis pitchers for fourteen safeties at St. Louis, and won 6 to 1. Rommel held the Browns to five hits. Their victory yesterday gives the Athletics the first two games of the series.

Sox Lose 6-4.

Bud Clancy's fumble of Shaner's grounder, followed by Todt's single and a squeeze play by Hofmann, set the stage for McFadyen's singles to drive in two Boston runs in the ninth inning to break a tie score, and defeat the White Sox at Chicago 6 to 4.

After Flagstead had tripled, putting Boston two runs in front in the eighth inning, Tony Welzer blew up in Chicago's half, and McFadyen was rushed to the rescue after Chicago had tied the score. McFadyen stopped the White Sox in their tracks.

CUBS BLANK PHILLIES 8-0

Pruett Weakens in Eighth To Allow Victors Six Runs.

ROBINS WIN 2-1.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Charley Root had no trouble in hanging up his 23rd victory of the season for the Chicago Cubs at Philadelphia yesterday, blanking the Phillies by a score of 8 to 0, and allowing only three hits. Pruett held the Cubs to two runs until he weakened in the eighth and was knocked out of the box, when the visitors scored six runs.

After the Braves had defeated the Pirates, 5 to 1, behind the masterful three-hit pitching of Kent Greenfield in the first game at Boston, the visitors slugged their way to an 8 to 1 victory in the second game of a double header. Greenfield has beaten Pittsburgh five times in a row this season.

The fielding of the Waner brothers of Pittsburgh was the feature of the afternoon. The Pirates found their batting eyes in the second game, drove Bob Smith from the box and forced Genewich to retire under a barrage of base hits.

Catcher Francis Hogan of the Braves was informed yesterday by an X-ray specialist that the ulma bone in his right arm was fractured on Saturday when he was hit by a ball thrown by Root. He will be out of the game for three weeks at least.

Dazzy Vance was too much for the invading Cincinnati Reds, and Brooklyn won the first of a six-game series by 2 to 1. Vance fanned eight batters and kept eight hits well distributed. In the fourth, Carey's single, his steal of second, and Barrett's single brought in the first run for the Robins. The other was made on Butler's single, a sacrifice and Statz's double.

The Cards and Giants were idle.

"SOUL OF VIOLIN" TOO MUCH FOR HER.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 25.—The "Soul of the Violin" is a pathetic story of an old French violinist who, dying in poverty, refuses to sell his valuable instrument to save himself and smashes it so no stranger may play it after his death.

Miss May Myrta was reading the story over station WSYR the other night, while Howard Ackles played a violin obligato at her side. The emotional climax was too much for Miss Myrta. When she reached the part about the dying musician smashing his fiddle, she snatched the violin from Ackles and crashed it over her knee.

PECK SOCCER GAME HERE SATURDAY

Quakers Meet Thistle in the Semi-final at King Edward Park.

Local soccer fans will again see old rivals—Quakers and Thistle—meet in the semi-finals of the E. A. Peck trophy on Saturday afternoon, at the King Edward park. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. Referee John Ward.

It is a very peculiar coincidence to note that these two teams have been drawn out of the hat in every cup competition during the season, and the Masseys have always gained the bye in the final of every cup, which means in each instance that they played only one game to win the cup proper. After the winner is declared between these contestants in the semi-final, they will again meet the Masseys in the final in the near future.

Both teams have not selected their players yet but in all probability each side will show a few changes.

Mistake Corrected.

Of course reporters can be corrected as well as players, and in this case, Harry Mann deserves full credit for his gentlemanly letter in reminding them that he played with Charlie Griffin in the same year that the C.G.E. won the trophy. James Sharman played with the now defunct G.W.V.A. team. Charlie Fenner, who guarded the uprights for the Masseys, played for the Caledonians.

SONGER HURLS LEAFS TO WIN OVER READING

Make Clean Sweep of Five Game Series By 7-2 Victory.

ALLOWS SIX HITS.

Toronto Club Now in Third Place of International League.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Don Songer, the Leafs' latest addition, held the tail-end Reading Keystones to six hits in his first start on the home park yesterday, and while he walked four the Leafs had little difficulty in winning, 7 to 2, making a clean sweep of the five game series, during which they climbed from fifth to third place in the standing.

Three hits, after two were out, in the first inning, gave the Keys their first run, while the second came in the next inning when Oeschler doubled, went to third on Walsh's error and scored when Styles threw into left field in an attempt to cut him off at third. The Leafs manufactured a run in each of the first three innings on one hit in each while in the sixth a couple of errors on sacrifice hits helped to add three more along with as many hits.

The Buffalo Bisons stubbed their toe after taking eight straight and the Baltimore Orioles snapped out of a nine consecutive game losing streak when Earnshaw repulsed the league leaders at Buffalo with a fine pitching exhibition by a score of 10 to 2. Earnshaw fanned eight of the Bisons. It was a loosely played game.

Rochester made a clean sweep of the Newark series, defeating the Bears in the final game at Rochester, 12 to 4.

Jim Chaplin, New York Giant recruit from the University of Florida, shut the Stars out at Syracuse 12 to 0, thus smashing a winning streak that had endured through nine games. Jersey City hit Miller and Stout freely, making eight hits off the former and ten off the latter.

JAPAN DEFEATED IN THE SINGLES

France Wins in Two Opening Matches of Davis Cup Finals.

BROOKLYN, Mass., August 26. — Canadian Press. — Japan was decisively deefated by France in the two opening singles matches of the Davis Cup inter-zone finals on the turf cuorst of the Longwood Cricket Club here yesterady.

Henri Cochet, France, who holds the British singles title, took Yoshire Ohts of Japan, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2, in 52 minutes. In the second match, which lasted 50 minutes, Jean Rene Lacoste, France, went through three straight sets 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, to defeat Takeichi Harada, Japans first string player.

In the two sets France won a total of 189 points to Japan's 118.

The French entered play the favorites to win but it was not expected that the victory would come as easily.

In his match with Lacoste, Haraad was unable to make his own service good at any time. Cochet broke through him on 11 successive services.

Harada is ordinarily considered a dangerous singles opponent and last year he beat Lacoste in interzone play—he showed none of his old form today.

Cochet found less difficulty with Ohta than his teammate with Harada Ohta was expected to show well against Cochet but he was erratic, and appeared dazzled by the Frenchman's placements and cross court volleys.

Ohta showed better in service than Harada, taking five games on it. He was however, unable to break through Cochet, who was airtight throughout.

The doubles are scheduled for today. Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra for France will meet Teizo and Harada for Japan.

The Japanese combination is very certain to play as announced but in making the announcement for France it was said that the Brugnon-Borerta comination is 'subject to change with notice."

Bobby Jones Will Enter Semi-Finals

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26. Canadian Press. — Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga., British open golf champion, entered the semi-finals of the United States amateur golf tournament at Minikahda yesterday, when he defeated Jimmy Johnston of Minneapolis, 10 up and nine to play.

Francis Ouret of Boston, 1924 amateur champion, became Jones opponent in the semi-finals when he downed Phillips Finlay the young New York star, in the other quarter final match of the lower bracket, 4 and 3.

Chick Evans of Chicago, former amateur and oepn champion, became semi-finalist in the upper bracket when he downed Eddie Held of St. Louis, 4 and 3.

SOCCER CLUBS BEGIN ACTION ON SATURDAY

Most Attention in the Press Has Been Devoted to Portsmouth.

ENGLISH LEAGUES.

Champions Hard at Practise For Several Weeks.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press Cable).—All the English soccer league clubs swing into action for the 1927-28 season on Saturday afternoon. Reports from the clubs show the usual early enthusiasm. Most attention in the press has been devoted to Portsmouth, which club has made a meteoric rise from the third division to the English league to the first string. The team is composed of the youngsters who have done so well in the minor league and actually none of them have had any experience in senior company.

Newcastle United, the league champions last season, have been hard at practice work for several weeks. A certain amount of new talent has been tried out, but the club will rely very largely on the same men as composed the eleven last year.

Cardiff, the cup winners, are in much the same position ,though the management of the club expects to show increased strength at outside right, where Willie Davies, who has recovered from a serious breakdown, will perform as heretofore. Ferguson will again be the "leader" of the eleven, with Len Davies supporting him "inside."

Aston Villa start the season with high hopes. The club hopes to do better at the outset than last season, when Walker's injury and the breakdown of Nicholson upset the balance of the team.

Sunderland is regarded by critics as weak on the right wing, though strengthened on the front line on paper by bringing in of Wright from Cowdenbeath to act as partner to Halliday.

Among the London teams in Senior company Arsenal, last season's runners up for the cup, begin the season under a cloud caused by the threatened exposures in regard to their management by the Football Association. The team representing the club last year has been kept intact. West Ham United are going to make a bold bid for championship honors with an almost new team. Chief among the new faces on their lineup will be Isaac Tate, the reserve Newcastle United goalkeeper; W. Smith, Notts County full back, and Cyril Norrington, left half, who attracted a good deal of attention while with Barking last year. Tottenham Hotspur, perhaps the wealthiest club in Britain, with surplus assets of £90,000, have signed on enough players to form three teams. Grimsdell promises to resume his place at left half and should be a fine asset if he can stand the strain of First Division football again.

Derby County are anxious for a good season, as they are badly in debt. They are going to experiment with a young team.

The balance of the First Division teams will all see new men in uniform when the whistles blow Saturday afternoon, though Everton and Liverpool have not succeeded in getting the class of men wanted to replace the old timers on their elevens.

Th executives of the various clubs are breathing more freely now that the dog race promoters have decided not to run meetings during the soccer playing season. Such competition would undoubtedly have struck a serious blow at the treasuries of the weaker clubs.

BACK TO SCHOOL.

(This is a continuation of several articles I have written for you on the subject of rheumatic fever. I hope you have saved the other articles, and I suggest that you make a scrapbook of them to serve as future reference.)

TREATMENT AFTER RHEUMATIC FEVER

After the rheumatic fever has subsided and the temperature is again normal, the patient will find himself very weak and, in many cases, he will be unable to support his own weight for a few days. Exercise should be started cautiously, first in bed, remembering to keep the body well covered with woolen bedclothing or woolen garments. However, no exercise of any kind should be taken as long as there is the slightest fever.

When the fever has been normal for at least twenty-four hours, patient should start taking light finger and arm exercises, and finally mild exercises with the legs. As soon as the patient can support his own weight he should take short walks through the rooms of the house, taking only a few steps at first and gradually increasing the distance, with long periods of rest in between times.

There will be a very slow increase of appetite, and no heavy food should be used for several days. The non-starchy vegetables, such as spinach, string beans, summer squash, etc., may be used, either cooked or raw, and the patient should be encouraged to eat liberally of these vegetables even though not having much appetite. This is because, while these vegetables are low in food value, they furnish bulky material which will assist in bringing away much poisonous mucus from the alimentary tract and assist in getting the digestive system in good condition to take care of more nourishing foods.

As soon as the appetite returns, an egg or two a day may be added to the diet, together with well-browned Melba toast. Then, after a few days, a quarter of a pound of lean meat should be taken daily if the appetite dictates. Starches and sugars should not be used for some time.

The patient must not try to go back to regular duties until he is sufficiently strong, and until the heart action is practically normal. The pulse will be rapid at first, but, with a proper health-building regime, will slow down to normal within a short time.

The one who has been through a spell of rheumatic fever must remember that it can be produced again in the same manner as before. It will be well for him to read over again the first of these articles which appeared on Tuesday and Wednesday.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. Myrtle K. asks: "Are kidney stones really made of stone, and if so, how is it possible to dissolve them?"

ANSWER: Kidney stones are of various kinds. They are made of uric acid crystals, urates, oxalate of lime, phosphate crystals, calcium carbonate, cystine, carbonate of lime, xanthine and indigo. These crystals and minerals are cemented together into differently shaped stones, but are rarely of the same composition as ordinary stones of the soil. Many of these stones can be dissolved under proper dietetic treatment. If the chemistry of the urine is properly changed, the cemented crystals lose their adherence to each other and pass out in the form of "gravel." Such remedies as muriatic acid are sometimes used to dissolve these stones, but the safest and sanest method is through changing the chemistry of the urine by by scientific dietetics.

QUESTION: Mrs. Wm. J. L. writes: "I would like to take a sea voyage, but I am such a poor sailor. Do you think I could get over my tendency to seasickness if I eat only certain kinds of food?"

ANSWER: It is probably true that a vast amount of seasickness is caused simply by biliousness. Yet, there are many people in good health who become nauseated whenever they sit in a swing or are subjected to any regular motion such as they get when on a ship. This may be due to defects of vision which can be cured by properly fitted glasses; or it may be caused by an improper amount of the balancing fluid in the inner ear. In the latter case, one may be unable to overcome the trouble except by staying in bed, lying in a horizontal position. This will generally overcome seasickness, no matter what the cause. This would be a good time for you to try a fruit fast, using only one kind of fruit on any one day.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

STEEL AND GOLD

What is friendship? Steel and gold—
Steel that will not break,
Though the way be wet and cold,
Though the heart may ache.
For I would not call a friend
One that any weight could bend;
Friendship, like a swaying chain,
Tightens in the hour of strain.

What is friendship? Gold and steel—
Gold that will not rust,
When the day demands the leal,
Love that love can trust.
For a friend I would not call
One who was not friend through all.
Friendship, like a candlelight,
Brightest shines in hours of night.

What is friendship? Steel and gold—
Beautiful, and strong,
Gold to shine and steel to hold,
For the years are long.
For I would not call it such
Time could tarnish, hate could touch.
When the winds the weak reveal,
What is friendship? Gold and steel.

There is talk of the Virginia League being made an all-Virginia affair next season by dropping Wilson and Kinston, the two North Carolina members of the circuit, and giving their berths to Roanoke and Lynchburg.

Entries received to date indicate that nearly all of the bicycle racers of prominence now in America will compete in the national championships which are to be held in Louisville during the two days beginning September 10th.

GEHRIG ENTERS WALSH STABLE

Places Himself Under Management of Enterprising Promoter.

GOING BARN-STORMING

(By Henry Farrell, United Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK August 26 (United Press). — Babe Ruth hasn't the speaking acquaintance with the classics that Mr. Gene Tunney can boast of and his grammar certainly cannot be held up as a model to young America, but the Babe has a way of putting a lot of sound wisdom into common clothes.

When he was asked recently what he thought of Buster Gehrig, the young teammate who is engaging in a Home Run Derby against him, the Babe replied with only the formality of shifting the chew in his mouth:

"If he keeps smackin' 'em, he'll be in the big dough."

At the time of writing the Buster was still smacking them, but even if he does not continue to smack 'em for the remainder of the season he will have at least a short period of residence in the big dough.

Taking a tip from Ruth that home run fame can be capitalized just as much if not more off the diamond as it can on the playing field, Gehrig placed himself under the business management of Christy Walsh, a hustling young writer and promoter who has made a fortune for the Babe since he persuaded the home run king that his business affairs needed a manager.

It was Christy Walsh more than fines and the threat of his job that brought Ruth to the realization that no candle will burn long from both ends and it was Walsh who chained him up and tossed him into a gymnasium for a winter season of the hardest work the Babe ever did.

Walsh booked the Babe for a barnstorming tour last winter that netted the firm about $100,000, and it was Walsh who negotiated the movie contract that netted the firm plenty more. When anyone wants to use the name of the Babe for advertising or exploitation purposes, Walsh is the man who talks the terms, collects the dough, and banks it.

Walsh is going to promote another barn-storming trip after the World's Series, and with the Babe he will have Buster Gehrig, two of the greatest drawing cards baseball ever has known. There will be some other ball players, of course, to make up a necessary dozen, but the Babe and the Buster alone will hang up gate receipts that will far surpass any other venture of the kind.

Naturally Gehrig will share in the receipts.

Ruth, it is estimated, has made twice or three times the money from outside sources that he has made in baseball. The revenue from various sidelines can be realized when it is known that a candy manufacturer paid Red Grange $165,000 in one year in royalties for the use of his name on a five-cent chocolate bar. And all the time that Jack Dempsey was heavyweight champion he drew $10,000 a year for the use of one photograph of his right arm and a testimonial that some kind of a patent medicine gave him his power. The time consumed in making that picture probably was ten minutes.

Gehrig is just a sophomore in baseball, and his name is not—and may never be—of such appeal as to cause customers to buy a suit of underwear, a belt, a pair of suspenders or an automobile just because it bears his name.

He didn't know he was going to be such a home run hitter when he signed his last contract with Col. Jake Ruppert and as he never wears a hat or an overcoat, lives at home with the family and hesitates at penny-a-point bridge, he probably was content when his employer in a big hearted moment offered him $7,500 a year.

But unless than one short season, the Buster is in the big dough. He is smart enough and not too modest to know, without being told by the Babe, that he has the colonel in the corner now and when he is called to the floor of the brewery to look at a new piece of paper he can count the figures and if they are not in the fives he can walk out in dignity and tell the colonel to call him up when he has the figures changed.

Colonel Ruppert, as affable a gentleman and as fine a sportsman as he is, doesn't like the newspaper boys to spend his money for him. No millionaire in big business does.

"You fellows," Col. Ruppert said when he was sweating about what he would have to pay the Babe last winter, "are giving these ball players the wrong idea of what they're worth.

"You, Farrell", he said, "sent a story all over the country that if the Babe didn't nick me for $100,000 a year he was a sucker. That's a lot of money and if the Babe would guarantee to pay me $100,000 a year he might get the ball club. The Babe is worth a raise and he'll get it."

Even if it is not practical or to their liking, it is sport nevertheless to spend the club owner's money for them and participating in that little sport the opinion is offered that if Gehrig doesn't get at least $35,000 a year on a new contract he is not the good young German man that he seems to be.

The magnates probably will cause the introduction of the vogue of private managers for ball players. It always has been fairly easy to do business with a ball player acting as his own business manager. Figures can be twisted around so much and talked so fast that the ordinary ball player gets dizzy and signs in self-defense.

With a manager out in the hall to act as counsel, especially a manager of the type of Walsh, the magnates will get some of the worries that Tex Rickard has had talking to Jack Kearns, Leo Flynn, Bill Gibson and others of the big ring managers.

The type of ball players is changing as the game has changed from a pastime into one of the biggest of business enterprises. The magnates turned to the college fields when they decided to make the game fit for the ladies. They got rid of the roughnecks but they have hung around their necks a new type of young business men who know what they want and how to get it.

JOHNSON HAS HAD GREAT SUCCESSES

World-Widely Noted Tenor Should Fill Grand Opera House.

Edward Johnson, now acclaimed the world's greatest tenor and successor to Caruso, is coming to Peterborough for a concert on the evening of Thursday, September 29th, in the Grand Opera House.

The opportunity of hearing Johnson in Peterborough has been made possible by the enterprise of the Kiwanis Club, and it is a foregone conclusion that the people of Peterborough will back up this venture to the fullest extent and make it a wonderful success.

Edward Johnson is a self-made artist. He was born of Canadian parents in Guelph, Canada, of Scottish ancestry, who planned to educate him for the law. Though he tried hard to comply with the wishes of his parents, he preferred music to law, and finally gave up his law course, determined to become a singer. His parents were very much displeased with his decision, and withdrew all aid, saying that if he was going to be a singer he would have to do so by himself.

So young Johnson left his home for New York, where he soon secured a position as choir boy in the Presbyterian church. He had ample time to devote to the study of music and made rapid progress. His voice and his personality attracted much attention, so that he went on several tours throughout the United States and Canada, giving concerts in all the principal cities.

Suddenly he dropped out of sight. Theatrical producers who had heard his remarkable voice sought him, but in vain. Only his intimate friends knew that he had departed for Florence, Italy, to study under Lombardi, the famous teacher who had taught Caruso. Two years under Lombardi and Mr. Johnson was ready for his debut, which took place in Padua, Italy, in 1912.

Mr. Johnson had translated his name into the Italian, deferring to the Italian prejudice against American tenors, and so for ten years he sang in Italy, and all over Europe he was known as Eduardo di Giovanni. These years were composed of one triumph after another.

He returned to America in 1920 and has since sung in almost every city in the United States in opera or concert, joining the Metropolitan Opera Company in 1921, after having appeared with the Chicago Opera Company. Mr. Johnson then went to London and sang with Dame Nellie Melba at Covent Garden where he repeated his triumphs of Chicago, New York, Milan and Rome. His successes have been many as he has created more leading roles than any tenor now singing on the operatic stage.

This is Mr. Johnson's fifth year with the Metropolitan Company, after having been two years with the Chicago Company. It is his second season at Ravina Park. He has been re-engaged for a three year contract at the Metropolitan in New York City and on the Spring tours.

CHAPLIN SMILES

His wife having finally obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce, which will be irrevocable after one year, Charlie Chaplin has about reached the end of his marital trouble. Financial settlement is now the last formality in cleaning up the wrangle between himself and Lita Grey Chaplin. Judging by his smile the famous movie comedian is now beginning to enjoy life again.

MRS. MALLORY WINS FROM ENGLISH STAR

TENNIS PLAY.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—With her title in seeming danger, Mrs. Molla Mallory yesterday summoned back a flash of the power that has made her Queen of United States tennis eight times and repulsed the dashing challenge of a youthful English star, Gwynneth Sterry, in a match decided by the spectacular scores of 6—0, 0—6, 6—0

The victory of the 34-year-old U. S. champion over her 22-year-old rival, daughter of a five-times British champion, was an outstanding feature of the third round of play in the National Women's tennis championships. It shares principal interest with another and more surprising victory for the United States in which Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin fifth ranking national player, upset the English favorite, Miss Joan Fry, in another three set duel, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4.

U. S. Players Triumph

The native forces triumphed in five of seven international matches with European rivals, leaving only Miss Betty Nuthall, 16-year-old English girl, and Miss Kea Bouman, champion of Holland, as foreign threats in today's quarter-finals.

Miss Nuthall, last survivor of seven original British entries, bounded all over the court to conquer Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., eighth ranking American, 6—4, 6—3, while Miss Bouman rallied from an uncertain start to overwhelm Mrs. J. Dallas Cordyere, of Boston, sixth ranking American, 1—6, 6—0, 6—2.

Miss Helen Wills, three times former champion and favorite to regain the crown now worn by Mrs. Mallory, swept on relentlessly, overpowering her third opponent, Mrs. John Hill of England, with even more convincing ease than the score of 6—1, 6—4, indicated.

The other California Helen, Miss Jacobs, had a more difficult time taking the measure of Miss Eileen Bennett of England, 7—5, 6—4, in a match that was nip and tuck all the way.

In scoring the remaining U. S. victory over British opposition, Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, third on the national list, also was extended to defeat Miss E. H. Harvey in three sets, 1—6, 6—1, 11—9.

Today's quarter-final pairings are as follows:

Mrs. Mallory vs. Mrs. Chapin; Miss Goss vs. Miss Nuthall; Miss Wills vs. Miss Bouman, and Miss Jacobs vs. Mrs. E. N. Roeser of New York, who won yesterday from Mrs. W. H. Pritchard of New York, 6—1, 6—1.

WHO INVENTED "PLUS FOURS-"

Guards Lieutenants Blamed For Them—Goldberg Differs.

MIGHT DO FOR TENTS.

Each year sees a fresh discussion over the origin of the term "plus fours", as applied to the more or less ornamental and abbreviated trousers worn by members of the sport-loving fraternity during the summer months.

Mr. D. G. Melton supplies us with a history of the derivation of the term, saying that it came into use when lieutenants of the Brigade of Guards started to wear short pants with a strap at the knee, hanging about four inches over the puttees beneath. This four inches of overlapping, baggy material supplied the ideas of "plus fours." The Guardsmen wished to have attire somewhat out of the ordinary, and found this effect quite satisfactory in differentiating them from the officers who wore riding breeches and puttees and the mounted men who wore leggings.

The gentlemen who edits the "Famous Trouble Makers" series appearing nightly in The Examiner has a different idea. He claims that Tweed G. Balloon was the creator of "plus fours", and that they were called so because the inventor hid his four children in them to avoid paying their car fare. "If you wear them in a wind," he concludes, "and are blown far away from home, you can always use them for a tent."

One excellent attribute about these "plus fours" is the fact that, so far, they have not been imitated by the ladies who have adopted pretty nearly everything else in masculine attire.

Enters United States National Singles Play

MONTREAL, Que, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Jack Wright, Montreal tennis star, and member of the Canadian Davis Cup team, has entered the United States' national singles championship play which is to be held at Forest Hills, New York, he announced to-day.

Wright is under medical care with an infected foot as a result of his strenuous play in the Davis Cup meet, and this may prevent his appearance. He hopes to be all right by the time the United States tournament opens.

AT THE CAPITOL

TOM MIX IN "OUTLAWS OF RED RIVER."

Although Western pictures have become somewhat of a drug on the market during recent months, there is a good deal of real interest to the latest offering locally of Tom Mix, in "Outlaws of Red River." Action is the word in this picture, and an element of reality, which is often absent from Western thrillers.

As "The Falcon," a member of the Texas Rangers, Tom Mix takes the part of Tom Morley, striving to eradicate from the mountain fastnesses a band of outlaws. He has the usual adventures with the gallant horse Tony, as wonderful aide, and appears in all the glory of his broad-brimmed hat and extraordinary chapparals, with outrageous flaps at the sides. He rescues Mary Torrence (Marjorie Daw) from the outlaws, and stages a thrilling attack on a fortified mountain retreat of the outlaws, with an armored coach, which penetrates, by way of dynamite, to the very heart of the robbers' eyrie.

The complete official picture of the Dempsey-Sharkey championship bout which forms an added attraction for the week-end programme drew a capacity crowd to the Capitol last night, and proved also very interesting, being a very different type of prize-fight to the showing of the Dempsey-Tunney encounter. The latter appeared to be a battle of brains rather than of brawn, but this fight between the smaller Dempsey and the huge Sharkey, resembled more a match between two fighting cocks ,with the lowered heads and fierce grapples of the two making the affair a real sparring match. It had plenty of interest for men and women alike, judging from the comments from the audience as the tussle grew warmer in its closing stages.

Daredevil Drivers Do Damage!

PROBABLY a few hundred dollars will cover the cost of this accident, but think how serious it might have been!

Think how much of the pleasure we have every right to expect from motoring is being stolen from us by daredevil drivers!

You find these chaps everywhere . . especially when there has just been an accident . . they are always taking chances.

These reckless fellows do not mean to be the menace that they are; it is only that they are bubbling over with energy, impatient of delay and eager to "get somewhere" . . usually for no reason at all.

One thing we can all do and that is to be very careful not to merit the title "daredevil" ourselves.

As a means to this end, surely we are all agreed that for one thing—

Careless "Cutting In" Should Be Cut Out.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmet Murtough to whom she is engaged. Murtough joins a band of bootleggers and Sheila becomes interested in Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer. Murtough betrays to rivals the hiding place of $150,000 contraband. At a dance given by the West End Club, a political association, Murtough deserts Sheila for the cabaret girl who had trapped him into betraying his band and who plans to double cross him.

"There's Emmett," she said. "You haven't seen him tonight. Let's go over to him."

But Rory had heard stories and he had known little Clary Clancey as he had called her from the time they went to ward school. He knew her reputation in the neighborhood and he demurred.

"Oh, we'll see him upstairs," he said. "I'll have to take you safely back to mother, you know."

"Who's the girl that's with him?" asked Sheila with her frank directness.

Sheila permitted Rory to guide her through the crowd and back to her chair. There was a short wait and another dance was on. This she danced also with Rory, but her mind was downstairs, wondering who the girl was that Emmett should be talking to. "He must know I'd be a wall flower without him," she thought, "and it's not right even if I'm not." Which is much the way a girl may think about many things. Sheila was not jealous, but she wanted Emmett to be a part of their party and a party to her own happiness every minute of the glorious night. The dance over, they returned to their seats, but Murtough had not yet appeared. Rory feeling that he was in the way, since Sheila had not even spoken to him, except a courteous "thank you" when he delivered her to a seat, excused himself and drifted downstairs. He joined some of the men he knew and talked about the subject he knew best, boxing and coming fighters. Many were the congratulations he received upon his own recent victory and there were hearty predictions that he would yet bring home the championship to Hell's Kitchen.

"Aren't you man enough to look after the lady you escorted?"

Then he saw Sheila. She was alone and she was searching, Rory knew for Murtough. He tried to get through the crowd to reach her, but the crowd pressed him back. He mounted a chair and gave a swift survey to the room. Murtough was nowhere to be seen. Rory knew that in the old rathskellar in the basement was another refreshment stand, and he knew a back stairway that led to it. Making his way through the crowd as fast as he could, he hurried downstairs and into the refreshment parlor. He saw no sign of Sheila and sighed in relief as he saw Murtough and Clarice sitting at a corner table refreshments in front of them.

"Evening, Clary," answered Rory. Then to her companion: "Murtough, Miss Kildare is looking for you."

"And what do you care? Is it any of yer business?"

"No, but—"

"Then let me tend to my own affairs." An ugly threatening tone; the result of too much refreshment was in the bigger man's voice.

"But, Murtough, I saw her come down from the dance floor alone and soon she'll be here."

"What of it, dearie," smirked Clarice. "Can't a man sit down with his fiancee if he wants to? How do you get that way?"

Murtough engaged to Clarice! Impossible! Why, Sheila herself had told him of her betrothal. This brute was deceiving the sweetest girl in the world! Rory clenched his fists. Seldom did he permit the O'Shea temper to rise; that accounted for his splendid ringmanship, but this!

"I tell you again, Murtough, that Miss Kildare, whom you brought here, is looking for you. Aren't you man enough to look after the lady you escorted?"

"He brought her here," cried Clarice. "Aw, tell him he's a liar, Big Boy, I know you didn't. His brain must be mush like his cauliflower ear!"

"I didn't bring her. I only came with her an' her old man," defended Murtough to Clarice. "But it's none of yer business; I told ye' to keep out of my sight!"

A shadow passed between Rory and Murtough and Sheila herself leaned over the table.

"Emmett, what did ye' leave me for, dear?"

"Sheila!"

"I've been waiting for you ever so long. Why did ye' leave me? An' won't you introduce me to your friend?"

"I've business with this young lady, so just leave us alone an' I'll see ye' a while later."

"Emmett! Emmett!"

"Miss Kildare," she felt a hand on her arm, "let me take you back to your father."

Murtough leaped to his feet and swung Rory's hand free.

Then Sheila understood. Emmett was the old Murtough, the arrogant, bullying Murtough. She turned away and Rory caught Murtough's wrist in his wiry fingers.

"Murtough," he whispered coldly, "I'll be back in five minutes. Get out now or I'll cut that dirty face of yours to ribbons!" He caught Sheila's arm. "Come, Miss Kildare; mother and your father are waiting for you."

"Why didn't you knock him cold, Big Boy. I never could stand him. He's too high hat for a common prizefighter. But," she turned a cold eye on him, "you know that girl pretty well."

"Well, she's a sort of a cousin of mine; both come from the same town, Killianmaul," lied Murtough, desperate. "I hope the scut does come back; I'll wring his neck," he boasted.

"Father, father, take me home," she whispered, but not too low for Rory to overhear.

"Indeed you're not going, Miss Kildare. You're going to have supper and we're all going to sit together for it. The supper will be served in about a half hour and I'll come back here and take you all down to our table. Just you wait, and don't you worry."

"There won't be any trouble," she pleaded, with Rory in a low voice so that the older folk might not hear.

"Nothing to worry about at all," he smiled. "Just you sit quiet. I'm bringing over some of my friends so you'll have plenty of beaus 'till I get back."

In a few minutes he returned, followed by three nice looking young men about his own age. They were introduced to Sheila and their frank smiles of open and frank admiration chased away the tears.

"Now be gallant, boys. There'll be a dance for each one of you, so don't start a battle royal," Rory laughed as he left them.

Clocker, Devlin and one or two others of his crowd had joined Murtough's table by the time Rory reached it again. Rory walked straight to Murtough and tapped him on the shoulder.

"You're wanted, Murtough," he said.

"Who wants me?"

"I do. Come on in the back room; there's plenty of room and we'll close the door. Come on."

"Why should I be going with you?"

"If you don't, then I'm going to take you just where you are. Want a muss here in front of the crowd?"

Murtough stood up, and his hand traveled toward his left armpit, but he remembered that he had been unable to conceal his holster by the tuxedo coat.

"What's the row?" demanded Clocker.

"That's our business. But suppose you fellows come in and keep the crowd out."

Devlin was the first to his feet. "If there's anything I like it's a bad blood scrap. Come on."

He led the way to the back, which was a store room, and switched on the lights. There were only two or three small incandescent globes, but they were enough. Clarice tried to enter, but Clocker stopped her. "You wait out here; you're not in on this."

Rory quickly threw off his collar, coat and vest. Murtough stood as he was.

"Better take off your coat, Murtough," advised Rory.

MARCELS HIS WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Aug. 25.—Two years ago, Carl Wilson decided he wanted to go to college, but he didn't have enough money. And he didn't know how to work his way until he talked with an aunt who had studied beauty culture. She told him of the money and opportunity offered by the work, so he started in to learn it.

The next fall, when he went to Emporia State Normal, he found a plentiful feminine clientele awaiting him. He persuaded a beauty shop to hire him and more than once he has marcelled the head of a girl friend whom he was to take to a party later in the evening.

Now, half way through his college course, he is the envy of many a man who has to live on checks received from home.

'DUKE' DAINTY IS LIKELY CHOICE AGAINST PETES

TRYING FOR JUMP.

Both Teams Out To Get Edge By Winning First Game.

"Duke" Dainty, veteran Oshawa left-hander, may get the call to take the hill top against Peterborough in the opening game of the Lake Shore League play off series at James Stevenson park to-morrow. The "Duke" has faced the Petes in many a hard fought battle and it would not be surprising were Billy Benson, the Motor manager, to call upon the well seasoned southpaw to try and baffle the Swanston crew. He will be faced by Al. Heckman and the two have matched their cunning many times before and always with a lot of interest attached to the duel.

To-morrow's game ,the first of a five-games series starts at three o'clock. Both teams are anxious to get the jump by winning the first tilt and they will be at full strength. Among the former Central Ontario Leaguers with the visitors will be Reg. Fair, Hank Morrison and Duke Dainty.

The Petes have waited a long time to get into a game that would count, and they are happy that they are getting action at last. Many out of town fans are coming in for the first real senior ball of the year, and there will undoubtedly be a big crowd out when the first ball is pitched.

AMARDALE WINS OTTAWA RACE IN SPLENDID TIME

Arthur Johnston's Veteran Stallion Shows Speed at the Capital.

IN STRAIGHT HEATS.

Peterborough harness horses have been going great guns in the races at the Ottawa Exhibition, and on Wednesday Arthur Johnston's veteran pacer Amardale was the sensation of the day in winning the $500 2.15 class race in straight heats, clipping off the first heat in the fast time of 2.10¼ and the second in 2.10½. Ed Baker, sporting editor of the Ottawa Citizen, pays the following tribute to the gallant old stallion:

Old timers at Lansdowne Park this week are not altogether confined to horsemen. There is a pacing stalling out there, Amardale by name, that is an equine veteran and still a very shifty steed.

Despite his fourteen years, twelve of which have been in racing, Amardale won the 2.15 pace yesterday in straight heats. The old horse came close to his half-mile track record of 2.09¼, made several years ago, when he stepped the first heat of his race in 2.11¼.

Amardale was foaled at the Empire City Farm, Cuba, N.Y., in 1913. As a 2-year-old he took a record of 2.25¼ at Lexington, Ky. Later he was bought by Oliver Hawkins, of Wolfe Island, near Kingston, Ont., for $125, and was sold for $4,000 in December, 1920. The previous August he took a record of 2.05¼ at North Randall, Ohio.

The present visit of Amardale to the Capitol is not the horse's first. Several years ago he hooked up with Romala in a 2.10 pace at the Central Canada Exhibition, but the California mare outpaced him in three record-breaking heats. The best time credited to Romala that day was 2.19¼, but several competent clockers caught one of the heats two seconds faster than the time announced.

Mr. Johnston, of Peterborough, present owner of the "iron horse," stated yesterday that Amardale would be retired to the stud at the close of the present racing season. In the meantime the good looking brown stallion will likely win a few more purses as he came out of yesterday's race sound as a bell of brass."

ENGLISH LEAGUE SUSPENDS EIGHT

MORE EXPECTED.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press Cable).—The bombshell which has been thrown into English professional soccer is expected to burst on Monday, when the findings of the commission appointed by the council of the English Football Association into the operations of the Arsenal club in the first division are expected to be published. The newspapers are stating that several suspensions are likely to follow the action of the league.

A minor explosion took place today, when the league suspended the secretary of the Crooktown club, the champions of the northern league, permanently. The chairman and treasurer of the club are suspended sine die, while five members of the finance committee are banned until the end of 1928.

CRICKET NEWS.

PETERBORO C. C. VS. C.G.E.

GROUND BROKEN IN NEW SECTION

Charlotte Street West of Monaghan Road Is Opening Up.

James Brown, contractor, has broken ground for a new up-to-date house on Charlote street west, in the Victoria Heights section, facing the Highway.

While new homes are being rapidly built in Victoria Heights on Gilmour street ,and other streets north of it, this is the first break on the extreme south of the property. The opposite side of the Highway, around the bend, is well built up, and now that a start has been made, no doubt the lots facing south will receive more attention.

DETROIT PLANE GETS AWAY

Naval men said that if Redfern reached his objective it would be nothing short of a miracle. They estimated he would miss his objective at Rio de Janeiro by about 450 miles, as they did not believe his gasoline supply would last more than 57 hours, while with favourable conditions it would take 62 nours to reach his goal. They believe when he reaches the north-western coast of Brazil he will turn east to Pernambuco.

Plane being Prepared.

LONDON., Ont., August. 26. Canadian Press. — Experts from the Stinson aviation works at Detroit arrived here to-day to inspect the Sir John Carling in which Lieut. Medcalf and Captain Tully will attempt the London to London flight in the next few days.

The plane arrived here last night from New York and instead of flying back to Detroit, the flight managers had experts come here.

The plane will be poised, ready for the take off, probably to-morrow,and will then leave for England the minute weather conditions are favorable.

Monoplane Over Gulf.

HALIFAX, August 26. — Canadian Press. — The yellow monoplane, Pride of Detroit, in which William Brock and Edward Schlee of Detroit, plan to hop off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on a round-the-world flight, flew from Old Orchard, Maine, down the Bay of Fundy, the coast of New Brunswick, cross country to Charlottetown, P.E.I., and out over the Gulf of St. Lawrence this morning.

The last report of the plane was when it left Prince Edward Island at 10.30, Atlantic Standard Time, heading in a nortneasterly direction over the gvulf.

Redfern Reported.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Florida, Aug 26. — Canadian Press. — A radio message from Station 4AQF, Nassau, picked up here by the Financial Journal's wireless station to-day, said that the Port of Brunswick, piloted by Paul Redfern, was sighted 300 miles east of the British Bahamas by a steamer. The plane was flying at an altitude of about 2000 feet headed in a southerly direction last night.

Soldiers' Dependents To Be Admitted Free To Canadian National Exhibition on Tuesday

General Manager H. W. Waters announces that Veterans who are not in the Warriors' Day Parade will be admitted to the grounds on presentation or showing of their Discharge Certificates, Medals, or other proper means of identification.

Wives, soldiers' dependents, children and near relatives will be admitted by showing the soldier's Discharge Certificate, the showing of the Silver Cross, ex-Service Buttons, Medals, or the number of the Discharge Certificate written on a slip of paper.

Bearers of tickets to the Warriors' Day Review on the Grand Stand, and the reserved enclosure on the track, will also be admitted at the main gates.

Warriors are reminded that their particular day is Tuesday, August 30, and not Saturday, August 27, as originally planned.

"THE LAST WORD" IN MILKING MACHINERY

Empire Milking Machines at the Exhibition.

The Farmers' Advocate of this weeks says:

The Empire Milking Machine Co., Ltd., Peterborough, advise us that they have arranged space at Ottawa and Toronto Exhibitions for the demonstration of their complete new and improved lines of Ball-Bearing Marvel Cream Separators, Milking Machines, Automatic Water Systems, Gasoline Engines, and also Kellogg Air Compressors and Paint Spraying Machines. Empire Milking Machine products are well and favorably known to many readers, and we understand from the Company that their improved models which will be on view in Machinery Hall at Ottawa Exhibition, and under the grandstand at the Canadian National Exhibition this year represent the last word in machinery of this kind.

TWINS INCREASE FAMILY TO ELEVEN

Big Sisterhood Asks For Supplies For Large Household.

Knowing that many people possessing market and home gardens have a surplus of vegetables and small fruits on hand at a season like this, the Big Sisterhood is asking that some of the excess be diverted into a worthy channel.

With the unnecessary prodigality that seems to characterize its actions, the stork, a fortnight back, left a pair of twins at the home of a Peterborough family who have already contributed seven children to the upbuilding of the Dominion's citizenship. Aunt Het, the family oracle of The Mail and Empire, wonders if it is only poor people who have many children, or if it is having many children that keeps some people poor. However the question may resolve itself, the fact remains that the larder in this home is poorly stocked, as the weekly wage of the father has to cover the needs of a family of eleven.

Other supplies might also be quite easily put to good use here. There are six little boys of school age, ranging in years from six to fourteen, who need shoes and school clothing, while a little girl of three completes the tale of children, exclusive of the twins, who are healthy babies. Milk or vegetables or supplies of any sort would be welcomed. The present milk supply is quite inadequate to the needs of this family of growing children.

Supplies may be sent to the secretary of the Big Sisters, Mrs. G. Benton, at 272 Thomas street, or will be called for if notice is given to telephone 2924W. Anyone wishing the name may also obtain same at this telephone number, if desirous of taking supplies in person.

WEDDING BELLS.

WETHERUP—McCRACKEN

A quiet wedding took place in Trinity United Church Wednesday, August 17th, when the Rev. J. W. Gordon united in marriage Miss Minnie McCracken and Mr. Vincent Wetherup, both of Peterborough. Mr and Mrs. Wetherup will reside at 161 Adaline Avenue.

BRADY—CONDON.

DETROIT, August 26. — At Our Lady of the Rosary Church, Detroit, the marriage took place last Thursday morning of Mary Irene Condon, of Lakefield, to Harold B. Brady, of Detroit, formerly of Toronto.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Father C. W. Heath, who also sang high mass. The bridesmaid was Miss Lillian Condon, sister of the bride, while the groom was attended by Mr. Vincent Barnett, of Detroit.

After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Brady left on a motor trip to Buffalo, Boston, and New York. Upon their return they will reside in Detroit.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 26.—A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. John's Church, Lakefield, at one o'clock on Thursday afternoon, when Isabel Jean, youngest daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. R. H. Nesbitt of Lakefield was united in marriage to Stuart George Hall of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hall of Otonabee. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming costume in tones of beige and tan with fox fur, and carried a sheaf of sunset roses. The bride and groom were unattended. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J Creighton, M.A. The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. W. Todd, organist of the church, and during the signing of the register, the choir sang "O Perfect Love." The church was charmingly decorated with late summer flowers by girl friends of the bride. A reception was held at the bride's home on Queen Street to the intimate friends and near relatives, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hall left by motor for a two weeks' honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

MINERS CLASH WITH FOREMEN

Chinese Workmen and Japanese Officials Fight at Penkifir.

MANY CASUALTIES.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (United Press). —A Daily Mail dispatch this morning from Tokio reported a bloody clash between Chinese coal miners and Japanese mine officials at Penkiful, Manchuria.

Four Chinese were reported killed and twenty-five seriously wounded and twenty Japanese killed or wounded. The Japanese dead included the engineer of the mine, who died from the burns of scalding water, which was poured on him by the infuriated Chinese miners.

The trouble began, the dispatch said, when the mine officials refused to meet the demands of the miners.

SEARCH EXTENDED BEYOND ISLANDS

M. Bokanowski Makes the Journey From Toronto in 1.40.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—A spot in the pacific not more than six hundred miles north of Honolulu was to-day set by Admiral Richard Jackson, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, as the farthest objective point of the United States' Navy sea hunt for Miss Mildred Doran,of Flint, Mich., and six other lost trans-Pacific fliers.

Admiral Jackson from his flagship, at anchor in the bay here, transmitted by rado orders that will prolong the epochal search for "four or five days" and extend it five hundred miles further.

WAR YARNS MATCHED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Harry Ratcliffe recently was telling a brother workman about his war experiences as a Canadian machine gunner. He told of a machine gun duel at the battle of Passchendale, was amazed to discover that his friend had been the German soldier with whom he exchanged sprays of lead, each failing to dislodge the other.

DECISION SHOCK TO OPPOSITION

Cosgrave's Appeal To Country Catches Other Parties Unprepared.

SHORT NOTICE.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (United Press). —President Cosgrave's dramatic decision to appeal to the country, following the success of the Government candidates in the two by-elections yesterday, is believed here to indicate a turn in the tide in favor of a stable government in the Irish Free State.

All the correspondents of London newspapers in Dublin agree that the Opposition is in a dilemma, not only because of the suddenness of the decision and the substantial majority obtained in the by-elections, but also because of the shortness of the campaign and the lack of preparedness on its part.

HAIL AND WIND DAMAGE GRAIN

Electrical Storm Sweeps Large Area in Central Saskatchewan.

WHEAT IS LODGED.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Hail which fell during the electrical storm that swept the districts yesterday, did damage to the crop in the Lemsford, Fortrove, Rouleau, Drinkwater and Milestone areas in the central part of the province. The accompanying heavy wind and rain resulted in bad lodging to grain in some districts.

FRENCH MINISTER FLIES TO DETROIT

Admiral Issues Orders To Battle Fleet To Continue Search.

TORONTO, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—En route to Detroit, the huge Ford Stout monoplane bearing M. Bokanowski, French Minister of Commerce and Aviation, took off from the Leaside airport at 7.15 this morning, heading directly for the Michigan city. The departure was made one hour earlier than the schedule called for, the change being made to permit the overseas Cabinet Minister to keep an appointment with Henry Ford today.

Arrives Safely.

DETROIT, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press). — M. Bokanowski, French Minister of Commerce and Aviation, with his party in a Ford Stout trimotored plane, landed here at 8.55 this morning after a flight from Toronto.

ARGENTINA BACK TO GOLD STANDARD

President Signs Decree Opening Conversion Office Closed in 1914.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 26 (United Press).—Argentina will return to the gold standard to-morrow, it was announced by the Treasury Department to-day. President Alvear, it was announced, signed the decree last night opening the conversion office which was closed by the emergency law of 1914.

The Treasury Department said the conversion office would be open to-morrow.

ARCHBISHOP RALLIES.

Most Rev. Mgr. Mathieu of Regina, Is Still Very Ill.

REGINA, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Following a sudden relapse late last night, Archbishop Mathieu was reported to have rallied this morning. According to attending physicians, his condition, however, remains grave.

POWERS AGREE TO CUT ARMIES OF OCCUPATION

France, England, and Belgium Will Withdraw 10,000 Men.

QUARREL IN CABINET.

Resignation of Viscount Cecil Because of Small Reduction is Rumored.

LONDON, August 27 (Canadian Press).—The armies of occupation in the Rhineland will be reduced to sixty thousand men. Word to this effect was received at Whitehall to-day in France's reply to the British memorandum suggesting reduction to 56,000. A three power definite agreement has been reached, it is stated, providing that France reduce her forces by eight thousand, Great Britain by one thousand, and Belgium by one thousand.

Caused Cecil's Resignation?

Viscount Cecil's reported resignation as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster is ascribed by the Daily Express to a Cabinet split involving Lord Cecil and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, and arising from the question of reducing troops in the Rhineland. Sir Austen, according to the paper, supported France in her refusal to reduce her troops by more than 5,500, while Lord Cecil maintained this attitude was an outrage on the whole spirit of Locarno.

Sensation in London.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (United Press).—Suggestions that Viscount Cecil might resign from the Cabinet because of a disagreement with the Government's policy towards the League of Nations created something akin to a sensation here to-day, but Downing Street was not very disturbed and suggests that too much importance is being attached to the rumors.

Sir Ronald Walkerhouse informed the United Press that Premier Baldwin had certainly received no written or verbal intention that the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster was resigning and that nothing definite could take place before next week in any case because of the absence from London of the Prime Minister and other members of the Cabinet.

FINE FLOWERS ON EXHIBITION

JUDGES' TASK HARD.

The Horticultural Society surely showed its appreciation of the kindness of the Turnbull Store in placing its best window at their disposal, by staging a remarkably fine display of Gladiolus, for Friday and Saturday. Every grower brought his finest spikes, and the pick of the town was there, and most efficiently displayed by Hector Turvey, the capable window dresser for the big store.

Competition being open to, and free for all, there was a good entry in every class. The best Yellow brought some strong spikes of Golden measure that were early in bloom for this strong growing late variety. Whites showed large flowers, but crooked spikes, and first place went to a neat little spike of Mary Pickford, which was well formed and in perfect condition.

In the Red class, a massive specimen of Red Emperor took first honors, though a less developed spike of similar color and a grand spike of Purple Glory gave it a close run. Had it not been that one or two of the flowers on the Purple Glory, were done its fine formation would likely have won over even the immense Red Emperor.

Blues were the poorest class and the winner hardly deserved a place, being handicapped by being cut too short. As is usually the case, the Pink Class was a good one, and a giant bloom of Mrs. Leon Douglas carried off the prize. Two other magnificent pink spikes were so much admired by the judges that they awarded them each a special of a 50c bulb of a new Gladiolus from their own collection.

Best Three Spikes was another excellent class, difficult to judge because so many were good. The winners had very little over the unplaced ones in quality.

Class 7, Best Six Spikes, turned out to be the most difficult class of all to judge, the difficulty being settled by the judges again donating some special prizes and giving another a special mention.

Best Ten Spikes, competing for the slab of bacon, went to Mr. Kennedy's exhibit of ten grandly formed spikes of splendid varieties. The numerous other entries were all considered worthy of special mention by the judges.

Other spikes just as fine, were passed, early to-night, if he flies to They were probably perfect when brought in, but the warmth of the

Marooned Passengers Spent Time Lightly

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—While crews were working strenuously to lighten the cargo of the steamer Huronic, aground in the mud in the St. Marys River since Tuesday afternoon, a hundred passengers marooned aboard the ship, spent the time in dancing, bridge and other social pastimes.

Yesterday morning these passengers were landed at Point Edward from the sister ship, Noronic, to which steamer they had been transferred by tugs Thursday morning as the Noronic, downbound from Port Arthur, came up with her disabled fleet sister.

INSPECTOR REID HAS 21 YEARS IN POLICE FORCES

Second-in-Command of Local Force, First Served in Scotland.

AN OLD SOLDIER.

Has Seen Interesting Cases Since Change From Military To Civil Uniform.

To-day Inspector of Police James F. Reid completes twenty-one years of police service.

Starting his police service at the conclusion of his service in the ranks of the Royal Scots Greys, Mr. Reid joined up with the Fifeshire Constabulary in Scotland and was stationed for some time at the county headquarters in the old town of Cupar. His first transfer was to the town of Kelty. Later he was moved to Methil, then to Kinglassie, and again to Rosythe Dock, about the time construction work was begun on the great naval base which later became the home of the British Battle Fleet for many months during the Great War. A period of service at Buckhaven, also in Fifeshire, followed and then Mr. Reid felt the call of the west and emigrated to Canada, at that time an irresistible magnet for thousands of his fellow-countrymen.

After a short stay in Hamilton, he joined the police force in Brantford and came to Peterborough as a last class constable in June 15, 1912. Steady promotion came his way until he reached his present rank of Inspector.

During Mr. Reid's service in Fifeshire a murder was committed which stirred Great Britain from end to end. A sixteen-year-old office boy named Mickey Brown was enticed into a secluded spot, robbed of $400 belonging to his employers and beaten to death in East Wemyss by a man named Alexander Edmiston. Every member of the Fifeshire Constabulary was ordered to be on the look-out for the murderer, who, realizing that his chance of escaping detection were slim, concealed himself in a low quarter in the city of Manchester. Circulars descriptive of Edmiston were posted in all police stations in the country, and all police chiefs received copies of photos of the murderer.

On returning to the house he made a point of asking the time from the suspected man. The suspected man pulled out a watch, the sight of which confirmed the old hawker's belief, and the latter instantly informed the police. When two detectives arrested the man, he confessed that he was Alexander Edmiston, and acknowledged that he was wanted for the crime. After a brief trial he was condemned and expiated his crime on the scaffold.

RESULTS OF EXAMINER DOLLAR DAY CONTEST

The results of The Examiner Contest in connection with Dollar Day, were extremely satisfactory, and produced an entirely new set of winners. The list does not appear to show that any one successful this year has previously won a prize.

There were four who named the exact number of peas in the sealer, which was 3333 and the first four prizes of $10, $5, $4, $3, will be divided equally between Richard Pearson, 112 Monaghan Road, Mrs. C. Ferguson, R. R. No. 3, Peterborough S. J. Rowe, 538 Chamberlain street, and Genevieve Murray 254 Reid street, each receiving $3.50 each.

A. K. White, 653, George street, estimated 3330, and receives $2.00; Miss J. McCarty, 3341, and receives $1.00.

Prizes will be paid at the Examiner

CO-OPERATION IN TRAFFIC RULES TO GET RESULTS

Secretary of Automobile Club Says Systems Have Succeeded Elsewhere.

FEWER ACCIDENTS.

Honest Endeavor To Obey Regulations Best Way To Solve Problem.

Co-operation from motorists and pedestrians alike was to-day urged by Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club, on behalf of the angle parking and stop street systems devised by the City Council in what he describes as a sincere attempt to solve the traffic problem.

"Where the stop street method has been tried it has been successful—if persevered with," added Mr. Stinson, significantly. "A lessening of street accidents has been the experience of every locality that has adopted this system.

"Angle parking was made possible by the discontinuance of the street railway," he continued, "and this method of parking, if parking is to be tolerated on George Street, has many advantages apparent to motorists and tradespeople, over the older parallel system. Angle parking has undoubtedly corrected the tendency to speed on George Street. To the tradespeople the attraction is that more cars can be parked in a smaller space than formerly. Another feature is that the motorist to-day is reasonably sure of being able to back away from the curb and proceed on his way without having to ask people to move away from the front and the rear of his vehicle.

"If motorists would be careful in angle parking, to get the correct angle from the curb which has been considerately marked in white paint by the city authorities, we would find ample room for the two lines of moving vehicular traffic. An occasional disadvantage is in evidence by the trucks and other cumbersome vehicles parking in the main street, which would not be tolerated in larger centres as this. So-called slow-moving traffic along with horse-drawn vehicles more properly belong to less congested streets. In other words, the man who experiences too much difficulty in guiding his car along George Street under present conditions is either too intolerant or too indifferent to persevere through or bring about any progressive step in the matter of traffic or any other regulation in the City of Peterborough.

"It becomes more and more evident to the thinking public that as a city and as an important industrial and agricultural centre, Peterborough has grown up. In the year 1901, when the population of the town of Peterborough was some 12,000 souls, conditions were different of course and things were tolerated which, if persevered in to-day, would bring about

TWO LADIES HIT BY MOTOR CARS

Misses Mary Stabler and M. Harrison Victims of Accident.

SLIGHTLY INJURED.

Backing his car out from the west side of George Street, almost opposite The Examiner Office, W. H. Whyte, journeying to Nicholls Hospital to see his sister, whose condition had been reported to him as being very grave, knocked down Mary Stabler (10), living with her parents at 623 George Street, who was passing on a bicycle. Mr. White, who was proceeding very slowly, instantly stopped his car and went over the sidewalk to reassure himself as to the condition of the young girl. Miss Stabler was carried by D. M. Minicola into the drug store of W. J. Kent, where it was discovered that she was suffering from slight bruises on the leg. After some attention she was able to walk home.

Travelling along George Street, near Simcoe Street, W. H. Ferguson, his attention distracted by a juvenile jay walker, did not notice a lady, M. Harrison, who was struck by the car as she tried to cross the street. Miss Harrison's injuries were slight and she was able to proceed on her way unaided.

Favorable Weather Off Newfoundland

HALIFAX, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Favorable flying weather will prevail off Newfoundland for the next 24 hours, according to a forecast received here last night at 8 o'clock, Atlantic standard time, by wireless from Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Above are shown Lieut. Jimmy V. Medcalf, pilot navigator (left), and Capt. Terry B. Tully, pilot for the 3,900 mile non-stop flight (right). Between these pals in adventure stands Charles Burns, president of Carling Breweries, Limited, donors of the $25,000 prize. Below is a side view of the plane christened to honor the memory of a Canadian statesman of Confederation days who represented London in both provincial and federal parliaments at the same time. The pictures show the Wright Whirlwind motor, a duplicate of Lindbergh's. Tully and Medcalf plan to hop off within ten days.

PLANE LEAVES HARBOR GRACE FOR LONG TRIP

FIRST HOP 2,350 MILES.

Tokio-Midway Islands Lap To Be Longest of World Circuit.

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The monoplane Pride of Detroit hopped off for Croydon, Eng., at 5.14 a.m., eastern standard time, to-day. The first leg of the round-the-world flight, from here to Croydon, is 2,350 miles.

The plane rose gracefully and circled around the flying field once before heading straight out to sea. There was not a cloud in the sky. Automobiles lined the sides of the field and as the plane took to the air cheers went up from the hundreds of spectators. The fliers had slept well for seven hours and were in excellent condition. They ate a hearty breakfast of bacon and eggs, wasted no time, but drove in an automobile to the field, tuned up the plane, remarked that they were too busy to talk, waved good-bye, and were off for England.

Schedule of Flight.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The monoplane Pride of Detroit, which left Harbor Grace, Nfld., on the first leg of a round-the-world flight to-day, is expected to make the following jumps:

Harbor Grace to London, 2,350 miles; London to Stuttgart, Germany, 460; Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, 610; Constantinople, Turkey, 500; Aleppo, Syria, 590; Bagdad, Iraq, 485; Bender Abbas, Persia, 885; Karachi, India, 710; Calcutta, India, 485; Rangoon, India, 665; Tourane, French Indo-China, 775; Hong-Kong, 890; Tokio, Japan, 1,820; Midway Islands, U.S., 2,480; Honolulu, 1,440; San Francisco, 2,400; Cheyenne, Wyoming, 925; Chicago, Ills., 885; Detroit, Mich., 257; Harbor Grace, Nfld., 1,550. Total mileage 22,067. Total flying time, about 240 hours.

PRINCES SPEND DAY AT REGINA

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 27 (Canadian Press). — The Prince of Wales and Prince George spent the day in Regina chiefly on the golf links. Lieutenant-Governor Newlands and Premier Gardiner were at the station when they arrived to extend a welcome from the Province of Saskatchewan and Mayor McAra from the city. Buffalo Pilot Lives After 2,000-Ft. Fall

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press).—While suffering from shock, attendant on his nerve-wracking experience, Arthur Leavens, Buffalo pilot, was suffering from no physical ill effects last night as a result of his 2,000-foot drop in his plane yesterday morning.

The machine, which went into a nose dive over Stewart Park, and fell like a plummet to the earth, was being salvaged at the J. V. Elliot airport.

The cause of the accident was still doubtful and the pilot refused to be interviewed. Elliot stated yesterday afternoon that he believed Leavens, who was to take his final tests to-day for a Dominion flying license, had attempted aerial acrobatics which would form part of his exhibition by a federal official and that this had led to the crash. The pilot, Mr. Elliot said, had had extensive experience in the United States and was eager to pass his Canadian tests with a view to entering commercial aviation on this side of the border. Elliot disclaimed all connection with the pilot and the plane.

R. A. BROWN IS LEAVING CITY

Well-Liked and Efficient Manager of Canadian Nashua Plant.

GOES WEST.

The appointment of R. A. Brown as manager of the Nashua Paper Company's Middle West plant, located at Middletown, Ohio, has given genuine pleasure to the many friends in Peterborough who have appreciated Mr. Brown's sterling qualities, and, while regretting his removal, rejoice in his advancement.

Mr. Brown came to Peterborough in January, 1920, and superintended the installation of the machinery in the local plant of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company. During his residence here, he has taken a keen interest in civic and business affairs and his removal will leave a vacancy hard to fill. While primarily his interest was in his company's welfare, he gave excellent community service through his membership in the Manufacturers' Association, Rotary Club, St. Andrew's Church Choir and other organizations.

The Canadian Nashua plant has made great strides locally under Mr. Brown's management, and has expanded to take in as a subsidiary the Sealright Company, manufacturing liquid-proof cardboard containers.

John R. Marshall, who has resided in Peterborough for the past four years, has received the appointment as Manager of the local plant, succeeding Mr. Brown. Mr. Marshall has been General Sales Manager, and with his new appointment will still retain a primary interest in sales. R. H. Harding, who comes to Peterborough as Production Manager from Nashua, New Hampshire, has been a resident of Canada before, having been connected with the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Com-

WINDSOR FLIERS TAKE OFF AGAIN FOR HOME CITY

Leave Curtiss Field After Being Turned Back Once By Wind.

NO NEWS OF REDFERN.

No Alarm Felt as Flier Was to Follow Very Lonely Part of Ocean.

CURTISS FIELD, N.Y., Aug. 27. —(Canadian Press.)—Phil Wood and Duke Schiller made a secret getaway at seven o'clock this morning for Selfridge, Mich., on their way to Windsor, Ont., where they plan to take off as soon as the weather permits, for Windsor, England.

Their monoplane, the Royal Windsor, had come back at Curtiss Field earlier to-day after an unsuccessful attempt to buck head winds and rain in a flight to Selfridge Field, Michigan, on thier way to Windsor, Ont. Wood and Schiller, with two passengers, took off last night and after flying a hundred miles west against adverse weather conditions turned about and landed at their starting point. After taxiing their plane to its hangar, the aviators quietly went to New York City for the night. A check of the planes in the hangars was made before it was discovered the Royal Windsor had returned.

REDFERN NOT HEARD FROM.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 27. —(Canadian Press.)—With the blackness of two moonless nights behind him, Paul Redfern to-day sped his great monoplane through the second successive dawn and onward to the goal of his solitary flight to Brazil, unless a whim of nature or mechanics has stopped him short in the tropic region out of touch with the eagerly waiting world. Only once in his journey have vague tidings been received of this newest viking of the clouds. On Thursday night a vessel reported him about three hundred miles east of Nassau, Bahamas, but this information remains unconfirmed.

Scarcity of news, however, was not translated into alarm, for the course that Redfern laid out carried him virtually over trackless seas and land. The continued silence will not become a portent of danger until the hour of his planned arrival has passed, early to-night, if he flies to Rio de Janeiro, or near noon if low fuel supply or another cause prompts him to swerve eastward to Pernambuco, on the coast.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Aug. 27. —Hayes Van Gorder's quick wit has lopped nine months off his time in prison. Confined in the Leavenworth penitentiary for rifling the mails, he took advantage of a little known law and forced the government to take him out and try him on another mail charge that was pending against him. He got a five-year sentence on it, but the nine-month that his present terms has to go will apply on it, and he will get out that much sooner than he would have if he had waited for his trial until his present

Linwood Man Held On Several Charges

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press.) — James P. Short, of Linwood, who was arrested in Brantford, was committed for trial at the fall assizes of two charges of breaking and entering and of automobile stealing in Waterloo police court yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Weir. On a fourth charge of theft of the automobiles markers from a farmer, Short's counsel elected trial before the magistrate after he stands his trial at the assizes. Short is also wanted in Hamilton on a false pretense charge.

BALDWIN SAYS CANADA OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES

British Premier Found Canadian People Loyal To Crown.

CORRECTED ERRORS.

Told Them British Were Not Decadent, He Says—Asks For Co-operation.

DOUGLAS CASTLE, Lanarkshire, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Premier Stanley Baldwin, in his first public speech since his return from Canada on Wednesday, addressed twenty thousand people at the Conservative fete here to-day and highly eulogized the Dominion.

"There is no spot to which I would rather come from Canada than the heart of Scotland," he declared. "There has been a great deal of evil propaganda about the world, especially in new countries, telling that the people of Britain are decadent. I was able to tell Canada that this country, so far from being that, is the same as it was ten years ago, and that our spirit is undimmed and our courage unquenched. Mistakes have been made, but I am proud of the courage and patience with which our people have struck grandly to the almost impossible task of rebuilding and are slowly and surely winning through.

"That message was received in the new world with the greatest enthusiasm," the Premier went on. "The reception given the Prince of Wales was a striking evidence of his popularity and of the allegiance of the people of Canada to our common Crown.

Faith in Canada.

"Another impression was the faith which all Canadians held in the future of their country. Canada has one great advantage over us. She benefits by our experience and is without many troubles that beset us. There is one thing that she does want to take from us. She wants

FINE TROMBONE IS ON DISPLAY

Will Be Given To Canada's Champion Soloist at C.N.E. Contest.

GIVEN BY LOCAL FIRM.

In the window of the J. M. Greene Music Co. lies a trombone, representing the last word and thought in the construction of musical instruments, which after next Thursday will be the property of Canada's champion trombone soloist as decided by the judge at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The instrument, which is the joint gift of the J. M. Greene Co. and the manufacturers, the Holdon Co. of Elkhorn, Wisconsin, is a triple gold plated trombone with a heavily engraved bell enclosed in a special plush lined case, and is worth $201. Twenty entries have been received up to date for the contest. The judge has not yet been appointed, but it is anticipated that the task of placing the competitors in the order of merit will be given to Captain O'Neill of Quebec, a famous bandmaster. The instrument has been on display for several days in the window of the Peterborough company.

The J. M. Greene Company is the Canadian distributor for the Holdon Company, which is an old-established firm and enjoys a world-wide reputation in the making of musical instruments.

BOARD ORDERS REDUCTIONS IN GRAIN FREIGHT

Equalization in Tariffs On All Routes Partially Granted.

DIFFERENTIAL REVISED.

Reduced Charges Will Aggregate Several Millions Annually For Each Line.

OTTAWA, Aug 27 (Canadian Press) —The Board of Railway Commissioners, after a hearing extending several months in respect to freight rates on grain, flour and other commodities, via Pacific and Atlantic ports, issued judgement yesterday ordering that the export rate on grain via Vancouver shall have the same advantage as grain for export eastward to the Head of the Lakes as obtains under the Crow's Nest Pass agreement. The Board also ordered a reduction on grain rates from Head of the Lakes ports via rail to Quebec and Montreal. The reduction via Quebec is from 34½ cents per cwt. on wheat to 18.34 cents per cwt. The Board's order also provides that the rate to Montreal from lake ports shall be on a parity with the new rates stipulated on grain moving to Quebec. This reduction, however, does not affect the water-borne rate, which practically determines the wheat export movement via Montreal and Quebec.

To Help Vancouver.

The reduction in the rate via Vancouver will undoubtedly materially encourage grain export from the Prairies via Pacific ports and through the Panama Canal, experts here state.

The Board orders that the rates on grain and flour from all points on the Canadian Pacific branch lines in the three Prairie Provinces, to the Head of the Great Lakes, be equalized with the present Canadian Pacific main-line rates. Other railways in the Prairie Provinces are required to adjust their rates correspondingly. This, it is stated, will mean reductions from every point located on a branch line of any railway in Western Canada which exceeds the main-line scale of rates. The reductions in rates on grain and flour will involve, according to rate experts, in the aggregate, several million dollars, which will accrue to the advantage of the grain growers of Western Canada.

Footing of Equality

The export rates westbound to the Pacific Coast are also revised so as to put all branch-line points on a footing of equality with C.P.R. main-line points. This is an important readjustment, which it is expected, will be of advantage particularly to grain shippers in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Freight tariffs on merchandise shipped from distributing centres in the three Prairie Provinces are ordered to be revised so as to secure the advantage of the short-haul mileage. At the present time these distributing tariffs are based exclusively on C.P.R. distances.

The rates on grain for export from Port Arthur, Fort William, Westfort and Armstrong to Quebec via the Trancontinental Railway are reduced to 18.34 cents per 100 pounds, and furthermore Quebec is put on the same footing as Montreal in respect of export rates on grain from Georgian Bay ports and from Toronto and points west on general merchandise.

By the order, it is explained, all localities in the three Prairie Provinces are now put on the same footing for all their export business, whether moving eastward to the Great Lakes or westward to the Pacific ports.

Order of Board

The Board orders as follows, namely:

1. That the rates on grain and flour from all points on Canadian Pacific branch lines west of Fort William to Fort William, Port Arthur and Westfort, be equalized to the present Canadian Pacific main line basis of rates of equivalent mileage groupings (the rates governed by the Crowsnest Pass agreement not to be exceeded); that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company publish rates in accordance with the above direction, and that all other railway companies adjust their rates on grain and flour to Fort William, Port Arthur, Westfort and Armstrong to the rates so put into effect by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, such changes to become effective on the twelfth day of September, 1927.

2. That the rates on grain and flour from Prairie points to Vancouver and Prince Rupert for export shall be on the same basis as the rates to Fort William, but in computing such rates the distance from Calgary to Vancouver via the Canadian Pacific Railway shall be assumed to be the same as from Edmonton to Vancouver via the Canadian National Railways, namely, 766 miles.

Applies to Both Railways

3. That the provisions as to distributing tariffs, set out in Section XVII. of the judgment in the Western rates case, shall, instead of being limited to the Canadian Pacific Railway, as provided therein, be extended so as to apply to the Canadian National Railways as well; the necessary amending tariffs to be effective on the twelfth day of September, 1927.

4. That the rate of 34½ cents per

NAVAL VESSELS PATROL LANES FOR AVIATORS

Search Continues For Lost Fliers in Four Sectors.

COMB ISLANDS.

Believe They May Have Landed Inland—Investigate Rumors.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27 (United Press).—The search for Miss Mildred Doran and six Dole flight aviators, missing since they left Oakland airport in an attempt to fly to Hawaii, continued yesterday in four sectors.

Naval vessels patrolled the regular sea lanes between here and the Hawaiian Islands. The section of the Pacific to which the planes might have drifted, had they alighted safely on the sea, was searched. Submarines were west of Hawaii on the theory that one of the three planes might have overshot the islands. Isolated mountain regions of the islands themselves, were searched by parties investigating rumors that one or more of the planes might have crashed there.

Attains 260 Mile Speed

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. — Tearing through space at 240 miles an hour, Lieutentant Al Williams, U.S.N., put his racing seaplane through two tests which qualified him to attempt a new speed record for planes of racing type. The trial cleared the way for his entry in the Schneider Cup competition at Venice, Italy, next month.

The roar of the 1,250 horse-power, twenty-four cylinder Packard motor could be heard for miles as the little gold and blue plane skimmed the waters of Manhasset Bay for its first trial spin.

Although he refused to say what speed he had attained, it was learned that at one time during the second flight he opened his throttle wide for an instant and that his air indicator showed 260 miles. To qualify at Venice, the plane must make a speed of 262 miles.

If the weather is good today the Navy flier may make an official flight against time over a three-kilometer course, with officials of the National Aeronautical Association timing him.

At the Navy Department it became known that a fast cruiser will take Lieutenant Williams and his seaplane to Venice as soon as he reports to the Department that he is confident his machine is ready.

WITHDRAW MEN FROM RHINELAND

Eight Thousand Will Be Withdrawn From Occupation, Semi-Officially Announced.

PARIS, Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press.) — Eight thousand men will be withdrawn from the Rhineland occupation forces, it is semi-officially announced.

The recent British note concerning Rhineland effectives was examined by the council of French ministers yesterday. A reply drafted by the French virtually agrees with the British viewpoint concerning the total allied forces to be kept on the Rhine, but there remain some details to be straightened out regarding their distribution at various strategical points.

That the viewpoints of Paris and London are in practical agreement is the information emanating from the French foreign office.

LAKE STEAMER STILL AGROUND

Vessel Remains in Same Position After Four Days' Labor.

CARGO REMOVED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—After four days' work on the passenger steamer "Huronic," the vessel is still hard aground in the position she slid into Tuesday afternoon. Little information can be learned as to what caused the accident from ship's officers and crew. Her position, however, has baffled all attempts so far to release her. A large quantity of her flour cargo has been removed and brought to the Soo. Her passengers were taken off Thursday by the steamer Noronic and tugs are now standing by to render all possible assistance in the latest effort by the Soo Dredging Company's dredge which has been despatched to the scene.

According to observers, the big passenger boat seems to have slid over a bank as she seems to be down at her bow, with the wheel blades out of the water at her stern. The dredge will try to dredge a channel so she can slide back into deep water again.

The "Huronic" is not in any serious danger even under bad weather conditions, as she is lying considerably off the track of regular traffic.

NEW FAD IS OLD.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The walls of many London houses are being painted with country scenes. Lady Welgall and other well known society leaders are carrying on the fad. The custom is a reminiscent of scenic wall paper that was familiar decades ago, and is a revival of the painted walls of ancient Pompeiian mansions.

Chaliapin Ousted As National Singer By Soviet For Friendliness to Exiles

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Feodor Chaliapin, the grand opera singer, an announcement says, has been divested of his rank as national artist of the republic by the Council of People's Commissars.

There have been recurrent reports foreshadowing such a step by the Soviet authorities, on the ground that Chaliapin had sympathized with Russian emigres.

Shortly after Tass, the semi-official Soviet Russian news agency, denied a report that the basso had been deprived of his rank as "people's" artist, another dispatch asserted the Land Commissariat had petitioned the Praesidium of the All-Russian Executive Committee to cancel a previous decree restoring to him his estates in Yaroslavsk Province.

When seen in London, the singer was quoted as saying:

"It is serious, for I was proud of the title. I come from the people and I sing for the people, not for horses. I have no quarrel with the Soviet Government. If my Government is Red or White, Czarist or Republican—for me it is the same. I don't understand politics. I sing for the people, and I don't ask whether they are white, brown or yellow."

Freak Wind Tips Los Angeles On Its Nose; No One Aboard In Mi shap At Mooring Mast

LAKEHURST, N.J., Aug. 27.—Under the stimulus of a freakish wind and a sudden rise in temperature the navy dirigible Los Angeles executed the extremely hazardous acrobatic feat of standing on its nose on the mooring mast at the Naval Air Station here yesterday afternoon.

The sportiveness of the big ship resulted in damage which, while classed as "minor," was enough to cause postponement of a test flight which was imminent.

The dirigible behaved in perfect form up until a few minutes before the flight was to have started at 2 o'clock. The test was to have been made following repurification of the helium supply and overhauling of three of the motors since its last trip on June 11.

Without warning the ground wind shifted abruptly. With the shift came the sudden quick rise in temperature. While those on the ground watched, the wind caught the tail end of the ship roughly. The rise in the temperature gave the dirigible much greater buoyancy. Up went the tail of the big "fish." It climbed and climbed. It stopped when it was standing almost straight up and down with its nose still fastened safely to the mast.

For a few moments the ship held the perilous acrobatic pose. Then it settled slowly to an even keel again. A hasty examination was made and it revealed that some loose equipment had gone scurrying through the dirigible during its sudden rise and had caused minor damage to the structure and wiring in a few places. The vessel was taken back into the hangar for repairs and further examination. It is believed that the test flight will not be made for several days.

DETROIT PLANE HARBOR GRACE

Expect To Start Off On First Lap of Journey To-day.

ROUND-WORLD-FLIGHT.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., August 27. — Canadian Press. — The flight of the monoplane Pride of Detroit from old Orchard, Maine, to Harbor Grace, the proposed hopping off place in the round-the-world flight terminated successfully at 4.16 o'clock yesterday afternoon, local time (4.36 Atlantic Standard time) when a perfect landing was made on the runway which has recently been constructed by the Government Highroads Commission.

A greet concourse of people had gathered to greet the fliers and a shout announced the first appearance of the plane at 4.08 p.m. as it was seen approaching from a westerly direction.

At 4.12 it swept in a large circle over the field, and glided down safely to earth at 4.16, taxiing to the head of the ground.

Eduard F. Schlet and Pilot Brock alighted and were met by Judge Casey, who welcomed the visitors to the town, and J. R. Bennett extended a welcome on behalf of the government.

Take off To-day.

Both fliers declared they felt perfectly fit after their journey and were delighted with the arrangements of the flying ground, which they sighted 25 miles away.

The monoplane is being loaded with gasoline and if the present conditions hold will probably take-off on the first lap of the round-the-world flight to Croydon England, to-day.

The runway on which the Pride of Detroit alighted at Harbor Grace is situated about two miles from the town on an elevation. It is 300 feet wide by 4000 feet long, and was built under the direction of the Government Highroads Commission at a cost of $10,000. Some idea of the splendid surface prepared is indicated by the fact that Patrol Officer James on a motor cycle attained over it recently a speed of 73 miles an hour.

Off for Home.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. — Canadian Press. — Phil Wood, Detroit businessman, and his pilot, Duke Schiller, took off yesterday afternoon at 6.35 for Selfridge Field, Michigan, in the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane Royal Windsor, in which they hope to fly from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, perhaps as soon as Sunday.

Lieut. Harold Bissonette and Captain J. C. Bryan, were taken along as passengers. Wood said that the plane would circle the city of Windsor, Ont., before going to Selfridge Field, but that it could not land on the two mile runway in Windsor because of inadequate lighting facilities.

All necessary supplies for the flight to England were aboard when the plane left Curtiss Field this afternoon, Wood said. He and his pilot made the trip east to obtain flares, a sending and receiving radio set and an air raf.. The instruments on the plane's panel were also given complete final tests here.

OBITUARY.

HENRY LABBI, Sr.

Mr. Labbi had been ill for some time and his death was not altogether unexpected.

He leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. Harry O'Brien, and one son, Harry Labbi, both of Ottawa. His wife predeceased him a few years ago.

MRS. S. S. JOYCE.

HAVELOCK, August 27. — Havelock citizens were deeply shocked on Friday afternoon to learn that Mrs. S. S. Joyce had passed away.

The deceased, who had been a resident of the village for over thirty years, was most highly respected by all. She was a kind neighbor, a devoted mother and a true friend. She had been in ill health for some time, and was suddenly stricken with an attack of heart trouble about eight o'clock on Friday morning and passed away in a few minutes.

The late Mrs. Joyce whose maiden name was Sarah Phillips, was born in Norwood.

There are left to mourn her loss beside her husband, one son, Russell, of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. John Sothern of Toronto.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27.—A mild wave of buying, influenced by adverse weather in parts of Western Canada, brought about a reaction yesterday from the recent declines on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The bulge ranged between ¾c. to 1c., and on the rise holders were taking profits, although at no time was there evidence of pressure. Seaboard houses were filling small orders.

The rye market was the most active of the coarse grains, values jumping fractionally. Oats and barley met a moderate inquiry.

WARKWORTH NEWS.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 27.—Mr. George H. Harnie, of Detroit, Mich., is renewing old acquaintances in town and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker returned on Tuesday after spending two weeks with relatives and friends in Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. James Merriam, of Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Allen and other relatives.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Gregory, of Toronto, are attending the East Ontario annual conference of the Free Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong have returned to Toronto after spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Armstrong.

Mrs. John Dick and Geraldine have returned to Toronto after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Oscar Phillips, and other relatives.

Mr. W. J. Gillies, B.A., L.L.B., Mrs. Gillies and family motored from Saskatoon, Sask., and are visiting their aunts, the Misses Parks, and other relatives in town and vicinity.

YOUNG'S POINT

YOUNG'S POINT, Aug. 27. — St. Aidan's Anglican Church, Young's Point, was the scene of an interesting service on Sunday morning, Aug. 21, 1927, when Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly baptised four babies—his own daughter, Marion Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ellsworth's daughter, Peggy June; Mr. and Mrs. Melville Stone's daughter, Madeline Sophia; and Mr. and Mrs. Melville Miller's daughter, Janet Kathleen. The robe worn by little Marion Dwelly was very unique. It was the robe worn by her father when he was baptised and has been used by members of his family for six generations back, being about one hundred and fifty years old.

Mr. J. P. Foley, Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Young.

The Misses Elsie Bell, Rita O'Brien and Minette Martin, of Toronto, spent the week-end the guests of Miss Irene Young.

Miss Grace Herbert, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Young, has returned to her home in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. Peinsard and daughter, Catharine, and Mr. and Mrs. Holm and son, Donald, of Detroit, Mich., are guests of the former's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Night and son, Bud, of Toronto, are at the Lakeview House.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdam, daughter Mary and son Joseph, of Montreal, who have spent the past two weeks the guests of Mrs. Kearney and Miss Lottie Kearney at the Lakeview House, have returned to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sanford, of Rochester, are at the Lakeview House.

Mrs. R. Dwelly, of Toronto, who has been a guest at the rectory, has returned home.

Among those who attended the baptismal service at St. Aiden's Church on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, Miss Kidd, Mrs. Bronson and daughter, of Mount Julian; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Stone, of Burleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stenner, of Peterborough, and Mrs. J. Lamponi, of Windsor.

Mr. Leonard Wilson is convalescing at his home in the village after his serious operation in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

THOMASBURG NEWS.

THOMASBURG, Aug. 27.—Miss Audrey Holbert is spending a few days with Miss Helena McGee at the cottage at Sugar Island.

Misses Ida and Helen Embury of Frankford are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. John Embury.

Mr. Thomas Dunwoody and Miss Bell Dunwoody of Kingsford and Mr. and Mrs. William King and family of Shannonville visited at Mr. Jabez Jones' home recently.

Mrs. Margaret Embury entertained friends from Belleville on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mable Carleton is visiting friends at Hawkesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Geddes Bradshaw of Thurlow and Mr. Barwise of Toronto visit at Mr. Jabez Jones' home on Sunday.

Mrs. Percy Badgley and son, Bruce, of Tweed, visited at Mr. Tommy Coulson's home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vance and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morton and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Vance and family, and Mr. and Mrs. William Holbert spent Sunday at Crowe Lake.

A number from here attended the meetings of the Ku Klux Klan in Belleville on Sunday afternoon and evening.

ENNISMORE NEWS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. O'Donohue and family, of Toronto, spent the week-end with the latter's mother, Mrs. M. Cadigan.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Murphy and Messrs. Percy, William and Peter Murphy motored from Detroit on Wednesday to visit friends here.

Mrs. D. Crough has returned home after visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. Redmond, of Rochester.

Mr. A. O'Brien, of Montreal, is spending a few days with Mrs. P. Cadigan.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Redmond, of Rochester, is visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. D. Crough.

Miss Esther Murphy has returned to Regina after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McKee and son, Jack, returned to their home in Toronto after visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. T. Cavanagh.

Mrs. Tracey, of Toronto, was called home on Tuesday owing to the death of her father, the late Timothy Curtin.

Mrs. F. Doran has returned to Detroit after spending a few holidays with friends here.

The annual excursion was much enjoyed by a large crowd on Wednesday. The steamer Stoney Lake left the Chemong wharf at 8.15 a.m. for Viamede, returning at 6.30 in the evening. There was excellent music for dancing and singing, which helped to make the trip very pleasant.

MOTHER'S WEDDING DRESS

Here is a quaint bride in her mother's nuptial robes. She is Mrs. A. J. Priest, formerly Miss Mary Hartwell Wyse, a picturesque figure at her recent wedding, when she wore her mother's wedding gown. Mrs. Priest is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. H. Wyse, Lake Front, and a niece of Admiral W. S. Benson of Washington, D.C., who was among the distinguished guests at the wedding in Toronto, Ontario.

Man of 4,000,000 Years Ago Had Characteristics of Moderns.

USED SMALL WEAPONS

Resorted to Cannibalism When Animal Food Was Hard To Get.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright by United Press)

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 27.—(United Press).—Remains of the world's first man, discovered by Dr. Harold J. Cook of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, Denver, tend to show that the man of 4,000,000 years ago had most of the instincts and tendencies of a modern human being.

So sure are scientists that the tooth represents a hitherto unknown race that they have credited Dr. Cook with having discovered the Hesperopithecus Harolodcookii, which means in English "the ape man of the west found by Harold Cook."

A little guess work, from which Dr. Cook absolves himself of all responsibility until his findings can be verified further, paints a most interesting and in all likelihood an authentic picture of the first known human life in the world.

First of all Hesperopithecus Haroldcookii lived in a tree. There were no caves. And had he been able to build a house for himself on the ground he sooner or later would have awakened one morning to find his roof crushed in by the enormous foot of some beast towering high above him.

So, sleeping at night in a tall tree, Hesperopithecus Haroldcookii cautiously climbed down at dawn to stalk small game with the sharp weapons he had fashioned for himself out of green bone. Fossilized bone weapons used by him have been found.

He didn't need the animal's skins for clothes because of the tropical sun which warmed him, but he did eat the meat. Crushed marrow bones in great numbers found near the tools point to his carnivorous appetite.

And when he couldn't find a small bird or diminutive beast to eat, he beat in one of his brother's skulls with a club made from an elephant bone and resorted to cannibalism. Crushed and macerated bones greatly resembling those of present-day humans, were discovered.

At nightfall after the day's work was done, he turned to music for solace from the frights of the many-eyed jungle closing in about him.

Up in his tree safe from the gigantic snarling cats, the mastodonic dogs and the huge slimy beasts below him, he blew into his bone flute a simple tune which perhaps he thought would quiet the jungle strife about him. A hollow bone drilled with holes similar to those of a fife, was found in the Agate Springs deposits.

He lived thus for many ages, more than 2,000,000 years, fighting, playing, raising families, and gradually becoming more intelligent as the facts of the world about him penetrated his thick skull.

But after innumerable sons succeeded innumerable fathers, the ice age began to dim the tropical splendor of North America. Gradually, as the years passed by the thousand and the hundred thousand, the sun shone less brightly. It began to get colder.

Hesperopithecus Haroldcookii, chilled by the biting winds from the north, probably took to clothing himself with skins from the great packs of wolves which abounded in the region.

But the progress of the icy coldness was steady. Thousands more generations lived and died. Vegetation withered away. The animals all disappeared from the face of the earth.

Although there is too great a gap between the quarternary age and even the glacial age which followed the ice era for scientists to make statements of any kind concerning possible descendants of the earliest man, Dr. Cook said that probably there was no relation between him and the modern American Indian.

"The man-like race of 4,000,000 years ago in all likelihood disappeared as did the animal and plant forms when the ice age gripped the world," Dr. Cook declared.

JASPER PARK LODGE.

Jasper Lodge in Jasper National Park, Alberta, stands on the shore of the beautiful Lake Beauvert amid a luxuriant growth of spruce and lodgepole pine. It comprises a group of buildings constructed of logs cut from adjacent forests, and its popularity has necessitated the addition of new structures nearly every year since the opening.

NECK BROKEN, HE WORKS TEN DAYS.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—More than a month ago, while he was repairing a crane at a gas plant, Samuel Ehlstrand fell from a scaffold. After 10 days on the job he complained of neck pains. X-ray pictures showed he was suffering from a broken neck.

BOARD ORDERS

100 pounds on wheat and 33 cents per 100 pounds on other grain for export from Port Arthur, Fort William, Westfort and Armstrong, Ont., to Quebec as shown in Supplement No. 32 to Canadian National Railways Tariff G.R.C. No. E447 be, and they are hereby disallowed; and the Canadian National Railways Company is hereby directed to publish and file in substitution thereof a tariff showing a rate of 18.34 cents per 100 pounds on all grain for export from Port Arthur, Fort William, Westfort and Armstrong, Ont., to Quebec. Such changes to become effective on or before, but not later than, the twelfth day of September.

Other Tariff Changes

5. The Board further orders that all railway companies subject to its jurisdiction be, and they are hereby required, to publish and file tariffs showing the same rate to Quebec as to Montreal on: (a) Grain from Bay ports for export; (b) all traffic from Toronto and points west thereof for export; such changes to become effective on or before, but not later than the twelfth day of September, 1927. The order was signed by H. A. McKeown, Chief Commissioner.

By Order-in-Council, dated the fifth day of June, 1925, the Board of Railway Commissioners was directed to make a thorough investigation into the rate structures of railways and railway companies subject to the jurisdiction of Parliament, with a view to the establishment of a fair and reasonable rate structure which would in substantially similar circumstances and conditions be equal in its application to all persons and localities, so as to permit of the freest possible interchange of commodities between the various Provinces and territories of the Dominion, and the expansion of its trade, both foreign and domestic, having due regard to the claim asserted on behalf of the Maritime Provinces that they are entitled to the restoration of the rate basis which they enjoyed prior to 1919; the encouragement of the movement of traffic through Canadian ports; the increased traffic westward and eastward through Pacific Coast ports owing to the expansion of trade with the Orient and to the transportation of products through the Panama Canal.

To Aid Canadian Ports.

By Order-in-Council, dated the seventh day of January, 1926, the Board was directed, as a part of the general rate investigation, especially to inquire into the causes of Canadian grain and other products being routed or diverted to other than Canadian ports, and to take such effective action under the Railway Act, 1919, as the Board might deem necessary to ensure, as far as possible, the routing of Canadian grain and other products through Canadian ports.

Hearings were held in Ottawa, Montreal, Windsor, Toronto, Moncton, St. John, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Kelowna, Vernon, Kamloops, Vancouver, New Westminster, Chilliwack, Victoria, and Prince Rupert, attended by counsel and representatives of the Provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces, and the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railway Companies. Various Boards of Trade had representatives at the sittings, as well as civic, Provincial, and Dominion associations of commercial and other interests.

OBITUARY

J. H. ROPER

There died suddenly in Montreal on August 24, John Henry Roper, eldest son of the late J. H. Roper of Peterborough. Burial took place in Montreal.

AARON N. MANN.

The death occurred at 8.20 this morning of Aaron Nicholls Mann, at the family residence, Bridgenorth, after a short illness, at the age of 76.

The late Mr. Mann was born in Smith township, and has resided there for practically all his life.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, one son, James Burritt Mann, and three daughters, Marguerite, Mayme and Irene, at home; also two brothers, Edward R. of Davidson, Sask., and C. H. Mann of Hamilton, Ont; and two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Roseborough, of Davidson, Sask., and Mrs. John Ledrew, of Brantford, Ont.

The funeral will take place on Monday, August 29th. Service at the house will be at 2 p.m., and interment will be at Bridgenorth cemetery, with the Rev. J. V. McNeely of the United Church officiating.

BOOOTLEG STEAKS.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Restaurants in France were ordered not to offer more than four meat or fish dishes to their patrons when Premier Poincaire set out to save the franc. For some time the establishments have scratched out the remainder of their lists of meats, but the words are plainly legible and waiters can be persuaded to bootleg anything on the bill of fare, it is said.

Reversed Figures Show Gray Majority of 925

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press.)— Revised figures in Thursday's by-election show that Mayor Wells-Gray, Liberal, defeated Charles A. Walsh, by a majority of 925. The poll was: Gray 2,542, Walsh 1,617.

In the 1924 Provincial general elections, Dr. E. J. Rothwell, Liberal, was elected over the three other candidates, the vote being: Dr. Rothwell, $1,564; Dr. A. M. Sanford, Cons., 1,310; R. C. Higgs, Labor, 609; C. L. Cassidy, Provincial party, 591.

CO-OPERATION IN TRAFFIC RULES

the everlasting ruin of any growing municipality. We must think in terms of greater responsibilities, greater problems and greater progress. We are now on the eve of becoming the distributing point for an extensive summer resort district. If we do the fair thing by our motor tourists we will see to it that our traffic regulations are such as to result in the minimum of confusion and conform closely to the most progressive precautions in force in other centres. "Why not?" asked Mr. Stinson, "instead of knowing these traffic regulations as fas as they are introduced, give them a fair trial? Back up our civic administration and believe that in the final analysis, if the thing is proved to be of no good, it will be thrown out. I can remember and I am considered, I suppose, a very young man, the time when Peterborough had no traffic regulations whatever and it was quite all right to drive on any side of George street, turn anywhere or cross anywhere, pedestrians in their crossing governed solely by their mental calculation as to the amount of mud which would accumulate on their shoes in one section of the street over another.

"Again I say, we have grown up. Let us act like grown ups. The men who uses up his surplus energy in grousing and destructive criticism of regulations drawn up entirely with a view to the common good is not likely to devote much time or talent to constructive work on his own behalf or that of his home city."

TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trusts Association Limited for the week ending August 27 reads as follows:

St. John.—Wholesalers and retailers report business as somewhat quiet. Collections fair.

Montreal. — Wholesale dry goods and groceries report a fairly active week. The retail trade is slightly below last week but may be considered above normal. Collections very fair.

Toronto.—A very fair volume of business is being transacted by wholesalers generally with every indication of an exceptionally satisfactory volume in the Fall. The retail trade has experienced a good volume for this time of the year owing partly to special sales which have brought fair returns. Collections fair.

Winnipeg.—All lines of wholesale trade transacting very nice volume of business. The retail trade is featuring Fall goods and sales are very satisfactory. Collections normal.

Regina.—A fair to good business is reported by the wholesale and retail trade. While certain districts show evidence of hail, the average crop is estimated to be very satisfactory and the trade generally is anticipating a nice Fall business. Collections normal.

Saskatoon.—Business transacted by wholesalers generally is reported to be good. City retail fair, collections normal, although an early improvement is expected.

Calgary.—Business generally continues about on a level with last year; further expansion is dependent entirely upon the ripening of the crop which is a little later than last year. Collections just fair.

Vancouver. — Manufacturers and wholesalers report business fair with exception of grocery and hardware dealers, whose volume continues good. Retail, both city and country, fair. Collections fair.

WHERE THEY WASTE NO TIME.

The unexpected manoeuvre of William T. Cosgrave, President of the Irish Free State, in having the newly elected Dail Eireann dissolved and in appealing to the people at another general election serves to call attention to the fact that across the Atlantic they are much more expedilous in their political contests than we are in this country, despite the fact that some of us are inclined to think the old lands slow.

The new general enection is announced for Sepember 14th, leaving less than three weeks for the campaign.

In Canada we devote more time to a single by-election — the present campaign in North Huron for example—and it is doubtful if there is anything gained by dragging out political contests as there is a tendency to do on this side of the Atlantic.

In the brevity of their election campaigns, in the small amount of time wasted in Parliamentary sessions and in the shortness of their speeche either in Parliament or on the campaign platform, the politicians of overseas have much from which we over here could learn with profit.

THOSE LONG FLIGHTS.

The fact that seven lives have been lost on the Pacafic as the result of a trans-oceanic flying contest, following the death of Coli and Nungesser, and narrow escapes recorded in the case of other aviators is creating from many quarters a demand that "stunt flights of this nature should be suspended for the time being.

No useful purpose is secured by these flights.

Both the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans have been crossed by flyers and nothing will be added to the world's knowledge of aviation by repetitions of such flights while on the other hand each attempt is a gamble with death, with the odds very seemingly against the brave men who risk their lives.

At all events governments should not permit any long-distance flights until the most rigid inspection of planes, equipment and flyers has been made.

The knowledge that two Canadian flyers, Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf are about to attempt an air journey from London to London seizes upon the imagination of their fellow cuntryman but Canadian generally would like to feel that everything possible to secure perfect equipment has been done before the flyers hop off on their long flight to the heart of the Empire.

STIMULATING EMPIRE TRADE.

The Examiner called attention some months ago to the efforts being made by the Empire Marketing Board to stimulate the sale of Canadian products in the British markets.

The latest in the series of advertisements designed to persuade the British consumer that it is not good business to purchase Empire-produced products has just been received by this paper.

It is being published in all the leading newspapers in the United Kingdom and should undoubtedly serve a very useful purpose in attracting attention to the quality of Canadian bacon.

In this advertisement Britishers are told that "Today's pick of the Empire Baskets" is "Home and Canadian bacon" and they are advised to ask first for the bacon from the home farms.

"Failing that", read this appeal, "we should resolutely demand Canadian bacon. For type of side and mildness of cure it's fine quality is now recognized. The Canadians know just as well as we do what good bacon is. And they send us of their best."

The Empire Marketing Board has been conducting a notable campaign and The Examiner is confident enough in the efficacy or newspaper advertising, in the good sense of the British people and in the quality of Canadian products to predict that very notable results will be attained.

WHAT ONTARIO OFFERS.

The people of Ontario are glad to note that Premier Ferguson has not missed the opportunity presented by the sessions of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congess to place before the delegates the mineral riches of this province.

They approve, too, of the Premier's avowed preference for British money and British people in the development of this country and his declaration that "the spirit and possibilities of the Empire depend upon the vitality and development of its newer parts rather than of the old country."

The visit to Canada of mining experts from all parts of the Empire while not so spectacular as other Jubilee year visits is nevertheless an event of the foremost importance out of which should come immense beenfit to this country.

The mineral wealth of Canada, particularly of Ontario is certain to make an lasting impression upon visitors whose opinions on such matters is widely recognised and will undoubtedly lead to an influx of British capital to plays its part in the great development that

When such an authority as Sir Richard Redmayne, formerly Chief Inspector of Mines in Great Britain, declares that before long Ontario will be the centre of the great mining industry of The Empire and Canada the "centre of gravity" as regards the production of gold not only within in the Empire but in the world, there is no doubt of the impression made upon the Congress delegates. Nor need there be any fear that British capital will be lacking.

LABOR TROUBLES IN AUSTRALIA.

While there is reason for the common belief that Australia is the desired haven of labor unions and labor parties, all is not brotherly love and contentment in that commonwealth. Just now, in New South Wales, a bitter political campaign is in progress in which the different labor groups are quarreling with each other. The fact is that labor organizations and labor politics are so many faced and complicated that it is hard for an outsider to get a clear understanding of them. Even for Australians themselves this is difficult, according to the Australian correspondent of The London Times.

He draws a sharp line between what he calls "industrial labor" and the "political labor party." Organized labor covers Australia like a network. Every trade and nearly every profession has its union. Newspaper men, actors and even bank clerks have got themselves registered as trade unions. The latest accession is the Australian Clerical Association. These unions are powerful, ambitious and all the time extending their control. They have had a great deal to do with the Australian policy of restricting immigration. They do not wish the population to grow too rapidly. Their object is to maintain the standard of living, with the wage scales that come from virtual monopoly control by labor, and to keep pushing it higher. It is in this sphere, where the prominence and success of organized labor in Australia have been so marked, that the commonwealth has a title to be known as the happiest home of trade unions.

Turning to the political side, the picture is not so rosy. This is not from lack of effort on the part of labor to seize control of the public business. But here there has been too much of a spirit of faction, along with a determination to dominate everything, which has overleaped itself. Most of the Australian labor parties are organized on a basis of partisan exclusiveness which even Tammany Hall might envy. Since the introduction of the caucus, in a stringent form not borrowed from Joseph Chamberlain in Birmingham, the attempt has been made to dictate not only policies and memberships in Parliament, but Prime Ministers and the entire personnel of Cabinets. This kind of party tyranny has gone so far that it has here and there led to open revolt in the Labor party. Strong and independent Labor leaders have broken away from this absolute control by a committee. And though the effort has been made to turn the Labor party into a vast political machine, having the right to apportion even the smallest bits of political patronage, the usual fate of interpal differences and violent dissensions has frequently overtaken it. Thus it apepars that while oragnized labor in other countries may have something to learn from the great Australian experiment, it also has the warning of examples not to be followed.—St. Catharines Standard.

PROSPERITY AHEAD FOR CANADA.

Unless some chance misfortune intervenes within the next three weeks, the West will yield one of the greatest crops that Canada has harvested in years. An unusual rainfall in May and June resulted in a reduced acreage in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, this being responsible for a recent Government estimate of not more than 375,000,000 bushels. Recent weather, however, has been so favorable as to compel radical revision of this estimate, and the most competent and conservative observers on the prairies are now confidently predicting a harvest of 425,000,000—which would be one of the greatest in our history.

For five years in succession now Canada has been blessed with rich harvests. If, as now seems probable, a sixth is to be added, a tremendous impetus will be given to the prosperity of the country. For, in the last analysis, there is no factor so potent in the material progress of a nation as a rich agricultural production. If evidence of this were required, it is surely seen in the record of the past five years. During 1920 and 1921, following a series of bad crops, Canada passed through the shadows. The farmers of the West, haunted by the spectre of foreclosed mortgages, were discontented, rebellious. Industry, deprived of a rich prairie market, was depressed; railways, with little grain to haul east, and little freight to haul west, were in difficulties; money became scarce; emigration became a national nightmare.

Five rich harvests have changed everything. Today Western Canada is experiencing an astonishing prosperity. The pessimism and the discontent and the general air of failure that so impressed visitors six or seven years ago, and which gave rise to so much wild talk in Parliament, are no longer evident. In their place have come a new and stronger confidence in the country; a greater and more varied agricultural production, and a wonderful development of western cities.

It is a change that is reflected throughout the whole country. A western harvest that puts more than $400,000,000 into the pockets of western farmers must necessarily mean a vast deal to the industrial east. It means a rich new home market for our manufacturers; a consequent increased employment for Canadian workers; traffic for Canadian railways; trade for Canadian ports. Its effect, indeed, can hardly be measured.

Canada, truly, is being blessed by Providence. Our forests and our mines pour out their riches in mounting volume; our trade with the world grows; bank deposits increase; national revenues surpass all predictions; unemployment is negligible. Whatever mistakes we may make in policy, all seem to be as nothing before the favors vouchsafed to us. While much of the world is in turmoil, while economic difficulties and social unrest plague so many of the peoples, Canada remains a cozy corner of the world, its troubles comparatively nothing. It is something for which all of us should be humbly and everlastingly grateful.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has no swimming marathon but it will make a splash nevertheless.

It looks as if the highway traffic problem will be solved about the time we'll have to tackle a similar situation in the air.

The Irish Free State is to have a general election on September 14th. Over here we couldn't get a by-election out of the way in that time.

Judging by what Premier Ferguson told the delegates to the Mining Congress he evidently believes that Ontario is not such a bad province in which to live or in which to invest.

Tommy Church is getting no publicity out of the marathon swim or the Conservative convention. What is the matter?

Wasn't this George Young the fellow who won the Catalina swim and has an aunt named Bella?

It should be possible to get a kick out of the swimming marathon by listening to the radio announcer trying to pronounce some of the names.

That idea that the plane to be used in the London-to-London flight was to be called D. B. Hanna must have been erroneous.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Ont., August 27. — During the past week receipts at the Union Stock Yards were fairly heavy, consisting of 6,346 cattle, 1,928 calves, 2,567 hogs, and 4,035 sheep and lambs.

At the end of the week's trading practically all stock had been sold, with the exception of about 200 head of low grade cattle. Prices for cattle were subject to very little change for the week, they being quite steady, although on butchers cattle trade was inclined to be draggy at times. Lambs for the week's trading showed $1.00 a cwt. advance. Baby beef and calves were quite active all the week at firm prices. Hog prices were unchanged for the week.

On Monday with approximately 5,000 cattle received, trade opened fairly active for choice butchers at prices steady with the previous week. Choice steers of heavy weights sold from 8¼c to 8¾c with the odd fancy higher. Choice light butcher steers from 8¼c to 8½c. Choice butcher heifers, 8c to 8½c, with the odd fancy at 8½c. Medium and good cattle ranged in price from 7c to 8c according to finish. Common killing cattle were slow, with a few hundred carried over on Monday night. Choice fat cows were a shade stronger, selling up to 6c with fancy at 6½c. Good cows, 5c to 5½c, medium to common, 4½c to 5c. Canners and cutters steady. Bulls steady with fair demand. Baby beeves were in strong demand, choice selling at 12c to 12½c, with fancy at 13c; good, 10c to 11c; medium around 9c. Tuesday trade was fairly active for fresh cattle, at steady prices, stale cattle selling ½c lower than Monday. On Wednesday prices for choice stock were still maintained. Medium to common killers rather slow. Bologna bulls were lower on Wednesday, not many selling over 4 cents.

Trade was active for cows showing quality. Outside buyers operating on the market. Choice springers selling from $90 to $110, good $65 to $80. Choice fresh milkers $75 to $90; good $50 to $75; common cows draggy at lower levels.

Choice lambs sold on Monday at 12c. On Tuesday trade was more active and prices stronger. Choice sold at 12¼c to 13c; culls around 10c. Yearling sheep 8c to 9c. Choice butcher sheep, 6½c to 7c; good, 5½c to 6c; heavy sheep and aged bucks, 4c to 5c. Cull sheep 2c to 3c. On Wednesday choice lambs sold at 13c.

No hog sales were effected on Monday. Tuesday morning buyers eventually agreed to pay prices steady with last week, namely, $11.65 off cars for selects, $10.75 f.o.b. selects; road hogs, $11.40, with the usual discount on other than selects. These prices prevailed all week.

Labour Day, Monday, September 5, will be recognized as a holiday. The Live Stock Exchange will be closed that day. The stock will receive the usual attention and be sold on Tuesday, September 6.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was moderately active under a good demand from United Kingdom buyers.

The domestic trade in oats was fair and the prices for all grades were well maintained.

The demand for spring and winter wheat grades of flour was less active but the undertone to the market was firm.

The mill feed trade was fairly active and firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was dull and the feeling was steady.

A moderate amount of business was done in eggs and prices were unchanged.

Sales of butter were confined to small lots to meet immediate wants. The undertone was firm, but there was no further change in prices.

The local and export demand for cheese was again inactive and prices were irregular.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 2,000; yearlings, closing for week at $14.00 to $14.50.

Hogs.—14,000; top $10.85; bulk 160 to 200 pounds $10.50 to $10.75; 220 to 250 pounds $9.90 to $10.50; 250 to 300 pounds $8.35 to $9.90; few big weight butchers down to $8.90 and below; packing sows $7.90 to $8.35

Sheep, 12,000; good to choice rangers $13.25 to $13.50; few good westerns around $13.00 and below; native lambs $12.50 to $13.00; bulk lambs $11.00 to $12.00; culls $8.50 to $9.00; late sales fat ewes $5.75 to $6.50; mostly good medium weight feeding lambs $13.00 to $13.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—All grain averaged higher yesterday, final quotations being near the top when short covering found offerings light. Strength at Winnipeg and Liverpool also was a factor. At the finish wheat showed a net gain of 1¼ to 1¾c; corn advanced 1 to 1¾; oats were ¾ to ⅞ up, and provisions were unchanged to 10c higher.

Wheat showed a firm undertone, with wet weather in Europe and an active export demand the dominating influences.

There was some rain in the United States and Canadian Northwest, but taken as a whole, harvesting in Canada was reported making rapid progress.

Corn was more active toward the finish, although dull early. In sympathy with wheat firmness and rather pessimistic crop reports for Illinois, prices averaged higher, with sufficient scattered commission house buying to offset local pressure. Weather conditions over the belt were somewhat more favorable.

Oats were affected by the action of corn.

Provisions were steady.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

THE WORLD CONFERENCE.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir: Will you please publish the following item of news from the World Conference at Switzerland. It will be remembered that all our Protestant churches in Canada sent delegates. It is the most important conference in the history of the Protestant church. It recognizes for the first time since it repudiated it at the "Reformation" the necessity of a ministerhood set apart and authorised independently of the people but by Christ and their own body. They have defined the authority of the ministry which is bestowed only by the laying on of hands by those in properly constituted authority.

"A Believer Rejoicing."

"A common definition of the ministry for all the churches represented at the World Conference on Faith and order, was agreed upon by the Bishop of Gloucester's commission, which has been struggling with the subject for three days in secret session, and presented to the full conference.

"In recommending and passing on for further consideration by all the churches, certain suggestions as to possible organization, the commissions report says that its members find themselves in 'substantial accord,' on five fundamental propositions.

"These are: First, the ministry is a gift of God through Christ to his church, and is essential to the being and well-being of this church. The ministry is perpetually authorized and made effective through Christ and his spirit. Third, the purpose of the ministry is to import to men the sayings and sanctifying benefits of Christ through pastoral service. The preaching of the gospel, and administration of the sacraments is to be made effective by faith. Fourth, the ministry is entrusted with a government and a discipline of the church, in whole or in part. Fifth, men gifted for the work of the ministry, called by the spirit, and accepted by the church, are commissioned through an act of ordination by prayer and the laying on of hands, to exercise the functions of this ministry."

C.P.R. TO SPRAY EDGES OF LINE

Will Prevent Growth of Weeds Along Gravel Banks.

TO USE CHEMICALS

WININPEG, Man., Aug. 27.—Waging war on weeds the C.P.R. has let a contract to a chemical company for extermination of weeds along its right of way on western lines this fall.

A total of 2,890 miles will be sprayed with death dealing liquid by a mechanical device attached to tank cars. So deadly is this chemical that not only will it kill growing grass, but gravel on line will be sterilized and converted into an arid waste. Thus will the work of keeping clean and in good condition the road bed of the great trans-continental be simplified. The section men having heretofore laboured long in the heat of the day to achive the standard of neatness demanded by all good railroaders.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 27.—Reeve W. T. Wood had as his guest for the week-end, Mr. S. B. Prest, of Souris, Manitoba, who was making his first visit to Millbrook after an absence of fourteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball motored to Chemong Park on Thursday and visited the cottage where Miss Thelma Ball and a party of girl friends are taking their annual holiday.

Congratulations are being extended to Miss Hazel McMahon, who has passed in all the subjects, both Middle and Upper School, which she wrote on this year.

Misses Alice and Lottie Vance, who have been visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, Ida, for the past two or three weeks, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Vance this week. Upon their return to Toronto Miss Lottie will remain for a time visiting friends before resuming her position in the Gould Foundation Orphanage, New York.

Mrs. J. O. Fife, and Miss Pallin of Peterborough, were week-end guests of their sister, Mrs. F. A. Kidd.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stillwell and two children, Ruth Marie and Paul, of Menden, Illinois, who have been on a month's motor trip visiting friends at different points in Ontario, were guests of his father and mother, Rev. R. J. Stillwell, at Mr. J. L. Byam's home, Bank Street, this week. They left on Wednesday on their return trip.

Mr. Lloyd Byam has purchased a motor boat for use when the duck shooting season opens and Mr. J. L. Byam and family have their annual camping outing at the Otonabee River.

Miss May Mitchell, who has been visiting Miss Burnham and other friends in town this week, returned to her home in Oshawa on Wednesday.

Miss Muriel Smith left on Wednesday for Toronto, Windsor, and Essex to visit friends. Miss Smith will assist her sister, Mrs. W. H. Hall, with her post-nuptial reception during her stay at the latter's home in Essex.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Stinson and family left on Tuesday on a motor trip to Northern Ontario, visiting her sister at Utterson, and relatives at Dwight, up until Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles and family will join them at Powassan. The party will proceed to Kirkland Lake, where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stenson and Mr. and Mrs. Errol Doxsee for a two weeks' stay.

Mrs. Russell Smith and two children are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, and other friends in Toronto this week.

The engagement is announced this week of Miss Muriel Lang, eldest daughter of Councillor T. J. and Mrs. Lang, to Mr. Walter E. Wright, of Peterborough, the marriage to take place in St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, on Thursday, September 15, at 2 p.m.

Mr. George and Miss Alice Needler of Toronto, who have been visiting Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler for the past week, left for Cobourg on Thursday, where they will be guests of their aunts, the Misses Riddick, for a brief stay.

Mrs. E. Morden and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dayton of Picton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley last week.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Cullum, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cullum, now of Rochester, but formerly of Millbrook, takes place in Toronto the end of this month to William Robert Bateman of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Clarke and four members of their family who motored from Winnipeg and have been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. S. Burnham and other relatives in Ontario for the past six weeks, were victims of an accident when on their return trip west this week. Shortly before reaching Detroit a truck ahead of their car turned suddenly across the road without the driver giving any warning signal. To avoid being hit by the truck, George Clarke, who was driving his father's car, was obliged to head his seven-passenger sedan for the ditch, striking a telephone pole and damaging the car badly. Several members of the party were cut by broken glass, and one daughter, with her little girl, was thrown to the roadside and both injured severely. The accident caused a delay of three days before the car was repaired and the party able to proceed on their trip home.

A Thought For To-day

SLOW DOWN OR GO BROKE.

There is something wrong somewhere and sometimes I am persuaded to believe that we are putting on too much selling pressure.

Many are persuading people to buy what they cannot afford to pay for and this installment idea has put a lot of people in hock.

Necessary debt is necessary. Legitimate credit is a great convenience, but the luxuries of life should be bought and paid for with cash.

Everybody is entitled to all the enjoyment that they can get, if the pleasures derived are not followed with that worry over debts.

We have to slow down on extravagance or speed up in the right direction, our energies.

The Frock of Two Materials is Smart This Season

This chic little frock is very modish. The skirt, having an inverted plait at each side and a boxplait at front and back, is joined to the bodice over which is arranged a band of contrasting material, the same being repeated in the long sleeves, cuffs on the short sleeves, and the chic bow at the neck. No. 1566 is in sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards 36-inch material, or 1⅝ yards 54-inch, and ⅝ yard 36-inch contrasting. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically, by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out. Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make without difficulty an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Cut flowers just this size from ribbon—shaded satin or velvet ribbon is most attractive. With a pencil lightly mark out the petals.

With matching silk floss outline or run the pencil lines, and then one-two-three the edges, with a buttonhole stitch. The center can be held down with French knots, or with beads, sewed into place with the floss.

The tiny figure shows how to place the flowers—five or six along the lower edge of the tunic, one on the bodice.

SAINT and SINNER

Cherry's small, gaily swinging body jerked to attention. "Heavens!" she cried, breathlessly. "You scared the life out of me!"

"Where's the baby, Cherry?" Faith rose and seized her sister by the arms. "What have you done with her while you were out driving with Glenn Andrews, when you'd promised me not to see him?" Her voice was rising on hysteria again.

Cherry's face in the dim moonlight suddenly looked as white as rain-blanched bone. She gaped her answer: "I don't know what you're talking about! The baby was asleep when I left, at eleven o'clock—Faith, Faith! Bob! What's happened to my baby?"

It was Bob who answered: "God knows, Cherry! She's gone—her crib's empty. We thought you'd taken her driving with you and Andrews—"

Cherry tore out of Faith's grasp and hurled herself across the porch to the open front door. They heard her sobbing as she ran to Faith's and Bob's bedroom. They followed her more slowly, too well aware already of the emptiness of the crib.

Cherry, her golden eyes blazing and two round spots of color burning on her cheeks, whirled out of the room as they were about to enter it. "Her clothes are gone, nearly all of them! She's been kidnaped! My baby! Oh, my God! My God! Strike me dead, God. Strike me dead!" she moaned wildly, as she banged her head against the wall of the hall.

Bob darted from the room, glanced hastily at the drawers of the baby's chiffonier which Cherry had drawn out, saw that they were almost empty of the exquisite garments which Faith had made for the baby, then he ran heavily toward the telephone, sweat gleaming on his forehead, his blue eyes pale with fright and rage.

Faith, slumped against the door to her room, was hanging to the knob to keep from falling. "What—are you—going to do, Bob?" she gasped thickly.

"Call the police! God! If we'd only thought to look for her clothes a half hour ago, when we discovered she was gone—Hello! Hello! Give me police headquarters! I don't know the number. This is a matter of life and death. For God's sake, hurry!"

The panic in her husband's voice acted as a tonic upon Faith. Her fainting body straightened, strength came from some mysterious source and seemed to flow into her, routing the ice in her veins. Almost calmly she took Cherry into her arms—poor Cherry, with her forehead pitifully bruised from her frantic banging against the wall—and held her fast as she spoke to her husband:

"Ask for the night chief, Bob. Tell him that the baby was kidnapped between eleven and twelve o'clock by its father, Christopher Wiley, or by someone hired by Chris Wiley—"

"Faith!" Cherry screamed. "How do you know? Oh, I'll kill Chris for this! I'll kill him with my two hands!" And she beat upon her breasts with her tiny clenched fists.

"Of course it was Chris," Faith began, then she stopped to listen to Bob's frantic attempt to make the night chief of police understand what he was talking about.

"Yes, Hathaway speaking, H-a-t-h-a-w-a-y," Bob shouted. "No.—— Serenity Boulevard. I'm telling you!—Mrs. Wiley's baby, two and a half months old—yes, a girl baby! Cherry Lane Wiley's baby!" He bowed his head upon the mouthpiece of the telephone and groaned aloud. "Oh, the fools! Listen! We think the baby was kidnapped by her father, Christopher Wiley! Yes. Chris Wiley! Send out the alarm, will you? And some men out here at once. What's that? Red-headed, red curls, like Mrs. Wiley's—— Oh, you remember her, do you? Brown eyes, weight—how much does the baby weigh, Faith?"

"Nine pounds and ten ounces," Faith told him. And at her words, at the image they evoked, the two sisters broke into sobs, their arms wrapped about each other for support.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, AUGUST 28, 1927

This is read as a fairly favorable day in planetary direction; although astrologers warn to avoid excesses of any sort and to beware of sunstroke or accidents.

The rule is most fortunate to women, who are supposed to have their own way while this sway prevails.

There is a fairly good sign for churches, who will benefit after the summer vacations.

In the evening of this day romance will flourish, the stars predict, and many an engagement to marry may be formed.

Under this direction of the stars holiday flirtations may assume serious angles and he who values freedom will be cautious to-day.

This should be an auspicious rule under which to visit friends or to make social plans.

It is a first rate date to contemplate the family budget for the coming autumn and again the seers counsel thrift and economy.

Even at this early date astrologers foretell that the partial eclipse of the Sun and the total eclipse of the Moon next December will presage severe storms.

The new years will be most favorable to theatres, motion pictures and all forms of amusements.

Fearful loss of life through an earthquake or because of war is foretold as a probability early in 1928.

All the signs for the United States are read as presaging the most phenomenal growth with general prosperity.

If it were not for Saturn's influence arousing human greed the worldwould now be most happy, for Venus is in a place supposed to encourage peace, good will and wide-reaching fellowship.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of many new clothes and much unexpected pleasure in the coming year of their lives.

Children born on this day probably will be unusually artistic and diplomatic. Both boys and girls should be successful in their esthetic ambitions.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

MONDAY, AUGUST 29, 1927

This is a day of big possibilities accompanied by severe hazards, according to astrology. It is a time for care and caution.

Early in the morning the aspects encourage wise planning and assure clear vision regarding the future.

Women are well directed through the early hours of the day, which should be most auspicious for business.

There is a promising sign for dealings in lands or stocks if the most conservative methods are followed.

Temptation to speculate may be strong, but warning is given that it is likely to entail severe losses.

New fortunes will be made suddenly in the coming months, but they will be acquired by means of practical and stable commercial processes, astrologers foretell.

This is read as a favorable date for weddings, since love is likely to last and wealth to come.

Advertising is well directed and it should be especially beneficial to theatres and all other places of amusement.

Personal publicity, also, is supposed to be peculiarly effective, if obtained while this configuration prevails.

It will be most unlucky to contract bills or obligations under this direction of the stars, which makes for exact and careful buying.

Food now will claim attention, and the fashion of dieting will spread because of practical as well as esthetic reasons.

The high cost of living is surely to vex heads of families and possessors of small incomes, astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an important year in which they will profit through real estate.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely clever and ambitious. They will desire to make the best possible appearance.

GIRL PROBLEM IS DISCUSSED

CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The problem of the troublesome adolescent girl and the importance of the Junior High School in reformation of this type was the subject of an address at one of the meetings of the World Federation of Education Association meeting here by Miss Jessie B. Colburn, Junior High School principal of New York City.

"The problem to be faced," said Miss Colburn, "is a girl whose budding womanhood is expressed in an aggressively expanding ego, and intense vanity and love of dress and excessive use of cosmetics." She wants money, so insists on going to work. If the mother refuses or the law intervenes, she is apt to become a truant. When returned to school she is rather apt to lay hands on whatever money she can find at home—in her own euphonious (?) phrasing, "borrows" it and tries running away.

Miss Colburn stated that the sex instinct which was being minimized by some authorities on child psychology could not be ignored by the teacher. It created a most dangerous situation resulting very often in "an over-confidence in the ability to take care of oneself."

Miss Edna Hood, of Racine, Wis., supervisor of art in Kenosha, is a busy secretary, who is all on fire with her own work and ready to talk about it. A graduate of Chicago and Columbia, and a post-graduate of Oxford, Miss Hood wants to see the principle of creative work permeating every grade of education, from kindergarten to the university. "Self-expression, self-realization is the keynote of all we do and we try to surround the child with the environment that will bring out his latent gifts. We believe that every child is born with some artistic power and we seek to have him develop it through the many mediums—clay, sand, snow—we are strong on snow modelling—that lie ready to his hand."

There was Miss Mary Tweedie for one—she's a charming woman, who is head of the Ladies' College, Edinburgh, perhaps the oldest girls' school in the United Kingdom, as it was founded in 1694, and has as Miss Tweedie said, "lots and lots of old girls all over the world." Miss Mackensie of Government House, British Columbia, is an ex-pupil. Dr. Ogilvie Gordon is another.

Miss Tweedie is an honor graduate of Edinburgh, a past president of the Educational Institute of Scotland, one of the two women members of the advisory council to the Scottish Education Department — a small council of 20; and was president of the Educational Institute of Scotland when the World Federation met in Edinburgh, and had the honor of conferring degrees on five notable men.

Then for Scotland also, there was Miss Slessor, whose first question was, "Do you know Miss Cora Hind of Winnipeg? She's a wonderful woman." Miss Sleesor, who is head mistress of Tewel School, Stonehaven, has been out to the coast and back on a personally-conducted tour with our immigration department as the conductor. For she is deeply interested in agriculture (courses in gardening, butter-making and poultry-raising are given in her school, under the aegis of the agricultural colleges) and has been visiting the 3,000 family settlements placed throughout the West by the Scottish Emigration Board. "I have seen a land of promise," said Miss Slessor, "and I would say 'Come', to my boys and girls at home."

SUMMER COMPLAINTS KILL LITTLE ONES

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets or in a few hours he may be beyond aid. These Tablets will prevent summer complaint if given occasionally to the well child, and will promptly relieve these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. They are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness", will be sent free to any mother on request.

FASHION NOTES.

By HEDDA HOYT.
(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (United Press).—Cloth coats are expected to outnumber suits during the late summer and early fall. However, suits for the tourist and for the tailored woman are being shown by most shops. Suits for sportswear will be made of tweeds and twills primarily. For formal wear, broadcloth and soft woollens are the favored fabrics. Velvet, although popular for gowns and coats, is not seriously considered for suits for the coming season. Suits will be of hip-length as a rule. Fur trimming is absent due to the increasing vogue for separate animal scarfs. Colors listed as important are tans, grays, browns and black. Fur neck-pieces harmonize.

Bolero frocks are important among the fall showings. It is noticed that these models are not for the plump woman since the bolero is invariably posed over a snug-fitting body foundation which demands slenderness. As a rule the bolero is rather short, extending an inch or two above the normal waist-line. The tight body and hip-line is essential when the bolero is used.

To be appropriately dressed for all occasions, one should remember that thin lisle stockings are far preferable for sportswear than silk stockings. It is very seldom nowadays that we find lisle stockings worn with the sports dress although it is quite certain that they should be.

Crepe satin is the favored medium for the early fall frock. Most models show a little longer hemline, the hem being uneven in most cases. Black satin will outrule colors. Just as black satin is the favored material for frocks, black velvet is the favored material for millinery.

The fluffy flower shoulder corsage may be doomed to extinction by the time fall approaches. Advance afternoon models are minus these accessories. A few sleeveless evening gowns still adhere to the shoulder corsage, however.

No restaurants or lunch rooms are open on Sundays in Birmingham, England, a city with nearly a million inhabitants.

VIRGINIA BERG TO SPEAK HERE

Noted Woman Evangelist Will Spend Few Weeks in Peterborough.

AT BETHANY TABERNACLE

Mrs. Berg, the "little woman with the big message," who is dearly loved all through this section of Canada and known as one of the most successful evangelists that ever came to Canada, has, because of the urgent invitation of friends, come for a few weeks to Peterborough.

Mrs. Berg just closed a successful campaign in Brantford, Ont., in the largest building that could be secured, the great Alfred Skating Rink, where splendid crowds greeted her and on leaving Brantford, the station was crowded with those who told her "good-bye," so helpful had been her work in their midst. We feel that Peterborough is having a great opportunity in hearing the messages of this internationally known woman evangelist.

Rev. Fred Walker, the pastor of the M. E. Church, in Orion, Mich., when Mrs. Berg finished speaking after a two weeks' campaign, just before coming to Peterborough, said: "This is the greatest revival that has ever come to this part of the country," referring to Mrs. Berg's meeting.

Internationally Known

Mrs. Berg is recognized as among America's foremost orators and is not only known nationally but internationally, having been national field secretary of the Cruttendon Homes for Fallen Girls; also travelled under the auspices of the Chautauqua Bureau of Chicago. She has held revival meetings in every State in the Union with great success. Her father, Dr. John L. Brandt, author and pastor, is also well known and is recognized in "Whos Who of America."

On Tour

Mrs. Berg, who is pastor of one of the largest tabernacles in the East, at Miami, Florida, is on leave of absence for an evangelistic tour. Revivals have been held in the large tabernacle in Toronto, and capital cities in every State in the Union, and also abroad, by Mrs. Berg with great success. It is considered a rare opportunity to hear Virginia Brandt Berg, who has had such wide experience and is known as a mighty preacher and orator.

Splendid music every night. Some of the most interesting messages Peterborough has ever heard will be heard in Bethany Tabernacle for the next few weeks.

Mrs. Berg with her party will conduct Evangelistic Meetings in Bethany Tabernacle for three weeks beginning Sunday, August 28.

Services every evening at 7.30 (except Monday).

BOYS AND GIRLS SAVE A MILLION

The Thrift Movement in Public Schools of Ontario

TEACHING BY PRACTICE

The Penny Bank of Ontario and Its Strange Charter

By J. E. Middleton

Children in about three hundred schools have on deposit with The Penny Bank of Ontario approximately one million dollars. Over 60,000 pupils in Toronto alone are depositors, and in several other cities of the Province the number of customers of the Bank is imposing. The service is provided in fifty-five municipalities, large and small, and can be made available in any community served by a Branch of any Chartered Bank.

Within the past five years the school-savings movement has been stimulated in the United States by a committee of the American Bankers Association, in consultation with a group of educational leaders. In various European countries also the system of teaching thrift by practical banking has become firmly established. The Ontario plan is thoroughly worthy and has some features which are unique.

The Penny Bank of Ontario is incorporated by Special Act of Parliament for one purpose only; the collection and protection of children's savings. It was established by a guarantee fund of $20,000, but no dividends may be paid to the men who provided the capital guarantee. The Directors receive no fees, and not a dollar of the funds may be put out on loan. The money must be invested in Government securities, or deposited in the Post Office Savings Bank—save for a liquid reserve on deposit with the Chartered Banks. The only income of the Bank is the interest on these securities and deposits, and the rate, of course, is not large. Out of that income there must be paid to depositors three per cent on the minimum monthly balances. The surplus is just sufficient for an economical form of administration.

Clearly the Penny Bank of Ontario is not a money-making corporation. It is a philanthropy, supported by educational and financial leaders who know that thrift is a virtue worth teaching; men who understand that an ounce of practice is worth a ton of theory. The aim is to induce the habit of saving, and for that reason the banking-hour comes regularly—generally every Tuesday morning. The money is paid to the teacher who enters the amount of each deposit and the resultant balance in the child's pass book. A carbon copy of the entry goes to the Bank with the money and there the records are kept.

Hoarding is not encouraged. If the children learn that by regular saving they can accumulate enough money to buy some useful and lasting source of gratification, such as a bicycle or a pair of skates, the aim of the Penny Bank is achieved. The habit of saving learned at school usually persists when the individual begins to earn weekly wages.

A thrifty population produces a large reserve of capital for business expansion and tends to National prosperity. For that reason the interest of eminent financiers in the work of The Penny Bank of Ontario can be understood. Further, the habit of thrift is based on the habit of self-control, and self-control is the foundation-stone of good character. The man who saves money is generally a good citizen. The aim of the educationist is to produce in the schools a high percentage of good citizens. School-banking is a useful aid.

The Ontario Department of Education has appointed Mr. J. R. Littlegroud as Inspector of Penny Bank activities in the schools. Trustees, or other public-spirited citizens interested in the movement, can learn from him how the service of the Bank can be made available. He can be reached at the Head Office, York and Richmond Streets, Toronto.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN.

"It is a pleasure", says Mrs. Ross Boulter, of Victoria, P.E.I., "to tell you of the new health and strength I got through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills life was a burden to me. I was so badly run down that I did not know what to do. My blood seemed to have turned to water, I was very pale, constantly tired, and was losing flesh. It was a trial to attempt housework. Added to this I had a bad cough and my husband and friends thought I was going into consumption. The medical treatment I was taking did not appear to do me any good, and I had about given up hope when a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got six boxes and found so much benefit from them that I got six more boxes. Before these were all taken I was a new woman restored again to good health. I gained in weight, the cought left me, my appetite returned and I once more had a good color. Better still, I was able to do my housework without fatigue. Needless to say I always recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to ailing friends, and I hope this will be the means of pointing the road to good health to some other sufferer."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong.

If you will send us your name and address a little book, "Building Up the Blood", will be mailed you prepaid. This book contains many useful health hints.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT.

The present recorded water-power resources of the Dominion will permit of a turbine installation of 41,700,000 horse power. The total hydraulic installation up to the end of 1926 throughout the Dominion was $4,556,226 horse-power or less than 11 per cent. of the recorded water-power resources.

MARRIAGE SHIPS ARE RECALLED

SHIPLOADS BROUGHT IN

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—While there does not seem to be any shortage of wives in the British Columbia capital today, less than 70 years ago the supply was so far beneath the demand that brides were imported by the shipload from England and assigned to the lonely bachelors of the island by the local authorities.

Speaking recently before the Canadian Club on some of the odd aspects of pioneer life in the Province, Justice Denis Murphy described the arrival of the first of these "marriage boats," in 1862. The little port town was all agog on the long awaited day. Women were few and far between on the Pacific Coast and the prospect of seeing them en masse caused many a husky male's heart to flutter.

Farmers and miners deserted their pioneer labors and headed for the town. Long before the ship appeared in the harbor the quays were lined with eager, if somewhat sheepish, citizens.

It is not reported whether the venturesome ladies who dared an unknown country and unknown husband on this occasion were overcome with bashfulness as they filed between ranks of wife-hunters. Probably they were sufficiently coy to conjure maidenly blushes to their cheeks, even if these did not come naturally. While many of the imported wives were past the first flush of youth and many more would have been rank failures in any beauty contest, they all looked good to the lonely island bachelors, and when the great business of arranging who should marry who was settled, not one old maid was left to mourn her fate.

Since that day Victoria has been the scene of many society weddings which have been widely heralded and accorded columns in the press, but the great civic wedding day which followed the docking of this vessel still holds the record as an event of local interest. The few Victoria padres were overworked and rings were at a premium. As the early settlers were addicted to heavy knee boots, the custom of throwing old footwear at the happy brides and grooms was fortunately abandoned and a shortage of rice in the colony obviated another popular amusement connected with the ceremony.

Of course, some of the marriages contracted under these unique conditions failed to result in domestic harmony and ended in dismal failure, the wives regretting the separation from their friends in England and the urban life to which they had been raised and the husbands yearning for solitude among the wild and silent hills.

Other of the unions, however, proved highly successful and descendants of these are today numerous among the island population. Indeed the Government was so pleased with the result of their experiment that they repeated it in 1868, with a like measure of success. From that date it has not been necessary to bring wives to Victoria in wholesale lots. If a resident doesn't find one to suit his taste on the island he goes travelling to the less favored shores beyond the sound and there chooses his wife without Government aid.

YOUR PIANO SAYS:

Don't stand me up against a wall
And leave me there to stay,
Please pull me out a little bit
If you want me to play.
And do not leave me near a stove
Or other torrid place;
You'll cook the insides out of me
And blister up my face.

And when the weather's very damp,
Don't open wide the door,
For if you do I'll burst in two
And play for you no more.
But in the balmy summer time,
When days are bright and warm,
Throw open wide my top and front,
And have no fear of harm,

The ivories upon my keys
Should be of snowy white,
So keep them nice and clean
And give them lots of light.
If mice and moths get into me,
I'll make an awful holler
And when you have me overhauled
'Twill cost you many a dollar.

Now if you'll keep me well in tune,
My heart will be at ease,
And when you want to play on me
You'll get sweet harmonies.
Your tuner understands me best,
I like to have him near;
I'm sure he ought to call on me
At least two times a year.

—when you return the roast will be done

"HOW can I go to church and cook dinner at the same time?" the housewife of old used to say. "It simply can't be done."

But what couldn't be done a few years ago is done by thousands of Canadian women today. With roast and vegetables baking in McClary's Hermetite Oven you can attend to your other activities, feeling perfectly confident that the whole meal will be deliciously cooked.

The reason is "stored heat". McClary's Hermetite is doubly insulated. The walls are packed with heat-proof material and surrounded by dead air space—the best insulation known to science. You have only to close the door to make the oven almost hermetically tight. The heat is thus retained inside the oven long after the current is turned off. Your foods go on baking without using up a bit more electricity.

You'll be as charmed with the other time and money-saving features of McClary's Electric Range as you are with the Hermetite Oven. You'll be delighted with its all-white, porcelain enameled finish—its great economy—its famous Speediron Elements.

Made in the very style and size you require, and sold at a price you can afford.

SPEEDIRON

McClary's Speediron Element is the greatest electric range improvement of modern times. Unlike old-fashioned elements, the coils of the Speediron are protected. If coils burn out after long service you simply lift the element out and have coils replaced easily and quickly—at the cost of a few cents. The only renewable, reparable protected element on the market.

Announcing the Illustrious

NEW CHRYSLER 72

A Statement from Walter P. Chrysler:

In announcing the Illustrious New Chrysler "72," we are confident that our latest product is as great an advance over today's fine cars as was the famous "70" over the best of four years ago.

The New "72" is ultra modern—again setting new standards, establishing new results for the industry to follow.

The New Chrysler "72" with the Great, New "62," the New "52," and the magnificent Imperial "80"—are Chrysler's covenant of faith with the public which has so generously demonstrated its faith in us.

Longer, Roomier, Faster, Handsomer

The Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—longer, roomier, faster and handsomer—but that tells only a touch of the "72" story.

For the first time, in a car costing less than $2500, the New "72" gives an engine of 75 horsepower, with counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft, and rubber engine mountings to wipe out every last vestige of vibration.

It gives you speed of 72 and more miles an hour, pick-up of 5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, hill-climbing ability that sweeps you up even mountain grades at constant acceleration.

It gives you spring ends anchored in blocks of live rubber, which, with the special Chrysler spring suspension and shock absorbers, result in riding smoothness hitherto known only to most expensive cars.

It gives you longer, more beautiful bodies, tastefully appointed, luxuriously roomy, and fully equipped with saddle-spring seat-cushions and adjustable steering wheel to give you the utmost in comfort.

Test it to your satisfaction in every conceivable manner. Only then can you appreciate just how much wider is the gap which the Chrysler "72" has placed between itself and all others in this class.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" prices—Roadster, (with rumble seat), $2175; 2-passenger Coupe, (with rumble seat), $2275; Coupe, (4-passenger), $2345; Sedan, 4-door, (close-coupled), $2345; Royal Sedan, $2345; Convertible Coupe, (with rumble seat), $2575; Crown Sedan, $2580. All prices for delivery in Peterboro, and include 2 Bumpers, Spare Tire and Cover, License and tank full of Gasoline.

"Red-Head" Sets Chrysler Performance Farther Ahead

For those who seek supreme performance—speed, pick-up, hill-climbing ability, going beyond even the qualities of its standard sizes—Chrysler furnishes its new "Red-Head" high compression engine . . . . The New Chrysler "Red-Head" will be regular equipment on the Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Roadster, giving even greater speed and acceleration than the standards announced. It is also available for all other "72" body models.

JUBILEE FILMS ON AT CAPITAL

Will Be Shown All Next Week Runs For 20 Minutes.

PARADE FEATURED.

Citizens of Peterborough who took a prominent part in the local celebration of Dominion Day here, and those who enjoyed the various items on the programme provided for the occasion will have an opportunity of seeing moving pictures of the affair all next week at the Capitol Theatre, where they will be shown from Monday to Saturday inclusive.

On the day itself, these pictures were taken with a small camera by Fred L. Roy and the original film was then sent to the Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, New York, and a standard film made for exclusive showing here. This is over twelve hundred feet in length, and runs about twenty minutes. It cost several hundred dollars to make.

The picture opens with an excellent view of the water sports which formed the major event in the morning programme. The heat of the day is reflected in the atmosphere of the film and there is plenty of action in the games of water polo, the tilting, and the aquaplaning stunts.

Then comes a very comprehensive review of the parade, from the beginning to the conclusion, when the floats are shown resting at their harbor in the Exhibition Grounds. A flash of George street, with the Rotary arch in the distance, the swing of the kilts as the Scotsmen march past, then the school children and the floats, bring back a vivid recollection of that great day in the history of the city.

Lief Ericson and his Vikings bold form the vanguard of the march, followed by the gorgeous floats that made this parade outstanding in its excellence. The log cabins and covered wagons of the settlers, the pair of patient oxen that added a touch of primitive color to the procession, the Fathers of Confederation in all the glory of high hats and long coats, the school boys and girls in white clothing, the ancient velocipede with its intrepid rider, the Douro Old Boys of 1867, "Grandpa's Wedding" and its open hack of forgotten vintage, Uncle Tom's Cabin with Simon Legree cracking his whip, all have their place in the parade, which ends with a close-up of the floats of the various provinces.

The local interest of these pictures, their excellence in light and color and detail, the novelty of the fact that they portray something distintively our own, and perpetuate what was really an achievement on the part of the city and its people, the opportunity they afford of seeing once more an event of outstanding interest in the life of the community, and the glimpses they afford of friends and acquaintances in the many episodes presented, make them distinctly worth a visit from every citizen of Peterborough, during their presentation at the Capitol Theatre all next week.

PICTON FAIR.

Picton Fair is to be held in Picton on September 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th. This is the best distinctly Agricultural Exposition in Eastern Ontario. INSPECTOR REID which has recently been revived by the efforts of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and other to obtain for Slater liberty on the ground that he was not legally convicted of the offence charged. The crime of which Slater, who was a Jew of German birth, was adjudged guilty, was the murder of Miss Gilchrist, an elderly lady living in a fashionable quarter in Glasgow, and the theft of some of her jewelry.

Slater was a man of bad character, who was known to have been engaged in the white slave traffic for many years. Soon after the murder was discovered, he sailed to this side, and was followed by Glasgow officers Extradition proceedings were instituted and were suddenly terminated by Slater's offer to return voluntarily. Public interest rose to a great height during the trial in Glasgow. The late Lord Strathclyde, then the Scottish Lord Advocate, conducting the case for the prosecution, built up a tremendously strong case against Slater in his address to the jury. Verdict of guilty was returned and Slater was condemned to death.

On being taken to the death cell, Slater, who had borne himself with comparative equanimity during the trial, completely lost his fortitude at the prospect of edath.

Efforts by counsel for the defence were immediately set afoot in order to obtain a reprieve. This was ultimately granted by the Scottish Secretary. When the lawyer went to the prison bearing the news, Slater on being brought into his presence asked tearfully: "Am I to be hanged?" He was incarcerated in Peterhead prison where he remains to-day having never ceased to protest his innocence

Several years ago a number of influential men sought to obtain for Slater a new trial but without avail. The attempts to obtain a re-opening of the case at present are based on the belief of those interested in Slater that evidence which might have favored the defence was suppressed by the police who wished to be rid of a menace to society. On the other hand a rational explanation of Slater's sudden flight under an assumed name has not yet been forthcoming and it is the considered opinion of many legal authorities that Slater's chance of being released are very slender indeed.

The Yarnoff Murder.

The most important case with which Inspector Reid was connected in this country was that of the murder of Philip Yarnoff by five Russians in a hold up in a shack near Havelock. Quick action by the agent at Havelock broadcasted the news of the crime and the guilty men were captured that same day by the county police. A great web of evidence was woven by the prosecution following investigation in which the Peterborough police played a very important part. Convicted in a trial before Sir William Mulock and jury, the quintette were sentenced to death and one of Inspector Reid's most sensational police duties was that of being present at the execution of Philip Babri and Tom Koneh, who were the instigators of the murder plot The sentence of the others was commuted to life imprisonment. One of them has since died of consumption and the other two are still suffering imprisonment.

Another striking case in which the Inspector was concerned was that of a woman belonging to a local family who following a breach of the law, was ordered to be placed under arrest. Along with another constable Mr. Reid went to the house to execute the order. The woman was given some time in which to dress, and employing the interval in swallowing some poison, she emerged from her room to fall dead at the feet of the constables.

During the year 1914, no less than four of Inspector Reid's comrades on the police force were removed by death. The four who were well known in the city were: Sergeant Adams M. McGinty, H. Sills and P. C. Paterson.

Inspector Reid pays tribute to this community for its comparative freedom from serious offences. Law and order here, he thinks, are much more generally observed than in the great majority of communities on this continent.

Times have changed he says, and the changes have brought about consequent developments in police work. Regulation of the motor traffic, a small part of the duties of the force 21 years ago, now takes up a great deal of the time and attention of the officers People travel faster than they did then and accidents are consequently more numerous.

In Peterborough Mr. Reid has seen service under two chiefs: Chief Thompson, now of Windsor, and at present a visitor to this city, and under Chief Newhall, the present holder of the office.

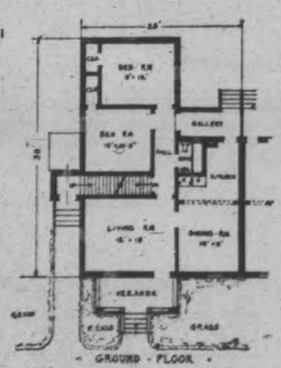
A Practical Duplex House

By Alcide Chausse, Architect.

This two-family house, because of its great practicability, would always command favourable attention on the real estate market.

The exterior is straightforward and unadorned, a treatment far preferable to the use of the cheap ornamentation which often results in an exterior appearance which is merely absurd.

Economy of construction has been very carefully guarded. The main brick building is the simplest form possible, being a simple rectangle of plan and having a flat roof, thus enclosing absolutely no waste space.



Entry to the ground floor suite is made at the front, and to the upper floor, at the side, each floor containing a bathroom, living room, kitchen, and three bedrooms.

Examining the ground floor plan we observe that should a dining room be required, the smallest bedroom, although slightly narrow, could be satisfactorily utilized, as it has a door very conveniently near that of the kitchen and is directly connected to the living room by a wide opening, this being necessary to light and ventilate the room.

Ample closet space has been provided, each bedroom having a large clothes closet while a roomy linen closet is provided in the hall.

A door from the kitchen gives access to a gallery and a shed. Notice the ease of communication between kitchen, shed, and service yard.

The upper floor plan very closely resembles that of the ground floor, the main digression being that entry is made from the stairs into the centre hall, instead of into the living room.

Stairs from the ground, at the rear of the shed, provide access, through the shed, to the kitchen entrance.

The basement, descent to which is made under the first floor stairs, is very well lighted and contains a hot water heating furnace.

This house was erected on a forty-foot lot, and so provided ample space for a side drive, to the double garage erected at the rear.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. Alcide Chausse, Montreal, Quebec.

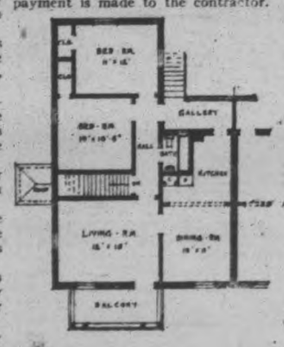
Why Is An Architect Advisable?

Because he not only draws a plan exactly suited to the needs of his client but also obtains estimates, aids is drawing up contracts, and overseer construction, thus protecting the owner against inferior work, overcharge, or fraud, and inspects it before final payment is made to the contractor.



REPORTS MADE AT CONFERENCE

SUPPLIES EXAMINED.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 27. — The third business session of the Eastern Ontario Conference of the Free Methodist Church of Canada was held on Friday morning in the church here with a large attendance. The completion of hearing the reports from ministers of the work accomplished on their circuits took up most of the time. Supply ministers were examined as to their studies.

Rev. J. W. Corey of Picton was elected to be ordained elder on Sunday. Revs. D. S. Wartman of Corona was granted a certificate of standing with a view to moving his membership to the Saskatchewan conference, being under appointment to Moose Jaw.

The meeting today was to deal with the passing of resolutions and the report of the stationing committee which appoints ministers to their circuits.

our people. I put two questions to people I met there, 'Are you happy?' and 'Are you doing well?'

"In every case the answer was 'yes.' I do not assert that there were no grousers but they kept out of my way. I wish they would do so at home.

"The opportunites in Canada and the scope for development were of deepest interest to me. I found in Canada high aims and real achievement. While Canada is developing her own nationhood, she looks to develop it within that wider community of nations forming the British Empire."

Premier Baldwin went on to assert that it was the threat of turmoil that had caused most of Britain's difficulties last year. He had hoped that the improvement in the country's general position would have been more marked; nevertheless there had been considerable improvement and there was no cause for pessimism. There was great room for development within the Empire and with British initiative and spirit now growing in the country Britain might look forward to securing its share of the benefits in increasing measure.

Must Meet Changes.

The British people must meet the changing conditions as their forefathers did, the Premier went on. Success would be jeopardized if there were any renewal of widespread stoppages of work. He would be concerned about the future if it was felt that there was that degree of antagonism in work shops which it had been suggested existed. The Premier was glad that the railways had given the lead in co-operation.

"It is a striking contrast coming back from Canada to my own country. Are the leaders here not satisfied to seek the millenium unless they can get it by the methods of communism. It is a long way from Canada to communism, but it is very short way from communism to disaster."

"I believe that the majority of our people have had enough forest fires of industrial upheaval raging in the land," Premier Baldwin declared. "Any fool can fire a forest or a city, who can never plant a tree or build a house. I look to the leaders of the trades unions to give the lead towards national prosperity."

McLaughlin-Buick took vibration out of the engine Now-it has taken it out of the road

WHEN McLaughlin-Buick made its famous six-cylinder Valve-in-Head engine vibrationless beyond belief, millions, the world over, hailed this startling advance in motor car performance as an engineering triumph.

Now McLaughlin-Buick for 1928 has followed with another great contribution to motoring comfort. McLaughlin-Buick has taken vibration out of the road by equipping every model with Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, front and rear—an added luxury that the savings of McLaughlin-Buick volume have been able to supply.

Drive a McLaughlin-Buick for 1928 over any roads you choose. Bumpy, rutty, uneven highways—all ride smoothly, for McLaughlin-Buick grades its own roads.

McLaughlin-Buick Hydraulic Shock Absorbers—made an integral part of the car by redesigning springs and chassis—provide far greater smoothness than Shock Absorbers which are added as "extra equipment".

Test this riding comfort for yourself. The nearest branch or dealer will gladly put a McLaughlin-Buick for 1928 at your disposal. B-7288

Leafs Take First Game From Baltimore Orioles

CRESCENTS WIN SECOND GAME BY 7-2 SCORE

Defeat Campbellford Nine On Their Own Grounds in O.B.A.A. Series.

BUNCH THEIR HITS.

Losers Hit Hard But Fail To Come Through With Men On.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 27. — On their home diamond yesterday afternoon, the Campbellford nine exonerated themselves after suffering defeat last Wednesday in Peterborough . Confronted by practically the same team, Campbellford played a good game of ball and lost by five runs to the Peterborough Crescents. This puts Campbellford out of the running for this season. Jackson, Peterborough, umpire at the plate, kept the game moving rapidly. Bill Wellman, Hastings, as base umpire, showed the fans that he knew his business.

There were fewer errors than at the game in Peterborough, and the whole nine innings was a better brand of baseball. Peterborough batted first, and failed to score, while Campbellford got two runs in their first innings. The Crescents evened the score and went the locals one better when they got their second chance. From that time till the eighth inning there was no score made by either team. Then Christie walked Ranger and Scully, and they both brought in runs. In the ninth, LeBarr got a walk that ended in a run ,and Joe Jones got one on a hit. Mein soon wound up the game by fanning three batters, and the game was over — Peterborough Crescents 7, Campbellford 2.

In the first inning, LeBarr, first man up, fanned. Joe Jones tried the right fielder on a fly, and was caught out. Kennealey sent up a foul that was caught by the third baseman, Decarrol.

Cook batted first for the local team and managed a single. Blakely walloped a three-bagger, bringing Cook in. Cowell singled and Blakely came home. Cowell stole second. Christie hit and was caught out by Fred Jones. Holmes and DeCarrol each hit, but were put out before they reached first .

Campbellford took the field with the crowd yelling their heads off, and a perfect din of automobile horns. Ranger singled, stole second, and made third on a passed ball. Scully got a walk . Billingsley singled to centre field, and Ranger came in . Fred Jones followed with another single to left field. Scully got home and Billingsley to second. Rishea fanned and Billingsley was put out at third on a throw from Ibey to Blakely. Jones reached third on an overthrow. Mein was safe on an error by Holmes. LeBarr was out at first.

Ibey, for Campbellford, bunted a single, stole second, and was caught in the act at third. Eagleson fanned. Saunders got a walk. Cook planted one in Mein's mitt and put out at first.

In the third Joe Jones singled, but was put out later at third on a throw from Holmes to DeCarrol. Kennealey singled. Weir, running for him, stole second and third. Ranger hit to Eagleson but failed to beat the throw to Ibey. Scully fanned.

Blakely singled. Cowell got a walk. Christie was caught out by Scully on a foul behind third. Holmes hit and Blakely was put out at third. DeCarrol singled to Ranger, who held the ball just a moment while the bases were nicely filled , Ibey hit a hot one, and DeCarrol was forced at second.

In the fourth, Billingsly fanned, Fred Jones was thrown out by DeCarroll At this point of the game Jackson summoned Christie and reminded him of some little point. This seemed to be a signal for the Peterborough fans to set up a roar about Christie's feet when in action. The umpire may or may not have spoken to the pitcher of the matter, but those who had objected seemed satisfied almost immediately. Rishea at bat singled, and reached second on a fumble in the right field. Mein got a walk and LeBarr was caught out by Saunders in centre field. For Campbellford, the innings was short and snappy. Eagleson drove the ball into Mein's mit for an out. Saunders did practically the same thing. Cook beat his hit to first, and Blakely followed the example of the first two batters.

Two Fine Catches.

When Campbellford took the field at the first of the fifth, Holmes and Eagleson changed places, Holmes going to second and Eagleson to right field. Joe Jones, batting first, hit one into Christie's mitt and was out. Kennealey knocked a fly to left field and Blakely caught him out. Ranger managed to do the same thing with the same result. Blakely's two spectacular catches won him the cheers of both sides.

Cowell hit to left field, and was called safe at first on a close decision Christie singled and Cowell made second. Holmes drove one deep into the field and Fred Jones caught it It was a wonderful catch. It took the fans a moment to realize that he had really done it. Then he had his chance to "bow to the grandstand." DeCarroll grounded to Ranger. Ivey singled and the bases were full. Prospects for a run were bright, but Eagleson's infield fly spoiled that.

In the sixth Scully led off with a three bagger and a lot of cheers from the crowd. Billingsly got a walk. Fred Jones hit to third, DeCarrol throwing to Cowell to put Scully out. With Billingsly on third and Jones at second Rishea hit an infield fly and Holmes caught him out. Cook threw Mein out at first.

Saunders Campbellford, fanned and Cook was walked. Blakely forced Cook out at second base. Cowell hit to right field and was put out at first.

LeBarr led off the seventh by fanning, and Joe Jones was put out by Ibey on a throw from Holmes. Kennealey hit direct to Ibey at first base and went out.

Christie, Campbellford, sent a fly into Ranger's mitt and Holmes hit a three-bagger. He tried to stretch it to a homer and they beat him to it. DeCarrol hit to centre field and was caught out. The innings was short and snappy and the score unchanged.

Two for Crescents

In the eighth, Ranger got a walk first thing, stole second, and took third on a passed ball. Scully went to first on four balls and stole second. Billingsley knocked a three-bagger and brought both men in. Fred Jones fanned and Rishea grounded to Christie. Mein went out the same way.

Ibey, Campbellford, hit one to second but it got to first before he did. Rishea caught Eagleson's fly to second, and Sanders flied to Scully.

In the ninth, Christie gave LeBarr four balls, and Joe Jones bunted safely. Then a fast one caught Kennealey on the side of the head and it was feared that he was out. Weir ran for him and the game continued after but a brief hesitation. With the bases full, Ranger knocked an infield fly. Ibey dropped it. Holmes recovered quickly and pegged to the plate. Cowell dropped it there and LeBarr was safe. With no men out, Scully hit a sacrifice fly. He was caught out and a double play made at second base, while Joe Jones came in. Billingsley fanned.

Mein seemed to take the bit in his teeth and the law in his own hands for a few minutes, for he fanned Cook, Blakely and Cowell just as quickly as they took the bat in their hands. It certainly ended the game without any mistaken ideas regarding his ability to pitch.

TUNNEY'S TRAINING QUARTERS

The luxurious Cedar Crest Country Club near Chicago, resting on a hill just above Lake Valla, with Fox Lake on one side and Lake Petite on the other, will be Gene Tunney's training quarters for his coming fight with Jack Dempsey. The entire club and all its facilities have been tendered the heavyweight champion and his staff for the training period. Our photographs show a front view of the clubhouse, and the club library (where Gene is sure to spend many hours).

CHAMP BEATEN BY MRS. CHAPIN

Mrs. Molla Mallory, Eight Times Champion, Goes Down.

TWO HELENS WIN.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 27 (Canadian Press)—The dashing spirit of youth held sway in the National Women's Tennis Championships yesterday, sweeping aside the eight times champion and defending title holder, Mrs. Molla Mallory, along with the last of the old guard of the United States, Miss Eleanor Goss.

Mrs. Mallory ,the power of her strokes no longer sufficient to withstand a youthful challenge, passed unexpectedly from the tournament at the hands of Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, fifth ranking United States player, by score of 6—3, 1—6, 6—4. Miss Goss saw a commanding lead in the second set crumble before the brilliant attack of the 16-year-old British girl, Betty Nuthall, who raced to victory at 4—6, 7—5, 6—2, and kept England in the running.

California's two Helens, 21-year-old Miss Wills and 18-year-old Miss Jacobs were the other quarter final victors, but there was a wide difference in their triumphs. Miss Wills, favorite to regain the title she had from 1923 to 1925, swept on relentlessly, registering her fourth straight victory at the expense of Miss Kea Bouman, champion of Holland, 6—1, 6—2. Miss Jacobs did not strike her stride until the last set, as she took the measure of Mrs. Edna Hauscit Roeser of New York, 6—8, 8—6, 6—1.

These victories put into today's semi-finals a quartet averaging only 20 years of age, the youngest group that ever monopolized a national championship, with the "baby" of the British team and last foreign contended, Miss Nuthall, arrayed against three California girls, for Mrs. Chapin developed her game on the Pacific Coast before coming east to marry and settle down at Hyannis, Mass. Mrs. Chapin, the oldest of the four at 25, will furnish the opposition for Miss Nuthall, while the rival Helens from Berkeley meet in the other semi-final match.

Favored to Reach Finals

On the strength of their play thus far, Miss Wills and Mrs. Chapin are favored to reach the finals on Monday, but the latter may find much keener opposition in Miss Nuthall, who has played with the confidence of a veteran as well as the dash of youth in her first invasion of the United States.

Mrs. Chapin accomplished her second successive upset yesterday when she eliminated Mrs. Mallory in a three-set duel, bringing out the same determined fighting qualities that enabled her to eliminate the British star, Miss Joan Fry, Thursday. Mrs. Mallory put up a gallant battle in defence of her title, but she found her pluck and stroking power more than matched by her young opponent.

Miss Nuthall's victory over Miss Goss was the most dramatic and colorful in the quarter finals, for the pretty young English girl appeared hopelessly beaten when she started her uphill fight in the second set. Trailing at 3—5 in this set, she reeled off four successive games, raking her rival's court with forehand or backhand drives that carried terrific punch. With the match squared, Miss Nuthall romped through the final set easily, while Miss Goss, her stamina exhausted and the usual power of her strokes missing, put up feeble resistance. To settle the outcome, the English girl took 10 of the last 12 games.

Spectacular Victory

Miss Wills was the most decisive if not the most spectacular victor. She went about the task of disposing of Miss Bouman in her usual workmanlike fashion, raking the corners of her opponent's court with blistering drives that either went for placements or forced feeble returns.

Miss Jacobs, on the other hand, had an uphill fight to overcome Mrs. Roeser, who played craftily and brought off many astonishing "scoop" shots with an unorthodox style of gripping her racquet at the throat instead of the end of the handle. The California girl finally solved her rival's attack toward the close of the second set and won easily in the third, as she put more speed and confidence in her stroking.

More successful in the doubles than in the singles, the British put three teams in the semi-finals. Miss Nuthall shared her second triumph of the day with Miss Joan Fry, by defeating the team of Mrs. Mallory and Miss Bouman, 6—4, 7—5. The other victorious English pairs were Miss E. H. Harvey, Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, and Miss Gwynneth Sterry, Mrs. John Hill.

The remaining semi-finalist team will be determined today when Miss Eileen Bennett, England, and Miss Jacobs play Miss Goss and Mrs Chapin in a postponed third round match.

HURLER HOLDS ORIOLES 1-0

Prudhomme Follows Up His No-Hit Performance With a Shutout.

GIVEN GOOD SUPPORT.

TORONTO, Aug. 27. — Toronto Leafs ran their winning streak to six straight, taking the first game from Baltimore, 1-0. The only run of the game was scored in the first inning. Webb walked and scored on Walsh's deep two-base drive to right field.

Prudhomme pitched great ball in the pinches for the Leafs, but he was wild in spots, issuing seven free tickets and allowing six hits. No less than twelve Orioles were left stranded on the paths.

Alexander was robbed of a sure homer in the eighth inning when Archdeacon got off with the crack of the bat to gather in the long fly back of the cinder path in deep right centre. Jacobson pulled off four great catches in right field.

The Leafs' infield played sparkling ball, scoring the only double-play of the game and backing up Prudhomme in several tough spots.

The Orioles had two men on bases in three innings but could not produce the necessary hit to score.

Fred. Bratchi, ex-Leaf, played second base for the Orioles and did well in the field, but was held hitless.

Lefty Falk, formerly with the St. Louis Browns, won his fifth straight game since joining the Bisons three weeks ago when he tamed the Reading Keys at Buffalo with three runs, while his associtaes were lashing Woodgie of the visitors for 11 runs. Falk also continued an unusual hitting record by slamming out two more hits.

Newark's five-run rally in the ninth fell short and the Stars beat the Bears, 8 to 7, at Syracuse.

Rochester ran its winning streak to eight straight games by defeating Jersey City in the opening game of the series at Rochester 9 to 5. The veteran Jim Bagby went the route for the Tribe and although nicked for 12 hits was tight in the pinches.

Jockey Is Presented With Purse of Gold

MONTREAL, Que., August 27—Canadian Press.—Officials of the Dorval Jockey Club, officers of the Canadian Racing Associations, and horsemen, took up a subscription at Dorval yesterday, presented Jockey Romanelli with a purse of gold. Jockey Romanelli was injured at Dorval early in the week, when he fractured his right arm and suffered other injuries, which will keep him out of the saddle for many weeks. "Romie" is doing nicely but will be confined to the hospital for some time.

Inside Sportin Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, here we are again. Holidays gone bloole and no fish to show for it I hope you're not going to hold nothing against me for it, Mac, for I give you my best trying to snare you something you could put in a frying pan and kid yourself it was fish Anyway, I got 1 consolation. Next time I go back to the lake no sad-eyed little bass or 'lunge is going to point its fin at me and say, "There's the guy that nailed father last year." I can look every cock-eyed fish right in the face knowing that I ain't done nothing to snatch the bread-winner away from a happy fish family. And that's something, Mac, even if you can't fry it and eat it.

"Well back to business," as the fellow said after he had been holding his stenographer's hand for 15 mins. I seem to been missing a lotta baseball, good, bad and in between. And 1st I want to give them East Peterboro teams my best for what they has been doing to keep hard ball alive. Them teams has been giving fandom more excitement that there'll be at the Tory convention, and the fans have been liking it as much as a Ohio tourist likes his first glimpse of the shelves in Col. Bradburn's filling station. That last Cog-Crescent battle musta been a lulu, and Mister Jack Billingsley, which the Cogs rooters has been riding all summer, musta got a real kick outa of that rap that sent the winning counter over. Just reading the dope from afar it looks like the Cogs couldn't keep up with the Jones. Them 2 lads seem to be getting a habit of busting in with a blow on the nose just when it's needed, and they sure was poison to the lads with the name like a Indian war whoop.

And don't let me forget them Royals, which has spilled Oshawa outa the juvenile serious. There's the guys with the wallop. 3 times in a row the birds from the motor village scored a dozen runs, but they win only 1 outa 3. Any time a team helps itself to 12 markers they oughta win by a city block, but what's a few runs to them Royals? They simply hammer in a handful more than the other fellows. The 2 juvenile outfits just piled up a total 82 runs in 5 games, which is better scoring than the Peterboro Cricket Club seems to be able to do. 1st thing the Royals' management know Mister Charlie Thorpe will have some of them juveniles out there with shin-guards and a cricket bat in their hands.

Sat. the Petes play their 1st real game of the season. It'll be over by the time the customers read this, but all I gotta say this week is, that if Mister Swanston's lads take this serious and get into the O.B.A.A. play-offs they deserve all kinds of credit. They been hanging around all summer trying to keep in shape, and, believe me, you gotta love the game a whole lot to put up with that kinda season. Next week they'll be a chance to discuss the serious.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

OLD-TIMERS WILL BATTLE TO-DAY

Play For National Amateur Golf Championship at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., August 27 (Associated Press), — Bobby Jones and Chick Evans, two old men in golf, although Bobby is much the younger in years, will battle to-day for the national amateur golf championship. One will win the title for the third time, for both have held it twice.

Playing in the approved Jones fashion, Bobby turned back Francis Ouimet, 11 up and 10 to go, shooting the 26 holes necessary to ensure his victory in 100 strokes, two under par.

The Atlantan finished the 18 holes of the morning round with a brilliant 69, his third round of the championship under 70. He needed only one stroke over par, but one under fours in the stretch of eight holes in the afternoon.

Chick Evans had a different story to tell of his entrance into the finals. The 38-year-old Chicago player ran into a large golf mouthful in Roland Mackenzie, of Washington, who has just passed his majority.

Chick had to sink a 20-foot putt at the 37th hole to win after he had kept himself in the competition by dropping a difficult six-footer at the 36th, where his drive landed in rough and his approach struck a tree and fell below the green.

BRAVES WIN FROM PIRATES

Have Won Five Of Its Last Six Games With Pittsburgh.

BY SCORE 6 TO 4.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The Boston Braves, who divided a double-header with Pittsburgh Thursday, yesterday defeated the Pirates, 6 to 4, in a hard-hitting contest. Boston now has won five of its last six games with Pittsburgh. Fournier's single in the first inning off Aldridge scored two runs and his double off Miljus in the eighth started a two-run rally which broke a tie and won for Boston. Paul Waner, who had a perfect day at bat Thursday with four hits in four times up, started off yesterday with three singles which ran his record to seven hits in as many times at bat. He drove in two runs to-day and scored another.

The defeat cost the Corsairs second place in the National as the idle Cardinals assumed the runner-up position to the Cubs on a margin of two percentage points. Chicago, also idle because of cold weather, tightened its grip on first place to a leeway of three and one-half games.

At Brooklyn, Cincinnati's two-run rally in the ninth failed to help the Reds, and Brooklyn captured the second straight in the series by 4 to 3. Doug. McWeeny gained a verdict over Red Lucas, who was handicapped by loose fielding by his Redleg mates. Bush Henline led the Robins' attack with four singles is as many times at bat. George Kelly made three hits in four times up.

YANKS TAKE FINAL GAME

Win Third Fray 8-6 For Full Series From the Tigers.

HEAVY HITTING.

NEW YORK, August 27 (Canadian Press). — The Yankees made it three straight over the Tigers by annexing the third and final fray of a series yesterday by 8 to 6 before more than 16,000 Detroit fans Ruth tripled with the bases filled in the seventh inning, tying the score after the Tigers had gained a three-run lead. Ruth scored on Gehrig's double, but the Bengals levelled the count again in their half of the inning. The New Yorkers decided the issue in the next stanza, however, with a two-run lead, Koening's single driving across with the winning run.

Cleveland made it three straight from Washington at Cleveland, running its winning streak of consecutive games to six and Washington's losing streak to 10. The score was 8 to 7. Uhle, who has been out of the game for a month, made his appearance in the ninth and saved the game. Cleveland made 10 hits off Lisenbee and Braxton in the first two innings, and made only one off Marberry and Burke, who pitched the last seven innings.

Athletics Win 7-0.

A five-hit game pitched by Sam Gray coupled with his teammates' ten hits, and four errors by the Browns, enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to take the third straight game in the series at St. Louis, 7 to 0. Errors in the third inning cost the Browns two runs, one of them gained when Cobb attempted to steal home and was tagged by Dixon, who then dropped the ball. Gray issued only one base on balls. Gaston was pounded for eight hits in three innings and Crowder finished the game by holding the Athletics to two hits in six innings.

Chicago 9, Boston 1.

At Chicago the White Sox made it two out of three from Boston by hammering out a 9 to 1 victory in the final game of the series. Tommy Thomas registered his fifteenth victory of the season by holding the visitors to three hits ,one of which was a home run by Shaner which saved the Red Sox from a shut-out.

RIDES 27 WINNERS.

Jockey L. Hardy was astride 27 winning mounts during the summer racing at Lincoln Fields.

FRANCE WINS DOUBLES PLAY

Win Right To Meet the United States For Davis Cup.

DEFEAT JAPAN.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press).—By its easy defeat of Japan in doubles play at the Longwood Cricket Club here yesterday, France won the right to meet the United States for the Davis Cup at Germantown, Pa., next month.

The second day of Davis Cup interzone finals saw the French team of Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet push the tri-color invasion to final victory by winning from Tekeichi Harada and Teizo Toba of Japan. The French won in straight sets, 9-7, 6-1, 6-2.

The match was the third successively won by France. Thursday Japan was beaten in straight sets in both singles matches.

Yesterday the air was cold and low clouds hung over the courts throughout the match. The Japanese seemed oblivious to the chill when play started, whereas the Frenchmen were visibly affected by it and were unable to whip themselves into play until near the end of the first set.

The match started with a service duel which carried the Japanese well along before the French could catch them. Harada and Toba broke through Cochet to win the first game. The second went to Harada on his own service.

Brugnon took the third, Toba the fourth, Cochet the fifth and Harada the sixth to make it 4-2 for the Japanese. Brugnon came to life then and won his game. Toba lost the next but not easily. It was the longest game of the match and saw the French warming up, with Harada playing his old brand of tennis.

The next game went to France and then began the see-sawing back and forth with each side winning on service until the 15th game, when Brugnon came to the line to win. The last game saw the French break through Toba to take the set.

In the second set Toba's weakness on ground strokes, which was reduced to a minimum in the first, began to tell. Harada slowed up also and the Japanese pair lost rapidly without once breaking through the French, who were by then thoroughly limbered up, and going at their accustomed pace.

The last set looked as though it were going for love when the French walked away to a 5-0 lead, but Brugnon came to the line and in a sudden flash of activity the Japanese pair took him for the only love game of the match. Japan served the next game and won, but Cochet, in excellent form, followed and ended the set and match with a burst of speed.

To-day the Japanese will meet the French again in singles. In an informal match Harada will play Cochet and Jean Borotra, "The Bounding Basque," who arrived in Boston last night, will meet Yoshiro Ohta.

TY COBB WILL PLAY NEXT YEAR

Good for Another Season or So At Least, He Says.

CHANGES PLANS

By GERALD D. McLEAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—(United Press).—Father Time may have clipped a few blossoms from a famous Georgia peach but Tyrus Raymond Cobb is still good for another season or so of baseball, he told the United Press in an interview here.

"There's lots of pep in the old boy yet," Cobb replied when asked if he didn't think it was time to hang up his glove.

The greatest base runner of all times had planned to merely play this year to reward Connie Mack for his faith in him and then retire, he said. But he has had such a good year with the Philadelphia Athletics especially at the bat and on the bases, he figures that he is good for another season at least.

Cobb told the United Press he feels younger, faster and peppier than he has for several seasons, intimating that relief from managerial duties has produced such results.

The other day at Dunn field here, Cobb gave the spectators the thrill of their lives when he raced from first base to home on a series of bad throws that an ordinary runner would have barely made third. When the interviewer complimented Cobb on the feat, he remarked that anybody else could have done it by taking a chance.

"Why is it that these fast-stepping youngsters don't take a chance once in a while?" the Georgian was asked.

Ty hesitated a moment.

"You have me there," he said. "Perhaps the fact that I was developed in an entirely different baseball school than the average player of today is as good a reason as any other. When I broke in, you had to take chances. You had to hustle every minute. Not only was the manager a driver but every club had a bunch of players who set the pace in fighting and hustling, and woe unto the rookie who sought to get by with merely a conservative system of playing.

"But," he went on, in a sort of defense of the players of today, "the lively ball has revolutionized the game. You remember when the club that scored one run and had a strong defense had a splendid chance to win the game. Clubs then played the game scientifically and tried for that one run. What happens today to the club that plays the one-run game and applies every bit of its science to that system? Suppose it scores four runs in such a way and reaches the eighth inning leading 4 to nothing. In the old days, four runs in the eighth would have been thought a safe lead. Today, it means nothing as the other team, made desperate by a driving manager will go out and swing wildly and the first thing you know it has scored enough runs to win.

"I just wonder what such terrific hitters as Nap Lajoie, Ed Delahanty, Sam Crawford and Frank Baker would have done if they had the lively ball in their day. Remember Dode Criss? There was one of the most powerful hitters I ever saw. The outfielders always had to play back to the fences when he came up and he seldom struck out. But he could not field and no big league manager wanted him, for in those days, no club carried a man just because he could hit and do nothing else. Not a club in the country but would be glad to sign a Dode Criss today. A place would be found for him, for it would be figured he would win more games with his bat than he would lose with poor fielding.

"Teams with a smart defense used to work to hold a runner close to second so that he would be unable to score on a single. Such a defense has been abandoned for the reason that lively-ball singles will score a runner from second who hugs the bag until the ball is hit.

"I have reached the conclusion that there are many players who are members of second division clubs who let down in their playing as soon as they figure themselves out of the race. How foolish? Why don't they stop to think that if they play the string out and put everything they have into their work, it will be rewarded by the club owner the following year regardless of where the team finishes? No magnate is going to blame a player who hustles and gives him the best the player has, even if the team does finish last."

The veteran of the diamond sighed.

"But," he concluded, "you can't tell that to every player and have it sink in."

"THE WANING SEX" COMEDY ALTOGETHED DELIGHTFUL; STAR IS FASCINATING

Will Please Everybody

Conrad Nagel Plays Male Lead, While Mary McAllister Has Prominent Role Also

One of the most delightful, well-balanced, easy-moving comedies the screen has offered for a long time is "The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Norma Shearer, which opens at the Capitol Theatre Monday with Conrad Nagel as leading man.

Two girls and a man are the focal points of the plot. One of the girls wants him but doesn't love him, the other, the heroine, loves him but doesn't want him because she's not quite sure of her own mind.

The menace in this case is the girl who wants him but doesn't love him. She plots against him. He is invited to her home for dinner and while there an unfortunate mishap deprives him of his trousers, a compromising situation and just what the girl intended it to be.

All of the fair plotter's wiles are punctured, however, by the cleverness of her rival, and her frustration is just as complete and as satisfying as if she were the conventional male villain of the story.

Two Romances Told

Two romances are narrated by the picture, the second one being the background for some highly enjoyable comedy as the puppy-love affair of the younger brother and sister of the adult romancers is adjusted.

Mary McAlister has the role of the "other girl," and George K. Arthur, Charles McHugh, Tiny Ward and Martha Mattox are also in the cast.

Robert Z. Leonard, the director, has crammed the picture with whimsical and satrical little directorial touches that establish him as a master in this particular field, thus justifying the promises made for him by "Dance Madness," his last production.

Norma Shearer as the star has the role of a woman lawyer who bets her single blessedness against the hero, the district attorney, that she can beat him in court, and she does. But he wins just the same.

"The Waning Sex" is the type of picture that satisfies nearly everyone.

Manager Fletcher of the Capitol has had the pleasure of seeing this picture screened, and considers it one of the most entertaining comedies of the past year. Conrad Nagel's work in this picture is a treat, and his best effort in a long time.

An added feature to the Capitol's programme for next weeks is the complete picture of Peterborough's Diamond Jubilee Celebration, a review of which you will find under separate heading.

In order to give everybody a chance to see this picture, it will be shown twice daily during the entire week.

Dinner—Roast veal, cooked summer squash, salsify, salad of asparagus tips (raw, and eaten as celery), prune whip.

CARROT LOAF: 2 cups ground raw carrots, ½ cup chopped celery. Mix and moisten with water to form loaf, and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Season with fresh, sweet butter as served.

BAKED EGGS—Cut with small biscuit cutter, rounds of white bread which have been sliced ¼-inch thick. Toast until brown through. Place one toasted round in each muffin tin, moisten with milk, and break egg into each tin. Place in slow oven until eggs have congealed. Dot each egg with butter when ready to serve.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. J. J. H. writes: "My mother has had three operations for gall stones, the last one being performed not quite two years ago. At that time the gall-bladder was removed. Two weeks ago she suffered an attack of some kind of stomach trouble and the doctor who was called said that she doubtless had gall stones, even though the gall-bladder had been removed. I have never heard of such a thing, and want you to explain how this is possible."

ANSWER: It is possible to have calculi or stones form in the bile passage from the liver to the intestines, and that is probably what your doctor referred to. These are never as large as the regular gall stones, and are usually easily removed through a fasting and diet treatment. Have your mother take four ounces of olive oil together with four ounces of grapefruit juice just before going to bed. She should repeat this for three or four nights, and fast from all food in the meantime except a small amount of orange juice each day. If this does not dissolve or bring away the calculi, have her take this olive oil treatment about once a week for several weeks. This treatment cannot harm her, even though the diagnosis which has been made is incorrect. However, it is quite apparent that her trouble is located in the liver, and such treatment as I have suggested should prove exceedingly beneficial.

QUESTION—Jessie L. asks: "What about the summer drinks, such as lemonade, orangeade, limeade, etc.? May they be taken with meals?

ANSWER: These drinks may be used if taken without food. They may be even substituted for a meal, such as luncheon, during the hot weather, or when you are not very hungry.

WARKWORTH WINS SOFTBALL MATCH

CAMPBELLFORD, August 27 — On their home diamond yesterday afternoon the Campbellford Girls' Soft Ball team lost to Warkworth by 12 runs, the score being 24 to 12 at the end of the ninth innings. This is the second defeat the local squad has met with at the hands of Warkworth ina home and home series.

They seemed to go to pieces in the third innings and gave the visitors 12 runs. After that they played air-tight ball but it was too wide a margin to close since Warkworth played a consistent game and not till the last innings did the locals decrease the difference in the scores. Their six runs at the end of the ninth indicates their determination to win even when not a shred of hope remained.

The teams:

The score:

Warkworth . . . . .01(12)402032—24
Campebllford . . . . .21004l006—12

Home runs: Nellie Greenly, Sim Phillips.

Two base hits: Sim Phillips, Helen Hyland.

For Warkworth, Jennet Dick pitched the first and sixth innings. Nellie Greenly was in the box for the rest of the game. Buddie Bull twirled the whole nine innings for the local nine.

The managers of both teams are to be commended for the interestand time they devote to the sport. Both teams show clearly that there is plenty of material at hand for the ladies' soft ball association in the district.

In Case of Accident

on the Highway

If you cannot produce your Motor Vehicle Operator's License when called upon, you are presumed to be an incompetent Driver

Always carry your Motor Vehicle Operator's License when driving a car. Your license is your authority to drive. It is illegal to be in charge of a car without it.

In case of accident or infraction of The Highway Traffic Act, your Motor Vehicle Operator's License will be called for at once by the traffic patrol or policeman. At any time, on the highways or on town or city streets, officers of the law may ask you to produce it. If you are unable to do so, you are subject to a fine.

If you have not yet applied for your Motor Vehicle Operator's License, secure it at once. Application forms can be had at any garage. Anyone who has driven 500 miles, and for 6 months continuously, and who has no physical disability which may interfere with the operation of a car may be granted a License. Examinations will be given to all other applicants.

The Motor Vehicle Operator's Licenses are a measure of protection of yourself and all others on the road. Identification of drivers will lead to the weeding out of the incompetent and reckless.

THE HIGHWAYS MUST BE KEPT SAFE

"The Government is determined, through the Highways Department, to put a stop to reckless driving and to secure for the average citizen the maximum of safety when travelling on the roads"—The Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister, in the Toronto Globe, August 19, 1927.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE COUNTRY ROAD.

The country road climbs up the hills
And ambles down the vales.
To left you hear the whip-poor-wills.
To right the night-in-gales.
The country road is cool with shade
And calm with rural joys,
Unsullied by the shouts of trade,
Untouched by city noise.

At least that's how it used to be,
This sweet and peaceful land.
But now beneath the maple tree
They've built a hotdog stand.
A filling station lifts its head
And where the spreading chestnuts spread
The air is full of gas.

The roadside of another day
Is now another kind.
For picknickers have passed this way
And left a mess behind.
The roadside that was strewn with flowers
Is strewn with empty cans.
Though Nature made the lovely bowers.
The other marks are man's.

A Sunday paper blows around.
Some cake is drawing flies.
It looks more like a battleground.
Where Mother Nature dies.
And, if I sought some tidy spot
To build me an abode.
I'd seek it up an alley, not
Upon a country road.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she is engaged. Murtough joins a band of bootleggers and Sheila's only friends are the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer. Murtough, influenced by a cabaret girl, betrays to a rival gang the hiding place of $150,000 contraband. He leaves Sheila for this girl at a dance given by the West End Club, and Rory challenges Murtough to a fight.

He swung a powerful sweeping blow, but without lifting his hands in defense Rory side stepped it and let Murtough go stumbling to catch himself from his own impetus. When he wheeled and started to rush again Rory was ready.

With practice which came through his years of fighting Rory began ripping Murtough's face. He dodged the flaying arms with the greatest of ease and when Murtough tried rough and tumble wrestling methods was always just out of reach of those crushing arms. The blows upon his face, the blood that streamed from his eyes and nose infuriated Murtough. By sheer brute weight he bore down O'Shea's jabbing arms and seized him. The great biceps of the truck driver knotted into balls as he crushed the little fighter to him, determined to break his back. But Rory had not trained for years in vain, and the steel of his own muscles resisted the pressure.

Rory at that moment tricked his assailant and let himself to the floor suddenly like an acrobat, Murtough falling heavily but not upon his victim. His arms had opened in an unconscious effort to save himself from the fall, and Rory had squirmed out of them. Rory leaped to his feet and stood at ease.

"You were through before you mentioned it."

"Get up now and get what's coming to you."

Murtough clambered to his feet and measured his distance. He rushed, but this time there were no stinging stabs on his eyes and nose. There was a crash of hard knuckles against bone, and Murtough's head shook like a swimmer shaking the water from his eyes. The big man's fists dropped half way down to his waist, and Rory set himself and sent another crashing to the chin. Murtough twisted about on his heels a moment and then sprawled full length upon the floor.

"The big dub," commented Clocker.

Rory walked to the sink in the rear and washed his hands and face. Very calmly he put on his collar, then called to Devlin.

"Say, Devlin, tie this tie for me, will you?" As Devlin struggled with the black batwing Rory whispered to him. "Find Doc Yeager, will you. I think I've broken every knuckle in my right hand."

"Good lord, man. That puts you out of the game forever."

"That doesn't worry me, but get him and tell him to bring some tape down with him. He'll find some in the emergency box in the office."

Devlin sped off, and Rory sat down upon a box to rest. Clocker walked over to the groaning Murtough, who was just coming to.

"Get up," he cried as he kicked him in the ribs. "Get up and clean yourself up. You're a sight. Better get home and get straight for tomorrow. You'll have work to do then."

Murtough staggered to his feet. "Where is he? Where is he?" he mumbled. But Clocker jerked him about and sent him reeling toward the wash sink.

"Clean up and get out of here. You've been licked by the best boxer for his weight in this town. You ought to be proud of it."

Murtough wheeled about toward Clocker. Dazed and affected somewhat by the refreshments he had had, he cursed his "boss."

"You can't talk that way to me," he bellowed. "I ain't your slave, an' don't ye forget it. I'm through now; I'm through tonight."

"You were through before you mentioned it," retorted Clocker. "I wouldn't let you drive a wooden horse to an ash wagon for me!"

Dr. Yeager arrived and examined Rory's right hand. First, second and third knuckles broken, Rory, lad. You'll never use them in your business again. Better let me take you round to my office and set them now."

"Not by a long shot, Doc. You just do what you would do to fix a boy up so he can get home from the ring all right. That's all."

"Who cares how they look? I don't, and I don't know anybody else that does, if you get what I mean," Rory grinned. "Just tape 'em up so they'll hold through supper. I got a date upstairs."

In a few minutes the physician, who had served at hundreds of fights, both professional and unprofessional, had wrapped the hand. Rory winced, but he stood the pain without a murmer. "I guess I can hold a fork with that all right," he laughed, and, slipping into his coat and vest, he accompanied the doctor out of the store room. As they passed through the door they met Clarice.

"Better take your boy friend around to some hospital clinic, Clary," Rory said in a kind voice. "He may need some stitches over his eyebrows. Bare knuckles cut deep sometimes," he added, with a grin of triumph.

The guests were all at supper when Rory arrived, but he found the table and an empty seat next to Sheila. He was none too good to look upon under the bright lights of the banquet hall. One eye was beginning to color, and his jaw was swelling rapidly from a bump by the hard cranium of Murtough when they had clinched and had fallen to the floor. But he wore a twisted grin, and there was a sparkle in the good eye that would not leave forever.

"Whatever happened to you, Rory? We been waiting a long time," his mother asked. She sat on the far side of the table, and her eyes were not so good without her glasses. Old Mike O'Shea's were keener.

"Now, what have you been up to, fighting at a party like this? I thought you kept all that for your prize ring," the old man demanded sternly.

He turned his good eye toward Sheila, and, grinning the twisted grin and with a wink, he asked: "How does it match my cauliflower ear?"

"Rory," she whispered, "an' were ye half killed?"

"Not by half," he answered. Sheila's hand sought his under the table, and, though it was the right hand and her gentle squeeze of sympathy pained beyond all belief, Rory still wore the twisted grin and, picking up his spoon, began where the others had long ago finished to eat his grapefruit salad with his left hand. The right remained in Sheila's, and the pain was the most delicious hurt this young prizefighter had ever known.

Clarice was not so tender with Murtough. She liked victors, not losers, and under the low light Murtough was hideous. His tuxedo was ripped and torn, his collar gone, and his face still bled from the cuts about the eyes. He stood wiping the blood off with a dirty towel.

"Let's get out of here, kid," he growled. "I look like the devil, I know. Look in my pockets and see if you can find my coat check. Get my overcoat and come back down here and we'll beat it the back way and go somewhere where we can get a drink in quiet."

"You mean you let that little shrimp lick you?" Clarice fired at him disdainfully.

Even the heavy brained Murtough smiled at that through his torn lips. "No, Clarice; I didn't let him lick me. I certainly didn't let him lick me. He just did it."

Clarice obtained their wraps, and one of the waiters let them out through a back door which led into an alley, and from that they reached the street, where they hailed a taxicab.

The supper was over, and the dancing was renewed in the ballroom. The old folk were tired, and Old Tom Kildare suggested a start for home. "I'll just take a look around for Emmett," he said to Sheila, "an' when I find him we'll all be going."

"I'm afraid you won't find him, father," said Sheila gently. "He told me he had some business, an' I guess it's important."

HENRY FAVORS FASTER DRIVING

Issues Warning To Motorists Against Loafing on Highways.

TO AVOID CONGESTION.

MONTREAL, Aug. 27. — The views of Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways in Ontario, differ to some extent from those of his brother Minister in Quebec in matters pertaining to the control of motor traffic. Mr. Henry maintains that publicity and education will make the highways safer than any drastic legal enactments. His methods of attaining his objective in the matter of safety have attracted considerable attention, and as he is also President of the Canadian Good Roads Association, it is certain that various methods of traffic control will be the subject of discussion when the association holds its annual meeting at Niagara Falls on September 27, 28 and 29 next.

Warning Against Loafing.

Only a few days ago Mr. Henry had an advertisement printed in many Ontario papers calling attention to seven rules for safety. Among these rules appeared for the first time a warning to motorists not to loaf on the main highways. Such a warning is the result of many complaints that notoriously slow drivers have been holding up long lines of traffic. In turn, such slow moving traffic lines have started the dangerous cutting in practice. Mr. Henry advises motorists who are merely out for a pleasure drive that if they desire to move slowly they should use county and township roads where the traffic is light. The whole idea is to avoid congestion on the main Provincial highways and keep traffic on them moving steadily and at a pace which will not tempt the "cutter-in." No attempt is made by the Minister to define a loafing speed, but on Ontario's main highways anything under fifteen miles an hour may be safe classified as loafing.

Another point in this advertisement which has attracted much attention is the advice to drivers to let cars pass them if the attempt is made. In Ontario it is illegal to race with a car when overtaken. As a matter of fact the law distinctly states that the driver overtaken must pull over to the right and allow the second car to pass.

Becomes "Traffic Conscious."

Officials of the Canadian Good Roads Association agree with the Ontario Minister that all car drivers must become "traffic conscious." That is they must realise that the question of the safety of the highways, in the final analysis, is altogether in their own hands. In Canada today there are approximately 7,000 miles of paved roads and 4,800 miles of good gravel roads, so that it is manifestly impossibly to keep a constant police patrol to have every motorist checked up.

"I doubt very much if we can make the highways safe by the enforcement of laws and regulations," stated Wm. Findlay, of Toronto, a member of the Executive Committee of the Good Roads Association. "We now have no end of regulations when you take into consideration those of all nine Provinces. To my mind the best method of accomplishing the end in view is by constant education. We must create a 'traffic consciousness' in the mind of all drivers. By that I mean simply the unremitting use of common sense and courtesy. If all drivers used only common sense and ordinary courtesy, the accidents on our highways would at once be reduced to a minimum."

At the Good Roads Association meeting ways and means are to be discussed about inculcating a greater measure of "traffic consciousness." It is now recognized that this is the great problem with which to deal. The day is past when it is necessary to educate the public as to the advantages of good roads. It is a matter of educating the public on how to use good roads sanely, safely and wisely, now that they have them.

KEEN INTEREST IN NEW FORD CARS

Messrs Hood and Cumming, local Ford Car dealers, say that keen interest is being manifested by Peterborough citizens in the New Ford Models now under construction. These new cars will be very fast—65 miles per hour, with a quick getaway—and of appealing smartness and beauty in body lines and coloring. "A marvellous achievement in an age of automobile wonders," will be the verdict when these latest models are marketed.

Henry Ford has put all his stupendous resources behind the production of a car offering the public really wonderful automotive value at a low price. The New Ford home in Peterborough is at the corner of George and King Streets, where the New Ford Models will be displayed as soon as available.

WEDDING BELLS

J. ST. LOE STRACHEY

LONDON, Aug. 27 (United Press)—John St. Loe Strachey, famous editor, novelist, and proprietor of the widely-known weekly review, "The Spectator," died here on Thursday. He was 67 years old.

HALLIDAY—COTTON.

The marriage took place quietly at seven o'clock this morning at St. John's church, solemnized in the absence of the vicar, by Rev. G. J. Bousfield, of St. Luke's church, of Nellie, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. Cotton, 278 Thomas street, and the late T. Cotton, and Arthur J. Halliday, of Peterborough, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Halliday, of Toronto.

The bride wore a lovely gown of Flemish blue crepe, with hat to match, grey hose and shoes and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid, a sister, Miss Annie Cotton, was in rose crepe with hat to match, wearing grey hose and shoes and carrying a bouquet of roses.

Mr. George Butcher acted as best man.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Halliday left by the early train for a trip to Toronto and points west, the bride travelling in a coat of navy charmeen and wearing the gift of the bridegroom, a brown fox fur neckpiece. On their return, they will reside at 186 Dublin street.

MARKET BUSY THIS MORNING

Large Amounts of Produce Offered, With Many Buyers.

WIDE VARIETY.

The farmers' market, upstairs and down, was overflowing with produce this morning, and there was brisk buying, notwithstanding the cool, rainy weather. Prices were fairly elastic. In the basket section, good-looking chickens, the majority dry-picked, could be bought anywhere from seventy-five cents, the price paid by one lady for a bird of nearly three pounds in weight, to the thirty-five cents a pound price asked by other vendors. Ducks were 30 cents a pound, and were fairly plentiful. Butter ranged in price from 38 to 40 cents a pound, and the same prices could buy a dozen of eggs.

Cream was 30 cents a pint, and honey, in amber and clover qualities, was 70c and 75c for a five-pound pail.

Potatoes sold for 30 cents a peck and $1.75 a bag. Tomatoes ranged from 60 cents for a small basket to 75c and 85c for the larger containers. Carrots and beets were three bunches for ten cents, and cauliflower was 15 and 20 cents apiece. Long telegraph cucumbers were quoted at 15 and 20 cents, and clear white Burford beans were 50 cents for a large basket. Big white cabbages and "early summer" cabbages, resembling the Savoy, with pointed, close-curled green leaves, were a nickel apiece. Celery sold at three bunches for a quarter. Green and red peppers were 30 cents a dozen, and green corn was 25 to 35 cents a dozen. Cucumbers in small sizes sold at $1.00 for a large basket, and gherkins for $1.50.

Red Astrachan apples were 25 cents a measure, Yellow Transparents were 35 cents a peck, and Duchess 40 cents a peck. Little crabapples were priced at 25 cents in small baskets. Chokecherries were offered at several places priced at 20 cents in a small basket, and at 60 cents in a ten-quart pail. Black currants were 15 cents a box.

Flowers were everywhere, feathery asters in mauves and reds, because and yellow and pink snapdragon, deep blue Canterbury bells, and the lovely mauve blue of centurea, sweet peas in pale pinks and blues, with dried gypsophila and larkspur roots at two for a quarter, golden calendula and frail cosmos, fragrant mignonette, and hardy pink stocks, purple and gold pansies, and gladioli in every shade under the sun, from wine red to delicate, creamy gold. Prices ranged from a nickel to forty cents a bunch.

An attractive device in an enamelled white sink strainer, "which must have been invented by a lady," brought much favourable comment from inquiring housewives. It sold at $1.00.

DOG KEPT TIED; BIT YOUNG LADY

Will Be Kept Under Observation—To Be Destroyed if Still Vicious.

TERROR TO CHILDREN.

The police this morning ordered Frank H. Dawson to tie up a male bulldog which during the past two days has given trouble to residents in and around Park street. The animal which has developed vicious tendencies attacked a young lady and bit her in three places. It also attacked some young children and has become somewhat of an object of terror to members of the juvenile population who are only partially acquainted with it. It is stated that if present measures fail to curb the animal destruction will be its portion.

Laura Secord Shares Feature Quiet Session

TORONTO, Aug. 27. Canadian Press. — Trading was quiet and price changes, except in Laura Secord preferred, were generally fractional, in the closing session of the week on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day.

Laura Secord preferred stock, in comparatively light dealings, sold up 4½ points, at 116½. The easier tendency was demonstrated by fractional losses in Carling Breweries at 13, British American Oil at 26½, Walkers at 47¾, and Cosmos at 28¾.

Brazilian firmed slightly at 178¾ and Asbestos was up 3-8 at 30. The Banks were the strong section. Dominion leading with a gain of 1¼ at 261 1-2. Commerce had a point gain at 274.

Wheat Somewhat Firm On Buying At Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press.)— Buying by local interest, largely for week end evening up, gave firmness to wheat values here to-day after somewhat steady start. Weather conditions over the Northwest were more favorable and Liverpool cables were about as due. Corn scored fractional advances with fair commission house and local buying in to 1-8c. higher, Chicago wheat scored light additional gains. Corn opened 1-8 to 7-8 cent up and later advanced a little more. Oats were firm in line with other cereals and provisions sympathized with hog strength.

Opening prices were:

Wheat September 1.38 5-8, December 1.42 3-8. Corn, September 1.11 3-8, December 16 1-8. Oats, September 46 1-2, December 50 5-8.

PREMIER KING OPENS BIG FAIR

Dominion Premier is Accompanied By Members of Cabinet.

EXPECT NEW RECORD.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—Premier Mackenzie King today officially opened the 49th Canadian National Exhibition. The Premier, from the main bandstand, addressed the great throng, and then pressed the button which fired a gun at the grand stand, sending high in the air a shell which broken open to release sixty Union Jacks.

Six members of the Dominion Cabinet accompanied Premier King to the Exhibition Grounds. Prior to the opening, the Premier was the guest of honor at a luncheon of the directors. Officials of the Exhibition expected that with the dedication of the classic new Eastern entrance to the grounds by the Prince of Wales on Tuesday and the $50,000 swimming marathon on Wednesday, all previous attendance records would be broken this year.

IN MEMORIAM.

GRIFFIN.—In loving memory of our dear grandson and nephew, Corporal Milton F. Griffin, who made the supreme sacrifice at Monchy, France, Aug. 27th, 1918:

Safe in the arms of Jesus
And with the morn those angel faces smile
Which we have loved long since, and lost awhile.
—Grandma Stenton and Aunts.

IN MEMORIAM.

GRIFFIN.—In ever loving memory of our dear son, Corporal Milton F. Griffin, No. 236837, who was killed in action at Monchy, France, Aug. 27th, 1918, at the early age of 18 years, 2 months.

We pictured the glad home-coming
As we sighed for the clasp of his hand,
But God has postponed the re-union
Till we meet in the better land.

IN MEMORIAM.

GRIFFIN.—In ever loving memory of our dear brother, Corporal Milton F. Griffin, who fell in battle on the battlefields of France, Aug. 27th, 1918:

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,

Far beyond the land of changes,
Far beyond the land of care,
We shall find our missing loved ones
In our Father's mansion fair.

IN MEMORIAM.

BERTRAND.—In loving memory of Percy Bertrand, who passed away Aug. 28, 1918:

In Flanders fields so far away
Lies one we loved so well,
But God above in heavenly love
Took him home with him to dwell.

Sad and hasty was our parting
Lonely was our hearts that day,
Something seemed to whisper softly
Percy's gone away to stay.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Bert Allen, the dearly beloved son of Jessie Allen Rockcroft, who was drowned in Little Lake, Peterborough, Aug. 28th, 1925, aged 25 years, 8 months:

August brings back memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
But those who think of him to-day
Are those who loved him best.

We loved him, oh, no tongue can tell
How dear we loved him and how well,
God loved him, too, and thought it best
To take him to his heavenly rest.

JOHN CRANE WILL RETIRE IN FEW DAYS

Manager of Dominion Bank Here Since Opening Its Branch.

MANY ACTIVITIES.

Has Served as Organist and Choir Leader in Several Churches.

On the 31st of this month Mr. John Crane, manager of the Peterborough branch of the Dominion Bank, will exercise his prerogative and retire from the Bank on pension.

Coming to Peterborough as ledgerkeeper in the old Ontario Bank, Mr. Crane won his way to the management of the Peterborough branch of that institution, a position which he held until the failure of the Bank and its ultimate absorption by the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Crane was offered the position of manager by a number of banks, some of which were not then located in Peterborough. He chose to represent the Dominion Bank and opened its branch here. The bank has enjoyed a liberal patronage here and to the faithful and painstaking efforts of Mr. Crane this is largely due.

During his sojourn here Mr. Crane has interested himself in and served many public interests. For many years he was a member of the Board of Education and was one of a board of men who faced obvious needed betterment of school conditions. Those men fought valiantly and the excellent school plant and teaching staff of to-day owe much to the aggregation of which Mr. Crane was a unit.

As a hobby Mr. Crane has obtained the rank as the dean of organists in Peterborough, having played an ogan and conducted a choir for many years in the following churches: St. Paul's, Trinity, and St. Anderw's, the latter church being still served by Mr. Crane as organist and choirmaster. A real lover of music, Mr. Crane has ever lent his hand to further the interest in music and was one of the first to compel the introduction of music in the Public schools.

In the realm of public activity Mr. Crane has been secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Board for many years and has seen this hospital grow from the smallest proportions to the splendid institution and position it now commands. Mr. Crane has been prominent in Masonic circles and is a past District Deputy of this district. He is also a Past President of the Rotary Club. Indeed, few in the activities of the city in which John Crane has not been identified.

Mr. Crane will take a vacation, and no doubt his active temperament will find for him sufficient to keep his time employed. His many friends will be glad to learn that he will continue to reside in Peterborough.

Mr. Crane's successor is Mr. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, from Toronto, who will take over the branch this week.

IS DROWNED ESCAPING FIRE

George Dainard (16), Leaped Into Raceway To Extinguish Flames.

FUNERAL TO-DAY.

HASTINGS, August 29. — A gloom was cast over the village on Saturday afternoon, when George 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dainard, was drowned, in an effort to escape death.

At the time of the tragedy he was in the employment of J. A. McKenty, in the tinsmith trade. His clothing caught fire in some unknown way, and he ran out, and jumped into the raceway at the back of the shop.

The unfortunate lad was only a few minutes in the water when when brought out the doctors failed to resuscitate him. He was a bright lad and well liked by everyone. The sympathy of the community goes out to the sorrowing parents.

Surviving him are his parents, four brothers, Robert, Wesley, Clifford and Nicholas, two sisters, one named Stella, and the other a very young girl.

The funeral will be held this afternoon, at 2.30 to the Trent Valley Cemetery. Rev. D. A. Thomson will conduct the service.

Parents Win Baby By Tests of Blood

OMAHA, August 29 (Associated Press). — Rachel, two-and-one-half-year-old child, was restored to Peter John and his wife, gipsies, this afternoon when Dr. A. P. Condon announced blood tests showed positively she was their child.

RETIRES.

JOHN CRANE,
Manager of the Dominion Bank, prominent in civic life, whose retirement is announced to-day.

RADIUM 'SEED' NEW HOPE FOR CANCER CASES

Substance, Enclosed in Platinum To Cut Off Caustic Rays.

PLANTED IN TISSUE.

Far Less Costly Than Forms of Radium Previously Used.

VIENNA, Aug. 29.— (A.P.)— New hope for sufferers from certain forms of cancer heretofore regarded as incurable was held out by Dr. Joseph Muir, of New York, Saturday at a demonstration before the Cancer Research Congress of a new type of radio-active "seed" for implantation in diseased tissues.

While Dr. Muir said his method was of too recent development to claim permanent cures, he expressed confidence that it would "prove more efficient in destroying the malignant process than the hit-or-miss methods which were all that were possible under the old conditions."

Far Less Costly.

The tiny seed, no larger than the head of a pin, contain radon, a radio-active gas, far less costly than the forms of radium previously employed, and therefore may be made available to practically every sufferer.

The containers, he explained, are so devised as to overcome two great drawbacks which have heretofore lessened the usefulness of the method-burning, with subsequent necrosis of the tissues exposed to the radium, and the necessity of leaving the seeds permanently in the radiated area.

Threads Attached.

The new seeds are screened with platinum, which cuts off all caustic rays, and attached threads make it possible to withdraw the containers as soon as their usefulness is ended.

The seed particularly lends itself, he said, to treatment of cancer of the esophagus, one of the most deadly of all forms of cancer.

Dr. Muir was for several years physician-in-chief at the New York Throat, Nose and Lung Hospital. Abandoning the field of medicine for a few years, he served as Consul-General at Stockholm, and later as secretary of the legations to Norway and Sweden. Returning once more to medicine, he devoted himself to radium thereapy.

BRITAIN APPROV ES PLANS FOR WITHD RAWING TROOPS

France Made Concessions Without Meeting British Desires.

UNITED FRONT.

Speculation Rife As To View Germany Will Take of Decision.

LONDON, August 29. — United Press. — The agreement reached between Great Britain and France regarding a reduction of the troops occupying the Rhineland, although a compromise, has been approved by the British Government, which considers that France made real concessions without going as far as Britain wished. However, the discussions served to shed an important light on the Locarno treaty and the obligations affecting Britain.

France refuses to admit that Locarno has any practical worth insofar as French securities are concerned, and prefers to rely upon her own strength rather than on British treaty obligations to protect herself against any sudden German attack.

This is taken to indicate that Premier Poincaire's views are predominant in France and that Foreign Minister Brian's star is waning. Furthermore that Franco-German relations, which the British, particularly Sir Austen Chamberlain, sought to improve, even in the face of severe criticism here, for involving Britain in Locarno, are still far from friendly.

Unified Front.

Britain and France will now go to Geneva prepared with a unified front towards Germany and there is much speculation as to what Herr Stressman will do. The British are are hoping that he will be reasonable so that the real value of Locarno will not be wrecked.

The Express calls for the withdrawal of all British troops from the Rhineland, but the government is unwilling to assent to such a course because it would be perilous to leave France to police the Rhineland alone without the restraining influence of the British.

Megan Lloyd George Rejects Liberal Call

HURRICANE TOLL INCREASES AS COMMUNICATIONS RE-OPEN

CHEMONG LAKE BEATEN TWICE

Harold Devey and Miss Beulah Huffman Swim Across.

MINIATURE MARATHON.

Chemong Lake was again conquered yesterday by two residents of Peterborough, Harold J. Devey and Miss Beulah Huffman.

In the morning, Miss Huffman, who is the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Huffman, 537 King Street, swam across the lake from the Ninth Line of Smith to Ennismore and back with resting at the conclusion of the first lap. She was accompanied in a boat by her father and brother, and covered the journey of more than 2 miles in one hour and thirteen minutes, thirty-three minutes on the outward journey and forty on the return. The extra time on the second portion is accounted for by the fact that Miss Huffman followed a course leading slightly upstream. She was not unduly tired after completing her long swim. Yesterday's was Miss Huffman's third swim across Chemong Lake.

Last year, during the month of August, she covered the distance, a feat which she repeated last Friday. She is now planning a longer swim from Kelly's Island to the floating bridge.

Mr. Devey, who is a clerk in the Post Office, crossed the lake at its widest point. No record of his time is available.

Sunday Island, in the Pacific, is said to be the tallest mountain in the world, as it rises 2,000 feet out of 5 miles of water, making its height nearly 30,000 feet.

Many Fatalities Occur in Terrible Newfoundland Storm.

BOATS FOUNDER.

At Least Seven Vessels Lost—Schooner Laughlan Had Ten On Board.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The death toll resulting from last Thursday's disastrous hurricane was mounting to-day and assuming the proportions of a calamity. Over fifty persons are now believed to have succumbed to the wrath of one of the worst storms to have ever visited this old colony.

The latest addition to the long death list made up mostly of shipping disasters was the reported loss of the schooner Ellen May and its crew of six men, under command of Captain Arthur Bunford.

Over forty lives are believed to have been lost in the Placentia Bay district alone, but owing to the disorganization of telegraphic service on this portion of the island, the havoc wrought throughout the colony is unknown. The resumption of disrupted communication systems is awaited with fear that many additional fatalities will be reported as well as staggering property loss.

Presque, in the Placentia and St. Maries District, reported that the following are known to have perished:

Albert Loughlin, Fred Loughlin, Charles Loughlin, Josiah Barrett, Gordon Frampton, Germany Peach, Joshua Stacey of Flat Islands; Dan Cheeseman, Patrick Galton, Michael Hann, Russoon, Myself, Norman and John Murphy, Parker's Cove; Oliver Dicks, Sains Harbor; Tom Hawco, St. Josephs; John Follett and Joseph Picco, Glattice.

Several boats have been sighted bottom up in Placentia Bay. Two men were seen clinging to the wreckage of another submerged vessel, but it was impossible to effect a rescue.

At least seven fishing boats were lost on the Morasheen Banks. The schooner Laughlan, previously reported as having gone down with her crew of seven, is now known to have had ten persons on board, five of whom were members of the Laughlan family.

LAY NEW CABLE.

Submarine Cable Will Be Laid Between Windsor and Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 29.—(Associated Press.)—A new submarine cable will be laid between Detroit and Windsor next month, officials of the Bell Telephone Company announced here Saturday. Permits for the project have already received the sanction of the governments concerned. Two cables now run across the International Boundary here. One was laid in 1919 and the other in 1921.

STUDYING THE REINDEER QUESTION

The Government of Canada has two experts at work investigating the possibility of introducing reindeer into the country near the mouth of the Mackenzie River. The experts have spent a year in the north, travelling on foot and by dog-team, and their study will take, it is expected, another year.

Briton Devises Radio For Tanks In Action; Wireless Phone Adds To Efficiency In Din

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Successful experiments in maintaining telephone conversations between armored tanks in action and their base have been made by a British Territorial officer during the tank manoeuvres on Salisbury Plain.

The noise inside a tank travelling across country at a speed of fifteen miles an hour and firing heavy guns at great rapidity is terrific. The occupants can only converse by one shouting directly into the ear of his listener.

But the experiments of Captain K. E. Hartley have also overcome these difficulties. Since tanks have hitherto been almost blind, deaf and dumb, his achievement is believed to have quadrupled their efficiency.

One of the most puzzling problems faced has been the necessity of overcoming the constant slight changes of wave length which the presence of trees, walls of houses, and other objects introduce in a set and aerial on the move. Since fine tuning is impossible in a lurching tank, this factor had to be eliminated here.

Any member of a tank's crew is able to operate Captain Hartley's instruments The transmitter is a 30-watt affair and the receiver a powerful seven-tube superheterodyne of only one stage low frequency amplification.

Padded headphones are used instead of a loudspeaker and the aerial is simply a hollow aluminum rod ten feet high fitted on the roof of the tank with an ordinary door-spring. When the tank passes under a bridge, the aerial lies down and rises as soon as the obstacle is passed. It is working all the time.

Airmen's Friendly Greeting Is Too Enthusiastic; Planes Tangle and Fall Into Atlantic's Embrace

HYANNIS, Mass., August 29 (United Press). — An aviator was in a hospital here to-day and two aeroplanes were in the Atlantic as a result of a friendly meeting.

While cruising in this vicinity on Sunday in his seaplane, Sea Gull, No. 2913, Henry J. Larkin, of Brookline, saw a friend, Harold Crowley ,of Winthrop, flying northward.

Larkin flew close to Crowley's plane to shout a greeting. Their wings touched, and both planes plunged into the sea. Witnesses of the act rescued the two aviators and a passenger in the Crowley plane with the aid of a motor boat.

Larkin, the only one injured, was reported recovering at the hospital to-day from injuries to his back.

Four Young Men Rescue Passengers From Blazing Automobile.

ON HIGHWAY.

TORONTO, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press).—Heroic work on the part of four young men who righted a burning motor car overturned in the ditch on the Lakeshore Highway in the early hours of the morning probably saved the lives of the occupants, who were pinned underneath. Nicholas Salidas, Irene Kondas and Mrs. Della Kondas were injured, but not seriously, while four other occupants of the car sustained minor injuries. A broken tire caused the accident. The rescuers were employees of a transportation company.

ENGINE DERAILED KILLING TWO MEN

Fast Passenger Train Wrecked When Locomotive Topples Over Bank.

PITTSBURG, August 29 (Canadian Press). — Two engine men were killed and two other members of the crew injured, one seriously, when the Broadway Limited, a fast Chicago-New York passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was wrecked this morning near Altoona, Penn.

The train was being pulled by two locomotives, and the lead engine left the tracks, plunging over a two hundred foot embankment. The second engine hung on the edge of the embankment, while the combination baggage and club car also went over into the ravine below. Three Pullmans were derailed, but did not overturn. The cause of the wreck is unknown.

NUMBER TAKEN OF HIT AND RUN CAR

Norman Cullen is Victim of Highway Collision—Damage Slight.

The local police this morning were given the number of a car driven by a "hit and run" motorist, who bumped into the automobile of Norman Cullen last night, at a railroad crossing on the highway outside the city limits Mr. Cullen, describing the occurrence, stated that he had coasted down an incline and slowed up on approaching the crossing, when the other car came along. The driver, instead of stopping, lowered his head so that his face could not be seen, and moved off at a greatly increased speed, but Mr. Cullen was able to note the number, which was that of an out-of-town car.

Little damage was done, some of the paint being scraped off Mr. Cullen's car, but he is naturally indignant at the failure of the other man to stop after the impact. It is believed that the matter may yet have a police court sequel.

CECIL RESIGNS.

Will Not Attend Forthcoming Meeting of League of Nations.

LONDON, August 29 (Canadian Press).—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood has definitely resigned his Cabinet post as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, it was learned to-day and will not go to Geneva for the forthcoming meeting of the League of Nations.

Would Rename Streets "Sacco" and "Vanzetti"

BUENOS AIRES August 29.—United Press. — A member of the Municipal Council has suggested that the streets here now named 'United States' and 'New York' be re-christened 'Sacco' and 'Vanzetti' respectively.

HOMELESS BOY IS GIVEN CARE

Sergeant Deannard Finds Youth —Bishop O'Brien Takes Up Case.

IN HOSPITAL.

Giving his name as Patrick O'Connell, a homeless boy of fourteen years of age, who was picked up by Police Sergeant John Deannard on the streets of the city this morning shortly after seven o'clock, was found, on examination at the Police Station, to be suffering from a nasty wound on the foot.

Relating his experiences to the police, the lad said he was born in Ireland, and lost his parents during the war, his father being killed in action and his mother dying soon afterwards. Placed in an orphanage, he was sent later to Canada, and while working for a farmer in this county, was injured by accidentally thrusting the prong of a hayfork into his foot. Unable to do all the work required of him, he was discharged, and secured a position in Peterborough, which he lost a few days ago. A local man who knew the lad and his circumstances informed the police.

The plight of the lad came to the notice of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who asked the Rev. K. A. Corkery, Chancellor of St. Peter's Cathedral, to look into the case. Father Corkery's first act was to transfer the boy to St. Joseph's Hospital, there to receive proper medical treatment for his injury, as a preliminary to the consideration of means for his future welfare.

STORM HALTS LONDON FLIERS

Tully and Medcalf Forced To Return After Five Hours.

STARTED AT DAWN.

Storm halts—Front ... ...

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Encountering a heavy rainstorm while flying over Lake Ontario Captain Terrence Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf in the "Sir John Carling" on the first Canadian attempt at trans-Atlantic flight, were forced to return to London at ten a.m. Eastern standard time.

The fliers, who left London at dawn, were reported over Streetsville and Oakville just west of Toronto on their eastward journey, but while skirting the north short of Lake Ontario found conditions so bad that they were forced to return to the flying field just outside the city. The intrepid aviators were attempting a London-to-London flight for a $25,000 prize.

ARRANGE SERIES.

A message was received in Peterborough to-day from the O.B.A. requesting the arrangement of a series between Deloro and Crescents.

LAND AT MUNICH, GERMANY AFTER MAKING FIRST HOP FROM AMERICA TO LONDON

Schlee and Brock Will Attempt To Circle Globe in 28 Days.

ROUGH TRIP.

Ran Gamut of Weather Conditions in Race Over Ocean Wastes.

MUNICH, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Completing the second lap of their projected round-the-world flight, Edward Schlee and William Brock arrived here in their monoplane, "the Pride of Detroit, from Croydon Field, London, this afternoon.

At Savoy Hotel.

CROYDON, England, August 29.—In the soft sunshine of an English Sunday morning, the big yellow monoplane, Pride of Detroit, with Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock at her controls, came out of the western skies, circled over the aviation field, and landed officially at the London airport at 10.35 yesterday morning.

The aviators, who are bent on circling the globe in 28 days or less, thus completed the first leg of their long flight, and in so doing made the first non-stop trans-atlantic flight from the American continent to London, hopping off at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Saturday. The Pride of Detroit in its flight of 23 hours and 21 minutes ran the gamut of weather conditions across the 2350 miles of Atlantic waste—lightning thunder, fog, rain, wind and sunshine as well as freezing weather, and all the other variations of the elements, added danger and excitement to the great adventure.

Without a wink of sleep and with only one sandwich each during the long flight, the intrepid pilots from the United States kept their plane headed straight for England. As they neared their goal the elements seemed to relent for they flew the last hundred miles of their journey through mellow sunshine over the peaceful English countryside.

At Croydon there was only a handful of people to welcome the flyers, but theose who were there made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers. As soon as the tired but happy pilots tumbled out of their planed they were rushed the remaining 20 miles to London by automobile for a day's rest.

The big car which whirled them into London and on to the strand, landed them at the inner portico of the Savoy Hotel. The crowd which stood about the doors of the place were astonished to see the two fliers in knockabout clothes, with overalls, and oilskin shirts, alight and receive the equivalent of a royal welcome.

The two were ushered into an elaborate suite on the fourth floor, and were given every attention that would have been accorded to visiting princes.

"Let's eat!" were Brock's first words as they shed their hats. Then they asked for some cigarettes and happily puffed away as breakfast was being prepared for them. This was served in their suite. Brock appeared to be the fresher of the two.

"I'm not a bit tired—are you?" Brock remarked to Schlee as they waited for their meal.

"Yes I am," Schlee admitted.

Brock looked him over again and said, "Well, you do seem to be, look at your eyes."

Schlee's eyes were rather droopy from the lack of sleep, thus confirming his admission.

Among the first questions asked by the flyers upon their arrival in London, were: "Any news of the Pacific flyers?" "How about Old Glory?"

"Too bad," said Brock when told that no news had been received of the missing flyers.

"More preparations should have been made for that flight," Schlee commented; "things were rushed along too quickly, so it is no wonder acidents happened."

Schlee and Brock had breakfast on the North American continent Saturday morning and in London yesterday morning.

Occupy Famous Suite.

The suite which was assigned to the flyers during their stay in London, was occupied for many years by the Duke of Orleans; also it has been the favorite stopping place of the Indian Princes Maharajah of Kapurthala and Mahjarajar of Patiala.

"This is a swell place," said Schlee as he looked it over; "I wish we could stay a little longer."

The flyers had breakfast before bathing or shaving, but the barbers were ready for them as soon as the bacon and eggs had been disposed of. Schlee and Brock then tumbled into bed.

The flyers were to be called for late luncheon after which they were to return to their beds to sleep during the afternoon.

When the Pride of Detroit was 20 minutes overdue at London's airport, the small gathering awaiting its arrival began to speculate as to whether the pilots had decided to continue

WORLD FLIERS HEARTENED BY FIRST SUCCESS

Are Both Confident They Will Succeed in Looping the Earth.

RAN INTO STORM.

Encountered Bad Weather For 1,200 Miles of Flight.

CROYDON, England, Aug. 29.—(A.P.)—The flight of the first airmen to cross the Atlantic from the American Continent to London was characterized by remarkable success. Both fliers are more than encouraged and are confident they will succeed in looping the earth. Here is the composite story of William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee as told to the Associated Press correspondent immediately after their landing:

"We had wonderful flying weather at the start, but ran into what might be called a hurricane during the night which made us both sit up and take notice. This was some hundreds of miles off the coast of Ireland, and at times, in looking out of the cockpit, it was like glancing at a blanket of inky black. It was the darkest, bleakest night either of us had ever experienced.

"The rain poured in streaks and the wind tossed us about in a way which makes old fliers—and old sailors—like to talk about their experiences with the weather.

"Black! Why at times when we tried with our eyes to pierce the darkness it seemed actually that we had gone blind.

"This storm lasted four or five hours and then we came into a mist. This cut off our vision to a certain extent, but we were grateful to have weathered the gale, and in a way gained much speed and time with its aid, as for a while it was at our tail and helped us on our way.

Had Sandwich En Route.

"But it was mighty good to get here, let us say that. We were tired, good and tired, but worse still, we were hungry. We had a sandwich each en route, but that did not taste particularly good, as our minds were engaged with other things than food, and we scarcely tasted our thermos of coffee, which by the way was piping hot when we started, but got cooled off somehow in the higher atmosphere. At times we were two miles up, one must remember. Perhaps that had something to do with the hot coffee failing us.

Encountered Bad Weather.

"Bad weather was encountered for about 1,200 miles of the flight. One of the worst spells of fog and sleet was somewhere about mid-Atlantic, and we manoeuvred up and down at

Prince To Make His Farewell Speech Before Canadian Club At Montreal

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales will make his farewell speech before the Canadian Club, Montreal, on Friday next. He will, it is understood, give the club some impression of his trip and say good-bye to Canada.

Early yesterday morning, the Royal train left Winnipeg for Toronto, where it is due at 2 p.m. today. On arrival at North Toronto Station the Prince of Wales and Prince George will proceed to Government House, where they will stay during the day and a half they are in Toronto. They play golf, weather permitting, the afternoon they arrive, and on Tuesday attend the B.E.S.L. parade at Exhibition Park and visit the Exhibition. Directors of the Exhibition will present an address of welcome, and the Prince of Wales will make a brief reply. The Prince of Wales also plans to visit the Toronto Regiment of which he is Colonel-in-Chief.

There were brief stops yesterday both at Fort William and Port Arthur, with large crowds gathered at the station. At Port William, war veterans were drawn up in line; at Port Arthur, the Prince inspected naval cadets.

SHANGHAI IS MENACED BY NORTHERNERS

Northern Drive Closer to the City as Resistance Slackens.

DESTROYER IN DUEL.

Sailors Drive Attackers From Trenches—No Casualties Reported.

SHANGHAI, Aug 29.—Chaos approaching the worst that prevailed at the height of the civil war last Spring again reigns in the Yangtse Valley as the bitter struggle between North and South return to this area.

The forces of General Sun Chuan-fang, the Shantung commander, have crossed the Yangtse at one place at least in the vicinity of Chin-kiang and the advancing Northern lines are approaching daily closer to Shanghai, the probable fall of which has become the topic of all conversation.

One result of this turmoil has been the resumption of firing on foreign merchantmen and men-of-war. Besides the gunboat Isabel, flagship of the Yangtse patrol force, with Admiral Henry H. Hough aboard, another American naval vessel fought a brisk duel with Chinese forces Saturday. She was the destroyer Noa, which figured in an engagement at Nanking in March.

Both the Isabel and the Noa arrived at Shanghai safe, bearing the fresh marks of scores of rifle bullets. The Isabel reported one sailor slightly wounded. Both vessels returned the attackers' fire.

The Isabel's affray occurred at Nanking when Southerners opened fire on her. This attack was followed soon by one from Pukow across the river from Nanking, where Northerners are encamped. The Isabel replied with machine guns and rifle, while proceeding rapidly downstream. She was coming from Hankow alone.

Noa Convoying British Ships

The Noa was convoying three British merchantmen, several hours behind the Isabel. She was fired on twelve miles above Chin-Kiang. Lieut. Commander R. C. Smith, captain of the Noa, said that the firing came only from the Southerners. He ordered machine guns and rifles into action and estimated that they fired 2,000 rounds which drove the Chinese from their trenches though they were still firing as the Noa passed out of range.

The merchantmen, which were carrying many passengers, including several Americans, were struck frequently, but there were no casualties.

The Nationalists' defence appears to be growing weaker daily. Northerners crossed the Yangtse yesterday morning near Chin-kiang, while spies cut the Shanghai-Nanking Railway at Anking, stopping all traffic and considerably hampering Southern troop movements.

The Kuomintang morale is weakened and the Southerners' ammunition is running low. Internal dissension is growing and Nanking is under constant bombardment.

It is generally believed here that the South will soon be forced to recede unless one of those frequent miracles in Chinese warfare occurs to stem Sun Chuan-fang's desperate dash to Shanghai.

Nationalist officials are decrying lack of unity in this crucial moment and politicians are arguing, while the cause trembles. The British force is ready to defend the International Settlement here again. The opinion is freely expressed that their orders will be less restricted and that, therefore, there will be more shooting this time if trouble comes.

Armament Almost Pierced

SHANGHAI, Aug. 29 (A.P.). — So heavy was the fire against the destroyer Noa by Nanking Nationalists that the Noa's armament was nearly pierced at various points where hits were scored.

Officers of the Noa reported that the destroyer encountered the fiercest firing forty miles below Nanking, when unusually heavy ammunition was used against the American craft.

There were no American casualties, but the Americans were unable to learn whether there were any among the attackers.

Officers of the Noa reported that all foreign shipping in the Nanking section of the Yangtse was again subject to attacks by both Northerners and Southerners, who face each other from the north and south banks, respectively, of the river.

Northern troops under General Sun Chuan-fang crossed the Yangtse River at two points yesterday in an apparent enveloping movement of Nanking to prevent the retreat of its southern defenders down the Shanghai-Nanking Railway. One body of troops crossed the river fifteen miles below and the other ten miles above Nanking.

Naval Concentration Reported

LONDON, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The Exchange Telegraph Agency reported that General Sun Chuan-fang boasted that he would occupy Shanghai by September 5.

A strong Northern naval force was reported assembling in the estuary of the Yangtse River in readiness for a demonstration.

BAD WEATHER HOLDS FLIERS UNDER SHELTER

Weather Bureau Reports Falling Barometer Developing Eastward Across Newfoundland.

NO PROMISE OF CHANGE.

Nothing Definite Heard From South American Flier Since Thursday.

CURTISS FIELD, N.Y., Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press).—Another gusty day, marked by an incessant drizzle, kept aviators and their planes under shelter yesterday. Lieut. Alford J. Williams, aspirant for a new world's seaplane speed record, made no attempt at flight in his specially built seaplane. The New York to Rome plane, Old Glory, was also earthbound.

Although local conditions prevented a take-off, Lloyd W. Bertaud and James D. Hill, the crew of Old Glory, were not losing good flying weather over the trans-Atlantic course, the weather bureau reported. A falling barometer is developing eastward across Newfoundland, while the course from here to Cape Race, Nfld., is overcast and foggy, the bureau announced. The same conditions, with possible north-east brisk winds, prevail from Cape Race to mid-ocean. There was no promise of a change for today.

Long Overdue.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 29 (Associated Press).—Long overdue at his destination in Brazil, the name of Paul Redfern remained among the list of missing fliers last night. Nothing definite has been heard from him since he left here Thursday noon for South America.

Hope For His Safety.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Good wishes of two continents for the success of Paul Redfern in his ambitious undertaking, a flight from Brunswick to Brazil, last night had changed to hopes for his safety. More than 25 hours' overdue, his backers and well-wishers agree that no miracle of aeronautics could have kept him aloft until now.

The green and gold monoplane, "Port of Brunswick," was stocked with fuel for 52 hours as an absolute maximum, and last night his whereabouts had been unknown for a full day more than that.

No direct word was heard from the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane after it left the beach here at 12.46 o'clock Thursday afternoon. A ship reported sighting the plane a few hours later, but since that time nothing has been seen or heard of the plane.

Mrs. Redfern, naturally anxious for her husband, had not relinquished hope, and yesterday had not replied to offers from a commercial aviation firm at Miami, Fla., to make an extended seaplane search in the Lower Bahamas. The coastguard station at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., also has offered its equipment for use in the search.

Airmen returning to Miami last night told of gales that had swept Redfern's plotted course. The opinion was advanced that if the high winds had not brought him down they had forced him out of his course.

35 LIVES LOST IN COAST GALE

Estimated Property Damage Will Total More Than $150,000.

OFF NEWFOUNDLAND.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., August 29. — Thirty three lives lost and property damage that probably will total more than $150,000, is the toll counted from Thursday's great storm in Newfoundland.

The possibility that the death list and property damage figures may mount much higher is seen in the fact that scores of coastline communities are still cut off from outside communication, due to the destroyed telegraph lines.

Five fishing schooners went down with all hands, and 11 others were known to have been destroyed, with their crews coming off safely.

Twenty five fishing boats were destroyed at Conavista without casuall ties, while nearly all the fishing establishments at Bay de Verde were demolished.

The coastal steamers S. Argyle and Philomena were driven ashore with the passengers and the crews reported safe. Grave fears are felt here that the grand banks fishing fleet has suffered much but no authentic reports have been received yet.

The Argyle was ashore at Morgan's harbor where Captain Dunphy said he was forced to beach his ship to save the passengers. The schooner Vienna, Capt. John Chaulk, was lost with all hands off Fox Roost. She carried six men.

The schooner Loretta, Daniel Cheeseman, master, was capsized in Placentia Bay, with the loss of seven men. One body has been recovered.

An unidentified schooner, floating bottom up, with no sign of a crew, has been sighted off Merasheen. A man named Pieco was washed overboard from an unnamed vessel in Danby's Harbor.

The schooner Valena is a total wreck at Morgan's Harbor, with no sign of her crew, supposed to number five. Albert Luett was washed overboard from the schooner Noxall off St. John's, near the spot the wreck of the schooner Luglan was found Friday with the body of one man lashed in her rigging. The rest of the crew (probably five in all) was missing.

on to Paris, or to Stuttgart which originally was to have been the next stopping place after London

No Anxiety.

Little anxiety was felt for the safety of the flyers, however, because the plane had been sighted over Seaton, Devonshire, which is 56 miles northeast of Plymouth. As a matter of fact the flyers were lost for nearly three hours during the morning, but they got their bearings again when over Seaton.

A message from the plane asked that the name of the town be written on the sands on the beach for identification. This done the plane circled low and then flew east without further difficulty.

Plan Memorial Rites For Dole Fliers To Strew Flowers Where Erwin Sent S.O.S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Memorial services at sea for the six men and one woman missing in connection with the Dole flight Saturday were planned by San Francisco citizens.

The plans were to have the Matson liner Maui halt 700 miles west of San Francisco on September 16 on her voyage to Hawaii while flowers are cast upon the waters during the offering of prayers and the singing of anthems by clergy and passengers aboard.

Letters were sent Saturday to all known relatives of the lost fliers, telling of the memorial plans, seeking suggestions and offering to take to sea any flowers sent here for the services.

The Maui is to sail from San Francisco on September 14. Two days later, September 16, a month after the start of the Pacific air derby at Oakland, Cal., she should be near the point where, on the night of August 19, Captain William Erwin of Dallas, Texas, and A. H. Eichwaldt of Hayward, Cal., flashed from their plane, the Dallas Spirit, their last radio message: "S O S—Tailspin."

It was because of this last word from the Dallas Spirit that the point, 700 miles out on the Great Circle, was chosen as the place for the memorial services. No word was received of the other two planes, the Miss Doran and Golden Eagle, after they left sight of the mainland on August 16 and their fate and whereabouts have since been a mystery.

It was not known Saturday what clergyman would be aboard the Maui to conduct the memorial, but be he minister, priest or rabbi, the services will be held, regardless of creed, as a non-denominational tribute to those who dared challenge the fates.

Naval vessels continued their search for the fliers today. They were proceeding over heretofore uncovered areas seeking a trace of the three planes or of Miss Mildred Doran, John Auggy Pedlar, Lieutenant Vilas R. Knope, Jack Frost, Gordon Scott, Captain Erwin and Alvin Eichwaldt.

RADICALS STAGE PROTEST MEETING

A. J. Cook Principal Speaker at Demonstration Held in London.

LONDON, August 29 (Canadian Press).—Ten thousand persons yesterday afternoon attended a demonstration in Trafalgar Square protesting against the executions of Sacco and Vanzetti. A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, in shirt sleeves and vest, but minus his collar, was the principal speaker. He declared "the Statue of Liberty has become the monument of murder."

The speaker said the British press had seized upon the Sacco-Vanzetti incident as a means of stirring up anti-American sentiment. Commenting on Russia, Cook declared Britain is arming for war against the Soviet. He cited the Salisbury Plain manoeuvres, now in progress, as an example of that preparation, but said a Labor revolution would prevent the success of such a war. A Labor army composed of former service men is now forming in Great Britain, he declared, adding that this organization would prevent Anglo-Soviet hostilities.

Speeches were made simultaneously from three sides of the Nelson Memorial. The crowds were orderly, although some policemen were struck by flying contributions of heavy English pennies, thrown in response to an appeal of the international class war prisoners' aid.

In the course of the proceedings a man mounted the plinth of the Nelson column and unrolled an American flag with the intention of pouring kerosene over it and burning it. Officials of the class war prisoners' aid remonstrated and urged him to desist. He climbed down, but others seized the flag and tore it to shreds.

OBITUARY.

DENNIS HOTTS.

TWEED, Aug. 29.— Dennis Hotts, one of Tweed's oldest and best known citizens passed away on Wednesday, Aug. 24, after being in ill health for some time. Mr. Hotts was born 87 years ago in Tyendinaga and was the son of Firman Hotts, and his wife was Harriet Beausoliel before her marriage. Mr. Hotts has been a resident of this district practically all his life and was well known and highly respected for his many fine qualities.

Eleven children survive, namely, one son, Firman of Prince Edward County, and ten daughters, Mrs Nelson Baskey, Mrs. Eli Lessard and Mrs. Chas. Lessard, of Flinton, Mrs. Simon Morrow, Mrs. Thos. Meraw and Mrs. Jos. Lonergin, of Tweed, Mrs. John Harkness, Buffalo, Mrs. John Carroll, Elizvir, and Misses Amelia and Margaret at home.

Mr. Hotts was a member of St. Carthagh church. Interment was made at Stoco.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29.—Pit trading was of a scattered nature in wheat on Saturday and price fluctuations were narrow, with closing quotations ½c to 7-8c lower, October at $1.44⅝; December, $1.41 3-8; and May, $1.45½ bid.

The weather in Western Canada was mostly favorably and there was a promising forecast for the next few days. Purchases of new crop wheat were very light. The new railway rates announced were generally accepted by the grain trade as favorable to the country.

Coarse grains were listless and cash markets were dull.

"Long before daylight we calculated we were somewhere over Ireland. Our height was about 5,000 feet. It was cold and misty up there, freezing in fact, but the winds were still favorable for us and we were beating along at a merry pace.

"Just at break of day we sighted land, green country land. We had no idea where we were. It occurred to us that we might be off our course more than we figured—that we might be over France or Spain. It was quite foggy at this time, very misty, and for a while seemed to be getting worse. We cruised about until sunup, round and round for about three hours, when we sighted a sandy beach. We decided to drop a message in an effort to ascertain our where abouts. Accordingly, Brock wrote a note on a piece of cardboard and we dropped the message overboard asking where we were and what country we were in sight of, and requesting those on land to write the name of the country in the sands.

Wrote Third Message.

"The wind carried this and a second note away, and Brock wrote a third message. It worked like a charm. Coast guard men and some other early risers did the best they could, and wrote great letters in the sand spelling out the word 'Seaton,' with something white. But we could find no such place on our maps.

"We cruised round and round again, and then someone down below had a bright idea and hoisted the Union Jack. And that is how we knew we were over England."

"Afterward we got our bearings and identified the coast as part of Devon,on the south coast of England, and then we struck off north-east, going perhaps a little more north than we intended, and the first thing we knew we had encountered the Bristol Channel—a neck of it somewhere near Weston-Super-Mare. From there we headed due east, skirted the suburbs of London and sighted the Croydon aerodrome, where the great red aerodrome lights, which had been blinking all night for us, were still blinking, and we were glad that the end of the first stage of our round the world trip was near.

"We made a great sweep over the aerodrome, came up to the wind blowing from the south-east, and five minutes later we were being hugged and were hugging our friend Doc Kinkade, who knows motors as well as he knows himself. Then we began to think of food—and bed."

British Royal Family.

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON (United Press.) — The British Royal Family, generally acknowledged to be the only members of European royalty practically immune from the danger of attempted assassination, nevertheless, by their own acts, frequently court violent death.

The simple act of inviting any member of foreign royalty to Britain increases manifestly the chances of tragedy to British royalty.

The foreign visitor is accorded a royal welcome with its accompanying drive in an open carriage through the crowded streets of London. The danger is always there of a foreign fanatic, nursing a supposed grievance against the royal visitor, being a member of the cheering crowds.

This apparent danger to the reigning house of Britain on the occasion of State visits was impressed sharply on the public mind during the visit of King Fuad of Egypt. The troops and police escorting King Fuad, King George, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York from Victoria Station to Buckingham Palace, were startled to hear two loud reports resembling revolver shots from a section of the crowd lining the route. Surrounding the crowd they arrested a youth who had discharged a toy revolver. A tricial incident, happily, but it might easily have been serious.

Also during this visit, Scotland Yard was further disturbed when it was reported from Paris that an Egyptian extremist had escaped the vigilance of the native police and was heading for England for the alleged purpose of wreaking his vengeance on King Fuad.

King Alfonso of Spain is a frequent visitor to London. The numerous attempts to assassinate him are legend. The special branch of Scotland Yard is taxed to the utmost whenever this monarch pays a visit to his royal cousin, King George.

Scotland Yard, entrusted with the safety of royalty, is perhaps the most efficient organization in the world and it has accomplished wonders in preventing attempts to get at royal visitors, but there is always the danger of a slip.

British royalty fears nothing from its own public. It has long been the admiration of the public, and foreign visitors have been awed by the manner in which members of the British royal family mingle with the people. Especially is this illustrated on the race track. King George and the Prince of Wales delight in escaping from their escort and retinue to join fray with the throngs playing their particular pony.

High and low, members of the exclusive Jockey Club, racetrack tout, statesmen and thugs—all combine to give them a royal welcome /should they recognize a royal visitor among them.

It is safe to say that not one member of the racing fraternity here, no matter how bad his record, would think of lifting a finger to do harm to any member of the British royal family. It was a favorite trick of King Edward's—incidentally the despair of his escort—for him to dart away unseen and mix with the gypsies on Epsom Downs during Derby race week.

It will be recalled that only last year an American visitor shook hands with King George during the Wembley Exhibition. The Prince of Wales is continually "slumming" in the East End of London.

Foreign monarchs sitting on tottering thrones view with envy this —in their eyes—remarkable freedom. If and when they are deposed they have no hesitation in making for the hospitable shores of Britain to renew the threads of their broken life under less pompous conditions, but with a great deal more safety.

Ex-King Manuel of Portugal has for many years found it to be a haven of rest. Napoleon III of France set up household in Britain following the revolution in France in 1870. Ex-King George of Greece, deposed by popular vote in 1924, is now engaged in seeking an estate in rural England.

The ex-Kaiser would undoubtedly be residing in Britain to-day—as desire he has expressed —but for the fact that several British juries have brought in charge of wilful murder against him in consequence of the deaths caused through German air raids.

British royalty are experiencing an exceptionally busy time this year welcoming foreign rulers to Britain. President Doumergue of France, the King of Spain and King Fuad of Egypt, have already come and departed. The President of Liberia has just arrived, while King Boris of Bulgaria contemplates a visit in the near future.

CANADA'S GREAT EXHIBITION.

Canada's National Exhibition was formally opened by Canada's Premier on Saturday, and favoured by a visit from Their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales and Prince George this week and with the great interest created by the greatest swimming contest in the world's history, is on its way to new records.

The attendance of visitors from outside of Canada this year is expected to be the largest yet known, and that is a matter of great importance to every Canadian.

No visitor to the Canadian National Exhibition fails to take away with him a new conception of Canada.

The magnitude of the Exhibition, the beauty of the grounds, the size of the many buildings and the richness and the variety of the exhibits give American guests in particular an altogether different impression of this country, and no one factor surpasses the Canadian National as a publicity agent for the Dominion.

It is a cross section of Canadian prosperity, a tribute to Canadian vision, energy and ability, in the ever-increasing success of which every citizen of this country should—and does—take pride.

INVITE YOUR FRIENDS.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition affords the people of this city a splendid chance to entertain their out-of-town friends.

It is expected that the opportunity will be used by many citizens, glad of an opening to invite their friends to visit them at a time when the problem of how to provide them with worth-while entertainment need cause no worry.

The local Exhibition has grown to such proportions that it contains features of interest to everybody, and citizens of Peterborough can with perfect confidence bring their guests to the Exhibition Grounds, knowing that the varied nature of the amusement features and the extent and merit of the various exhibits cannot fail to make a favourable impression.

You can help the Exhibition and give your friends an enjoyable outing by extending hospitality to them during the week of Sept. 12-17.

This year it is confidently expected that Peterborough's big fair will leave far behind all previous attendance records, as it is certain to surpass all other local Exhibitions in point of all-round excellence.

It is too good to keep to yourself; why not invite your friends to come and see one of Ontario's banner Exhibitions?

EDUCATING THE MOTORISTS.

In his latest bulletin to motorists Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Ontario's Minister of Highways, does well to sound a warning to those drivers who when overhauled from behind show a reluctance to allow themselves to be passed.

There are some of these motorists on every road, who seem to regard a signal that another car is about to pass as a challenge to a test of speed, and who instead of giving the other driver a chance to pass proceed to "step on the gas," a decidedly dangerous and particularly silly manoeuvre that, in addition to being dangerous and silly, is also a violation of the traffic regulations.

Such drivers should be included in the class whose licenses are likely to be suddenly cut off.

The loafing driver who holds up traffic on an important highway, the persistent "cutter-in," and other motorists whose technique adds to road dangers are also coming in for attention in Mr. Henry's campaign of education, which it is hoped will prove successful.

If it fails more drastic methods will speedily have to be adopted by the Department of Highways; the offending motorists have been given plenty of warning.

A SPLENDID EDITION.

Congratulations are due The Northern Miner of Cobalt for the special edition issued last week to mark the Empire Mining Congress.

The edition comprises ninety-six pages and 18,000 copies have been issued.

It surveys in a news way the mining fields of Northern Central Canada, now 1,000 miles long, and two hundred illustrations, including photographs of all the leading men in the mining industry, are interspersed through scores of special articles dealing with every phase of northern mining.

This is the largest mining edition ever published in Canada, and when it is considered that it was prepared and printed in a town of 4,500 people, 300 miles away from the nearest large city, the enterprise of The Northern Miner management and the ability and faithfulness of its staff must be recognized.

The statement that this striking number, which carries an impressive cover page in gold and black, was two months in editorial preparation and one month on the machines can readily be credited, but the editorial and mechanical staffs of The Northern Miner have the consolation of knowing that while there has been little time for holidays this summer they have succeeded in turning out the finest edition of its kind that has been produced in this country.

STEPS ONWARD.

Easy travel, easy communication and easy change are the first fruits of civilization.

Prehistoric man was wilder than modern man and had no family cares or home or business to attach him to one locality, yet he was less free to travel than modern man. Airplanes, railroads, automobiles and steamships give to everyone the freedom of the world.

Before science gave to man the telephone, telegraph, wireless and radio and swift means of transportation those who travelled afar had little hope of again seeing or being seen by those left behind. Today one can talk around the world and circumnavigate the globe in a few days by air and in a few weeks by land and sea. Once man was provincial perforce, now by choice.

The arts of printing and reading widen still further the horizon of man's acquaintance. Books and periodicals mirror for him the most distant lands and the dim past. They concentrate in one's own library the accumulated knowledge and experience of mankind. Thus there is possible a fellowship unhindered by time and space and a communion of kindred spirits in a language that is universal.

Than these, nature has bestowed no greater gifts upon humanity. Without them man could not have climbed to his present state of civilization and deprived of them he would revert to a lower state. They are his indispensable aides in his wars against famine, pestilence, ignorance, intolerance and war.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

WHEN THE CORN IS ON THE COB.

Perhaps it is true that the French are the best cooks in the world. They, at least, say scornfully that America has no cuisine. And with prohibition, they add, there is no hope of America's developing one. Are not the finest sauces, they ask, made with wine?

In these mellow August days, however, the ghost of Savarin himself is hereby invited to partake of a mess of yellow corn, the Golden Bantam of the gods. It requires no other sauce than the touch of early fall which has come to revive jaded energies and stimulate sagging appetites.

Is there anything produced by all the subtle arts of cookery which can compare with those slender cylinders of gastronomic delight that August brings in such abundance? Yet, incomprehensible as it may seem, the heavenly viand has its enemies. There are unspeakable miscreants—many of them, sad to say, restaurateurs—who, having plunged the virgin ears of corn into boiling water, desert them, so that they remain for hours. Thus they become soggy and tasteless, melancholy deflowered wrecks of their former exquisite selves.

There are also misguided individuals who serve a half ear of corn per person towards the end of a hearty meal when the recipient is in no condition to appreciate even so inadequate a morsel.

There is, it must be regretfully confessed, the conscientious objector who is averse to eating anything comfortably and heartily and who therefore insists that it is etiquette to spear the golden ear of concentrated delight with those sorry tokens of a decadent civilization known as cornholders and nibble it as best he can while he balances it on these alien devices.

There is to be reckoned with also the pitiful milksop whose inferiority complex restrains him from eating corn off the cob in any fashion.

Those who know how to enjoy this manna of the fields select corn that is full grown but tender, drop it lovingly into boiling water—in which some cooks place a teaspoonful of sugar to accentuate the native sweetness of the corn—and leave it there for from five to ten minutes, but not a second longer. Then they serve it—plenty of it and piping hot—as the main dish of the memorable meal. They mix sweet butter, salt and pepper and spread the mixture on the corn. And when they fail to their friends know enough not to watch too critically.—Chicago News.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

Premier Baldwin's visit to Canada is associated by The London Times with the status of the Dominions as set forth in the report of the Imperial Conference. There were, it says, considerations against such visits so long as the Cabinet in Downing Street held or was believed to hold the reins of Colonial and Dominion government, concealed but still firmly grasped. One can readily understand that a British Prime Minister holding that authority would hesitate to visit the Dominions because he would have to be extremely cautious in his utterances. He would be supposed to be making, directly or by inference, declarations of Imperial policy as to the Dominions. Mr. Baldwin, addressing people whose right to manage their own affairs is freely conceded, is under no such restraint.

The Times goes on to say that the Governor-General has ceased to act as the mouthpiece of the British Government as such. "He is today in the position of a constitutional monarch, and the whole tendency of recent Governors-General has been to conform in their public utterances to this conception of their office. It is not their function to explain the British Government and its action to the public."

This is in accord with the report of the Imperial Conference, which declares that as an essential consequence of equality of status the Governor-General has in all essential respects the same position as the King, and that he is not the agent or representative of the British Government. The Governor-General is no longer the official channel of communication between the Governments. "It was thought that the recognized official channel of communication should in future be between Government and Government direct."

This was part of a report which occasioned some alarm in this country as separatist in tendency. The London Times takes it as a matter of course.

In addition to the official communication referred to, we now have the Prime Minister of Great Britain visiting Canada and discussing both Canadian and Old Country topics in an informal way. As The Times says, Mr. Baldwin is well fitted for this task because he is so unlike the stage Englishman, monocled, haughty and humorless, and the stage English statesman in whom these qualities are combined with craftiness and ambition. A businessman by origin, whose hobby is farming, he understands the point of view of East and West in Canada, of the manufacturer and the agriculturist.

Some may regret the passing of a certain awe which was inspired by Chatham and Peel, Gladstone and Disraeli. There is still hero-worship of a sort, as was shown in the case of Lindbergh, and there is an intense desire to see or read about men who are doing remarkable things. But the feeling is one of curiosity rather than of awe. The stiffness and pomp of Victorian and prelVictorian days have departed—whether to return or not is a matter for speculation. A decline in real reverence would be a matter for regret. But real reverence is not out of accord with democratic ideas. Its basis is the essential worth of a human soul without regard to rank, wealth or intellectual power, and even when contemplating moral weakness. It is reverence for humanity, and a profound sense of the importance of human destinies.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition "hops off" two weeks from today.

According to a Toronto weekly, marathon swimmers try to put on fat while they are training. Most of them will not put on much afterward if they're depending upon the prize money.

The non-stop driver is beginning to attract as much attention as the non-stop flyer.

Temporarily North Huron seems to have succeeded Ottawa as the seat of government.

Swimming marathons have one advantage over ball games. They are never called off on account of wet grounds.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—All grains developed sinking spells in the late trading Saturday after firmness at the start. Buyers who took hold on the declines earlier in the week were free sellers, and there was not much disposition to go heavily long over the week-end. At the finish wheat showed a net loss of 1⅜c to 1⅞c; corn was unchanged to ⅜c down; oats unchanged to ¼c off, and provisions 7½c to 20c advance.

Unfavorable weather conditions played an important part in the upturn in wheat. A fair demand from commission houses disclosed an absence of selling pressure as well as tendency on the part of shorts to cover recent commitments. Further rains in continental countries where harvest is in progress and the arrival of the German crop in inferior condition, with much damage feared in that country did much to lift values here.

Generally clear conditions existed in Alberta and Saskatchewan, where the harvest is progressing rapidly. Heavy rains were encountered in North Dakota and showers in South Dakota but the forecast was for improved conditions. Strength in Minneapolis attracted some attention. Advices there claiming heavy flour sales overnight. Export demand continued brisk, but curtailment of ocean freights acted as a check on export buying.

Corn was firmer early with commission houses fair buyers, but eased off later with wheat. Crop reports were decidedly mixed. Early wheat strength and the settlement of the elevator situation relative to the posting of grain out of conditions were instrumental in bringing about a better class of buying.

Oats were influenced largely by the action of other grains.

Provisions were firm with hogs and cotton.

MONTREAL, Que. Aug. 29 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.85⅜; cables $4.85⅞.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 28 (Canadian Press)—Extreme dullness marked the export trading in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday, there being practically no demand from foreign buyers.

The domestic trade was also quiet and prices were well maintained.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good but business was curtailed owing to the scarcity of supplies. Prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in flour and values for Spring and Winter wheat grades were firm.

The foreign and local demand for cheese was again of a limited character, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 13,722 boxes.

The feature of the egg trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices were marked up 1 cent per dozen. The receipts were 2,786 cases.

A Thought For To-day

WHEN AND WHERE TO DUMP DIRT

The man who can tell a helpful story is always as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom.

But the story-teller who must make someone feel miserable in order to provide a little laughter—the story-teller who must make a woman blush or make a man's weakness the brunt of a joke—the story-teller who cannot tell a story such that all may join in the laughter, is not the man to tell a story.

If a story requires profanity to give it that "punch"—if a joke must be personal to make it "go"—if something sacred must be sacrificed to get a story "across", save the story and spring it when and where it will "go."

We all tell stories, but to know when and where to dump dirt is a city ordinance that must be obeyed. I mean, a civil rule that should be observed.

One cannot see neither can one understand what is to happen tomorrow. Our duty is to oppose today's temptations that we will not have to pay their price tomorrow.

FILIPINOS LEAVE; CHINESE COME IN

Islands May be Populated by Chinese Within 200 Years.

(By William R. Kuhns, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MANILA, Aug. 29.—The population of the Philippines will be Chinese within 200 years unless some force diverts the present currents of emigration and immigration.

Each month, 1,000 Filipinos leave for Hawaii or the Pacific Coast of the United States.

Each month, 1,000 Chinese arrive in the Philippines from Amoy and Foochow.

These figures vary from month to month but represent a fair picture of the movements of population. Doubtless the number of Chinese spilling into the Philippines every month from the swarming coast of south China exceeds 1,000 by a good margin but there is no means of obtaining an accurate check.

Chinese immigration into the Philippines is legally barred by the same law that forbids Oriental immigration into the United States. Despite this fact, ships loaded to the captain's bridge with Chinese are constantly arriving in Manila. It happens that each Chinese is armed with papers intended to inform the immigration officials that they were born in the Philippines. In other words, all that a Chinese resident of Foochow or Amoy requires to vault over the American immigration laws in the Philippines is a birth certificate dated at any remote point in the Philippines and carrying a few signatures which cannot be identified without sending a special investigator into some corner of the archipelago.

The stream of Chinese into Manila is only a fraction of the flood. The Philippines have a coastline as long as that of the United States, because of the number of islands. The only means of guarding this coastline against smugglers of Chinese or opium are two or three overworked crafts used alternately for transporting lepers to Culion and repairing inter-island cables.

The emigration of Filipinos to the cane fields of Hawaii and the ranches of California is easier to explain. The top wage for Filipino farm laborers in the Philippines is never above one peso, or fifty American cents daily.

Labor in Manila is paid slightly more. After a long strike and a bitter controversy stevedores on the Manila waterfront receive from 85 cents, American gold, to $1.10 daily.

Hawaii and California look like the end of the rainbow to Filipino laborers. The proposal to charter a ship and take a complete load of Filipino laborers field workers to Honolulu inspired such a rush of applications for passage that the promoters had to close their doors.

The good ship Consuelo has just been backed up against a pier ready to receive 800 Filipinos with their kerchief bundles and travelling baskets. Within a few days, say the promoters, it will be on its way to Honolulu in the face of repeated protests from labor officials of the territory saying that the Hawaiian labor market was being overstocked.

It is fair to include the importation of Chinese as one of the "big businesses" of the Philippines. Here, it corresponds economically and proportionately, to the importation of some important commercial product into other countries.

Graft in the Orient is honored by the name "squeeze." It is frowned upon chiefly by those who give and those who do not receive. "Squeeze" has never received the formal blessing of the Philippine courts but it has been legalized by public opinion to such an extent that an American official, receiving $3,500 annually as salary, can live publicly on a $25,000 scale without arousing more than jesting and jealous comments on how he does it.

Meanwhile, the population of the islands gradually changes and the mixture of blood is producing a good type of citizens. Perhaps someday there will be monuments to "squeeze" or the squeezers.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29.—Grant Morrison is home from Oshawa for two weeks' holidays.

Mrs. Fred (Dr.) Baron of Paris is visiting Mrs. Thomas Rutherford.

spent yesterday at Belmont Lake.

Barnard Kerr is home from Toronto for a few days.

On Tuesday evening of last week, Mrs. John Shand entertained a number of her friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor in honor of their daughter, Miss Jennie, whose marriage is to take place shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Manly Scott and son, Kenneth, of Picton, have been visiting Mrs. Scott's sister, Mrs. C W. Turner. They returned to Picton yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Booth, Windsor, and Mrs. Kenneth Booth and daughter, Marjorie, Wadsworth, are the guests of Mrs. C. W. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hazel have returned to town after holidaying in Perth and Smith Falls. Mr. Hazel will resume his duties as organist of the United church next Sunday.

The beautiful Turner residence, Queen street, was in party dress last night in honor of Miss Jennie Taylor whose marriage is soon to take place. Mrs. C. W. Turner and daughter, Cherry, were at home to about forty friends of the bride to be, and many were the gifts she received. In order to overcome all formality the evening began with two contests and Miss Maynard of Ottawa with Earl Fairman were easy winners. Miss Turner and Miss Irene Stevens played several piano duets, all but the first being by unanimous request of the guests. Miss Irene Stevens has been heard over the radio as a pianist.

Cecil Searles had no trouble in holding his listeners spellbound with his violin numbers. For some time he has been a favorite concert violinist here. His interpretations of some of the old-time jigs and reels played in various times never fails to win him great applause.

Community singing with Mr. Hazel organist of St. John's United church, at the piano and Cecil Searles with his violin relieved the hostesses of any necessity of further catering to their guests' entertainment.

After a very delightful lunch had been served, Miss Taylor opened her gifts. The resulting display of beautiful oil paintings, silver, crystal, china, linen and necessary household utensils and numerous other articles was ample token of the esteem in which Miss Taylor is held. A bachelor who was present has already changed his opinion regarding the perils of matrimony. It must have been a signal for departure for the guests sang their farewell song and took leave of their hostesses.

FRY DISTRIBUTION IN MANITOBA

The Department of Marine and Fisheries announces a distribution of over 72,000,000 white-fish fry from their hatchery at Winnipegosis, Manitoba. This is an increase of more than 21 per cent. over last year's figures. The fry were all planted out in good condition on suitable grounds in the lake over a wider area than in any previous year, some of the fry being taken as far north as Whiskeyjack Island in the northern portion of Lake Winnipegosis.

Evening Examiner Fashion

A Smart Frock for the Miss or Small Woman

Delightfully girlish is the chic frock shown here and would be smart if fashioned of either woollen material or silk. The skirt has box-plaits in front and is joined to the bodice having tucks at each shoulder. The long raglan sleeves are finished with shaped cuffs, and a trim turn-down collar fastens onto the dress. The back is in one piece and a shaped belt achieves the two-piece mode. A smart note of contrast may be introduced in the collar, cuffs and belt. No. 1527 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 3¾ yards 39-inch material, or 3 yards 54-inch. If contrasting material is used, ⅝ yard 39-inch additional is required. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centers, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

CLEVER FRENCH TRIMMING FROM RIBBON

THIS is the new French frock I saw the other day with the clever ribbon trimming. The frock I saw was of black velvet, that thin, supple velvet that is so much used this year. But it could be of satin, of crepe—of any fabric with which ribbon could be harmoniously used.

Do you think I exaggerated in saying it was one of the smartest, Frenchiest looking frocks I have seen in a long time?

You see the secret of the trimming?

Just cut long lengths of ribbon, twice as long as the length from belt to hem edge, and mark each ribbon with a long, s-curving line from end to end. Mark it with a pencil or with French chalk. If with a pencil make the marks light.

The easiest way to do is to cut out the sketch of the ribbon along the curved line, and with this as a pattern cut out a piece of pasteboard in the same curve. Then lay this curving pattern along the ribbon and mark it.

When the ribbon is marked—that's all there is to it. Just shir it coarsely along the curved line, pull the thread up to the desired length, and fasten each length, of shirred ribbon along the side of the skirt.

In the same way make the shirred ribbons for the cuffs, and fasten them so that they cover the cuffs. You can use ribbon of various widths—the ribbon in the pattern is a good width.

Isn't it a pretty idea?

VELVET FOR EVENING, CUTE CLOTHES FOR SPORT

BIARRITZ, Aug. 29

Dear Cousin: The only blot on this perfect vacation is that you are not with me—that would make it perfect. And how you would enjoy it! There are more attractive men than I ever saw gathered in one spot. Being so close to Spain, we have any number of romantic looking, graceful Spaniards—and how they can dance!

I have lost my heart a dozen times, until I no longer attempt to keep any track of it or take any steps toward recovering it. Possibly before I go home I will find it lurking somewhere, casually waiting to go back home with me—or I may have to go back without it.

Golfer on Hat.

It is well that I stocked up with dancing frocks before I left, for I am wearing them to shreds. I have had to replenish a bit here. My first purchase was a cunning hat and blazer coat in a very delicious shade of yellow. The coat is bound with white flannel and has silly little golf scenes appliqued on the pockets. On the front of my hat is a golfer just about to start operations. While this would be too absurd in Paris, it is quite conservative here. I wear it with a white flannel skirt and white silk blouse.

Also I felt the need of another chapeau, after I saw a velvet model in one of the shops here. It is of brown velvet stitched with yellow that gives sort of a tortoiseshell effect. It is so soft that I can fold it up and carry it in the pocket of my top coat if I like, and you know how I love to remove my hat at every opportunity.

Aunt Louise presented me with a very charming little outfit which will be quite nice for fall wear in Paris. The dress is of black satin with queer cut out designs of white satin appliqued about the waistline and on the sleeves. Whereas it gives a very straight silhouette, there is a pleated section inserted at the side that makes high stepping quite plausible. It has a lovely little straight line coat of black wool lined with white that is also nice with other black or white frocks.

Black and Silver.

At the smart affairs here one sees much black and silver, which leads me to suspect one should start the winter season with a black taffeta evening gown, garnished with much silver. Lanvin had lovely picture frocks this season in that combination. With thinner materials, such as chiffon and georgette, brilliants rather than silver are used.

Taffeta and net are also a smart combination, usually with the net forming a wide hem on the gown, and an intricate yoke effect on the blouse.

Wider sleeves are undoubtedly with us. I have seen ever so many voluminous ones on gowns as well as coats. Before I left Paris I saw chic wool coats with marvelous fur sleeves. Sleeves of heavily embroidered or beaded chiffon are also in evidence.

While I think nothing is smarter for general wear than the close, long, perfectly fitting plain sleeve for afternoon, I do like the picturesque flowing sleeve. Certainly this is the ideal model for the larger arm which is so emphasized in a tight sleeve. Smart sport coats have sleeves entirely formed of cross tucking, while the rest of the coat is plain.

Lovely Sheer Velvets.

Of course, I can't say enough in praise of the new sheer velvets that are bound to be the rage this winter. In pastel colors, for evening they take the most lovely folds imaginable, and have that subtle highlight that no other fabric ever achieves.

I saw a Spanish woman, with the typical flashing eyes and deep olive skin, in a simple draped model of American beauty red velvet that made every other woman in the room look drab and washed out—and you could just feel every one making a mental note to have a brilliant red frock if she had to go without a fur coat to get it.

More anon, my dear, and all my love,

GERMAINE.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Here is the newest way to wear your scarf, with the point in the front and the ends tied and sticking out like donkey ears at the back. Below this is shown a new sport scarf of triangular shape, picoted at one side. It is ornamented with a painted horse head. Americans take up a new fashion or fad almost simultaneously with Parisians. Sometimes we actually lead the way—as undoubtedly was the case with the wide-brimmed hat which was worn over a year ago quite generally here and only recently to any extent in Paris. It may be, too, that in the fashion for longer hair among the young girls in this country we are anticipating a fashion change that will ere long be followed in fashion.

But sometimes we lag behind. Such has generally been the case with skirt lengths. They wore them short in Paris before we did and now they are wearing them longer while we are loathe to follow suit. The square scarf might be mentioned in this connection. It was extremely popular in Paris fourteen months and more ago, but for some reason we weren't especially interested. Now the square scarf is playing an important role in the wardrobes of almost all well-dressed women.

Not only square scarfs but triangular scarfs made by cutting a square scarf in two diagonally. The effect is similar to that of the square scarf folded across from corner to corner. There may be an economical motive about this—since two triangular scarfs may be made from one square. You must see these new glimmering bright colored triangles in the shops to really appreciate them. There are many ways to wear them—one of the newest and most surprising arrangements is shown in the sketch.

There are still many and charming oblong scarfs for those who prefer this shape. Among the most interesting that I have seen recently are some imported from India, dyed in crude designs in the most brilliant colors with a peculiar crinkly effect, and often made with curious floral applications of chenille-like appearance.

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrologers, who find certain adverse aspects strong.

This is a day favorable to enterprising efforts of many sorts and should be favorable to merchants and traveling men.

There is a good sign for all who begin long journeys, for they will benefit through acquisition of knowledge.

They who travel under this auspicious rule will do well not to seek transportation in the air.

There is a sign read as presaging a serious airplane accident that could not be avoided, but nevertheless causes unusual comment.

Deception may be rather easy today and for this reason special bargains are to be studied carefully.

Among the many reform campaigns visioned by the seers is one to bring back the old reverence for the truth and the whole truth.

Watchfulness of speech now will be often recommended by those who take serious account of modern carelessness regarding the use of words.

All the signs appear to promise for the world reactions that assure return to high standards of living.

As the new era advances the seers point out that the post-war period will be recognized as a time of real growth and lasting progress.

According to the new Moon of this week there may be danger of fevers and even cholera. Sanitary measures should not be relaxed in any way.

Appendicitis, also, is indicated as likely to be greatly on the increase in the early autumn.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year in which financial worries become imaginary as well as real.

Children born on this day are likely to be inclined to intellectual pursuits, rather psychic and able to triumph over all sorts of difficulties.

FASHION NOTES.

BY HEDDA HOYT

(United Press Fashion Editor)

If you worry over trifles
And detest the pace that stifles
If keeping up with fashions is a bore
Take a hitch in your suspenders
Wear a haircut minus fenders
And with concentrated effort you still score!

As long as the skirt is short and the hair is flat to the head, you're in style. Necklines may vary, boleros may be unheard of; tiers, flounces and flares may flop where they will but if the skirt is short you'll pass muster without being shot at providing of course, that the hair is worn as flat as an oar at the sides and back.

Many a smart little Miss puts over the modern style with a two and a half yard remnant of cloth. The average yardage worn by the flapper, including undergarments, is less than six yards. Formerly it required that amount to make a dress. Style today depends upon shortage of material and shortage of skirt length.

When manufacturers of women's clothing found that they could skimp on material and still command the same prices for clothes they started something which the cloth manufacturers are now striving to stop. Women are in league with the clothing manufacturers since they have found that the 'fewer the better' holds good where yardage is concerned. The shorter and scantier dresses are, the more comfortable they are and the easier and cheaper they are to make. The fact that modern dresses could be copied so cheaply by home seamstresses caused dress manufacturers to put out a line of medium-priced dresses. Thus we have the popular $15 frocks for all occasions.

When the times comes for longer and wider skirts the price of dresses will probably soar upwards. Even trimming details have been lacking greatly during the short skirt wave. This fact also, has made the copying of dresses easier. It is predicted that winter frocks, though short as to hems, will again resort to embroidery, beadwork and other trimming details. But that's a future worry! While the summer is here all that's required is to be short-skirted and flat coiffured.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

It was half past one o'clock that Thursday night when the police arrived at the pretty brown stucco house on Serenity Boulevard.

For an agonizing fifteen minutes Faith and Bob reiterated their story. At least six times they were compelled to tell just when they had arrived home from the Lyttons, just how they had discovered the kidnapping of the baby, just how long they had waited for Cherry.

"And Chris is getting farther and farther away with my baby!" Cherry screamed at last, her small fists beating frantically upon the broad chest of Sergeant McClusky.

"Now, looka here, Mrs. Wiley," the sergeant commanded her harshly, seizing her hands. "We're going to find your baby for you, but you'd better not forget that it was you that went off joy riding and left your baby alone. Come clean now! Tell your story—and make it snappy!"

The sergeant's harshness had the salutary effect of drying Cherry's tears in a heat of rage. "You shan't talk to me like that!" she blazed at him. "The baby was sound asleep when I left, and I thought my sister and Mr. Hathaway would be home any minute. Mr. Andrews called for me at eleven o'clock, I—I'd told him I had to stay in with the baby, but he came anyway, and he said he'd only drive around for half an hour or so, that nothing could possibly happen to Hope—my baby. I left the front door unlocked, just in case of fire——"

"Oh, Cherry!" Faith wailed. "All he had to do was to walk in—oh, how could you!"

"Who's 'he'?" the sergeant demanded, pencil poised above his notebook.

"I've told you!" Faith choked. "Chris Wiley, Cherry's husband. I saw him watching Cherry and—and Mr. Andrews through the window at midnight last night, and I warned Cherry——"

"I never dreamed that Chris would dare to take my baby!" Cherry sobbed.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wiley are separated, I suppose," the sergeant turned toward Bob Hathaway.

"Yes, since the—the trial," Bob stammered. "We believe he has taken the baby to force her to terms. But won't you please send out an alarm, sergeant? Time's passing——"

"I'll attend to this," McClusky told him brusquely. "Now, is there anything else? Baby's clothes taken, too, you say? All right . . . Grogan. Brown!" he shouted.

The two policemen who had been scouting about the premises came on a run.

"Footprints in a flower-bed under the front windows, sergeant," Grogan reported.

"They may have been made by Chris last night," Faith told the sergeant.

"Where's Samuels? Back yet?" McClusky snapped. "I sent him to see if he could learn anything from your neighbors," he explained rapidly to Bob.

When Samuels came striding into the living-room, he was bristling with importance. "Family named Harrison across the street say they saw a dark coupe drive up and park half a block down the street shortly before eleven; and a man get out of it and come to this house. They didn't watch to see whether he was admitted at the front door or not.

"Chris' coupe!" Cherry cried. "He watched until I was gone with Glenn, and then—oh, Faith, Faith! He's taken my baby. And she'll die without you! He'll feed her wrong. But if she dies, I'll kill him, I swear it! I'll kill him!"

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

MINT SAUCE

Emergency mint sauce will get the proper flavor if you mix small leaves only with sugar and rub with a spoon rastily before adding vinegar.

VEGETABLE BOUILLON

The juice in which many green vegetables have been cooked makes a tasty bouillon if seasoned carefully with butter and served piping hot.

CLEANING FOWLS

In cleaning chicken, or any other fowl, rub the inside thoroughly with a half lemon before stuffing it with dressing.

CHOPPED MEATS

Chicken and choice meats should never be chopped for salads, but diced carefully. Much is lost by chopping.

PAINTED DRAWERS

If you paint the inside of the dresser drawers that your children use, you will find they take more pride in keeping them neat and in order.

HAIR BRUSHES

Clean brushes are imperative if you want beautiful hair. Wash in tepid soap-suds, rinse in ammonia water and dry in the sun.

KEROSENE RAG

If you rub off your freshly washed auto with a rag sprinkled with kerosene, you will find it dries and shines much more easily.

SPARKLING WINDOWS

The chemically treated cloths, used for shining silver, work magic when used to shine windows and mirrors. They make them sparkle.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. What are some of the most essential assets in becoming popular socially?
2. Can one develop such assets?
3. Do mannerisms ever enhance a personality?

The Answers.

1. Ease and a pleasant, friendly manner.
2. Somewhat, by considering others and always trying to act natural.
3. If real they may. Affectations never do.

Wash RAYON this safe way

RAYON is more sensitive to laundering than any other fabric—never wring it, never twist it, never rub it with cake soap. Rayon is most fragile when wet.

As you might expect, Rayon should be washed only in mild, pure Lux suds—dipping it gently up and down as you do silks.

LEATHER PRICES ARE GOING UP SAY SHOEMAKERS AND DEALERS

Rise in Price of Boots and Shoes Will be Consequence.

SUPPLY IS SMALL

Huge Stocks of Leather Accumulated During War Nearly Exhausted.

Your boots and shoes are going to cost you more. And according to local authorities thoroughly conversant with the shoe and leather situation, the increased prices are likely to remain in force for some itme.

Stating that prices had already gone up from ten to fifteen per cent. R. J. Kidd, manager of R. Neill and Co., said that for some itme the industry had been confronted by a shortage of hides in the face of an increased demand. Hides, points out Mr. Kidd, are practically a by-product of cattle slaughtered in order to supply the meat market. One can shear the fleece from a sheep without killing the animal, but this cannot be done in the case of cattle. The herds in the United States had been reduced considerably, he said, and in many cases the cattle ranches of Western Canada had been turned into farms. Intensive farming, the Westerner had discovered, paid better than breeding and raising cattle.

The huge stock of leather that became available to supply the tremendously increased demand during the Great War was made possible by the greatly increased slaughter of cattle in order to cope with the increased demand for beef to feed the armies. The surplus is now absorbed and throughout the tanning countries, nothing of importance had been done to restore the herds of cattle severely reduced by the war demand for beef. If more beef were used, hides would probably become lower in cost, but there is little prospect of lower priced beef to stimulate the market for it.

Tanners for many years have been passing through stormy weather. Mr. Kidd quoted the case of a great American firm that had a surplus of more than a hundred million dollars completely wiped out by reverses on account of the unsteady market. Of ten tanning firms in Winnipeg, he said, nine fell by the wayside. The position is thus stated by the head of a large tanning firm who, addressing members of his organization, said:

"The opinion is practically unanimous that the definite and decided upturn of raw hide prices is a logical and necessary result of preceding conditions. Therefore, the tanning business must look forward for some little time in the future to a higher level of raw material costs than has existed in years. The new level is a real thing, sound and logical.

"At no time in the last two years have there been any accumulation of raw hides either here or abroad piling up and awaiting a purchaser. At the other end, shoe manufacturers' stocks of uncut leather have quite steadily declined during recent years, the lowest point of record having been registered in 1926.

"The rise in prices is a genuine thing," declared Mr. Kidd, "the result of world conditions in the industry. It certainly is far from being an artificial movement engineered by interested parties, and it looks as if the increased prices will be reasonably permanent. The industry all along the line from hides to shoes on the feet of consumers must adapt itself to the change."

"We know prices have advanced", said B. F. Ackerman, president of B. F. Ackerman Son and Company, for we have to pay them.

"For about six years prior to the recent advance, prices of hides had been below the quotations before the war. During the war, deep inroads were made upon cattle herds in all parts of the world to supply the abnormal requirements. At the close of the war, there were large accumulations of hides and leather. Enormous quantities of leather goods were in existence in France and England. When the depression came in 1920-21, the demand for leather and leather products was curtailed and prices dropped sharply, until huge supplies were sold out for what they would bring. These stocks are now completely sold out. Stocks of hides in the United States and Canada have been reduced by the increased demand from domestic industries and for export. The demand has been in excess of new supplies available and prices have advanced. Prices of harness leather have increased by 10 cents a pound and another increase is coming in November."

No business that he know of, continued Mr. Ackerman, was run on a smaller margin of profit than was the manufacture of boots and shoes. The rapid change in the styles were outstanding factors in keeping up the price of feminine footwear.

Discussing the upward trend in sole leather prices, W. C. Ackerman, secretary-treasurer of B. F. Ackerman, Son and Co., said that costs had risen from thirty-six to forty-five cents a pound, an increase of exactly 25%. Upper leather costs had increased from 20 per cent to thirty-five per cent, according to the quality.

"I was in Montreal a week ago", observed Mr. Ackerman, "and I spent a day at a factory where fine shoes are manufactured. The cost of making these shoes today is forty cents a pair more as compared with those of two months ago."

Like the president of the firm, Mr. Ackerman referred to the reduction in the U.S. herds. Cattle herds had been depleted, he said, since 1921, and an increase of eleven million per year for five years over normal production since 1921 would be necessary in order to get back to the 1921 totals. Emphasizing this point, Mr. Ackerman quoted from a letter issued to the salesmen of the International Shoe Co. by F. C. Rand, president of that concern:

"Figures furnished by the Government show that the available supply of hides in this country has decreased about thirty-five per cent since January, 1926, and that the available supply of sole leather has decreased about fifty per cent during the same period.

Available Hides.

"In January 1926, there were available 4,509,992 hides.

"In May 1927, this number had dropped to 3,160,840.

"In January 1926, there were available 6,148,474 sole leather backs, bends, etc.

"In May 1927, there were available 3,348,295.

"The United States produces about about sixty per cent of the hides consumed in this country, and imports from foreign countries about forty per cent. Our domestic hide markets, until recently have been lower than the foreign markets, which has caused an increase in our exports of hides, and a decrease in our imports of hides. Our hide markets are controlled by supply and demand and, reflecting the shortage of supply our hide markets have advanced about fifty per cent. The cost of shoes is based upon the cost of leather. The cost of leather is based upon the cost of hides. The increased price of shoes appears to be well sustained and will probably continue until there is a change in the raw material situation."

The rise in prices had to come, concluded Mr. Ackerman, and it was greatly to be feared that the same influence that had brought the hide market to its higher level would continue. The end was not in sight. Tanners would not bind themselves to make later shipments at prevailing prices, for they did not know when they would be called on to pay more for hides.

PICNIC MARKS FRIENDS' VISIT

Wooler People Have Outing With Visitors Guests of Honor.

AT PRESQU'ILE POINT

WOOLER, Aug. 29.— A very enjoyable time was spent at Presqu'ile Point on Wednesday when a private picnic was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Herrington, Madison, Wisconsin, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Clarke, Bancroft. A long table was placed on the beach of Lake Ontario. A sumptuous repast was served and the congenial spirit of all the friends and relatives was made known by the merriment. Two hours later the men were seen in groups around the cars, while the ladies spread rugs on the ground and formed a social circle. Then the camera was much in evidence, the younger folk played ball, and two car loads went up to the sand beach to bathe. At 5 p.m. the lunch baskets were again opened and a buffet luncheon was served. Then the packing up, and the party drove down to the lighthouse, enjoying the balmy breeze of the lake, returning by the north drive along the bay, facing the wonderful sunset, that an artist's brush could not make so beautiful. Those who comprised the party were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Herrington, Madison, Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Herrington, Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Herrington, Hilton; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Herrington, Hilton; Lewis Herrington, Hilton; Mrs. Mary Jane Herrington, Codrington; Russell Herrington, Hilton; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Clarke and Norma, of Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Clarke, Wooler; M. E. Maybee, M.P., and Mrs. Maybee, Trenton, R.M.D.; Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terrill, Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrill, Wooler; James, Lorne and Frances Terrill, S. D. McColl, Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. John Dinner, Mary Dinner, Codrington; Mrs. Mary Locklin, Elva Locklin, Smithfield; V. M. Locklin, Rochester, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. O. McConnell, Hilton; Miss McConnell, Oshawa; Stanley Montgomery, Hilton; Edith Valentine, Hilton; Verna Nelson, Trenton; Ralph Maybee, and Mr. Willoughby, Colborne. The ages ranged from Norma Clarke, eighteen months, to Mrs. Mary Herrington, who has passed her eightieth birthday, but the spirit of unity prevailed.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29. — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henson and family motored to Cobourg for the day.

Dr. Thomas O'Connor of Toronto motored to his home here for a few hours.

Mr. Robert Pearse and son, Peterborough, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dolman and Miss Betty Dolman, also Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Williams spent the day at Brighton Beach.

Mr. J. P. Hume and daughter, Miss Esther Hume, who have been visiting relatives in town, returned to Stratford today where Mr. Hume will resume his duties as principal of the Collegiate there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Riendeau and family motored to Toronto today for a few days at the Exhibition. Mr. Charles Calvert will accompany them.

Many citizens of Campbellford motored to Warkworth to attend Decoration Day.

Rev. A. W. Holder of Pavilion, N.Y., who is visiting his sister, Mrs. John H. Haw, Peterborough, motored to Crow River to visit his nephew, Mr. Alan E. Haw. Mr. Alan Haw is holidaying at the Dalgleish cottage at Crow River.

Rev. Dr. Solandt, Toronto, preahed two very powerful sermons at St. John's United Church here yesterday. Dr. Solandt is an associate editor of The New Outlook; a church publication, and the church here is to be congratulated on securing his servies.

In the absence of Mr. William Pearson, student organist, played both services in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church yesterday. Miss Brady's playing reveals a remarkable talent.

Rev. James Grier ocupied his own pulpit at both services but intimated that he would be absent next Sabbath. The pulpit will be occupied by a minister from Toronto. Yesterday evening, Mr. Grier based his remarks on Peter's question, "Lord, to whom shall we go? (John 6, 68). It seemed a timely topic coming, as it did, at a time when some sometimes wonder just to whom they shall go.

Mr. and Mrs. Newson, Queen Street, disposed of most of their household effects by public auction on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Newson and family are taking up residence in Toronto.

FORCED OUT BY BEES.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 27.—A swarm of bees looking for a home early this year, selected a window ledge of an apartment house. Attempts to dislodge them failed. The tenants moved out and the bees remained—for five months. The other day their hive was chopped away, but they still are swarming about the building.

Enthusiastic Comments on

Marvelube Motor Oil

from a few of its 200,000 users

"Using Marvelube we notice a very marked improvement in the performance of the car. The motor had a softer and smoother tone and a very elusive knock completely disappeared. We drove eleven hundred miles before changing the oil and the oil was the best in every respect that I have ever seen taken out of a car."
F. A. Menzies, Fillmore, Sask.

"My car has gone about 1,000 miles since I put in Marvelube and I have not changed the oil since.
"My car has much better power, climbs hills with much more ease, seems to have more speed, and runs smoother and cooler than it ever did before."
G. M. Robinson, Kemptville, Ont.

"Since using this oil in its various grades, I find greater pulling power at lower speeds and less carbon formation in this equipment. I find also that my engine runs cooler as a result of using this oil."
D. E. Bronson (Government Mechanic), Department of Public Works, Salmon Arm Riding, B.C.

"I filled my car with Marvelube when starting on my vacation, and travelled 2,100 miles, mostly in the States, where the heat was intense, at some points as high as 110° in the shade. I added no oil whatever during the 2,100 miles, and when I finally drained the oil it was in such splendid condition that the Service Station didn't want to take it out."
G. J. Rathbone (Manager), Brown Wire Specialty Co., Hamilton, Ont.

"We recently tried out your "Marvelube Heavy" in one of our Essex Coaches, and have found it to give excellent results."
A. Kinsmon (Accountant), London Hudson-Essex Sales, London, Ont.

"Having just completed a thorough overhaul of our sightseeing fleet . . . we find that our motors have had perfect lubrication by the use of your Marvelube. . . . With the use of Marvelube we have apparently eliminated any sign of lubrication trouble, and we find our power plants in much better condition than at any other previous overhaul."
Mr. J. T. McLeod, Rocky Mountain Tours & Transport, Banff, Alta.

"I formerly used an imported high grade oil in my Buick 6 1923 Model Touring Car, and had always more or less trouble on account of the engine running hot. Since using Marvelube, I always have a cool engine and my car has more power than ever before."
L. R. Gates, General Merchant, Middleton

"We have been using Marvelube ever since it came on the market, and we have had the very best results. We find it entirely free from carbon and we seem to get smoother operation of our engines when using this oil."
N. Bertrand, President, Diamond Taxicab Association Limited, Montreal, Que.

"I have used Marvelube Medium in a Chevrolet Landeau ever since it came on the market and have had the very best of satisfaction. Its stability is wonderful."
J. G. Simmie, McConnell, Man.

"No wonder I'm strong for Marvelube"

CHEMONG PARK SERVICES END

Good Meeting Was Addressed By Rev. W. McDonald of Knox.

RESUME NEXT YEAR.

The interdenominational services held in Chemong Park during July and August, came to a close with a splendid gathering last night addressed by Rev W. McDonald, of Knox United Church, who preached a fine sermon from the text: "The harvest is passing, the summer is ended, and ye are not saved."

Miss Greta LeBarr, soloist of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, sang very sweetly: "Cast thy Burden upon the Lord," and "Jesus is tenderly calling to-day."

Rev. V. J. McNeely occupied the chair and G. F. Liddle, leading the singing, drew out the vocal powers of the crowd.

The meetings will be resumed next summer, said Rev. W. S. Edgar this morning, and an attempt will be made to commence earlier in the season.

The five services held this summer have been addressed by Rev. W.S.Eddar, Rev. J. V. McNeely, Rev. J. W. Gordon, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe and Rev. W. McDonald. The solists were Jack Smith, Mrs. Doig, and Misses Murray and LeBarr.

WILD WEST SHOW HERE FAIR WEEK

Mabel Mack's Hippodrome Will Be Set Up on Midway.

Out of the West is coming Mabel Mack, with her Hippodrome Wild West Show, to the Peterborough Exhibition this year ,as one of the feature attractions of the Zeidman and Pollie Shows, engaged to furnish the Midway amusements. With more than sixty head of Wild West and Rodeo stock, besides a troupe of performing mules, Miss Mack is presenting probably the most entertaining and educational Wild West exhibit with any carnival in existence, and no one is better fitted than she to produce such an entertainment. Born and reared on a Western ranch she left the home early in life to become associated with some of the leading Wild West exhibitions that have ever existed, and in assembling her 1927 presentation she has combined successfully her early home training and her experience with amusement organizations of Wild West type.

Bronco riders must actually ride broncbos to long remain on Miss Mack's payroll and there is no let-up in her fast moving program from the opening bugle call until the reprodution of the old-time Pony Express brings to a close this remarkable exhibition of roping and riding, fancy shooting, trained horses, pretty girl riders and performing hybrids.

While Miss Mack is easily the Queen of Wild West producers, there are in their respective lines artists as equally well known as this product of the Golden West. For instance there are Mike and Ike, world famous Midget Twins and said to be the only Twin Midgets on earth, and their troupe of performing Lilliputions, and these tiny little men and women present a vaudeville program replete with laughter and filled with entertainment. The combined weight of the nine Midget performers in the Mike and Ike troupe is less than 270 pounds and their total height is about that of three ordinary men, or about 17 feet.

The Zeidman and Pollie Shows will bring to the Peterborough Exhibition which starts September 13, twenty-two complete shows and ten modern riding devices besides numerous minor entertainment features. Numerous free acts will take place on the Midway each afternoon and evening and two bands will be heard in almost continuous concert.

EXAMINER PICNIC HELD AT CHEMONG

Good Programme of Games Marks Enjoyable Event.

The Examiner employees held their annual outing to Chemong Park on Saturday afternoon, when a jolly time was spent in playing games and running races, with an al fresco supper following later, the excursion ending with a walk over the bridge and back by some of those attending . Cars to transport the picnickers were kindly supplied by several members of The Examiner staff.

The softball game was a "free for all" that was distinguished chiefly by the varied form of the players, both masculine and feminine, taking part. They specialized in the art of "tryin' to hit them where they ain't," succeeding admirably in their efforts, encouraged by the cheerful advice of Messrs. Fred Scates and Harry Dugan, and the support of an enthusiastic throng of rooters on the side lines. The fray ended with a score of 11-7 in favour of the side captained by Harry Dugan, playing against an aggregation headed by Harry Lacheur. Miss K. Rowland pitched for the winners.

The programme of races which followed was in charge of Roy Taylor, with a fine supply of prizes for the winners, as follows:

Married ladies—1, Mrs. C. Brownlee; 2, Mrs. B. Morrison.

Single ladies—1, Miss Kathleen Rowland; 2, Miss Bernice Spofford.

Married Men—1, R. Pearse; 2, A. O. Phillips.

Single men—1, Fred Scates; 2, Roy Taylor.

Little girls—1, Nina Glover; 2, Isabel Glover.

Little boys—1, David Pearse; 2, Rex Forsythe.

Potato race—1, Miss Winnie Bethune; 2, Miss Louise Letellier.

A "lucky number" prize, a sherbet set, went to Jerry Cullen, with David Pearse as second winner. The drawing was made by Mrs. J. Pope, of Chemong Park, who was a guest for supper.

Arrangements for the picnic were principally made by Mrs. Morrison and Mr. Lacheur .

COMMERCIAL ART GOOD BREADWINNER

Some High Placed Artists Add to Incomes in Humbler Field.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Many Canadian artists whose pictures take high place in the new national landscape school earn the more dependable portion of their incomes in the prosaic field of commercial art. But, while such work goes unheralded by the critics and seldom brings with it public acclaim, much of it is of genuine artistic worth. The poster or sketch turned out as a "pot boiler" sometimes comprises the particular artist's most noteworthy achievement.

The Canadian railway companies with their continual demand for posters and for ambitious pictures to be used in their exhibits in this country and in Europe provide a fine market for a considerable body of our younger painters. Each year they expend thousands of dollars upon artistic products to be used in this manner.

By employing Canadian painters the railways have secured really worthwhile pictures of a host of Canada's beauty spots. These are of great value in educating the tourist and the prospective settler and in this manner are of national benefit.

The student or critic of contemporary Canadian painting can not afford to despise the commercial output of brush and pencil. He must remember that some of the best artists are capable of maintaining their ideals, even while covering canvas at so much per foot. Commercial posters and exhibits will amply repay careful study and have certainly not received the critical attention they deserve. The day may not be far distant when art critics will recognize ability and originality as readily when displayed in a commercial poster as when evidenced in an academy landscape.

Farm Women Have Fine Vacation Camp

TIPTON, Iowa, Aug. 29 (by the Canadian Press).—Cedar County farm women are taking a vacation. After these many years of getting up with the sun for an endless day of dreary duties, the women are taking life easy at a farm bureau camp where they don't even have to wring out their own bathing suits.

The Farm Women's Vacation Camp was sponsored by the farm bureau which invited all members to send their wives and daugbters for two weeks of real vacation. Nearly 100 already are enjoying the outing. Recreation consists of boating, swimming and other sports, with an absolute ban on all forms of work.

Husbands were forbidden to go to camp and were told to remain at home with the children and worry along with the washing, the sweeping, the cooking, the churning, and bed-making, not to mention feeding the chickens and gathering the eggs.

EASTERN APPLE CROPS REDUCED

Unfavorable Weather Conditions Have Resulted in Scab and Blight.

B. C. PROSPECTS GOOD.

OTTAWA, Can., Aug. 29 (by the Canadian Press).—Early prospects for a heavy commercial apple crop have been materially reduced in the Eastern fruit Provinces owing to continued unfavorable weather conditions which have caused the rapid development of scab and insect injuries, according to a crop report issued by the Dominion Fruit Branch. On the other hand conditions have been more favorable in British Columbia since the middle of July when the weather turned warm, and having sufficient irrigation water the early estimate is expected to be maintained. Although the crop in Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario has been reduced, it still shows an increase over last year, while British Columbia is about 20 per cent. less than the heavy crop of 1926. Present prospects indicate a commercial crop of 100.5 per cent., or 2,999,000 barrels, compared with 2,984,230 barrels in 1926, and 90 per cent. of a five-year average of 3,327,600 barrels. The crop is distributed as follows: British Columbia, 1,049,000 barrels; Ontario, 650,000; Quebec, 120,000; New Brunswick, 30,000, and Nova Scotia, 1,150,000.

Excessive moisture in July throughout Ontario resulted in aphis damage to many varieties of apples, accompanied by scab and side-worm injury. These conditions have caused the commercial estimate to be reduced to 650,000 barrels, compared with 598,700 barrels in 1926. Indications are for the proportion of No. 1 grade fruit to be the lowest in years. In Western Ontario the crop is estimated at 102 per cent., or 385,500 barrels, as compared with 377,400 barrels last year, while the Eastern Ontario crop is placed at 120 per cent., or 264,500 barrels, against 221,290 in 1926.

Weather conditions in Nova Scotia during July have been little short of disastrous to volume and grade, although contributing to good average size. Excessive rains were general and inimical to full benefit of spraying, and worm "muggy" weather has been unduly friendly to aphis and spot. Where spraying has been ample and timely, orchards are fairly free of spot, but aphis has done damage in all orchards. The combination of conditions is held responsible for the continued drop and further reduction in crop expectancy.

In British Columbia hot, dry weather has prevailed since July 15, which has had the tendency to bring along all crops in good shape after the long, wet, cool spring. The irrigated districts report plenty of water available for all requirements. The Committee of Direction, appointed by the Provincial Government to regulate distribution seems to be functioning well.

From present indications there is no reason to change the early estimate of 3,149,600 boxes of apples, which is 80 per cent. of 1926, when 3,937 000 boxes were shipped. The crop is about 1,000 cars short of last year.

The United States commercial apple crop is now estimated at 24,831,000 barrels as compared with 39,411,000 barrels last year and a five-year average of 33,710,000 barrels.

In England only a fair crop of domestic apples is reported, but on the Continent prospects are a little better than a year ago.

Petes Defeat Oshawa In First Game 6 To Nil

HECKMAN HOLDS OSHAWA TO TWO HITS AND PETES WIN FIRST GAME FROM MOTORS IN HOLLOW STYLE

Playing Errorless Ball, Manager Swanston's Crew Win From Oshawa 6 to Nil.

HECK FANS TEN

Home Talent Get Jump in Play-Off Series by Grabbing Initial Battle.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes got away to a flying start in the five game series for the championship of the Lakeshore League at James Stevenson Park Saturday when they walloped Oshawa Motors, winners of the Toronto section of the League, 6 runs to 0.

Al. Heckman, dean of the local pitching staff, had Billy Benson's men eating out of his hand; in fact only the hefty bat of Ray Fair, veteran outfielder of the Motors, intervened between Heckman and a no-hit game.

Oshawa got but two singles off "Heck's" delivery during the engagement and Fair shot them both, a one-base sock to left in the first frame and a fast dribbler on the short stop side of second base in the ninth. Outside of these two stabs the visitors' attempts to solve the puzzling assortment dished up by the Petes' ace flinger were as futile as a flapper's efforts to pull her skirts over her knees.

Heckman's start gave no indication of such a brilliant performance. Of the first four batters who faced him in the initial frame two were passed and Fair cuffed a single over Holyman's head. Then with the bases loaded and but one down the sterling right-hander settled down to work. The next two were easily disposed of and in the succeeding eight frames only two of the Benson squad reached first base, Penu when he was hit with a pitched ball in the fourth and Fair on his second hit with one away in the final chapter. "Heck" using a sharp breaking hook with deadly effect fanned ten of the invaders and in six of the nine innings had to throw to only three batters.

Behind this superb pitching the Petes played errorless ball, the steadiness and accuracy of their defensive work proving a big surprise in view of the fact that they had not been in a game for six weeks. Manager Swanston's crew rose to the occasion, however, and badly outplayed the Motors both in field and at the plate.

Facing Heckman was his old rival Duke Dainty, whose good left arm may have lost a lot of its power but very little of its cunning, for the southpaw showed plenty of stuff despite the fact that the Petes broke through his service for eleven hits. The safeties were mixed with Oshawa errors that enabled the Swanston outfit to get some soft counters, and with better support the Duke would have engaged his right-handed opposition on much more even terms. The Motors contributed five boots and two passed balls and all but one of the misplays was a factor in the Petes' run-making.

Jimmy Hall, the ball hawk extraordinary, was the hero of the prize fielding achievement of the afternoon in the second frame when Whitley, Oshawa's tall young catcher, met one of Heckman's slants squarely on the nose and drove the ball high and far toward the wide open spaces in deep left centre field. Hall dashed over and out and running at top speed with his back to the plate took the ball over his shoulder for a beautiful catch. Norm Benson, whose dad is the manager of the Oshawa outfit, contributed a neat play in a one-handed grab of a fast roller that started out like a sure hit.

The Detailed Story.

The invaders made the most serious threat in the first. Benson walked and although Williams struck out, Red Fair got the first of his two hits, a line drive over Holyman's head, and Penu was passed filling the bases. Heckman went to work on Matthews and struck out the big right fielder and Hank Morrison's high fly was easy for Jimmy Hall.

The Petes got a cheap run. Rose went to second on Benson's low throw to first and moved round to third on Johnston's neat sacrifice. When one of Dainty's hooks got away from Whitley, Rose carried the first run over. Swanston struck out and Heckman lofted one to Benson.

In the second, Little was thrown out by Heckman, Jimmy Hall made a beautiful catch of Whitley's hard smash to deep left centre, and Holyman tossed Dainty out on a sharp rap to short.

Ash beat out a roller to third and continued on to second on Morrison's high throw. Harrison fanned. Jimmy Hall was cut out of a hit by Benson's one-handed stop, and Holyman was thrown out by Dainty.

Heckman had it easy in the third whiffing Benson and Fair while in between Williams rolled to Rose.

A ringing double by Rose was wasted in the Petes' half. Jake Hall filed to Matthews but Rose came through with his hard smash over Little's head for two sacks. Johnston, however, was called out on strikes and Swanston fouled to Morrison.

Penu, first up for Oshawa in the fourth, was hit, and remained on first while Matthews and Morrison filed to Johnston. Then he stole second and third and expired there when Little rolled to Rose.

The Petes increased their lead. Heckman opened with a sharp single through short and when Ash laid down a neat sacrifice, Heckman went all the way round to third on the play. Harrison fouled to Morrison but Jimmy Hall bounded a single through the box to score Heckman. Holyman raised one to Morrison.

Oshawa died in order in the fifth. Rose tossed out Whitley and grabbed Dainty's high fly after which Benson struck out.

The Petes got another in their half. After Jack Hall had flied to Fair, Rose cracked a hot single over third and Johnston was walked. On an attempted double steal Rose was called out at third. Swanston was safe on Benson's fumble. When he started to steal second Whitley threw the ball to centre field and Johnston scored. Heckman drew a pass and Ash lined to left for a single, a fast relay, Little to Morrison to Whitely nailing Swanston at the plate.

The Motors shifted their line up, sending Benson in to catch while T. Morrison went to short stop. Harrison died on strikes but Jim Hall singled to right, Holyman to centre and Jack Hall past first, filling the bases. A passed ball scored Hall. Rose lifted one to H. Morrison and Johnston was tossed out by Dainty.

In the seventh, Matthews struck out, Morrison was thrown out by Holyman and Little fanned.

The Petes got two. Swanston singled to left and was sacrificed to second by Heckman. T. Morrison made a two-base wild throw on Ash's roller, Swanston scoring. Harrison singled over second to score Ash. Hap went to second on the throw to the plate but was called out when he slid over the bag. Jim Hall rolled to Penu.

T. Morrison bunted to open the eight and was thrown out by Heckman. Dainty rapped to Holyman for an out at first and the Petes' short stop then camped under Benson's fly.

For the first time the Petes went out in order, Holyman flied to Fair, Jack Hall lifted a high one to Penu and Rose struck out.

In Oshawa's ninth Williams flied to Ash, Fair singled to short and stole second, going to third while Johnston was tossing out Penu. Fair attempted to steal home but Matthews cracked the ball to Holyman, who tossed him out to wind up the game.

HOLDS CANADIAN RECORD

Doral Pilling, the Cardson, Alta., javelin hurler, who sailed the steel shod toothpick 185 feet ½ inch at the Canadian Olympic trials at Toronto, Ont., thus breaking the existing Canadian record of 169 feet 4½ inches, made by Archie Stewart, the Toronto policeman. This is the second time this summer Pilling has heaved the spear many feet beyond the old record.

COPPER DEPOSITS IN CANADA.

Copper ores of various kinds, including the native metal, are found at many places throughout Canada. Production has so far been confined to the following areas in order of their importance: British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and Yukon. Deposits of copper ores are also known in the Maritime Provinces, and in the Arctic regions of Canada. The Arctic deposits, although at present inaccessible, possibly constitute one of the great copper-ore reserves of the future.

KEYS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Win Their Final Game of Year With Bisons 6 to 4.

LOSE FIRST 8-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—In their final game of the year with the Bisons, the Reading Keys gained first victory of the season on Buffalo soil yesterday, winning the second game of a twin bill by a 6 to 4 tally. Buffalo won the first game, 8 to 2, all their runs coming in the third inning.

Rochester defeated Jersey City in both games of a double-header at Rochester, 5 to 3, and 2 to 0. The double victory gave the Tribe the series by three games to two. Herb Thormahlen and "Sonny" Horne were the winning pitchers.

Al Mamaux, star Newark pitcher, pitched only five innings at Syracuse, but received credit for a victory and a defeat. In the first game of a double-header Mamaux pitched the ninth inning after the Bears had achieved a 5 to 4 lead in the ninth, overhauling the Stars, who went into that frame 4 to 3 to the good. In the second game Mamaux was put out along with Shortstop Kingdon in the fifth inning when the Stars were leading, 2 to 1. This game was played in a steady drizzle and was called in the sixth.

Baltimore and Toronto were not scheduled.

DRAWN GAME IN PECK SOCCER CUP; TWO EACH

Dawson Opened Scoring, Foster Equalized, Then Anderson Put Jags Ahead.

HALF-BACKS GOOD

After a Continued Bombardment by the Quakers, T. Wilson Scored.

Two goals each was the result of the E. A. Peck soccer game on Saturday afternoon when the Quaker Oats and the Thistle battled for ninety minutes in a hard-fought encounter. All the goals were well earned, although Anderson's oblique shot from the corner flag was a great accomplishment for a player to play at outside left who had always played full back. The two new Thistle players are an acquisition, while Robb and Ferguson come up to their reputation in soccer. The large crowd of fans stated that a drawn game was a very good decision of the play.

Late Start.

The teams were late in starting, which was caused by the men being in the same color of sweaters, but Thistle changed into dark blue against black and white stripe. Robb kicked off thirty minutes past scheduled hour. Play run from end to end until Lang made the defence concede two corner-kicks that were cleared by the full backs.

Shot Like a Rocket.

Fergusson beat along the wing to lose a return pass from Robb. From the throw in, Burgess punted across to Anderson, who passed along the ground to the alert Dawson barg the ball into the net like a shot from a gun. This set-back to the Quakers resulted in them bombarding the Thistle citadel from near and far and gained the equalizer a few minutes later.

Two Goals—Two Seconds.

On mid-field play Carmichael and Wilson combination beat the Thistle defence in a sudden attack which finally brought a goal when Foster headed into the net.

From the centre-kick, Anderson brought off the most oblique shot in local soccer when he was down in the flag-corner with the ball and sent it across in mid-air that landed into the net amidst great excitement. Three corner-kicks in succession fell to the Quakers that found Griffin the holder of the situation and he had to hustle when Robb sent a stinger in from a foul kick.

Players Too Anxious.

Time and again, the players would indulge in clever tactics that was worthy of goals in each case but they failed to concentrate in the main issue of finding the place where the net was situated, although, at times the custodians were the stumbling block in finished play. When half-time arrived the battle was confined to the centre of the field.

Half-time: Thistle 2, Quakers 1.

Half-time.

On resuming, the teams changed positions and started with renewed vigour, in which Ferguson tested the goalkeeper at short range, then again two Quaker players missed a chance to score when the ball rolled across the goal mouth to go for a goal kick.

Hard Body Checking.

Repeated raids were made upon the goals that were productive of heavy body checking by the half-backs when the forwards were in the act of shooting, inside the goal area, thereby leaving an open space between each defence that made the game of a long-swinging nature to cause much excitement when the forwards made track for goal.

Quakers Continued Siege.

For a duration of ten minutes the Quaker Oats were all over the Thistle, with their whole eleven down in the penalty area. They gained a foul, for Millar holding. Two flag-kicks were landed in front of goal by Wilson. The Thistle defence rallied to the occasion during the siege but finally had to admit defeat when another siege brought success.

T. Wilson Headed Equalizer.

After the Thistle had concentrated in combination to give Montgomery some work to do, Stan Maker carried the sphere down the centre of the field, Millar tackled but kicked out of touch. Robb decided to take the flag-kick and from a swinging drive put the ball to Tom Wilson's head who touched it into the corner of the upright. With only four minutes to go, the players worked hard to gain a decisive result, but time was called with the two teams retiring from the field two goals each. Quakers 2, Thistle 2.

Goal-scorers: Quakers, Foster and T. Wilson; Thistle, Dawson and Anderson.

The teams:

Quakers—T. Montgomery, goal; Stan Maker and H. Curtis, backs; W. Curtis, Robb, and Alf. Maker, Wilson, Ferguson, and Foster, forwards.

Thistle — Griffin, goal; McLeod and Millar, backs; Burgess, Newman, and Bromley, halves; Lang, Armour, Dawson, Cameron and Anderson, forwards.

Referee—John Ward.

THE WHITE PINE IN CANADA.

The botanical range of the white pine in Canada extends from the Atlantic Ocean to the Province of Manitoba. It is confined to the region lying south of a line running approximately from the southeast corner of Lake Winnipeg, through Lake Nipigon, along the height of land north of Lake Timiskaming, through lake St. John to Point de Mots on the St. Lawrence and Cape Breton Island.

TORONTO ENTRIES CARRY OFF FIRST HONORS AT OTTAWA MEET

Lead Contenders in Canadian Swimming and Diving Championships.

SHOW GOOD TIME

Drizzling Rain and Light Winds Impede Speed of Contenders.

OTTAWA, Ont., August 29 (Canadian Press). — Toronto competitors carried off major honours in the Canadian swimming and diving championships held here on Saturday on the Ottawa River. A drizzling rain fell during most of the afternoon as the meet was being held, and a light wind kicked the river-surface up sufficiently to impede the racing natators a trifle, but despite the unfavourable conditions good time was chalked up in the majority of the events. The swimmers also had to contend with a rather strong current against which most of the race routes were lined off.

The swimmers from the Queen City lifted the tug feature events, the Dominion high diving title going to Walter Kayes of Central "Y," while Jimmy Thompson, another Central "Y" man, captured the one-mile Canadian title in the men's free style race. Thompson also won the Eastern Ontario title for 100 yards back stroke and the all-Canada title for the 200 yard free style.

Among the women, Mary Casson, of the Granite Club, Toronto, was the chief prize-winner. She took the 100 yard free style event for the Eastern provincial title and also the 200 yard free style Dominion championship.

Of the Montreal competitors, Mrs. Mabel Neil was the only one to get into the winning column, but the Metropolis swimmers took their share of seconds and thirds. Leo Latchford was the sole Ottawa entrant to take a first place.

A large gallery, which included Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Willingdon, filled to capacity the balconies of the Ottawa New Edinburgh Canoe Club House in front of which the events were run off.

Complete results follow:

Ladies' 100 yards, free style, Eastern Ontario championship—1, Mary Casson, Toronto; 2, Margot McDonald, Ottawa. Time 1:16.

Ladies' 100 yards back stroke, Eastern Ontario title—1, Mrs. Mabel Neil, Montreal; 2, Hilda Macfarlane, Ottawa; 3, Margot McDonald. Time, 1:44.

Men's 100 yards back stroke, Eastern Ontario championship—1, R. J. Thompson, Toronto; 2, M. Griffin, Montreal; 3, E. Axford, Montreal. Time, 1:25.

Men's 100 yards free style, Eastern Ontario championship—1, Leo Latchford, Ottawa; 2, R. J. Thompson. Time 60 2-5.

Men's one mile, Canadian championship—1, R. J. Thompson; 2, M. Griffin; 3, Harry Mormald, Montreal. Time 30:32 2-5.

Fancy diving—1, Alfie Phillips, Toronto, points 132; 2, Gerald Monty, Montreal, points 104.50; 3, G. Watt, Ottawa, points 76.30.

High diving—1, W. Hayes, Toronto, points 90.43; 2, Alfie Phillips, points 88.30; 3, Gerald Monty, points 75.77.

RUTH MAKES 42ND HOMER

Browns Take 17th Defeat of Season—Lose to Yanks 10 to 6.

TIGERS LOSE 9-5

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The St. Louis Browns took their seventeenth defeat of the season from the New York Yankees in a 10 to 6 game at St. Louis yesterday. Babe Ruth slugged his 42nd homer of the year in the first inning with Koenig on base.

Koenig, in the fourth inning, slammed another home with none on base. Two of the Browns' runs were brought in ahead of Williams, who batted another homer in the third inning.

The Athletics strengthened their hold on second place by defeating Detroit, 9 to 5, in the second game of the series at Detroit. It was the Tigers' fifth successive loss. Owen Carroli was wild and ineffective and also received poor support. Rube Walberg was called on for the second day in a row to hold the Philadelphia lead. He replaced Grove, the starting pitcher, in the eighth inning.

Chicago bunched hits off Tom Zachary in the seventh inning behind a brace of errors to shut out the Senators, 4 to 0, in a pitching duel at Chicago between Ted Blankenship and Johnson, Zachary and Burke for Washington.

The Senators have failed to hang up a victory in their last thirteen starts, one of which resulted in a tie. The Boston Red Sox, however hold the longest losing streak in the majors thus far this season, with fifteen setbacks in a row.

Cleveland's winning streak of seven straight games was broken by Boston at Cleveland when the Red Sox defeated the Indians, 6 to 5, in eleven innings. The winning run was scored by Hoffman on his single Ruffing's relief pitching featured the game. An error by Joe Sewell permitted two Boston runs to score in the eighth.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE STYLISH LOBSTER.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Hopping down the seashore, sandy beach, as fast as he could hop, Uncle Wiggily murmured over and over to himself:

"It must not be! Boiling himself in hot water to turn red so he will be stylish! It will kill poor Bill! I think you said his name was Bill?" and Mr. Longears turned to look at the jolly lobster whom he expected to see beside him.

But the rabbit had hopped so fast that the laughing creature was far behind. And when he had caught up to the bunny uncle the jolly lobster, a bit out of breath, said:

You had better hurry, said Uncle Wiggily.

"You go too fast for me. I'm not built for travelling on land. I can't hurry so!"

"Yet we must hurry if we are to save Bill from boiling himself to death so he will turn red and be stylish!" exclaimed Mr. Longears.

"Yes, yes, I know! Ha! Ha! Ha!" chuckled the jolly lobster. "You must excuse me for laughing," he went on, "but it strikes me as funny to think of Bill being so silly as to think he could boil himself in hot water and not feel it. Ha! Ha! Ho ——"

"You had much better hurry along with me and try to save Bill from the pot instead of laughing so much," said Uncle Wiggily a bit serious-like and sternly.

"All right! Then you hop along on the shore and I'll swim in the sea close to the beach," offered the jolly lobster. "We'll get along better that way." And they did, the rabbit hopping and the lobster swimming. I told you, in the story before this one, how the jolly lobster pulled Uncle Wiggily's coat-tails and told about his friend Bill Big Claw going to boil himself so he would turn red and be stylish.

Right away Uncle Wiggily knew that would never do, so he told Mr. Flip Tail, the jolly lobster to hurry and try to save Bill from being boiled. They were on their way now and I am going to tell you what happened.

With Uncle Wiggily hopping and Mr. Flip Tail swimming, the two soon reached a point on the beach where they could see the smoke of a fire. And a little later, they reached a cove in a half circle of sand hills, where they saw another lobster sitting on a pile of seaweed and watching a tin pail of water that was boiling over a blaze of drift wood made in a fireplace of stones.

"Hello, Bill!" called Mr. Flip Tail, and he spoke in a jolly voice, even though he knew something serious might happen.

"Oh, hello, Jake! You're just in time!" cried the lobster who wanted to be stylish. "You're just in time to see me get stewed or boiled, or whatever you call it!"

"That's what I came about," explained Mr. Flip Tail. "And I brought a friend with me. Meet Uncle Wiggily, Bill! And, Mr. Longears, this is Bill!"

"I'm glad I met him before it was too late!" said the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, no, it isn't too late!" said Bill Big Claw. "I'm about to take my morning dip," he added, waving one of his long feelers at the boiling pot. "I am going to come out as red as those lobsters I saw in the palace the other day."

"Stop! Don't jump in that boiling water!" cried Uncle Wiggily as the fashionable chap was about to plunge in. "Stop!"

"Why?" asked Bill, looking at the jolly lobster.

"He says you'll never come out alive!" explained Jake. "And maybe he's right. It doesn't seem natural for we lobsters to be red."

"But it's such a stylish color!" cried Bill.

"If you want to be red I can make you so without you boiling yourself," said Uncle Wiggily. "Look here! I have a package of red Easter dye. I found it in my pocket. It was left over when I bought some for my bunnies to color eggs with. Now if you must be red, use this dye. It will wash off in time but you can color yourself again."

"Thanks a lot!" cried Bill Big Claw. "I never thought of that. I'll keep out of hot water." Then a wave washed up, put out the fire and there was no more danger. The rabbit showed the lobster how to make red dye in cold water and color himself a most beautiful crimson.

"At last I am stylish!" said Bill, flopping around the beach.

"And—Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho I haven't felt so jolly in months!" laughed Jake and even Uncle Wiggily smiled.

JOCKEY FINED

Nobleman Also Pays for Speeding on Way to Races.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(By Canadian Press).—Force of habit doubtless was responsible for Bernard Carslake, the jockey, exceeding the speed limit while motoring from Ascot Races. Hhe was fined £4 at Brentford. The Earl of Westmorland who was fined the same sum for a like offence, pleade he was in a hurry.

The Chicago Cubs, who seem to have an excellent chance to win the pennant this season, finished last in the National League race only two years ago.

SHIP BLOWS UP.

Four People in Hospital Suffering From Injuries.

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 29.— (Canadian Press.) — Four pepole are in hospital to-day suffering from burns inflicted when the Grenfell Mission Supply ship Marvelle blew up in harbor. Those injured are Miss Hostelling, Chicago, and Miss Pierie, Boston, Mission workers, and the steward and second engineer of the Marvelle.

Garland Buckeye, who twirls for the Cleveland team, tips the beam at 240 pounds. He is believed to be the heaviest player performing in the major leagues.

BOBBY JONES WINS AMATEUR GOLF HONORS

Defeats Chicago Player to Win Title Third Time in Four Years.

8 UP AND 7 TO GO

Evans Makes Game Try to Overcome Lead of Victor.

Minneapolis, Minn, August 29. (Associated Press. — Bobby Jones on Saturday won the National Amateur Golf championship for the third time in four years, bowling over the last obstacle in his path, the veteran, Chick Evans, 8 up and 7 to go.

To defeat the Chicago player, the Atlantan, who recently won the British open championship with a record-breaking 285, clubbed the Minikahada course into complete submission, scoring a 67, five under par, in the morning round, when he had Evans 6 down, and stepping out in the afternoon, when he seemed for a time to have lost his fine touch, in 36, one over par, for the first nine.

Going to the 29th green seven down and eight to play, Chick had a short putt for a half which would have left the match down 12. It was raining and the 12th hole was nearly 400 yards away so no one, not even the loser, seemed to mind when Chick suddenly walked over to Bobby and congratulated him.

The gallery for a few minutes did not know what to make of this as Evans had not putted, but he had used up a stroke by inadvertently moving his ball as he took his stance.

The game Evans looked good in defeat for he made a golf match of it in the afternoon, after he had gone to luncheon six holes behind. He knew that no man could come from six holes back to win from Bobby Jones, but he kept trying, and at one time in the afternoon round had cut the lead to four holes, getting two back in the first five holes in the afternoon.

However, after the 24th was halved, Bobby won the next three and started out on the last nine with his greatest advantage of the match. The 28th was halved with poor fives when both players needed three putts and the end came at the next hole.

In the afternoon Bobby lost his first hole when he slipped over par at the 21st and although he was over par at the 23rd he could not have won with par as Chick had a birdie three.

By winning Saturday Bobby equalled the record of the late Walter J. Travis, who won the championship in 1900, 1901 and 1903.

Prepare Welcome.

ATLANTA, Ga., August 29. Canadian Press. — Preparing herself for a ceremony that repetition has not dulled, Atlanta Saturday night prepared to welcome Bobby Jones back home again triumphant from the golfing wars.

Five times Atlanta has turned out to do homage to her hero of the links, for six major victories brought back from homelands and abroad.

Last year he stepped off the train with the two choicest treasures in all the golfing world bulging in his bag: the British and the American opens, both won before Bobs home town had a chance to shout its appreciation in his own personal ear.

MILLER HUGGINS IS UNASSUMING

Not Well Known to Public Like McGraw and Chance.

HAS GOOD RECORD

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(United Press).—Miller Huggins, if he lives long enough to win about a dozen more pennants for the New York Yankees, may be recognized by the public. His success so far with the Yankees rates him as a great manager, but because of his retiring disposition and his unassuming ways, he has not impressed himself upon the public as McGraw has.

McGraw is a showman, the greatest in the game; Huggins is a hermit of the diamond who permits his players to get the bouquets. McGraw and Chance were of the blustry type while Huggins, a mere mite of a man, seems to have been afflicted by the complex of his size.

Compared to McGraw's record in nine world's series and Connie Mack's in five, the four of Huggins do not command the same esteem but under the conditions which the three had to face, Huggins has been very successful.

Huggins, however is well on the way to his fourth pennant and the future promises more. If the Yankees don't win the pennant this year the can yell "foul" louder than Jack Sharkey did and if they don't win one or two more with that young, dynamic club, it will not be the fault of the management.

When Connie Mack broke up his great Athletics after their 1914 defeat by the Boston Braves, he said with the confidence inspired by success: "I'll build up a new young team." Mack has been building ever since but he has failed to get a winner and for eight years he was in the cellar.

McGraw's Giants went to pieces after the 1924 series and McGraw went to work to build another winner. He had at his command almost as much money as the Yankees and with a great ambition to celebrate his silver jubilee as manager of the club with a world's champion this year, he made some of the greatest trades in history before the season opened. But apparently the Giants are not going to get there this year.

The Yankees had their collapse after they had finished second in the 1924 series, but it attracted little notice and only the comment: "Well, there's the end of a money-bought club", after they had finished seventh in 1925.

Huggins didn't blast from the housetops that he was going to build up another pennant winner out of a seventh place club, but he went quietly about his working, discarding veterans and picking up young players here and there.

In the spring training camp in 1926, the Yankees didn't look like much. In fact they looked so little like much that Huggins received the unkindest cut of a career that he had been filled with unkind cuts when he was branded in print as a "sap."

Huggins took it like the man that he is and made the use of deeds instead of counter-cracks to prove that he was not a sap. Starting north his team began to command attention by murdering every club they met and then went through the regular season to a pennant like the well-known goat through the hoop.

True, they almost lost the pennant in the closing weeks of the race, but the slump was due to the inexperience of the young players. With the same club he is dashing through all opposition this year.

The sagacity of Huggins was shown when he bought Mark Koenig, Tony Lazzeri, Benny Bengough and stuck along patiently with Gehrig. The task of finding a good young first baseman, second baseman, shortstop and catcher at the same time would have been enough to send anything but a great manager to the bughouse. But Huggins did it.

He didn't use the millions of Col. Ruppert's dollars at his command to buy ready-made stars. He went out and bought young players from the minors.

In two years Huggins developed a team that is generally recognized as the most powerful in modern days of baseball.

The entire experience of Huggins has been a fight, a tremendous fight for a little man, but a big stout heart is worth more than stature.

Ban Johnson, then president of the American League, recommended that the Yankee management secure Huggins from the St. Louis Cardinals as the manager and he was secured.

The Yankees at that time were a terrible outfit and Col. Ruppert, half-owner of the club, was too much of a sportsman to have a joke paraded in his name. So he and Col. Til Huston, his partner, opened the safe and told Huggins to go to it.

His success was so slow in arriving that Huston demanded that he be fired. Ruppert refused and Huston sold himself out of the club. Ruppert then told Huggins that he was the absolute boss of the team and to go to it.

Huggins also had trouble with his players. Ruth and a number of others wouldn't pay any attention to his orders and the morale of the club was destroyed by the Babe's actions.

Huggins then got busy. He plastered a fine of $5,000 on Ruth and sent him home. Babe had been fined before and the fines had been remitted when Huston was part owner but when he approached Ruppert he was told:

"That fine stands and I'll tell you now if you don't obey orders and act like the other players you'll have some more taken out of your money."

Since then the Babe and the others have been playing ball and Huggins is the boss.

Huggins may not have his name printed on the records in huge letters, but every time he looks at the huge Yankee Stadium he must get a kick out of it. Monuments like that stadium stand.

MATCH POSTPONED ACCOUNT OF RAIN

Third Round in Women's National Tennis Championships Played Today.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— Rain yesterday caused a postponement of a third round doubles match in the women's national tennis championships until to-day. Miss Eileen Bennett, of England and Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., will meet Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, and Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin of Hyannis, Mass. Mrs. Chapin eleminated Mrs. Molly Mallory, the defending champion, in the singles play on Friday.

The semi-finals in the singles championship, scheduled to-day, will bring together four young stars whose play so far in the tournament has been dominated by the remarkable stroking of the three-times former champion, 21 year old Helen Wills. It will be an upheaval of the most spectacular sort for anything to stop the California girl short of her goal and a fourth championship.

To achive it, Miss Wills must defeat her Berkeley rival, 18 year old Helen Jacobs, to-day, and then, on Tuesday, beat the survivor of the other semi-final contest between Mrs. Charlotte Mosmer Chapin, conqueror of Mrs. Molla Mallory, and 16 year old Betty Nuthall, last of seven British starters, whose colorful play has been an outstanding feature of the tournament.

It will take all of "Bounding Betty's" nimbleness of foot and speed of drives to overcome Mrs. Chapin, who has risen to the greatest heights of her career in disposing of Joan Fry of England and Mrs. Mallory in successive matches. Mrs. Chapin will be a favorite but should the English girl emerge victorious it would furnish a picturesque final between the youthful stars of Britain and the United States.

Regardless of whether Miss Nuthall advances any further she has convinced observers she is a coming champion. At the age of 16 she has scored a series of notable triumphs here and abroad. She defeated the now-dethroned American champion, Mrs. Mallory, at Wimbledon, conquered Helen Jacobs in her only match of the Wightman Cup series and added Miss Elean Goss, third ranking American, to her list of victims in surviving among the last four of a field of 64 starters in the national singles championship. Miss Wills was 17 when she won her first national title, in 1923, but Miss Nuthall may come along to threaten the California court in another season or two, if she doesn't do it this time.

Just at present Miss Wills seems a notch or two above any other woman tennis player in the world. It is necessary to compare her tournament record for four matches with those of the other three semi-finalists to show the superiority of the girl with the "poker face."

Here are the comparisons:

Helen Wills, won 8 sets lost 0; won 48 games, lost 11. Percentage 814.

Helen Jacobs, won 8 sets, lost 1; won 57 games, lost 28. Percentage 671.

Betty Nuthall, won 6 sets, lost 1; won 41 games, lost 23. Percentage 641.

Mrs. Chapin, won 8 sets, lost 2; won 51 games, lost 34. Percentage 600.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions.

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by McDermid and Jury and McDermid Drug Store, and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed.

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood corculation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

Mrs. Clarence Day Had Seen More Than One Hundred Years.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Leeds County's oldest resident is dead at Plum Hollow. Mrs. Clarence Day, aged a hundred years and two months, died today. She was a lifelong resident of the neighborhood.

NEW YORK, August 29. — Canadian Press. — Rain yesterday caused postponement of all scheduled games in the National League. St. Louis was slated to play a double-header at the Polo grounds, while the Cincinnati Reds and Robins were down to stage a double bill at Brooklyn. The other clubs were not scheduled.

CORNS

Quick safe relief

The most painful corns cease hurting the instant Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are applied. They strike at the cause of corns—pressing and rubbing of shoes. That's why they are permanently healing. If new shoes cause irritation, a Zino-pad stops it at once.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are thin, medicated, antiseptic, protective. No liquids, no risk, no bother. Safe, sure, quick results guaranteed. At your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

LAKEFIELD BOOM DEMANDS WORKERS

Men Needed By Canada Cement Company—Employment Bureau Report.

During the past week the local Employmen Bureau had 50 applications from which they made 47 placements, mostly to farmers and contractors. The Canada Cement Company, of Lakefield, has another order for men in this week. At present the housing capacity of Lakefield seems to be taxed by the unusual prosperity which the village is enjoying. The laborers seem to me of transient type, however, as the western harvest fields at this season claim many from other fields of labor.

When the grain comes in from the west the Quaker Oats Co. will be travelling at full production. Other companies, like the De Laval, which are at present rather quiet, will be resuming their activities shortly.

LEARNING FROM THE ESKIMO

Again, some dietetic lessons come to us from the land of the frozen north. The doctor who traveled with the McMillan expedition in Greenland and Labrador was surprised to find that the Eskimo does not suffer from such deficiency diseases as scurvy or rickets, nor does he have hardening of the arteries, blood or skin diseases. This is remarkable in view of the lack of vegetables of any kind.

The Eskimo baby is nursed until it is four or six years of age, by which time he has a good set of teeth with which to begin eating meat. From that time on his diet consists of red meats, the flesh of land and sea animals, waterfowl and fish. Most of the meat is eaten raw, as there is little chance for cooking. Quite an amount of fat is eaten, but the lean parts of meats or fish are really preferred.

Many diseases were found among the Eskimos in those parts of Labrador where civilization has introduced civilized cooking. Right here is the most important point we can gather from the results of these recent investigations. While meat furnishes an excellent kind of food for a mono diet, when starches are added to the meat diet, all manner of disorders develop. This is because the mixture of starch with meat makes a bad combination from a dietetic standpoint. Digestion of the meat is interfered with and thus the Eskimo who eats starch and meat together does not get the full value of the protein which he could completely digest and assimilate if the meat were used by itself.

Most of the toxins which develop from meat eating should really be blamed upon the indiscriminate mixture of starches with meats. Of course, it is not wise for those of us living in temperate climates to consume as large a quantity of meat as would be advantageous to the Eskimo, but it is well to remember that when meat is used it should be eaten by itself or in combination with the leafy green vegetables.

Many are theoretically opposed to meat eating, but still occasionally waiver from their idealistic stand and slip in a slice of roast beef. Next time any of you do that, try eating a green vegetable salad with the meat in place of starchy foods, and you will be surprised how well it seems to agree with you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: D. B. writes: "I have heard a great deal about your work and success. Would it be possible for you to give me any diet to cure an over-active thyroid? I am not able to work at present on that account."

ANSWER: An over active thyroid simply means an irritated thyroid. It is first essential to remove all irritating toxins from the blood, and then go on a careful diet which does not produce any more glandular irritation. The complete treatment for such trouble cannot be given in the short space allowed in this column, so if you will write to me again, giving your name and address, I will send you more complete instructions.

QUESTION: C. J. writes: "Will you please tell me the best way to cleanse and purify the system?"

ANSWER: Fast on some kind of fresh fruit for four or five days, then follow a restricted diet for several weeks, using at least one enema daily to assure proper cleansing of the bowels. More detailed advice will be sent upon receipt of your name and address.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE HAPPY.

There's nothing as foolish as foolish fear,
And nothing as smart as smiling,
No word is wise if it starts a tear,
Or cute if it brings reviling.
The frowning face is not really wise,
The voice that is cold and snappy,
For only the happy are the wise,
The truly wise are the happy.

On the road of life there is more to find
Than the things that we learn in college;
A thousand thoughts may enrich the mind,
But the heart has its store of knowledge.
We must learn the world, we must learn its needs,
We must study our human duty,
For our kindly words and our helpful deeds,
Are all that will give it beauty.

There is much to learn: I would like to know
The worth of the things around me,
Perhaps the things that I value so
Are the poorest things I have found me.
I would like to learn as the road I went,
Learn more than the books and chatter,
As I walk the world I would learn content—
Then none of the rest will matter.

Supposed To Have Taken Overdose of Medicine Containing Poison.

Mabel Kelley, aged 19, whose home is in Norwood, employed as a maid in the home of G. T. Wilson, 1545 Queen Street West, Toronto, was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, this morning in an unconscious condition.

The girl was found lying in the bathroom at the Wilson home by Thos. Wilson, who summoned the police.

Dr. Jackson of the medical health department who lives next door was called and ordered the girl removed to hospital.

A bottle thought to have contained some kind of poison was found on the floor.

Up During Night.

Mrs. Wilson is an invalid. Last night Miss Kelley told her that she was taking medicine containing some kind of poison for her nerves. Miss Kelley went to bed last night without supper. In the course of the night Mrs. Wilson heard her up several times, and apparently on one of these occasions Miss Kelley fell while in the bathroom, where she was found lying on the floor this morning by Mr. Wilson.

Miss Kelley still remains unconscious.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she is engaged. Murtough joins a bootlegging band and Sheila is befriended by the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer. Murtough, influenced by a cabaret girl, betrays his band of bootleggers and reveals the hiding place of $150,000 contraband. At a dance he deserts Sheila and Rory, although a lightweight, thrashes Murtough in a fight and safeguards Sheila.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

"I know he's got business," supplemented Rory decisively, "and that business will keep him until the ball is over. But you and mother and father go on home. I'm escorting Sheila through the rest of the night." It was not in the manner of a suggestion; it was a command, and the old folks, the O'Sheas with proud smiles and Old Tom in wonderment, went their way. But not before dear old Kathie whispered with a chuckle into the ear of Sheila:

"Do be careful of him. He's a broth of a boy an' just like his father. Do ye' hear the orders from him now? The young divil!"

Sheila blushed and kissed the old lady good night, and Rory swung her about on his arm and promenaded through the crowd. Dozens of men and their wives and their children did Rory present to her, and there was a knowing smile upon every one of them when they noted Rory's now black and blue eye and his swollen jaw, and most of all did they note the air of proprietorship with which the young O'Shea guided the girl on his arm.

When the crowd thinned out and the merrymaking became confined to the rathskellar downstairs Rory helped Sheila into her coat and led her to a taxicab at the curb.

Simmons drew his gun at that instant and fired.

"Just take a turn through the park, will you?" he ordered.

"Oh, Rory, we must be going home."

"And so we are, but for myself I want to see if the stars in the sky can even dare to match the light in your eyes this night."

CHAPTER XIII

Singing Hearts of Ireland

The raid on Clocker's landing station was one of the most spectacular and daring in the history of the warfare between bands of contraband smugglers. Schermer executed the attack with army-like precision. By a circuitous route he brought his speed cars and trucks to the south of the estate so that on signal they might race north to Clocker's house and as each truck was loaded drive it to its place between the front and rear escorting cars and head north to the city. There were forty men in the raiding party, and Schermer placed them at strategic positions around the house and the barn. One man was hidden in a small boat under the pier. It was his duty to signal with his flash lamp when the last load had been landed from the ship and the departure of the crew back to sea.

Simmons and six men received the cases as they were carried up the hedged pathway to the barn. All of it was stored there. It was after midnight when a flash from the pier indicated that the last motor boat had sped away for the smuggler ship standing out beyond the twelve mile limit. Schermer marked the passing of ten minutes by the radium dial of his watch and blew a short, shrill whistle.

Clocker's men, busily engaged in placing the cases in order, did not hear the signal. Suddenly the door was flung open and Schermer entered, followed by half a dozen men, all with guns out and covering the workers.

"Hands up! Line up, there!" Schermer ordered. But Clocker's men were no cowards. Simmons drew his gun at that instant and fired. The man on Schermer's left plunged forward. Simmons' companions were now in action. Guns blazed and screams of pain echoed through the huge building. The attackers hurled themselves at the defenders of the building and overpowered them in hand to hand struggles. When Schermer assumed command of the situation four of his own men were wounded, one was dead and there were two fatalities among Clocker's men, Simmons and one of his helpers. The five remaining men were trussed up with baling wire and flung to one side.

"Take the boys that are hurt to the cars and get them back to the city," ordered Schermer. "You other men bring in the trucks. We've got to get this stuff loaded and on its way."

Schermer's trucks were brought up into the driveway and backed into the barn. The loading began and with remarkable swiftness the cases were transferred to the vans. As each truck went out into the night another was brought in. On the roadway, with sentries posted a quarter of a mile to the north and the same distance to the south, the escort cars awaited. As the loaded van turned to the north it slipped into its place between pilot car and rear car and went speeding cityward. Each pilot knew the route he was to take to the city and where the back road selected for him met the highway, he turned into that route which was to separate the transport train into individual carriers. Thus they entered Manhattan by diverging ways and stored the vans in different garages already arranged.

It was four o'clock when the last truck, with Schermer himself in the pilot car, left Crocker's landing station. The storage barn had been cleaned out, not a case of contraband remained.

"Don't leave us here," the wounded men pleaded with Schermer. "We got to get fixed up. Give us a chance."

"Oh, Clocker'll take care of you, all right. He'll hear about it and be down here by morning. You can stand it until then or croak, I don't care which."

"I'll get you for this if it's the last thing I ever do," one of the men cried, cursing Schermer. Schermer walked over to him and brought the butt of his gun down on his head. The man fell back unconscious.

"When you call me those names, smile," Schermer sneered as he turned on his heel and left the barn.

Clocker left the West End Club ball at six in the morning. He drove to his apartment and prepared to go to bed. The affair had been one of the most successful the club ever had undertaken and Clocker was satisfied. The telephone rang.

"Hello! Yes, this is Clocker! What? Who are you?"

"Never mind who I am. But you're cleaned and cleaned right," said the voice at the other end of the wire. "You'd better hop into a car and get down to that place of yours on Long Island. A couple of your men need a doctor." The receiver clicked.

Clocker immediately called Devlin.

"Bring that car of yours 'round right away. There's the devil to pay on Long Island. Some gang has raided the place. Hurry." He put in another call and ordered Dixon to meet him at once. Half an hour later they were speeding toward Long Island. On the way they stopped for Dr. Norton.

Schermer turned the key in the door of the suite in the Marmaduke Hotel. The tall, thin leader of the band was alone and waiting.

"We got every case. Clocker's as clean as a whistle. Not much trouble, some shooting. We bumped off two of them, had to do it. They began shooting the minute we entered. And they fought like devils."

"Is it all stored safe?"

"Absolutely. We should begin getting reports by 'phone any minute now from the garages."

"I knew I'd pay Clocker back," gloated the tall, thin man. "Never knew why I hated him so much, did you?"

"No, Stevens, I didn't."

"Well, I had a kid brother, good boy, went across and came back unharmed and ready to start life over again. I wasn't in the game then. The kid got a job driving a truck; he had been doing that in France. Some cheap bootlegger hired the truck and the kid didn't know what he was carrying. Clocker's gang hi-jacked the van and they killed the kid, shot him down cold when there wasn't any need for it. They had surprised him, he didn't have a guard, didn't even carry a gun, and as they drove away with the load they shot him down. I'll make Clocker pay more one of these days."

The pilots of the eight trucks reported by telephone that the cases had been cached and Schermer and Stevens turned into bed. Schermer to get up and meet Murtough and Clarice at the appointed hour.

Vitality of Fred Leanu, Rescued From Bottom of Well, is Amazing.

ENTOMBED 30 HOURS.

AUBURN, Mass, August 29.—(Canadian Press). — Released from thirty hours of confinement in the cold, damp bottom of his self-dug prison, Fred Lenau to-day was winning back his rugged strength at a local hospital with every prospect of recovery unless pneumonia unexpectedly develops. He had been trapped at the bottom of a thirty-six-foot deep, six-foot wide well he was digging.

Physicians were amazed at his vitality as they worked over his numbed limbs, in which circulation had been stopped by his cramped position at the bottom of the well, and gave him cautiously liquid nourishment, the first which has passed his lips in a day and a half.

"Thank God, thank God they saved me!" were his first words early this morning when, handed from worker to worker, he was lifted over the edge of the excavation.

BOUNTY PAID FOR 46,812 EAGLES

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 29.—During the nine years that the bounty law on eagles has been in effect, hunters have killed 41,812 of the birds that represented American Liberty on its currency. The bounties paid amounted to $39,904 with other expenses. The legislature in 1923 increased the bounty to $1 a bird.

BLACKHEADS

Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist. Sprinkle on a hot, wet cloth and rub the face briskly. Every blackhead will be dissolved. The one safe, sure and simple way to remove blackheads.

OLD NAMES, NEW SCENES GREET BRITISH VISITORS

Convention Delegates Find Much of Maritimes Bears English Names.

ESPECIALLY IN P. E. I.

Island Province Bears Physical Resemblance to Old Land, They Find.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—County and town names in the Maritime Provinces were so familiar to English poultrymen who recently paid a flying visit to the Atlantic corner of Canada that they almost felt they were back in their home land.

It is a fact that in the matter of nomenclature the early settlers of the Maritimes displayed little originality, either adopting the Indian names or christening their new discoveries after the shires and villages from which they came. Thus Nova Scotia today boasts such towns as Halifax, Windsor, and Chester, while among New Brunswick counties one finds Kent, Westmoreland and Northumberland.

"Hearing these names spoken on every side made the country through which we passed seem strangely familiar," remarked Sidney H. Lewer, editor of a British poultry periodical, "Of course the topography in many districts was in strong contrast to that which we were accustomed, but in Prince Edward Island the illusion was very complete. Prince Edward Island might be a section of English countryside, the farms and the methods of cultivation are very similar and made us feel completely at home."

Several of the touring delegates to the recent World Poultry Congress also found family associations in the names of towns and districts through which the special train bore them. The Hon. Florence Amherst particularly enjoyed a visit to Amherst, Nova Scotia, because the quiet little town derived its name from her distinguished ancestor, General Amherst, who played an important part in the British conquest of French Acadia, now Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Very many Maritime names do honor to English Royalty of the past, the House of Hanover, having been particularly favored in this regard. Queen Charlotte is remembered by Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Charlotte street, in Fredericton, N.B. Of course there are a host of George Streets, while Kings and Queens abound on every side.

Fredericton probably carried this street-naming tradition to the limit when it christened six parallel streets Queen, Charlotte; King, George; Regent Brunswick, thus thoroughly honoring the Royal Family of the day.

Of course the name of the capital itself is a graceful tribute to one of the imported German lords. It supplanted the more attractive name of the original French settlement—Ste. Anne's Point. In the same way the French settlement of Port Royal, Nova Scotia, became Annapolis under British rule by courtesy to Queen Anne.

While the English members of the international party will miss this link with the Old Country as they proceed westward on their trans-Canada pilgrimage, they are expecting to enjoy the wonders in store for them to the full. Winnipeg, Medicine Hat and Vancouver are names which bring to mind no memories of the home across the Atlantic, but they will doubtless give the visitors a royal time nevertheless.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Speaking at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien based his address mainly, owing to the imminence of the re-opening of the schools, on the prime importance of a good education, stressing the need of spiritual and supernatural training in the proper development of the young mind. He prefaced his sermon by thanking all who took part in last Sunday's pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Blessed Canadian Martyrs at Fort Ste. Marie, and thanked also the Jesuit Fathers who acted as hosts, the choir who sang during the several services, the Knights of Columbis for providing refreshments on the train ,The Examiner for the report made in its columns by a member of the staff, and the Canadian National Railway for excellent service provided.

Referring to the splendid results of last year's work in the Separate schools of the city, and the large number of successful pupils, His Lordship spoke of the credit due the Sisters who acted as their teachers, and the parents who worked in conjunction with them for the education of their children.

"Education should first of all be in spiritual and supernatural knowledge, hence any education that sets aside these matters is no education at all. God has not destined any of His creatures simply for a natural end. His ends are supernatural, and to attain these we must start off by giving each individual a proper religious education. The only thing that really matters in life is the saving of our souls, and it is a lop-sided training that neglects the spiritual and supernatural side. If the child's mind is to be developed properly, religious education must go hand in hand with secular subjects.

"There are two natural-born educators, the father and the mother, who are assisted by the Church and the States, and upon the parents is placed the privilege, as well as the obligation, of helping their offspring to start on that road which God Almighty intends shall finish in eternity. The first agency in education is the parent, the second the Catholic Church and the third the State. Parents should be earnest and sincere and progressive in this matter of the education of their children. It has been said that the professions are over-crowded at present, but they are not over-crowded in the proper sense. It is true that we have too many men of mediocre calibre, eking out an existence at the expense of the public they claim to serve, but there is always room at the top of the ladder. Parents should encourage their children in every way possible, and they should teach them first goodness, then discipline, then knowledge. The ideal home is the one where order and discipline rule and where parental authority is respected. The child who begins in the home to flout the authority of his father and mother will end in later years by refusing to listen to his parents in any matter."

His Lordship expressed the hope that parents would also seek to benefit themselves by trying to broaden their own education, and advocated the patronage of weekly study clubs which he would like to see sponsored this winter by the Knights of Columbus, the Holy Name Rooms, the Catholic Women's League and the Young Ladies' Sodalities. He spoke of the pleasure-mad atmosphere of modern times, when people are constantly seeking pleasure without finding happiness, looking for entertainment which fails to entertain and spending long hours in automobile driving and dancing, which gets them nowhere, and are maintained at the expense of their own health and of time possibly stolen from employers. He also impressed strongly on his congregation the importance of reading good, instructive books and papers, "which develop the intelligence and contain no poison for the mind."

SCIENTISTS TO HEAR IMPORTANT PAPERS

Prince of Wales Unable to Give Presidential Address in Person.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Being in Canada, the Prince of Wales will be unable to personally deliver the addresses as retiring president when the British Association for the Advancement of Science holds its inaugural general meeting at Leeds on Aug. 31. He will, however, send a message from the Dominion, to be read at the meeting. Sir Arthur Keith will be the new president.

The sessions proper of the great scientific organization will take place from September 10 to 17; 2500 are expected to attend a number well above the average.

Sir Arthur Keith's presidential address will be on "Darwin's theory of man's descent, as it stands today." The address will be broadcast by wireless. In all, there will be about 300 scientific communications, addresses, discourses, discussions and papers.

Some of the most important of these are: "The broadening of the outlook in education," by the Duchess of Atholl, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of education; "Rationalisation of Industry," by Prof. D. H. Macgregor; "Outstanding problems of relativity," by Prof. E. T. Whittaker; "The Englishman of the future," by Prof. F. G. Parsons; "Agriculture and national education," by O. G. T. Morrison; and "Forestry and the empire," by Sir Peter Clutterbuck.

Discussions which are of wide interest as well as importance are those on coal, on prices; on the psychology of special scholastic disabilities, and on the report of the committee on educational training for overseas life.

A new feature this year will be a series of special meetings on textiles. The association, though always concerning themselves with the economic and industrial interests of the localities where they meet have not hitherto arranged a complete series of communications on the applications of science to a particular leading industry.

Full advantage is being taken of Leeds as a centre for scientific excursions and arrangements have been made for field work in geology, archaeology, agriculture, forestry and for the inspection of various industrial activities and the collection illustrating primitive weaving at Bankfield Museum at Huddersfield.

An exceptionally large number of public lectures have been arranged this year since it was found that they were in strong demand, and the usual arrangements have been made for the admission to the meeting of selected students from universities and colleges and some 60 students have been nominated. Women, contigue to take an increasing part in the meeting and this year they contribute to all but a few sections.

FIDDLER PAYS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—When a fiddler turns pugilist he must pay. Ralph K. Hatfield, violinist, was arrested recently because he chose the early morning hours for his melodies, and when his wife remonstrated with him, struck her. The fine was $500.

RELIGIOUS RIOTS TAKE LIFE TOLL

Between 250 and 300 People Killed in Eighteen Months.

SIMLA, India, August 29 (Canadian Press). — Between 250 and 300 people have been killed and more than 2,500 injured in less than eighteen months past as a result of the religious conflict between the Hindus and Moslems in various parts of India, Lord Irwin, Viceroy stated in addressing the Legislative Assembly here to-day.

Calcutta was one of the storm centres last year, and Lord Irwin said that from April to July the city seemed to be under the mastery of the evil spirit to such an extent that law had to be reasserted by daring methods. The same sinister influences were at work elsewhere, he declared.

WINDSOR FLIERS ARE PREPARED

Early Start Expected From Border City To England.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Last minute preparations were being rushed here to-day for the take-off of the "Royal Windsor" on its flight to Windsor, England. The big monoplane left for Detroit early this morning, where special gas cans, being held in readiness there, were picked up and rushed back to the local field.

Both C. A. (Duke) Shiller, of Toronto, and Phil Wood, of Windsor, declared themselves ready for the long hop, which is expected to set a record for distance in trans-Atlantic flights.

Hat Lost Two Months Is Found In Custody

Street Commissioner Harry Evans did not cast his hat upon the waters, but it nevertheless came back to him after many days. Two months ago, Mr. Evans mislaid a Christie hat, which he liked very much and, failing to recover it, concluded that he had seen it for the last time. Today to his great astonishment he found it in the Police Station, where it had been brought by a man who found it on the street. Mr. Evans eyed it very carefully, brushed it lovingly, but so far he has not worn it—in public at least.

ROTARIANS ARE URGED TO VISIT THE BOYS' CAMP

Fred L. Roy Suggests Members Spend Part of Their Holidays There.

SHOWN IN MOVIES.

An earnest plea for Rotarians to take a deeper interest in their boys' camp and to endeavour to spend a week of their holidays there next summer was made at to-day's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club by Rotarian Fred L. Roy, who entertained his fellow club members to-day with some most interesting moving pictures of Camp Rotary and its activities.

Rotarian Roy spent a day at the camp in order to have a chance to get pictures of various features in the daily routine, and was enthusiastic over the plant and the supervision. He reminded Rotarians that in the camp property they owned 11 acres of land, and that the plant and property were conservatively valued at $8,000. The splendid work done by the Rotary-Annes was appreciatively referred to by the speaker, who pointed out that the Rotary-Annes had provided the furniture, dishes, library, bedding, the fireplace, the boat house and boats, including the pointer equipped with an outboard motor ,which had been such a source of pleasure during the present summer.

Two things, howeevr, he regretted. The attendance had not been as large as it should have been, for the camp should take care of at least 300 boys during the sumer. mAnd the speaker felt that advantage hsould be taken of the opportunity to teach the boys something in addition to sports.

The boys' camp and crippled children's work were two movements to which the Peterborough Rotary Club was firmly committed and Rotarian Roy suggested that the club devote its attention principally to these two activities, urging that Rotarians next year spend more time at the camp.

The movies, which were preceded by an interesting news reel of Lindbergh's record flight, were most enjoyable. Rotarian Roy had succeeded in reproducting most of the incidents of a day in camp, including setting-up exercises, baseball, swimming, flag-raising, kitchen fatigue, boating and other features, the film terminating with a screen reproduction of the visit to Camp Rotary of the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club two weeks ago.

Rotarian C. H. Rogers and President A. L. Killaly, in congratulating Rotarian R. A. Brown upon his promotion, expressed the deep regret of the Rotary Club at the loss of Rotarian Browne, whose services as a Rotarian and as a citizen they warmly eulogized.

Rotarian Brown, in reply, referred to the pleasure he had obtained from his associations with the Rotary Club and expressed his sorrow that he had to leave the club.

During the meeting Rotarian Doug. Fletcher called attention to the picture of Canada's Diamond Jubilee now being shown and to the coming visit of Edward Johnson, famous Canadian tenor.

WEDDING BELLS.

BORLAND—FREDERICK.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at half-past twelve o'clock today, at George street United church, when Jennie May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Frederick of 102 Dublin street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Homer Borland, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Borland, of 266 Sherbrooke street. In the absence of the pastor, the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, of the Murray street Baptist church. The wedding music was played by Mr. J. H. Renwick.

Leaning on the arm of her father, the bride entered the church, which was decorated for the occasion with a profusion of palms, ferns, asters and gladioli, the guest pews being tied with white ribbon and snapdragon.

She wore a beautiful gown of ivory chiffon taffeta, made in period style, with tight sleeveless bodice and bouffant skirt, the scalloped hem made long in the back and short in front.

The skirt was composed almost entirely of Chantilly lace, topped at the waist line by a flat motif of orange blossoms. A veil of ivory silk tulle was worn, arranged in coronet style with orange blossoms at the front and sides. Long white kid gloves, white kid slippers and white silk hose completed a lovely costume, with a shower bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses and forget-me-nots.

The maid of honor (a cousin of the bride), Miss Helen Steen of Middleport, N. Y., and the bridesmaid (a cousin of the bridegroom), Miss Viola Martin of Peterborough, wore charming, sleeveless frocks of chiffon taffeta in period style, Miss Steen wearing orchid and Miss Martin yellow. They were developed with long front panels of cream lace extending from neck to hem, and were trimmed with wide velvet ribbon, matching their gowns in hue. Their hats were Leghorn shapes, the slit crowns trimmed above and below with ribbon bows of the same color. Silver hose and slippers and long white kid gloves were worn and the bouquets carried were of Columbia roses.

The best man was Mr. Cecil Wasson. The ushers were Messrs Hubert and Orville Martin, cousins of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony at the church, a reception to about fifty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's table was done with the wedding cake surrounded by pale pink tulle and shell-pink candles in silver candlesticks. The house was decorated with asters, gladioli and snap dragon. Mrs. Frederick, mother of the bride, assisted in receiving the guests, wearing navy georgette posed over French voile, with black hat, and Mrs. Borland, mother of the bridegroom, was in a French frock of green Chantilly lace, with black hat.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Borland left by motor for a honeymoon trip through the Adirondack mountains to Saranac Lake and Alexandria Bay. On their return they will reside at 563 Downie street. The bride travelled in a gown of Wedgewood blue crepe with hat of blue velvet and rose embroidery, brown shoes and hose and brown fox fur, the gift of the bridegroom. Her coat was a sport's model of mixed rose and blue tweed

The gifts of the bridegroom to the maid of honor and bridesmaid were silver necklaces, to the best man a gold piece, and to the ushers leather bill folds

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

Brazilian Is Up Three; Other Issues Climb Also

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Sharp advances in Brazilian and the Laura Secord issues and heavy trading in Page Hersey, were features of this morning's active session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Brazilian went up three points at 183, while Laura Secord Common at 40 and Preferred at 123, were both five points higher. Page Hersey Common touched 80¾, but dropped to 79¾ at noon, a net gain of 1¼. Canadian Pacific Railway eased two points at 185. Carling was down ¾ at 27 5-8. Gooderham and Worts on one sale was up 1½ at 49.

Quebec Stocks Recede On Mining Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Recessions in the Quebec stocks in heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day were not large and the list as a whole held steady. Amulet was weakest, with a loss of ten points at 5.00. Its companion, Area, slumped 4½ at 82, and Laval was down ¾ at 42¼. Noranda eased fifteen at 24.00. Gold Hill, coming into demand, was a firm feature with a gain of 1¾ at 32¼. Dome Mines firmed 10 at 8.00.

Stocks Break In Morning; Then Rise To New Levels

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—The stock market gave another impressive demonstration of its recuperative power to-day, a bad sinking spell during the forenoon being followed by brisk recovery which carried several of the leading industrials to record high levels. Heavy selling of General Motors, which tumbled five points to 244¼, precipitated the break, but this stock recovered its loss and climbed to a new peak price at 251½.

Sharp Wheat Downturn On Big Canadian Crop

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Sharp downturns in wheat values took place early to-day owing for the most part to big estimates of the yield in Canada. Favorable harvest weather there was reported. Opening 5-8 cts. to 1 5-8 cts. off, wheat prices later underwent a material further set-back. Corn and oats were also weak, corn starting at ½ ct. to 1 1-8 cts. down, and subsequently continuing to decline. Provisions were firm.

ROSENEATH NEWS

ROSENEATH, Aug. 29. —The Mission Band picnic held on Wednesday afternoon in Mr. Brown's grove, was a decided success. A great many members and friends were present and took part in the many races, games and contests which everybody enjoyed. As a rule the best part of the picnic is the lunch, where everybody sat around on the grass and indulged in the many varieties of sandwiches, cakes, tarts, etc. Ice cream and candy were sold on the grounds.

THE MUSIC ROOM.

In a quiet shaded room
We heard the sound of music near;
No form we saw, but every note
In perfect rhythm seemed to float
As if an artist from a higher sphere
Touched the strings, and Heaven was near.

No jazzing tones, but purest strains
Fell o'er us, like the soft spring rains;
The white keys moving with rhythmic grace,
Not one running chord was out of place;
"The Swan Song," dreamed of in our sleep,
Was played with Soul that made us weep.

An electric piano did so enthrall,
That long we linger in the music hall.

Sympathy Song Sends Four To Milan Jail

MILAN August 29. United Press. — Two street singers and two organ grinders were arrested for singing and playing in public a song entitled "The Grim Story of the Electrocution of Sacco and Vanzetti innocent victims of American Justice."

They were also selling leaflets containing the words of the song. The arrest was made on the ground that the police had not approved the son.

OLD DOBBIN STILL A FEATURE ON HILLY MONTREAL STREETS

Old-Time Cabs Are An Attraction in Canada's Chief City.

BAN ON AUTOS

Motor Vehicles May Not Enter Mount Royal Park—Cab Monopoly.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—In one city in Canada the horse still holds its own, despite the competition of the automobile and the tram car. The old-time open cabs, with their meticulously groomed horses, which are to be seen waiting in patient line in front of the McGill campus and at Dominion Square add greatly to the atmosphere of romance which colors the French Canadian city, not only for the native Canadian, but for the visiting tourists.

To transients who inquire why the out-of-date quadruped-drawn vehicle is still so prominent in the street life of the city, the reply is that automobiles are strictly "verboten" in Mount Royal Park, which enshrines Montreal's dominating Glory. The mountain, with its beautiful winding drives and criss-crossing bridle paths is sacred to the pedestrian, the equstrian, and the cab.

Children may roam with safety within the generous precincts of this unique park. The leisurely adult may enjoy a quiet stroll without the disturbance of strident motor horns, free from fear of being run down if he allows his attention to wander to the wide horizon line or to yet more distant vistas of daydream. The devotee of horseflesh may enjoy his morning canter to the full, even if his steed be temperamental in the matter of motor driven vehicles.

At times the preservation of Mount Royal against the invading motorist has meant heated battles, but the city has remained adamant. "Thus far—no farther" is the fiat which faces the motorist at the park entrances.

For some years past there has been an active agitation for a street car line to the top of Mount Royal, its advocates urging that thousands of residents of the poorer sections of the city must now walk miles and climb the steep ascent by foot if they are to participate in the benefits awaiting them at the breezy summit, would thus be greatly aided. But these attempts have been unsuccessful and the horse-lover's paradise remains unpolluted.

One of the reasons advanced for not granting the tram line on the mountain is that it would put the cabbies out of business and this is an argument which makes a wide appeal. The jehus, with their weather-beaten faces, their easy-going, unhurried manner and eternal patience are dear to the hearts of Montrealers. Times are not so good for them now. Perhaps when they survey their diminished ranks, foreboding and loneliness overwhelm them. The more imaginative may envision the day when the last cabbie will sit on the bench in front of McGill, his eyes fixed on the last cab horse, awaiting a fare which never comes.

But that day is not yet. Receipts are slimmer than of old, but there is still a considerable revenue to be earned with a cab during the summer months. In the winter it is a different matter. Then, with eternal cold nipping hands and feet, the cabbies must wait long hours between calls. Under these conditions they are ever solicitous for the welfare of their horses and may be seen adjusting and re-adjusting the blankets with paternal care.

But is not only as drawers of pleasure cabs that horses are in evidence in Montreal. A large proportion of the fire apparatus of the city is still horse-drawn and the greater part of the trucking is done with teams. The long winter season, during which many of the side streets are continually snowed up, makes it imperative for coal companies and other delivering agencies to employ horses. Another reason for the prevalence of the four-footed carrier is the hilliness of the city. According to the president of the Montreal Team Owner's Association, it has been conclusively proved that horses provide more economical drawing power upon hills than does gasoline.

So it looks as though Montreal would remain a horse city for some time to come. Undoubtedly the cabs are an aesthetic asset. Many persons who never patronize them appreciate their charm. Even Sherbrooke street, ever tumultuous with hordes of honking autos, gains a leisurely atmosphere in the neighborhood of the McGill campus from the line of waiting cabs and the benchload of waiting cabbies.

Attempt To Blow Up Bridges In Brockville

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 29. —(Canadian Press.)—Two mysterious explosions of dynamite directed against two small concrete highway bridges in town on Saturday night are being investigated by the police. The dynamite apparently was placed on top of the bridges rather than underneath them, and little damage resulted.

TEN THOUSAND VETERANS ARE REVIEWED BY PRINCE

Prince of Wales Commends Officers and Members of the Canadian Legion.

WARRIORS' DAY AT EX.

Talks To Those Who Are Crippled—Welcomed By Six Nation Indians.

TORONTO, Aug. 30. —(Canadian Press). — Ten thousand veterans marched through mud and rain past the Prince of Wales, as in the days of war. They marched along muddy roads to salient and Somme. It was Warrior's Day at the Canadian National Exhibition a day of "Old Comrades" as the Prince termed them in his brief address. After the march past, the Prince called for the cheers for King—Comrades."

The Prince, continued, my brother and I are very happy to be with so many of you to-day although we feel that we are long off but that is on account of weather. This fine parade in connection with Warrior's Day reminds me of a similar occasion eight year back in these Exhibition Grounds when you welcomed me to Canada for the first time. It meant a whole lot to me then but that you should welcome me me now when we are all eight years older and may be wiser, means much more. I am not one for long speeches but I want to say a word about the Canadian Legion. I met your president and delegates when they were over in London for the British Empire Service League Conference and I congratulated them and I congratulate you now on getting together, for unity means strength.

War Songs Sung.

In moments of waiting, old songs of war time echoed round and round the packed grand stands and over the grounds. Behind ten thousand veterans came five thousand militia, winning cheer after cheer as they swung past. The Prince had words of personal greetings for the permanently crippled seated near the saluting base, to one veteran propped up on cushions in a motor ambulance, the Prince talked for several minutes.

The original arrangements to have the men parade on the track was changed by the Prince when he saw it was deep in mud. Instead veterans marched down the lawn inside it.

Prince George stood with the Prince of Wales at the saluting base and with them, L. R. Lafleche, President of the Canadian Legion.

To the veterans, at Exhibition Park the Prince of Wales gave his best wishes and to Old Imperials who had come over since the war—the best of good luck. He thanked them as he thanked all old comrades like them who had taken the trouble to show up at every place he had stopped off at on the long journey across Canada.

Welcomed By Indians.

Subsequently the Prince and his brother George inscribed names in the History Bible of the Six Nations Indians, whose representatives welcomed them to Ontario.

Opened Princes' Gate.

The Royal visitors also officially opened the new Princes' Gate, at the east entrance to the Exhibition grounds. It was "children's day" at the Exhibition and the youngsters thronged the grounds with traditional disregard of the inclement weather. There was incessant rain during the morning.

BLOOM NAMING STARTS TO-DAY

Gladioli Contest Being Conducted in Grafton's Window.

PRIZES GIVEN.

An interesting contest in flower naming opens tomorrow morning and closes on Wednesday evening when all citizens of Peterborough are invited to try their luck at naming the different varieties of the gladioli blooms now on display in the window of the Grafton and Companys George Street Store. These blooms are from the gardens of Al. Spenceley at 36 Monaghan Road, and the answers are to be sent to him.

The prizes are gladioli bulbs of a fine type. The person guessing most correctly the greatest number of the names of the varieties will receive three bulbs, one of , L. Phipps variety one of Lilac Wonder and one of Lady Byng gladiolus. The second prize is two bulbs, 1 each of W. L. Phipps and Lilac Wonder, and the third prize a Lady Byng bulb.

Pride of Detroit Arrives at Belgrade On Way To Constantinople.

LEAVE LATER.

Brock and Schlee Left Munich, Germany, Early This Morning.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Aug. 30—(Canadian Press). — Round the world monoplane "Pride of Detroit," with William Brock and Edward Schlee, arrived here at 12.03 p.m. from Munich, Germany. The aviators will leave for Constantinople later to-day.

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press). — Favoured by ideal flying conditions William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee took off in their monoplane 'Pride of Detroit,' at 6.35 o'clock this morning for Constantinople in continuance of their flight around the world. They expected to reach their destination about a thousand miles away in less than twelve hours. They had been in Munich less than fifteen hours after landing from Croydon.

STEAM SHOVEL SAFELY MOVED

Travels Up Skids From Excavation Behind Collegiate Institute.

DIFFICULT TASK.

Executives of the A. T. Brown Construction Company of Toronto, heaved a sigh of relief this afternoon, when the great steam shovel that has scooped out thousands of tons of soil to permit of the building of the foundations for the Collegiate extensions, was safely brought out and steamed its way to the company's other Peterborough job at the Westclox factory on Armour Hill.

How the ponderous machine was to be brought out of the deep excavation into which it digged itself during recent weeks has been a subject of speculation among interested onlookers in the past few days.

Three days of work and preparation went to the answering of the question. A gently sloping runway of heavy wooden skids was built from the bottom of the large crater to a broad ledge within eight feet of the surface. From this ledge the ground rose gradually until the general level of the area was reached. Up these skids which were supported underneath by heavy timber blocks the steam shovel travelled slowly. As an additional precaution the ropes from the jib were attached to a block and tackle fastened to a tree at the north west corner of the grounds. This helped the brakes in preventing the machine from slipping downwards. When the ledge was reached the engineer had little difficulty in piloting his charge to safety.

Hardly less delicate was the problem of getting the steam shovel down to McDonnel street from the higher ground on which the new buildings are to be erected. Stout planks were placed down the sidewalk, clamps were fixed to the wheels as auxiliaries to the brakes, and the heavy machine moved down a few inches at a time. As the roadway was approached the large bucket was lowered to the ground to lessen the weight on the jib.

The operation attracted the attention of a fair-sized crowd of onlookers, who were obviously relieved at its successful conclusion.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall of Monday was an unusually heavy one, the total being 2.58, or a little over 2½ inches. The rain fell almost continuously from 9 o'clock Sunday night until 4 o'clock this morning. While it may be a good thing for pastures and root crops, its effect on grain, cut or uncut, of which there is still considerable exposed, is viewed more du-

QUEER NOISES IN ARMOURIES FOLLOW STORAGE OF SKULL

R. H. Muir Relates Strange Midnight Experience When Seeking Explanation.

RELIC UNEARTHED.

Results Present Problem To Students of Pyschic Phenomena.

Mysterious night noises at the Armouries, worthy the attention of students of psychic phenomena, have ceased with the burial in St. Peter's Cemetery of a skull, dug up during the excavations on the site of the old cemetery between McDonnel and Murray streets, on which is being reared the buildings for the extension to the Collegiate Institute.

The skull, which was in a fair state of preservation, and contained sixteen teeth, was handed over to R. H. Muir, caretaker of the Armouries, who placed it on a shelf in the store room on the south side of the building.

Then the trouble began.

On the calmest nights, doors were rattled, eerie voices were heard calling for release, and the sounds, echoing in the high chamber, travelled across the drill hall to the residence of the caretaker. Wakened one night by the terrific howling of the dog, Mr. Muir, arming himself with a rifle, sallied out into the darkness to discover the cause of the trouble.

Not Superstitious.

Mr. Muir, who is at present regimental quartermaster-sergeant of the 21st Battalion, is a veteran of the Great War, and took part in some of the bloodiest engagements fought by the Canadian Expeditionary Force on the fields of France and Flanders. Many a night he slept among the dead. With the matter of fact outlook characteristic of an old campaigner, he attributed the disturbances entirely to human agencies, and expected to find, if not a sneak thief, at least a practical joker. He prides himself on the fact that there is not an iota of superstition in his mental makeup, but he confesses that his experiences, following his midnight tour of investigation, contain a great deal of food for thought.

Strange Noises.

Tracing the noise to the south-eastern end of the building, he entered the rifle range and switched on the electric light, which illuminated the far end of the long narrow gallery and was sufficient to outline in bold relief the figure of any lurking visitor. The gallery was empty. The same result followed an examination of the bowling alley. Suddenly a loud wailing noise proceeding from behind him, put him further on his guard, and, cocking his weapon ready for immediate action, he marched towards the corner leading to the store room and the boiler room. A double brick wall separates the two compartments. At the cage door of the boiler room, he found his large Airedale terrier leaping frantically against the wires in an effort to break through as it howled and bayed in terror. A thorough search of the

Racing Motorist Has Narrow Escape

CARMARTHEN, Wales, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).— Jules Foresti, Italian racing motorist, who today will attempt on the Pendine sands to break the world speed record, had a narrow escape yesterday. While practising, his car skidded on two wheels for about 300 yards at a speed of 130 miles an hour. His wife was a horrified spectator, momentarily fearing he would be killed by the overturning of the car, which, however, righted itself.

It was on the Pendine sands that J. G. Parry-Thomas, famous British racing motorist, was killed last March, when his car turned over twice, skidded and

Local Bus Driver Performs Act Of Chivalry To Woman Who was Travelling City's New Transportation System

Chivalry is not dead, but merely slumbers—at least in our local bus brigade. This morning, at the city's chief intersection, one of the operators was seen to assist an elderly lady from the bus and gently conduct her across the busy road to her destination, for "She's somebody's mother, boys, you know." This is especially worthy of notice, that even in the hurly-burly of a jamming, hustling public, there are still those who can find time to perform a little act of kindness that will remain in the heart of the recipient long after i passed from the memory of the benefactor.

TRIBUTES PAID TO ANARCHISTS

Boston Sympathizers Pay Final Tribute To Sacco and Vanzetti.

ASHES TOUR EUROPE.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 30.—Boston sympathizers yesterday had paid final tribute to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

The defence committee yesterday morning was to receive the ashes of the executed anarchists for shipment to New York and later to several European capitals, where new honors will be given the two men who died in the electric chair early last week as convicted murderers.

More than a dozen persons were slightly hurt here on Sunday when several thousands of mourners tramped through the streets in a pouring rain in one of the strangest funeral processions ever seen.

Lining the curbs, more thousands of spectators braved rain and cold to witness an extraordinary "death march" befitting a king.

Twice as the procession moved over the six-mile route from the north end to Forest Hills crematory, police clashed with the mourners, and of the thousands in line at the start, not more than 150 reached the cemetery.

Mounted state troopers charged and dispersed a crowd at Scollay Square. The second clash occurred at Forest Hill Square, where more than a dozen persons, including a policeman, sustained minor injuries.

RELAY RUNNERS GETTING READY

Twenty Boys Will Carry Greetings From Toronto To Peterborough.

FOR BIG EXHIBITION.

Many residents of the city, residing along Water Street, have noticed recently that there is quite a parade of half-clad boys to be seen running past their door-steps shortly after dusk. This is not, as it might seem, a fashion parade, but merely a workout for the coming relay run from Toronto to Peterborough. The boys for the most part are quite innocent of any desire to create a sensation, and their sole desire is to get back to the "Y" without being seen. It is planned that twenty runners from this city shall go to Toronto, under the auspices of the local Y.M.C.A., there to receive a message of greetings to be carried in relays for the opening of the local Exhibition. This is rather a novel undertaking in the city, but all concerned are working to make it a success.

Indians In Dispute Over Land Question

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Indians of Kilwanook Valley have been making more trouble over the land question there. A party of Dominion surveyors were recently prevented from doing any work. One of the natives is said to have raised an axe but soon threw it away. No one was injured. Six natives are in custody at Smithers and come up for sentence Thursday. Indians claim ownership of the land on the strength of a treaty with the King a century ago.

ENGLISH PILOT FOR COLUMBIA

Charles Levine Selects Captain Hinchcliffe For Trans-Atlantic Flight.

PLANE GUARDED.

CROYDON, Eng., Aug. 30 (Canadian Press).—Charles A. Levine announced this afternoon that Capt. W. G. Hinchliffe, Englishman, had been definitely selected to pilot the trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia back to the United States with Levine as companion. They would hop off as soon as the weather cleared, Levine said.

PARIS, Aug. 30 (Canadian Press). —Mrs. Charles Levine, on behalf of her husband, to-day went to Le Bourget Field and paid Maurice Drought the hundred thousand francs due him under the terms of the contract by which he was to have piloted Levine across the Atlantic.

Meanwhile Levine in London, after an amazing flight in a plane which he hardly knew how to handle, from Paris, was attracting great attention. He says he is going on to the United States somehow, "if I die in the attempt."

The British Air Ministry seems to have waived the question of Levine's flight without license, but nevertheless is guarding the plane lest it be taken away without authorization.

Levine and Hinchcliffe went up for a trial flight and then started for Cranwell, Lincolnshire, from where the trans-Atlantic flight will commence. Hinchcliffe said he was pleased with the plane and admired Levine, while Levine remarked that the English were "good sports" and that the start would be made perhaps to-morrow.

English Fliers Wait Favorable Weather

DEVON, England, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Captain Leslie Hamilton and Colonel F. P. Minchen who are awaiting an opportunity to hop off for Ottawa, Ont., are planning to load the remainder of the necessary gasoline into their machine today. They may possibly start on the Atlantic flight in the course of the day if the weather is favorable.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH MAN TELLS OF WORLD CONFERENCE

Says Gathering at Lausanne Greatest Since Nicea Council.

TOWARD UNITY.

Eighty Christian Churches Represented By Five Hundred Delegates.

The greatest conference held in the history of the Christian Church since the Ecumenical Council of Nicea, away back through the centuries in the year 325 A. D. is the description that has been applied to the Lausanne World Conference on Faith and Order which met in the Swiss City from August 3rd till 21st of the present year by the Rev. Horace C. Wright, B. D., Minister of Dunnville, Ontario, Baptist Church and general secretary of the Peterborough Branch of the Y. M. C. A. in 1908.

Mr. Wright who will lecture on the work of the Conference, to-morrow, was the only delegate from the Baptist body in Canada, was sent to Lausanne by his own congregation and was credentialed by the Baptist Convention in Ontario and Quebec. All Christian bodies were represented says Mr. Wright, except the Roman Catholic Church to which an invitation was extended but declined. It was known, however, that His Holiness, the Pope, was watching the proceedings with great interest and two Roman Catholic clergymen were present although not in an official capacity. Eighty different denominations were represented. The number of delegates was limited to 500, although frequent public meetings were held to which all comers were welcomed.

Objects Of Conference.

The objects of the Conference were to call all Christian people to deeper penitence with regard to the disunion of the churches to consider the carrying of the church's message, the Christian Gospel to the world; to consider such questions as a suggested common confession of faith, the Church's ministry, the sacraments, the unity of Christendom and the relation there to of existing Churches.

The conference had no binding authority. The representatives of the various churches reported without obligation. The conference was born out of a suggestion which came from the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States and was the culmination of seventeen years of preparatory labour. A preliminary conference on life and work was held two years ago and was very successful.

It was felt, however, that the deeper questions of doctrine and organization had to be considered with the object of achieving a larger degree of unity. Organic unity, although realized to be many years off, was felt to be the ultimate goal towards which the energies of the church should be directed.

Picturesque and historic associations were called to mind by the presence at the conference of delegates from the Old Catholic Church and from the Eastern Church, its representatives being from the Ecumenical Patriarchate and the ancient Patriarchates of Alexandria, Antioch and Jerusalem, Oriental Christians, particularly the Rt. Rev. Bishop of Dornakal, a native of India, and the Rev. Timothy Tingfang Lew, Ph.D., a Chinese Congregationlist, declared that Christians in the East refused to be bound down by Western divisions which meant nothing to them.

Addresses were delivered in the morning, and copies of the speeches printed in three languages were placed in the hands of the delegates.

The delegates separated into sections, and further into sub-section for the more efficient consideration of details. Reports of the sub-section were debated in one session of the larger section, which then reported through its convenor to the Conference, where the report was again debated before being finally accepted.

A great opportunity was afforded for free discussion, declares Mr. Wright.

PEKING GOVERNMENT BROACHES TREATY REVISION WITH POWERS

Sets Altitude Record For Light Aeroplane

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Captain H. S. Broad made a world's altitude record for a single-seater light aeroplane when, in a Tiger Moth yesterday at Edgeware, he climbed 20,000 feet. He reached this height in 17 minutes, but was compelled to descend owing to the difficulty in breathing. Captain Broad declared that with oxygen he could have gone much higher, possibly 30,000 feet.

PUT IN FORCE NEW BILLING AT ONE TIME

Utilities Commission Decides To Refuse Time Extension To Local Factories.

ON K.V.A. BASIS.

Will Not Sell Motor Used With Street Railways To Preston Man.

At the meeting of the Utilities Commission held yesterday, it was decided that the request of the Canadian Woolens, Peterborough Cereal and Aladdin Companies for an extension of time before being billed on the K.V.A. basis be refused, as notice was given some months ago and it is to be put into force in all parts of the city.

Mr. Martin is to be held responsible to the commission for the repairs to the hydrant broken by his car.

The Canadian General Electric Company is to be paid $1,695 for switching for new transformer and $1,819 for balance on the K. V. A. transformer.

The matter of 12½c. an hour increase for line-men was laid over as was the matter of buying poles from the Hydro Electric Power Commission on which the Utilities have fixtures.

The Commission decided not to sell motor used with the Street Railway to Don. M. Campbell, of Preston, as they are in use.

BELL OFFICIAL LEAVES CITY

Gifts Presented To G. H. Brown, District Superintendent of Telephone Plant.

SUCCESSOR ARRIVES.

At a social gathering of the Employees' Plant Council of the Bell Telephone Company, held in the club room of the Bell buildings on Hunter street, last night, a pipe and case, with an appropriate address, were presented to G. H. Brown, district plant superintendent for the past eighteen months, who is leaving to take a position in the head office of the company at Montreal. At the same gathering, Mr. Brown's successor, G. F. Elms, who arrived from Hamilton, was welcomed by local employees of the Bell organization.

The presentation to Mr. Brown was made by P. Gray, president of the council, who expressed the regret of those present at the departure of Mr. Brown, and congratulated him on his promotion to the larger centre. A short musical programme completed the evening's entertainment.

Request Aid of Navy In Search For Redfern

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 30. —(Canadian Press).— Lack of warships in the vicinity of the route Paul Redfern intended to follow on his Brunswick-to-Brazil flight makes it impossible for the navy to assist in searching for the lost aviator. Assistant Secretary Warner, in charge of naval aviation, late yesterday advised friends and backers of the missing youth.

Indications were given, however, that the coastguard, which has a number of vessels off the Florida coast, would lend aid.

The cooperation of both the navy and the coast guard in a systematic search was requested yesterday by Paul J. Varner, chairman of the flight committee.

Pan Fu Says North Considering Asking Them To Fulfil Pledges.

BEST FOR EVERYONE.

North Truly Nationalist and Only Solid Authority on Land.

PEKING, August 30. — "The expediency of calling upon the United States, Great Britain, and the other Powers to fulfill their promises of willingness to take up the matter of treaty revision with regard to China is being carefully considered by the Peking Government." Premier Pan Fu declared in an interview yesterday.

The present chaos among the Southern factions, coupled with the fact that Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's Government was the only really effective controlling authority in China to-day, Pan Fu asserted, must serve to convince the Powers that both their own interests and the good of China demand the opening of treaty revision parleys in order to swing to the Peking Government the full support of the universal nationalist aspirations of the Chinese people.

"The radical and destructive factions of the South have appropriated the word Nationalist as a party label, just as a robber often masquerades in the guise of a gentleman in order to gain access to the homes of the rich," Pan Fu declared. "Unfortunately, due to propaganda and misrepresentation, most of the Powers and the American people in particular, have been deceived by this mask.

"But time has told the tale, and now that the Southern radicals have been revealed in their true light as professional repudiators of international obligations, we feel that the time is approaching when foreign Governments should treat with Peking with a view to conceding to China a place of equality.

"The Peking Government is just as nationalistic in its aims and policies as any faction in the South. The differences between them is that the Southern radicals would disgrace China by taking a course similar to that of a man who repudiates his debts.

"My Government, on the other hand, will live up to the letter and the spirit of the existing treaties until we can revise them to our satisfaction by orderly negotiation. We have no ground for believing that America, Great Britain, and the other countries are insincere in declaring treaty revision just and desirable, and only definite proof of such insincerity would ever justify treaty abrogation on our part.

"The presence of foreign troops in Tientsin and Shantung is galling to my Government, but I feel that the cause of their presence is widely misunderstood in the United States. Let me point out that only in the North have the lives and property of foreigners been safe, for the Central Government has always endeavoured to extend to foreign residents the fullest possible protection.

Urges Cut in Foreign Forces.

"The speed with which we have driven the Southerners back across the Yangtse River and General Sun Chan-fang's advance into the Nanking and Shanghai areas, coupled with the military and political disorganization of the South, should make it apparent that the augmented American, British, French and Japanese garrisons in the North are no longer needed and that they should be reduced sharply as a token of friendship and confidence.

"The Peking Government represents the best progressive element in China to-day. Southern propagandists have misled American and British public opinion. They have represented the Ankuochun (Northern Military Alliance) as being feudal and hopelessly medieval in its outlook.

"Typical of the campaign of misrepresentation has been the pretense that the so-called Nationalist movement is in large measure labor or union-supported. The truth is that more than 90 per cent. of China's people are farmers and agricultural

CHURCHILL IS RECOMMENDED AS HUDSON PORT

Can Provide All Shipping Facilities in Calm Water.

PROTECTED BY HILLS.

Preliminary Report of British Harbor Engineer is Made Public.

OTTAWA, Ont., August 30 (Canadian Press). —"That Churchill is undoubtedly the port to be selected as affording a real harbour in which shipping facilities can be provided in calm water, protected from all storms by surrounding rocky cliffs," was the first conclusion of the preliminary report by Frederick Palmer, British harbour engineer, on port facilities at Hudson Bay. Mr. Palmer was engaged by the Government to pass upon the relative merits of Port Churchill and Port Nelson. His report was made public by the Department of Railways yesterday.

Mr. Palmer's other conclusions were as follows:

"The estimated costs of corresponding accommodation at Nelson and Churchill disclose marked advantage in favour of the latter, the figures showing that, including interest during the period of construction, the cost at Churchill will be less than one-third of what is required to complete Nelson. Even after adding the cost of the extra 87 miles of railway to Churchill, the cost of this place will be only about one-half of the Nelson port estimate.

"The time for completion of the works at Churchill, viz., three years, is one-half of the time needed to carry out the Nelson works.

"That Churchill provides a completely sheltered port for shipping from the moment the entrance is passed, while at Nelson no shelter can be confidently reckoned upon until the wharf as reached, and then only by the provision of breakwaters.

"That the annual charges, including interest, operation and maintenance would be about a million dollars greater at Nelson than at Churchill.

"That at both Nelson and Churchill the sites admit of considerable extensions, but at much less cost at Churchill than at Nelson. The wharf, either in its initial or extended stage, would at Nelson be governed by the limiting nature of its approach, to vessels of 26 feet draft during a brief period around high water at neap tides unless much increased expenditure is incurred by dredging. It is limited to a draft of 28 feet even after their dredging is done unless still further expenditure of a prohibitive character is undertaken. At Churchill the accommodation proposed will, in the 'initial development,' admit of 28 feet draft vessels during the 24 hours of each day, while for extensions there is no practical limit to the draft of vessels which can be provided for.

Ice Conditions Uncertain.

"The evidence regarding the ice conditions at both ports is vague and inconclusive, and no satisfactory or reliable decision can be given in regard thereto. It has been stated that the river at Churchill freezes over earlier than the Nelson River, and, also, that bay ice blocks the entrance to Nelson for a later period than that over which Churchill entrance is closed; but in the absence of any evidence dealing directly with the navigation aspect of the question, it is impossible to say that either port is open to ocean-going steamers for a longer or shorter period than the other.

"Following upon these conclusions," Mr. Palmer reports, "it is strongly recommended that Churchill be made the port terminal for the Hudson Bay Railway, because it affords by far the best possible opportunity for the development of trade through the bay."

The report contained a lengthy summary of the technical points considered by the British expert. He found that Port Nelson was open to the bay and exposed to gales from the north-east, "which occur at somewhat frequent intervals during the period of navigation."

Mr. Palmer reported extensively on navigation facilities at Port Nelson. "The island is situated 22 miles up the estuary from the 30 feet depth contour in the bay," the report reads. "An irregular shoal extends from Mile 19 to Mile 13½ (5½ miles) over which the governing depth is 20½ feet. From Mile 13 to Mile 7½ a deep channel or hole exists, with depths varying from 24 to 94 feet. From Mile 7½ to Mile 3½ the governing depth is 18 feet, and from Mile 3½ to the downstream end of the wharf a channel is proposed to be cut through depths varying from 18 feet at the lower end to about 2 feet at the wharf. The proposed channel, which is intended to be 300 feet wide and 20 feet deep, will, therefore, entail dredging not only from the wharf to Mile 3½, but also to Mile 7½.

FOUR PERSONS ARE INJURED IN SHIP EXPLOSION

$10,000 Damage Done American Yacht "Marval" at Sydney, N.S.

WAY TO LABRADOR.

Believe Blow-up Was Caused By Backfire Into the Carburetor.

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 30 (Canadian Press).—When the American yacht "Maraval" was backing out from Reeve's Wharf yesterday morning, en route for Labrador, an explosion in the engine room, believed to have been caused by a backfire into the carburetor, occurred, with the result that property damage to the extent of $10,000 was done and four of the people on board were more or less seriously burned and injured, including the engineer, Byron N. Sellers, who was alone in the engine-room at the time.

The two ladies of the party, Miss Price and Miss Houghteling, who were going as volunteer nurses to the Grenfell Mission in Labrador, were just sitting down to breakfast when the explosion occurred. They were almost immediately surrounded by flames and smoke, and were badly burned before making their escape.

Sellers, the two ladies and the steward were rushed to the city hospital for treatment, while the city fire department, together with volunteer pickets from H.M.S. Heliotrope, which was anchored nearby, fought the stubborn blaze which was soon sweeping the yacht fore and aft. After two hours the flames were finally extinguished, but not before the yacht was a scarred and twisted hulk.

It had been hoped to start at 3 o'clock yesterday morning for the Grand Banks, but after an additional 250 gallons of gasoline had been taken on board, at 1 a.m., various delays occurred to postpone the departure. She had moved scarcely half her length from the wharf when the accident occurred.

All plans for the delivery of the "Maraval" to the Grenfell Mission in Labrador are now postponed indefinitely.

workers. The industrial era has scarcely begun and industrial labor problems are found only in the large trading centres.

"While the propaganda agents of a certain country have been busy trying to graft a foreign type of government upon China and have fanned hostility against all other foreigners, the fact is that the country is the only Government which has intervened actively in China's internal affairs.

Open to New Ideas, He Asserts.

"The most vocal leaders of the Southern factions have declared that they are working for the good of the Chinese people and have falsely charged the North with suppressing every move toward advancement and evolution.

"The Ankuochun is openly opposed to the introduction of any scheme of government or politics which by radicalism violates all that is best in the heritage of an ancient civilization. We believe in holding what is best in the old system and amalgamating with it what is best and most adaptable to Chinese needs in the newer civilization of the Occident.

"Four months ago it was charged against the north that our troops were not well organized and that we had almost no central authority commanding the respect and obedience of local officials. To-day these defects are remedied. In Kiangsu and Anhwei the population is welcoming our advancing armies as deliverers and everywhere in our territory provincial officials are yielding obedience to Marshal Chang Tso-lin's Government.

"We feel that the foreign powers and most of the public abroad have been misled by Southern propaganda. We believe that their disillusionment will result in justice and fair play to the Peking Government, which is the only authority in China to-day openly declaring for fulfillment of its obligations and which will not tolerate repudiation or violence."

PRISONERS SAW WAY TO LIBERTY

Five Effect Their Escape From the County Jail at Troy.

HELD FOR LARCENY.

TROY, N.Y., Aug. 30 (United Press) —Five prisoners awaiting trial on grand larceny charges sawed their way out of the Rensselaer County Jail here yesterday morning between 6.30 and 7 o'clock and after making their way to Albany were still at large at noon. It was the first jail break here in six years.

The men are Frank Davis, of New York; Benjamin Wytrokowski and William Stalling, of Albany; Anthony Brolo and George Ferris, of Troy, all indicted for automobile thefts.

The prisoners, in one group, after their escape, beckoned Walter Francesco, a taxi-driver, to the curb, held him up, blindfolded him and drove to the Albany outskirts, where they threw him from the cab. They abandoned the cab in a residential section of Albany, and, it is believed, stole a less conspicuous car to further their escape.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, August 30. — Heavy selling of grain in all positions, coupled with bearish reports generally, undermined prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Weakness dominated all markets, and wheat at the close of the session ranged from 2⅞c to 3½c below Saturday's final quotations.

Buying orders appeared from time to time, but failed to absorb the steady stream of offerings dumped into the pit. Export interests were idle.

Coarse grains reacted drastically, oats declining 1¾c, barley 1½c, flax 4¾c, and rye 3½c.

POST'S BED BUG POISON.

Post's Bed Bug Poison is composed of carbolic acid, Methyl Hydrate and Corrosive sublimate. When this preparation is used according to directions, it is sure death to bed bugs, cockroaches and insects of all descriptions. Two or three applications are all that is necessary, but as it is very poisonous, this preparation should be kept out of reach of children.

WEDDING BELLS

WALKER—TAYLOR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30.— The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Sebastapol street, was the scene of one of the prettiest house weddings Campbellford has ever witnessed, when just before noon yesterday the youngest daughter, Jennie, became the bride of Goldwin G. Walker, of Hydro, Ontario. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens and autumnal flowers, Rev. E. Harston of St. John's United church, officiating.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a two tone dress of shell pink crepe romaine with hat and hose to match. Her shoes were of blonde kid and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. In the bouquet was a sprig of white heather given her by a friend who had that morning received it from Scotland. She also wore the gift of the groom, a white gold pin set with a solitaire diamond.

Miss Mary Taylor, as bridesmaid, wore a dress of peach crepe de chine trimmed with sequins, hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. She also wore the gift of the groom, a beautiful white gold bracelet.

Stanley Taylor, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. His gift from the groom was a handsome cravat pin of white gold set with amethyst.

The wedding breakfast was served in the dining room and was a very dainty function. Mrs. Walker cut her wedding cake with a unique piece of silver which was one of her wedding gifts. The cake itself was the gift of P. F. Long, one of the town's leading business men, and a sincere well-wisher of the newly married couple.

After the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Goldwin Walker left by motor for Toronto and points north. They will reside in Hydro, Ontario, where the groom is employed by the Hydro Commission. Mrs. Walker left for her honeymoon attired in a white flat crepe dress with black and white satin coat and hat to match.

Having regard for the recent illness of Mrs. Taylor, the bride's mother, the wedding was a very quiet affair. Its very simplicity lent it an atmosphere of charm that is sure to leave its impression with those who were guests. The hosts of friends which the young couple leave here wish them every success in the north country or wherever else their lots may find them.

SAY FAREWELL TO MILLER FAMILY

Gifts Presented and Address Read to Departing Couple.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 30.—On Saturday evening, Aug. 20, a number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Millar, Regent street, to say goodbye to Mr. and Mrs. William Clifford, who are removing to Peterborough, and to give them a remembrance of their Lakefield friends, who have held them in high regard and regret their departure. All are glad that only a comparatively short distance will separate the new home from the old and intercourse will be frequent.

When all had gathered Stephen Harrison read the following address and Mr. Frank Darling presented Mr. and Mrs. Clifford with a serving tray, a jardinere stand and a cigarette case and holder on behalf of a group of friends who in this manner wished to express their good-will:

"To Mr. William Clifford:

"Dear Sir,—We, a few of your old pals in Lakefield, have learned with real regret of your departure from our village. We are real sorry to lose you from our midst. During your sojourn among us we have learned to respect you, not only as a citizen, but as a friend and neighbor.

"As a citizen you were always willing and ready to assist in everything that was for the betterment of the village as a whole, and as a friend, we always found you true, and we learned that 'it was a pleasant thing to meet in friendship's circle sweet.'

"As a neighbor, we always found in you those qualities which go to make up a pleasant place in which to live. Therefore, for those reasons we as citizens would be real lax in our appreciation to you as a citizen, friend and neighbor did we not endeavor to show in some tangible way our loss and regret at your departure from our midst.

"So we ask you to accept these gifts as slight tokens of our regard for you and Mrs. Clifford, and trust they will be pleasant reminders of your stay in our beautiful village. We realize to some extent the loss our village will be called upon to bear in losing one who was a valuable asset to the community life surrounding our village.

"But we trust you will carry away with you a few of the good qualities that you have so abundantly manifested in our midst so that Peterborough will be in some measure the better for you in its midst. Lakefield's loss is Peterborough's gain, and should you ever make up your minds to return to our village, we assure you of a real welcome.

"Again wishing you and yours happiness and prosperity in your new home.

"Signed on behalf of the citizens of Lakefield—C. S. Tanner, Reeve; Stephen Harrison, Councillor; F. Darling, village teamster; Webster Bros., Charles Thomson, Porter Co., E. J. Millage, William Robinson, A. B. Burrows, Secretary, Board of Trade; S. J. Charlton, D. B. Millar, Richard Hunter, Gill & Sons, Bruce McMaster, William Peacock, Crawford Bros., J. W. Ridpath, W. Chappell, B. Everett, R. J. Webster, Chief of Police."

News Briefs.

The second moonlight excursion of the season, under the auspices of the employees of the Canada Cement Co., will take place on the steamer Stoney Lake on Wednesday evening, Aug. 31, to Juniper Island. The success of the first excursion has inspired the committee to provide an encore.

The Citizens' Band are running an excursion to Bobcaygeon on Labor Day on the steamer Stoney Lake. An orchestra will provide music for dancing, and there will be several hours to spend in the village of Bobcaygeon.

Mr. F. G. Erskine is making extensive alterations to the Griffin home, which he purchased this summer. The house is one of the village landmarks and is situated on the south-west corner of Regent and Albert streets.

MUCH THRESHING DONE IN AUGUST

BURNBRAE, Aug. 30.—With very few exceptions, local farmers have finished harvest, and several have completed threshing, while many more will be all through by the end of the first week of September. This is one of the earliest harvests on record and seldom indeed has so much threshing been done in August. Last year many farmers only began drawing oats on September 1.

Grain generally is doing well and some record yields are reported. Some of the later fields have more straw than grain, and the quality of the product is below the average. Threshermen report the average weight of the grain to be greater than last year.

Ernest Eagleson has had perhaps the outstanding crop of barley threshed as yet. He grew fifteen acres of this crop on a flat which was tile-drained last year. Two weeks ago he threshed about eight acres of this for a yield of over five hundred bushels.

Fall wheat has yielded fairly well with grain of good quality, though no outstanding records are reported. P. B. Nelson, of West Seymour, well known as a former Burnbrae farmer, threshed three hundred and forty bushels of wheat from a little over nine acres.

While the oat crop is not as even in quality this year as last, the early grain in several instances has outyielded the 1926 crop. On high land second growth, following heavy rains, has done a good deal of damage. Rust is prevalent and threshing is a decidedly disagreeable job. Among the farmers to complete threshing in this district are Fred. Hay with 1,440 bushels, Will Wallace with almost 1,200 bushels and Bert Hay with over 1,300 bushels of oats, with a tremendous quantity of straw. M. Petherick is threshing in this district, and at Fred. Hay's a 1927 record was made when 16 loads of oats yielding over 600 bushels went through the separator in three hours.

Corn Crop.

The corn crop in many instances is the poorest feature of the farmers' 1927 harvest. Low land corn is a complete failure, and while the crop is doing exceptionally well on the higher ground, the average for the district will be away below former years.

Roots are doing well and the potato crop promises at least a fair average. Early potatoes are generally of good quality and quite large.

Lack of rain for the past three or four weeks has caused a check on the growth of pasture, and the milk flow at local cheese factories has suffered in consequence. The price of cheese holds over the 18-cent mark, and with a little more pasture farmers could look for a fairly prosperous autumn, with hog prices again around the 10-cent mark. The whey cream selling at 30 cents a pound fat is helping the cheese factory cheques materially.

Keeps the Breath Sweet

Used to rinse the mouth after meals, Dr. Chase's Mouth Wash keeps the breath sweet

It is a fine habit to use this pleasant, refreshing lotion to rinse the mouth after meals. The effect is pleasing because your mouth feels clean and antiseptic and you know that your breath will not be offensive to your associates.

There are many benefits from the regular use of this new antiseptic for it keeps the gums in good healthy condition and thereby preserves the teeth from attack by the germs of decay.

You also safeguard your health from the attack of germs which cause sore throat, tonsilitis and similar germ diseases.

Dentists recommend Dr. Chase's Mouth Wash for tender, sore gums and as a relief from the soreness caused by artificial teeth.

A trial of Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash will convince you of the satisfaction which results from its use. At all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

BELIEVES GENERAL REDUCTION AND LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS ESSENTIAL TO WORLD'S PEACE

Letters On Subject of Lord Cecil's Resignation From Cabinet.

NOT ATTEND COUNCIL.

Existence of British Empire and European Civilization Depends On Peace.

LONDON, August 30 (Canadian Press).—The letters which passed between Viscount Cecil and Premier Baldwin on the subject of Lord Cecil's resignation were made public last night. Lord Cecil's letter to the Prime Minister, dated August 25, intimated that he told Mr. Baldwin, in writing, August 9, of his intention to resign, but as the letter had just reached the Premier he would state in the form of a minute, his reasons for resigning.

The minute, which is a rather long document, assures the Premier that the resignation is not due to any personal difficulty or grievance against the First Lord of the Admiralty, Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgman, with whom he had worked at Geneva in the closest agreement.

Asserting that the difficulty is much more serious, Lord Cecil says:

"I cannot conceal from myself that on the broad policy of disarmament the majority of the Cabinet and I are not really agreed. I believe that general reduction and limitation of armaments are essential to the world's peace, and on that peace depends not only the existence of the British Empire, but even that of European civilization itself."

Contending that this can only be obtained by international agreement, he declares that the Government's chief energies ought to be concentrated on attaining such agreement.

"I don't say that agreement should be bought at any price," he adds, "but I do say that it is of greater value than any other political object."

Obeyed Instructions.

Alluding to the preparatory commission for the reduction of armaments, Lord Cecil asserts that he was repeatedly compelled by his instructions to maintain propositions in the commission which were difficult to reconcile with any serious desire for the success of its labors. He went into the tri-partite conference in the belief that an agreement would be reached, and he expressed the belief that the failure of that conference will be probed when Parliament meets.

"It is enough now to say that I found myself out of sympathy with the instructions I received," he continues, "and I believe that an agreement might have been reached on terms which would have sacrificed no essential British interests."

Policy Overruled.

Lord Cecil then asks: "What of the future?" and adds: "I look back on the refusal to accept a treaty of mutual assistance, the unconditional rejection of the protocol, the Ministerial declaration against compulsory arbitration, partial failure of the preparatory commission and now the breakdown of the three-power conference. In each case the policy I advocated had been more or less completely overruled.

"As it has been in the past, so will it be in the future. For the truth is, however unwilling I am to recognize it, that in these matters my colleagues do not agree with me. I can see no way in which I can be of further service in the Cabinet to this cause which I regard as supremely important. But outside, there is much to be done. The hope of the future lies in an aroused and instructed public opinion. That is an object which may employ all, and more than all the energies that remain to me."

Take Effect Immediately.

LONDON, August 30 (Canadian Press).—Viscount Cecil's resignation of his Cabinet post, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, was announced definitely last night.

It will take effect immediately, although the Chancellor will carry on until his successor is appointed.

His resignation means that Lord Cecil will not go to Geneva for the coming meeting of the League of Nations assembly. Who will take his place is not yet known.

Explaining his step last night, Lord Cecil said:

"The reasons for my action are to be found in the general history of the disarmament question, culminating in the failure of the Geneva conference. I feel I shall be able to do better work in the cause of disarmament outside the Cabinet than in; therefore I shall not go to Geneva as a British delegate.

May Go to Geneva.

"It is of course, possible that I may go to Geneva in the future as the representative of Great Britain without being a member of the Government, but of that I cannot speak."

Then alluding to the failure of the tri-partite conference, he added:

"I think success might have been achieved without any sacrifice of British interests. I was out of sympathy with the instructions I received."

ARRANGE SERIES.

A message was received in Peterborough to-day from the O.B.A. requesting the arrangement of a series between Deloro and Crescents.

Sunday Island, in the Pacific, is said to be the tallest mountain in the world, as it rises 2,000 feet out of 5 miles of water, making its height nearly 30,000 feet.

LEAGUERS HAVE SOCIAL EVENING

Comic Contests Are Feature of Programme at Lorne Barnum's.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Aug. 30.—The regular League meeting last Thursday evening at Zion took the form of a social evening on Lorne Barnum's lawn and a most enjoyable time was spent, with a fair crowd in attendance, in spite of the cool weather. The refreshment booth, managed by Roy Barnum and Clarence Barnum, did a good business and showed a nice profit on the evening's sales. The early part of the evening was spent in softball and various games on the lawn. About nine o'clock President Fred Barnum called the meeting to order and asked Everett Fairman to act as chairman for the rest of the programme. A novel and rather comic beauty contest was then staged with various members of the crowd acting as judges. The prize winners in the various classes were as follows: Girls under 18, Laura Watson; over 18, Jennie Fry; married ladies, Mrs. Harry Barnum; neatest hand, Freda Petherick. Boys under 18, Frank Naish; over 18, Roy Fry. Married men, Fred Barnum; neatest hand, Aylmer Petherick. The lucky ones each received as a prize a cone or bottle of pop as the choice might be. The various stunts demanded of the contestants by the judges created much merriment and many were called upon to perform feats that they had learned in early childhood. Roy Fry and Earl Fairman acted as police in a very efficient manner. The last and perhaps the most ludicrious contest was for the finest unmarried couple. The first three in order were Gerald and Evelyn Barnum, Ted Owens and Freda Petherick, Roy Fry and (Miss) Earl Fairman. The latter young lady would undoubtedly have won first place but for an overdose of make-up.

The next meeting on Thursday evening, Sept. 1st, is in charge of Thomas Fry, devotional convenor.

Rev. Mr. Daniel again takes charge of the regular services following his holiday spent in Western Ontario.

Mr. S. G. Meiklejohn and sons are busy getting ready for the erection of their new barn, to replace the one destroyed by fire two weeks ago.

Suffers Injury.

Mr. James Milne suffered a painful injury last week when a hook in the end of a ladder tore his arm. Complications set in which threatened to cause the loss of the injured member, but at latest reports Mr. Milne's condition is quite satisfactory.

Local farmers are nearly all finished harvest and are anxiously awaiting the arrival of a threshing outfit.

GOOD CROP OUTLOOK THROUGHOUT WEST

Expect Yield Above Average If the Present Promise Materializes.

MONTREAL, Quebec, August 30. — Canadian Press. — "Conditions generally are most encouraging throughout Western Canada and if present promise materializes, there will be a grain crop above the average, with consequent benefit to the farmers in particular, and the country at large," said S. J. Hungeford, vice-president in charge of operation of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Hungerford was in Montreal yesterday following an extensive tour of the company's system west of Montreal having accompanied Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and President, on the annual inspection of that part of the lines.

"We have prepared for a considerable grain movement," continued Mr. Hungerford, "by placing large reserves of equipment at various points so that when the time comes for action there will be adequate supplies of freight cars and motive power to haul the wheat to the milling centres, and the lake and ocean ports. The preparations this season have been on a larger scale than usual."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1927

Rather an uncertain day, according to astrology, but benefic aspects dominate.

Under this planetary government women should benefit greatly and they should feel stimulated to perform serious work, especially that connected with public service.

There is a sway making for happiness for those married under this rule, for love should be lasting.

It is read as favorable to romance in all its forms and should make for proposals of marriage, from even the most cautious of bachelors.

This is not an auspicious rule for those who seek, employment and despite the promising aspects for women they will be wise to delay applications for positions.

Theatres and all places of amusement should prosper under this sway, which promises good luck to motion picture producers.

This is a favorable day for beginning sea voyages and home-comers from Europe should be especially fortunate.

Again oil and all who hold interests in its production are subject to a favorable direction of the stars.

New consumption of gasoline and similar products is to be greatly extended, it is prognosticated.

The stock markets are to be spectacularly interesting in the autumn when many extraordinary fluctuations will be recorded.

Speculation in grains, and especially in wheat, is forecast, for there will be a rise in values.

Rise in the cost of living will be perceptible and it will be a matter of protest in Great Britain, the seers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of great success in business trades or deals in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will succeed best in independent business ventures. They should have prosperous careers.

FASHION NOTES.

BY HEDDA HOYT

(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (United Press).—Were it not for an assortment of colors and color combinations, women would be quite as drab as men. Each season fashion promotes certain new color blendings which revive our interest in clothes and seem to give us a new lease on life.

Colors may be divided into two classes, warm colors and cold colors. The warm colors reflect light such as red, orange or colors that have red or orange tones in them. Orchid, for instance, a mixture of white, black and red, is a warm tone. Warm shades are inclined to make one appear larger than cool shades such as green, grey, blue or bluish violet. The blending of a cold color with a warm color may produce either cold or warmth according to which shade is the predominatone. Warm colors are winter tones whereas cool colors are best suited for warm Summer months.

Warm Colors.

Red suggests fire, life, heat, danger. Blended with brown or other colors the same effect is gained.

Pink, a less violent toning of red, suggests health, youth, blossoms. This is the most flattering shade to the average person.

Rose-beige and all of the rose-toned tans are inviting shades since they give forth an idea of warmth.

Orange suggests the warmth of Autumn fires, the outdoors.

Cool Shades.

Green expresses life, vigor, open spaces.

Yellow expresses sunlight, butterflies, spring flowers.

Blue suggests skies, calm, dignity, stateliness.

Cool shades are much easier to wear than warm ones since warm shades are apt to be overpowering to the wearer. Pastels are generally cool shades and while they fail to attract attention, they are always flattering to the wearer.

Navy blue is a color which can be worn the year round as it seems neither to express warmth or cold. Black and white combinations are successful for the same reason. Freak shades such as majenta, perriwinkle and others are difficult ones for the average person to wear. Shades which blend with the skies, the fields, and the ground are the easiest ones to wear becomingly. One never tires of them. Beige, tans and parchment tones, for instance, are neutral shades which always appear smart without being over-powering or conspicuous.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

At two o'clock reporters for the morning newspapers began to arrive to get this sensational new "break" in the famous Cherry Lane-Chris Wiley story.

Almost their first demand was for a picture of the kidnapped baby.

"I haven't had any pictures made of her yet," Cherry told them hopelessly.

"We got to have a picture, so the public can join the search for the baby," the reporter from The Morning Star interrupted. "Haven't you got a snapshot or anything? You may be all wrong about its being Chris Wiley that stole the baby; it may be a professional crook, planning to hold the kid for ransom—"

Cherry's high-pitched scream cut off his words, but Faith stepped forward, her face very white. "There is a picture, a painting of myself with the baby. It was painted by Georg Pruitt—"

"Judas Priest! What luck!" the Star reporter breathed devoutly. "Say, let me take it with me now, won't you? I'll have a cut made in a couple of hours."

"Hey, not so fast, old-timer," the reporter from The Chronicle, the opposition morning paper, pushed forward. "We'll take photographs of the painting, for both papers. We want to help you find that baby, Mrs. Hathaway," he said deferentially to Faith.

Not long afterwards newspaper photographers arrived and photographed the beautiful Madonna painting, the empty crib, the weeping Cherry, and, against their will, Faith and Bob beside the crib, their arms about each other, tragedy on their faces.

The Harrisons, who had lived across the street from the Hathaways for months without calling, arrived with coffee sandwiches, and an apparently unlimited supply of old-fashioned neighborly sympathy and helpfulness. The Edward Minnocks, living on the next block, had also been aroused by Samuels, the policeman, on his search for information, and appeared soon after the Harrisons. No one could have believed that she was the same Mrs. Minnock who had been "not at home" when Faith had made her one disastrous attempt to identify herself with the social life of the rather snobbish little neighborhood.

Between them, Mrs. Minnock and Mrs. Harrison persuaded Faith and Cherry to lie down, and then took charge of the household.

Bob sat beside the telephone in the hall, his face worn and haggard. Hourly he called the police station for news, and every time he was stricken afresh with the curt report of the night chief. Sorry! Nothing doing! But the whole force is on the lookout."

Police headquarters had sent out a general alarm to all the neighboring towns, as a matter of course, but Friday morning dawned without any news whatever.

At seven o'clock Faith crept into Cherry's room to find the little figure huddled on the floor beside her bed, her head bowed on her outflung arms.

"Cherry, darling," Faith whispered huskily, as she knelt beside her sister, "don't make yourself ill. You know Chris wouldn't hurt the baby. He's doing it to make you go back to him—"

"I'm going to tell the reporters that I'll go back to him if he'll give me my baby unharmed," Cherry said dully, but her lifted face was bathed in a white light of sacrifice.

RENZYME IS SO DIFFERENT

By Supplying New Enzymes to the Stomach

It Is Positive In Results.

Like most people who have suffered from indigestion, the writer of the letter quoted below had tried many remedies. Renzyme is so different in effect to any previous treatment used that he is now enthusiastic in its use.

No matter what the cause, or of how long standing, Renzyme is bound to afford relief because it actually supplies the digestive ferments which set up the process of digestion.

Mr. A. R. Robertson, Hamilton, Ont., writes:

"Your statement that the Renzyme is a rejuvenating fluid is correct."

"I have been troubled with indigestion for years and have tried all kinds of remedies but secured no relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Renzyme. Almost immediately I had relief and now I am a constant user of same. I most whole-heartedly recommend to anyone who is troubled with stomach disorders to try Renzyme because I know that he will find it to be effective."

You can obtain Renzyme from your druggist at $1.50 a bottle or it will be sent to you, postpaid, on receipt of price, if you mention this paper. The Renzyme Laboratories, Toronto 2, Canada.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 30 1927.

TOMORROW'S MARATHON.

There are some people who believe that a swimming marathon in many of its features savours too much of a circus to fit in with the general excellence of Canada's National Exhibition, but at least there can only be one opinion of the effectiveness of tomorrow's contest as a publicity-winner.

The $50,000 water marathon has attracted world-wide attention.

Practically all the great long-distance male swimmers of today have entered, and of women marathoners all but Gertrude Ederle are ready to start.

The progress of the race is to be broadcast through a linking up of many stations, which will send the story of this great test of endurance and courage round the world, and it is undoubtedly the case that the contest will add to the fame of the Canadian National Exhibition and secure valuable publicity that could not be so effectively obtained in any other way.

Canadians, of course, are intensely interested, particularly because of their hope that George Young, the youthful Toronto swimmer who astonished the world by winning the Catalina swim in January last, will again demonstrate his superiority, although it is realized that he is engaged against a large field of the world's greatest swimmers.

SEASON IS NOT OVER YET.

Those fortunate people who have not yet had their holidays should not lose sight of the fact that at the majority of Ontario's summer hotels reduced rates are offered for September.

The tendency to regard the season for visiting such places as ending with the last days of August is to be regretted.

September often proves to be the finest month of all in which to spend a holiday at one of Ontario's lake resorts, the fishing is generally at its best the mosquitoes are gone, and conditions are conducive to a most enjoyable holiday.

In fact, there is no real reason why the summer resort season should terminate on Labour Day.

The season, always too brief, has, of course, this year been further shortened by the action of the Ontario Department of Fish and Game in extending the closed season for game fishing until July 1st, this cutting the last two weeks in June off the summer resort calendar.

September should see the summer resorts of Ontario's lake districts with more than their usual complement this season, in view of reduced rates and the fact that more people are beginning to realize the advantage of a holiday at that time of the year.

THE CHOICE OF A LEADER.

With the calling of a meeting at which the Conservatives of West Peterborough will select their delegates to the national Conservative convention in Winnipeg in October, local attention will be more closely concentrated upon this important gathering.

The selection of a Conservative leader is a matter that concerns not only Conservatives, but Canadians of all shades of political belief.

An opposition well led is an asset; it is capable of very real service in keeping the Government active and alive, and in ensuring adequate light being thrown upon public affairs.

These facts are recognized by the provision of a comfortable salary for the leader of the official opposition, a condition that in itself affords ample justification for the statement that the selection of such a leader is a matter in which every citizen should be concerned.

This constituency will be represented at Winnipeg not only by four delegates, who will be chosen at Friday's meeting, but also by E. A. Peck, the Federal member for West Peterborough, and by Mrs. Howard Fallis, who has been honoured by being selected as one of the special delegates named by the Ontario Provincial association to represent the Province at large.

PETERBOROUGH'S EXHIBITION.

With the opening of Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition, less than two weeks away, the Directors are confidently looking forward to a record-breaking Exhibition, bigger in almost every department than in any previous year.

The Examiner has no hesitation in associating itself with this optimistic outlook, knowing that the plans made by the management of Peterborough's big Exhibition cannot fail to provide visitors with the greatest array of entertainment features and exhibits in the history of the institution.

Additions that have been made to the Exhibition plant are further justification for hopeful predictions.

The covering of the entire grandstand ensures the best accommodation for Exhibition visitors offered outside the Toronto, London and Ottawa fairs.

The cattle exhibits, always an outstanding feature, will be bigger than ever this season as a result of the new cattle barn just erected.

Webber Turner, in charge of the entertainment features, has arranged a programme that will surprise even those who have learned to look to Mr. Turner for something out of the ordinary.

In short, in every department there has been progress and expansion, and it is safe to predict a record Exhibition.

MONEY IS MADE, BUT LOST AS WELL.

With records in trading being broken on the Toronto Mining Stock Exchange, it would be well to remember that, while money is made in stocks, money is also lost the same way. And so-called marginal playing is real gambling, and nothing else.

Hon. J. L. Perrault, Minister of Mines in Quebec, recently pointed out that the big company which created Noranda had spent millions before anyone ever heard that it had something worth while. The company is still spending millions before it will start to earn on its investment. Of course, the investment would not have been made except for exhaustive investigation by expert engineers. Few players in mining stocks have any conception of the intricate nature of the industry in which they are dabbling and the chances of success or failure where a mining claim is only in the prospect stage.

It is true that the annual production of Ontario and Quebec in gold, silver and copper is mounting by millions. Even so, the big successful mines are the exception, and the failures are forgotten in the general excitement. Some followers of the exchange may be fortunate enough to have "velvet" to play on, and, if necessary, buy shares outright for a hold. If they buy outright, they may be said to be contributing capital necessary to further develop mining resources. Knowing that they can afford to take a chance and will not meet disaster if they lose, no great harm can be done. We gamble on everything in this world, even our fruit growers know what the feeling is, and agriculture is a basic industry. But the man who gambles without a necessary reserve for his working capital is running a big chance of trouble. Our Ontario papers which specialize in financial and mining matters are fairly conservative in opinions which they express. Progress will be just as sure and definite if capital, made up of small holdings, depends on this conservative advice. A mining boom, like real estate or anything else, invariably is followed by a serious reaction.—St. Catharines Standard.

BUILDING POWER REVENUES.

Somewhat over half of the homes in Canada are wired for electricity. There are, roughly, 1,800,000 houses in Canada and slightly over 1,000,000 domestic consumers of electric current. Most of the unwired homes are on farms. Farm areas are now slowly being blanketed by electrical service. As the proportion of wired homes increases, the revenues of the electrical industry will grow.

The revenues of the electrical industry in Canada will increase also as larger blocks of electrical power are required to turn the wheels of new industries.

In a third direction the electrical industry is moving forward very rapidly; that is in the increase in the consumption of electricity in the average home, chiefly through the installation of new labor-saving devices, such as toasters, irons, washers, ironing machines, heaters, refrigerators, etc.

For investors in the shares of Canada's electric light companies this is probably the most interesting of the three certain avenues of expansion, and the one that seems to offer the greatest promise for sure and steady growth in the annual revenues of the companies.

Satisfactory statistics are not available to indicate the amount of electrical energy used in the average Canadian home. We estimate from various official reports that the average lighting bill in Canada, including all appliances operating off the lighting circuit, is $36.50 a year. This may be higher than the average for the ordinary Canadian home because the figures used in the compilation include stores, some warehouses and factories, etc. In the United States the average bill is figured at $29.24 a year, and Canada's actual bill can hardly be higher, for although across the line appliances may be used more freely, rates are certainly lower in Canada because of our more plentiful use of water rather than steam power in the generation of electricity.

Accepting either figure, it is apparent that the average family pays not more than ten cents a day for electric current. This is the price of one cigar for the head of the household. It is one-tenth the cost of maintaining even a small automobile; it is a third of the average man's bill for tobacco. It would not buy a two-pound box of candy once a week. Electricity, the greatest of household servants, works for a meagre wage and is satisfied.

Only a small proportion of homes have a full complement of electrically-operated devices for reducing household labor to the minimum. Again Canadian figures are not available. But American figures show that only 37 per cent. of wired homes have a vacuum cleaner; 26 per cent. an electric toaster; 26 per cent. an electric washing machine; less than 3 per cent. an electric range or a refrigerator; little over 1½ per cent. electric ironing apparatus. These figures undoubtedly will increase from year to year. Nothing like 100 per cent. coverage will ever be attained, nor is it necessary that it should. There will always be people who cannot afford a full range of apparatus; there will always be those who prefer the good old way of doing things. And the influence of the gas which continues to forge ahead year by year, despite the popular superstition that it is being replaced by electricity, is to be reckoned with.

It is estimated that the average home now uses only about 400 kilowatt hours of electrical energy in a year. A rough check-up on Canadian rates and revenues seems to indicate that this figure applies in Canada as well as across the line. An American authority estimates the possible annual consumption of the residential customer at 5,754 kilowatt hours.

It is the constant urge to achieve this latter figure and the steady movement towards that achievement that is one of the important propulsive forces in the electrical industry, a force insuring steady and steadily increasing returns for investors in the sound Canadian companies.—Financial Post.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Tomorrow will undoubtedly show that Pigskin Peters is not the only joke entry in the swimming marathon.

Some of the contestants in tomorrow's swimming race will be accompanied by a jazz band. It might have been worse. Somebody might have chosen to have the bagpipes supply the noise.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie wants more lawyers in public life. He evidently has no hope of winning the United Farmers over to his party, for they believe there have been too many representatives of the legal fraternity in Parliament.

Jack Dempsey has told a Chicago newspaper that he'll quit the ring if he cannot beat Tunney. Can we regard that as a promise?

On behalf of angle parking it is claimed that it enables more cars to be parked. But do we want any more cars parked in the business section?

Invite your friends to visit you during the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. There'll be a multitude of features they'll thank you for an opportunity to see.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—The opening session of this week's cattle market at the Union Stock Yards was fairly active for finished cattle, which sold at steady prices. There were 4,621 cattle received. In addition 2,200 head were billed through. Good handyweight butchers brought $7.50 to $8.00, with a few choice up to $8.50. Heavies were scarce. Good cows sold at $5.50 to $6.25. Bologna bulls were lower in price at $3.50 to $4.00. Store quality were ordinary quality. Feeding heifers brought $5 to $6, with some steers at $6 to $7.

Baby beeves sold up to $13.

With calf receipts of 1,133 head the opening was 50c lower at $13 to $13.50 for choice. Grassers sold at $5 to $6.25 a hundred.

Hog receipts were 815. The market was unsettled with bids a quarter lower or $11.40 off cars for selects.

Sheep and lambs to the number of 2,051 were received. Trading in the lambs opened slowly with bids 50c lower at $12.50 for best ewes and welters. Sheep were steady at $7 for good ewes. Heavy sheep and aged bucks, $4 to $5. Cull sheep $2 to $3; yearling sheep, $8 to $9.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., August 30 (Canadian Press). — Comparatively little business was done with the United Kingdom and the Continent in grain here yesterday, there being practically no demand from any source.

The demand for cash grain in the local market was also of a limited character. The only business reported was a sale of one load of tough No. 2 Northern spring wheat at 13 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal, and odd loads of different grades of oats for local account. The car lot trade in oats was slow. The undertone was easier over the week-end, and prices were reduced three cents per bushel.

In sympathy with the weakness in the Winnipeg cash wheat market yesterday, a weaker feeling developed in the local spring wheat flour market, and prices were reduced 20 cents per barrel. The export trade was fair, but the local demand was quiet.

Prices quoted for winter wheat flour over the week-end showed a decline of 50 to 60 cents per barrel. This was attributed to the large receipts of late and the small demand.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continues to be in excess of the offerings. The undertone is firm and indications are that values will be revised in the near future. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, but prices were unchanged.

Owing to the continued scarcity of fresh eggs, the week-end witnessed another upward revision in local prices. The receipts were 476 cases.

The butter trade was quiet, but the undertone was firm. The receipts were 1,497 packages.

The feature of the cheese trade was the stronger feeling that developed in the market and prices were marked up ¾c to ½c per pound. The receipts were 4,812 boxes.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Cattle 20,000; best fed steers $14.40; both yearlings and heavies; bulk fed offerings $12.00 to $13.75; western grass steers $12.00 down to $8.75; mostly $10.00 to $11.00; stockers and feeders strong to 25 cents higher at $7.25 to $8.50; she stock uneven; westerns steady; natives slow; bulls slow; mostly $6.50 downward for sausage bulls; vealers 50c lower at $3.00 to $13.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 30 (Canadian Press). — All grain plunged downward yesterday to a much lower level of prices. Big arrivals of wheat at Minneapolis, together with reports of rapid harvesting both in Canada and Europe, and a general tendency to enlarge estimates of the Canadian yield, led to heavy selling and to shakiness that spread to other cereals. There was also a drop in export demand for wheat from North America.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor of Examiner:

Some weeks ago a citizen of Peterborough wrote to the Rev. George Jackson, D.D., of Manchester, England, lately in charge of the Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto, by express invitation of the trustees of that church, asking him, as the former professor of theology at Victoria College and as the foremost higher critic and modernist at that time in Canada, to be good enough to explain how a critic of the word of God could possibly believe that the book, which he was criticizing, often very severely, could possibly be the infallible word of the infallible God.

"Toronto, Aug. 20, 1927.

"Dear Sir,—

"Your interesting letter raises many most important questions which cannot possibly be disposed of in a brief note like this. On one point only can I now touch.

"You appear to reason on the supposition that every part of the Bible is in the same sense 'the word of God' as every other part. But this is exactly what the Bible itself forbids us to believe. I need not go beyond the words of Jesus Himself, 'It hath been said'—said where? Why, in the Old Testament. 'But I say unto you,' and then comes the statement of Christ's higher law which abrogates the earlier. There is the same contrast between the earlier and incomplete revelation given 'to the fathers in the prophets' and the perfect truth given to us in Jesus. Does not all this mean necessarily that the Christian reader today, if he is loyal to Jesus, must discriminate as he reads? In other words, nothing even that is in the Bible is truly authoritative for the Christian unless it can claim the sanction of the mind of Christ. Remember, we are Christians, not Jews, and there is not a little in the Old Testament which is as obsolete for us as, say, the book of Leviticus. Nevertheless, there is no part of it that is not of value as enabling us more clearly to trace the steps in that long and slow revelation of God of which the Bible is the record.

"Yours faithfully,
"GEORGE JACKSON."

"Toronto, Aug. 25, 1927.

"Dear Sir,—

"I am afraid we approach this matter with such wholly different pre-suppositions that further discussion is not likely to be of any advantage.

"You say, 'The whole Bible is the word of God, or none of it is.' Surely you forget that the Bible is a little library of books, written at periods separated by periods of hundreds of years. Why should my judgment about the Four Gospels, say, be made to depend upon what I feel about the Song of Songs?

"Moreover, may not some things in the book be of temporary though not abiding validity? Do you regard yourself as under the obligations imposed by the book of Leviticus? If not why not? And what becomes of your 'whole or none' theory?

"But I am just leaving for England and cannot continue the discussion.

"Yours faithfully,
"GEORGE JACKSON."

To these letters Dr. Jackson's Peterborough correspondent replied that:

"If the Bible is inspired and the true word of God, it is not open to criticism, much less objection, in any way. Therefore, it follows that those who criticize it cannot possibly believe that it is the word of God, for no man would dare to stand up before the most high and say that the book which He has sent us must be set right in many particulars and is by no means as reliable, up-to-date and authentic as it has been supposed or appears to be.

"Dr. Jackson's attitude means, therefore, the denial of the Bible as the word of God, and the taking of parts of it here and there which may suit his fancy or opinion and the rejection of the rest is to overthrow the authority of the Bible altogether and to leave us at the mercy of the higher critics."

N. Y. GIANTS CLIP DOUBLE FROM LEADERS

Giants Take Both Ends of Double-Header from Chicago 8-7 and 4-1.

PIRATES OUT

Pittsburgh and St. Louis Cards Are Deadlocked for Second Place.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Yesterday's National League results tended to make the race for the pennant by the first division clubs tighter than ever. When the smoke of battle had cleared away last evening, the leading Cubs found their margin cut to two and a half games; the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cards were deadlocked in second place, while the Giants had made their way to within three and a half games of the leaders and were close on the heels of the Cards and Pirates, only one game separating the Polo Ground athletes from second place.

The big chunk hacked out of the Chicago lead was accomplished by the Giants at the Polo Grounds, who took both ends of a double header, 8 to 7 and 4 to 1 before 40,000 fans.

Rain kept the Pirates from reaching a decision at Philadelphia, while the Cards lost their slight second place advantage by dividing a double bill with the Robins at Brooklyn. The Robins won the opener, 2 to 1, and the Cards retaliated in the second encounter by the same.

Meanwhile Cincinnati was defeating the "August champions" of the league, the Braves, in two games at Boston. The scores were 4 to 2 and 6 to 5. The Braves played havoc with the Cubs and Pirates, but evidently the strain proved too great for them, and, if yesterday's games can be taken as a criterion, they are evidently sliding back into their usual stride.

The first Cub-Giant fracas was a stubbornly fought affair marked by New York's seven run drive in the third inning. Mueller led off with a home run and coming up later in the session with the bases full, he drove in two more runs with a single. Chicago worked hard to overcome the lead and, in a frequent shifting of pinch hitters came within one of a tie.

Charley Root was matched against Benton in a pitching duel in the second game but the Cub hurler weakened in the seventh when the Giants thumped out six hits for four runs.

Petty Wins Opener.

Jess Petty won the opener for the Robins at Ebbetts Field, vanquishing Alexander in a mound duel and driving in the deciding run with a single in the seventh. The victory broke a losing streak that had tagged Petty on his last four starts.

Jess Haines hung up his 21st triumph in the closing fray at the expense of Jim Elliott, who allowed the Cards only two hits in eight innings.

The Phillies and Pirates were slated for two games at Philadelphia. The first game started and went as far as the end of the sixth inning. Each team had scored twice, but a heavy rain started and forced postponement of both games.

Rixey pitched airtight ball for the Reds in the first game at Boston until the ninth inning, when he lost a pop fly in the sun and gave way to a relief hurler. The relief pitching of Lucas in the second game was responsible for the Cincinnati victory.

The double setback compelled the Braves to relinquish sixth place in the standing to Brooklyn.

H. A. Barry, the British sculler who meets Major Goodsell for the world's championship at Vancouver on Labor Day, is twenty-five years old. He has never been beaten in a scratch sculling race, and it is said that he is a better sculler than his uncle, the famous Ernest Barry, who held the world's championship. Young Barry is a son of W. A. Barry, who was the champion sculler of England some twenty years ago.

WILLS WILL PLAY OPPOSITE NUTHALL

Match Youth and Skill in International Battle for Tennis Championship.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press). — Helen Wills, 21 year old Californian, and Betty Nuthall, 16 year old English girl, will match their youth and skill to-day in an international battle for the United States Women's tennis championship.

Blond and blue-eyed Betty, sensation of the tournament, fought her way to the final yesterday by overcoming Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, conqueror of Mrs. Molla Mallory, in three sets, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, while Miss Wills crushed her California rival, Miss Helen Jacobs in the same relentless fashion she has disposed of all her other opponents so far. The scores were 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Nuthall will be in the thick of two title battles, for with Miss Jean Fry as her partner she reached the doubles final by defeating two countrywomen, Miss Gwynneth Sterry and Mrs. John Hill, 6-3, 6-3. In an all-British final for this United States championship, they will meet Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Miss E. H. Harvey who put out the last native team yesterday when they defeated Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Chapin, 6-4, 7-5.

In the singles final the two youthful aces of British and United States tennis will meet for the crown that Miss Nuthall is seeking for the first time and Miss Wills is hopeful of wearing for the fourth time in five years. There are all the elements of youthful skill, drama and color involved in this test, the first time they have met, but it will be regarded as nothing short of a tennis upset if Miss Wills does not emerge the victor.

Miss Wills not only the favorite ebcause her play has been the most impressive of the entire tournament, dominating all others, but because she has reached the peak with one of the most powerful attacks any woman player has ever possessed.

The five years difference in their ages represents a vast store of experience and development that Miss Nuthall in spite of her British rise has yet to gain. The English girl is reaching her first national final at the same age that Miss Wills did, 16, and five years ago the Californian was not yet up to the task of winning a big championship. Now, with three titles to her credit, as well as this year's Wimbledon crown, Miss Wills is meeting for the first time a younger opponent in the final test.

Meet Foreign Challenge.

It will be the second British-American contest for the title in three years and the second time Miss Wills has been called on to meet a foreign challenge. Then at the height of her game, Kitty McKane, now Mrs. L. A. Godfree, extended Miss Wills to their sets before losing in 1925. This year Mrs. Godfree, decisively beaten in the Wightman cup matches by Miss Wills defaulted in the singles tournament, while the "baby" of the British team has carried on to the final.

"Bounding Betty" as she has been called because of the grace and speed with which she romps all over the court, may give Miss Wills a keen and interesting tussle, even if the odds are heavily against her. The English girl has displayed a dash and confidence as well as a knowledge of tactics and resourcefulness usually associated with players of much greater experience. Her three-set victories in succession over two of America's best players, Eleanor Goss, third in the ranking list, and Mrs. Chapin, fifth on the national roll, demonstrated the English girl's ability to withstand pressure and return her best shots under fire.

BISONS TAKE DOUBLE BILL

League Leaders Snatch Two Games From Skeeters, 3-1 and 3-2.

GAMES POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Playing baseball of the type common before the days of the animated ball, the league-leading Bisons snatched two fast and snappy games from the Jersey Skeeters at Buffalo yesterday by scores of 3 to 1 and 3 to 2. The Bisons gained a full game on the Syracuse Stars, who were not scheduled. It required only two hours and 32 minutes for both games. Brainard's long line home and two timely run producing hits by Bisonnette gave the Bisons the first game. Proffitt held the Skeeters to four hits and outside of Shannon's home run, none of the Skeeters reached second base.

Baltimore was not scheduled, while two other games were postponed owing to rain.

SKATING RINK SITE PURCHASED

Directors Take Stirling Rink as Model for Tweed Building.

TWEED, Aug. 30.—At a very enthusiastic meeting of the shareholders of the Tweed Amusements, Limited, the following directors were elected: W. S. Gordon, James Ryan, Thomas Beatty, Felix Rashotte, S. G. Way, John Quinn, Harold Purdy.

At a meeting of the new directors at the close of the shareholders' meeting the following officers were elected: President, W. S. Gordon; Vice-President, James Ryan; Secretary-Treasurer, Thomas Beatty.

The new directors motored to Stirling and Frankford and inspected the two different styles of rinks. They unanimously decided to build Tweed rink on the plan of the Stirling rink, with some important improvements. The directors then purchased from S. G. Way three town lots which lie between his foundry and the Salvation Army barracks and extending back to the school grounds. The committee felt that while the price was high it was the only suitable place for the erection of the rink as they felt much larger gate receipts could be secured from a central position in the town than any other place.

YANKS WIN FINAL BILL

Make 18th Triumph Over St. Louis Browns for This Season.

HOMER FOR GEHRIG

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.) — Pounding Alvin Crowder for five runs in the third inning at St. Louis yesterday, the Yanks sewed up the final of a three game Browns' series, winning out by 8 to 3. It was the 18th triumph over the St. Louis club this season and the home club has yet to defeat the New Yorkers. Lou Gehrig crashed his 41st homer to tag behind Ruth by one run, in the third. Crowder was the victim and two were on the sacks.

Jack Quinn shut out the Tigers at Detroit, holding them to three hits, and Philadelphia won the closing game of the series, 5 to 0. It was the sixth successive defeat for the Detroit club. Only three Tigers advanced as far as third base.

Whitehill opposed Quinn for the first seven innings and was hampered by poor support. It was the second time this season that the Tigers have suffered a shutout.

Holding Cleveland to two hits, one of them a scratch when Harriss failed to touch first in making a throw from Todt, Boston made it two out of three at Cleveland, winning 10 to 2. Cleveland escaped a shutout when Flagstead let Jamieson's single go through him for two extra bases.

At Chicago, Washington presented a revamped line-up in order to break a losing streak which has extended throughout 12 games. Rain, however, stopped the contest in the second inning with Washington leading, 2 to 1.

The Washington players drew lots to determine the line-up, with the result that four regulars, Manager Bucky Harris, Tris Speaker, Muddy Ruel and Bluege, sat in the dugout. The batting order was also determined by lot.

Cleaning up the 1800 tons of waste paper and confetti thrown upon the streets during the welcome of Colonel Lindbergh cost New York City $16,000.

Soccer Notes

There will be no soccer games during the week-end. It has been always a recognized holiday in soccer in the city because the players have arranged their vacation during that period.

A special meeting of the Association will be held on Wednesday evening, in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms at 8 o'clock. Business important.

Arrangements were made to play the drawn game between the Thistle and Quaker Oats on Saturday, September 10th, 1927, at King Edward Park. Kick off at three o'clock. Referee John Ward.

All Massey players are requested to be at the practice game on Wednesday evening at King Edward Park. Business of importance to be discussed after the training.

As usual, the old country soccer teams are complaining about the number of players that are jumping their contracts and beating it to the United States. Indiana and Bethlehem Steel teams are the elevens who have signed the new players.

A. Anderson, of the Thistle, scored a goal last year from a penalty-kick but this season he occupied T. McPhail's position at outside left, instead of full back and many spectators congratulated him on his goal achievement last Saturday when he scored from the flag-corner. Manders of the C. G. E. did the same performance a few seasons ago.

After careful consideration by the executive board and the team concerned, the President was instructed to obtain Club Bags, instead of medals, as the gift of the association to the winners of the league championship—The Masseys. All local merchants were asked to quote prices and the goods will be procured in the city.

Rich Bill Offered At Grand Circuit

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The richest programme in the history of Grand Circuit racing will be offered to horse followers at the New York state fair to-day. The Hambletonian stake, richest of all racing events, harness horses or runners, with a purse of $65,000, will headline the bill. The three year old classic was postponed yesterday because of a wet track. Another feature will be the Empire State, for 2.08 trotters and a $10,000 purse. Three other races for $1,000 purses complete the card.

In yesterday's feature, the three year old pace, Stokes Grove Hollywood Jacqueline to victory in four heats over Gilda Grey and Volo Rico, taking the fourth heat in a breeze. The claiming trot went to Cupid's Albingen, with Cox up, and Bugle Call, driven by Martin, won three heats and the 2.10 trot from Guy Watts, Murphy's Favorite. Murphy's gelding was pocketed twice and tired in the swing around the field.

A. Ball, Manitoba speedster, who won the Canadian championship in the quarter mile at the dominion track and field meet, the official Canadian Olympic trials.

OBITUARY

MICHAEL JOSEPH ALLEN.

The death occurred last night, following an operation, of Michael Joseph Allen, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Allen of Lakefield, age 4 years and 8 months.

He is survived by his father and mother, four sisters, Genieve, Mary Madeline, and Eleanor, also one brother John.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning in St. Paul's Church, Lakefield, with interment in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro.

GEORGE DAINARD.

George Dainard, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dainard, Park Street, was peacefully laid to rest yesterday afternoon in the Trent Valley Cemetery which overlooks the waters of the Trent River, where he met his death.

George was a youth of sixteen years eleven months and four days. He was a member of L.O.B.A. No. 2, Hastings Fire Brigade, and also a member of the Woodmen of the World. He was a consistent member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School and young people's meetings. Rev. Mr. Pippen and Rev. Mr. Hle preached the funeral service, which was conducted under the order of the Orange Lodge and Woodmen of the World.

Among the floral tributes were: Pillow, the Family; wreaths from the Woodmen of the World, L.O.B.A. No. 2, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. McKenty, Hastings Fire Brigade, Presbyterian Sunday School Presbyterian Choir, Ladies' Aid, Mr. and Mrs. McMillan, Mr. Plant and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cruickshank, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. P. Lemaire, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Parker; cross by Mr. and Mrs. E. Braithwaite; wreaths —Mrs. Geo. Whitred, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Bruce and Dorothy Dainard, Mr. and Mrs. A. Maiden, Mr. and Mrs. R. McConnell and Miss Lillian Smith, Mrs. John Hawkins, Elva and Pansy Killinbeck, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fowlds, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Scriver and Byrant, Mr. and Mrs. James Sherwin, Misses Peake, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. John Prest, Mr. and Mrs. S. Spooner, Mary and Annie Spooner, T. A. Coughlin and staff, Mrs. O'Shea and Angella, Lillian Broker, Mr. and Mrs. James Calaberry, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Dodd, Mrs. B. F. Doxsee and Mr. A. Doxsee of Peterborough.

The pall-bearers were six of his chums: Fred Richardson, Trevor Dodd, Stewart Whitred, Louis Drope, Allan Sherwin and W. McMillan.

He leaves to mourn his death, besides his sorrowing parents, four brothers and three sisters.

The community extend their sympathy to the family in their sad bereavement.

WEDDING BELLS.

ROSE—MARK.

TRENT RIVER, August 30. — St. Columba United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Jeanette, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mark, became the bride of Mr. Harry Rose, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose, of Toronto. Rev. G. H. Thomas officiated. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a lovely gown of white taffeta, her tulle veil being held in place by a coronet of pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, calla lilies, and maidenhair fern. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Mark, sister of the bride, who was gowned in pale blue georgette, and Miss Elva Kinsman, in pale pink georgette, with hats to match, both carrying old-fashioned nosegays of sweet peas, roses, and baby's breath. The little flower girl, Helen Christie, cousin of the bride, was dressed in green and carried a basket of sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Mr. G. Lavielle supported the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Wm. Christie and James Summerville.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Atlas Avenue. Mrs. Mark, the bride's mother, received the guests in blue georgette, with a corsage of roses and maidenhair fern, while Mrs. Rose, mother of the groom, was in silver grey georgette with a bouquet of mauve sweet peas.

The groom's gift to the bride was a grey fox fur, to the bridesmaids each a wrist watch, and to the organist a silver compact, the flower girl receiving a gold signet ring. The gift to the groomsman was a wrist watch and the ushers received gold monogramed pencils. After a buffet luncheon the happy couple left by motor to French River, where they will spend their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a blue and grey frock with coat, shoes, and stockings to match, and blue hat.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Rose will reside on Hillsdale Avenue. —Toronto Star.

This wedding is of interest to the people of Trent River, as the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose, spend their summers at Ye Olde Mill.

HOLSTEINS TESTED

Nine of W. F. Fallis' Cattle Are Entered in R.O.P. Test.

MILLBROOK, August 30. — The result of the offical test of the pure-bred Holstein herd of cattle at "Windermere Farm", owned by W. Fred Fallis, made recently by A. J. Campbell, Port Hope, is listed as follows:

Alice Vale Rauward	3.4
Rauward Alice	4.9
Lulu Alice	3.4
Korndyke Marcena Alice	3.6
Alice Vale	3.7
Alice Rue Vale	3.5

Nine of Mr. Fallis' cattle, out of a fairly large herd, are entered in the R. O. P. test, and the above is considered a good showing. The standard is 3.3 and the owner's objective is to eliminate any animal unless it tests over this minimum. The bottle test was 4.6—this is the milk used for delivery to customers.

About May first this year a change was made in the regulations affecting the Record of Performance test, owners having to pay three dollars to enter their herds, and one dollar for every certificate issued for each animal that passed the standard. Previous to this time no money obligation was involved. The change has been beneficial in that it has eliminated careless and indifferent breeders who took up the time of the government official, and made no effort to have their stock in proper condition.

The test is supposed to be made every six weeks, but actually about two months have elapsed between the official visits, sometimes longer, owing to a shortage on the staff.

A speed of not less than forty miles an hour is needed to keep an aeroplane in the air.

WOMEN GIVE UP CHANNEL SWIM

Dr. MacLellan Gets Over Three-Quarters of Way Across in 14 Hours.

SEA BECOMES ROUGH.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, Aug. 30. —(Canadian Press'. — Miss Mona MacLellan, the English girl doctor, gave up the attempt to swim the channel when three quarters of way across after fourteen hours in the water, the sea becoming too rough. Five other aspirants dropped out before her.

The dogged British girl doctor, Miss Mona MacLellan, was the only survivor this afternoon. Six hopeful swimmers who set out last night and to-day to swim the English Channel, the others had already dropped out late this afternoon but Miss MacLellan was still battling. She started at 10.10 last night.

CANADA'S BEST GIRL ATHLETES

Here are Canada's three outstanding girl athletes: From LEFT to RIGHT are: Miss Fanny "Bobby" Rosenfeld, the best all-round girl athlete in Canada; Miss Catherwood, the best high jumper in Canada and probably the best in the world, and Mrs. Bert O'Neill—Rosa Gross—who was the best girl sprinter in America, and who is still looked upon as a sure winner of the women's Olympic sprint championship next year if she goes over on the Canadian team. Miss Catherwood is expected to break the world's jumping record at the C.N.E. meet.

CRICKET CLUB DEEATS C.G.E.

Wins By 41 Runs in Saturday's Game at the Oval.

PLAY WAS FAST.

The Peterboro Cricket Club defeated a C.G.E. XI. at the Oval on Saturday afternoon by 41 runs. The Peterboro team were minus two or three of their best players, who were C.G.E. employees and played for the factory team. The Peterboro team played determined cricket, and won on their merits.

The C.G.E. batted first and lost Manning and Langley with only one run on the board, both being bowled by Thorpe. With nine runs added, Jefferson mistimed a good ball from Elliot and was bowled. Carpenter went at 15, and Duggan at 17. These two were also bowled by Thorpe. The Peterboro fielding was good, and runs were hard to get. Reg. Dyer was playing very steady and got good support from Callendine, Dainton and Nicholson. The score finally reached 73, which seemed highly improbable at one time, when six wickets were down for 24 runs. R. Dyer played well for 22 not out.

The Peterboro Club opened with Stuart and Dunkerley. With very careful batting, the score was carried to 32 before Stuart was bowled. Gore was next in, and was batting well when he was unfortunately run out. Thorpe and Dunkerly made it 59 before the former was bowled by a slow ball from Langley, the ball striking the batter's elbow and falling on the wicket. Elliot scored five and was then caught in the slips. Smith made some nice hits and scored 11. In the meantime Dunkerly was scoring steadily, and finally scored 51 before being beaten by a good ball from Callendine. Monkman carried his bat for 10. The final score was 114 runs.

For Peterboro, Thorpe took five wickets for 28 runs, Gore, T., three for 24, and Elliot one for 12.

For the C.G.E., Callendine took four wickets for 9, Nicholson two for 12, and R. Dyer two for 33.

The game was umpired by Miles Hamilton and Massey-Cooke.

The score:

C.G.E.

An accident to a ship once brought her owners a small fortune. She was sailing from Hawaii to New York with a cargo of sugar, when she ran into very bad weather, and damaged one of her propellers so badly that she could only steam at half-speed. Meantime, the price of sugar went up, and when she arrived at New York her cargo had increased in value by $30,000.

PLAIN MR. YORK, OF YORK, YORKS, is coming!

RUN RELAY RACE FROM TORONTO

Peterborough 'Y' Boys Training For Hundred Mile Run.

TWENTY TAKING PART.

Twenty runners from the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. will run in a relay event from Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. to Peterborough during the week of September 12 to 17 (Peterborough Fair Week). A large number of boys are training for this event, which will require each man to run an average distance of five miles.

Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE WANING SEX."

One of the snappiest and most interesting feature pictures presented here for some time past is the production, "The Waning Sex," running at the Capitol Theatre during the first half of this week. It is the type of picture that maintains the interest from beginning to end, and has plenty of humour in its outlining of the story of "masculine ladies and feminine men." But the lady isn't too aggressively masculine, at that, and the man proves his superiority in the rapid-fire finale that closes the production rather abruptly, but quite satisfactorily.

Although, from advance notices, it is quite evident that a great deal of cutting has been done on this picture (the time may come, perhaps, when we will be pleased with pictures that may be shown to any audience without the censor's shears having been busy on them) it still has a very satisfactory and delightful unfolding. Norma Shearer is the fascinating heroine who combines the roles of a lady lawyer and also a feminine creature who gets a good deal of fun out of playing at the game of love with her suitor, Philip Barry (Conrad Nagel) who is determined to make her marry him, and finally succeeds. They make a bet that the one winning two of three contests shall be the victor and set the terms of the marriage contract. The lady loses out on a swimming race, but wins in the court of law when she defends the criminal whom her lover, as district attorney, is prosecuting. However, in the final tilt of the trio, she comes a cropper, and the man has the best of the situation.

It is a delightful comedy, full of amusing episodes and colored by the interesting pose of the heroine, Norma Shearer, who has a way all her own.

With the feature is the showing, which will continue during the week, of the pictures of Peterborough's Diamond Jubilee Celebration, described on their initial appearance, and depicting very faithfully the programme of the eventful occasion, commencing with the water sports of the morning and showing in detail the various floats in the big parade. There is also a very good comedy of a "cross-eyed" type.

—Jeanette.

CARRIAGE WANTED.

Family With Nine Children Requires a Twin Baby Carriage.

Anyone possessing a twin baby carriage that is not in use would be doing a kindly act to donate it to a family with nine children, the latest arrivals, a pair of twins, having come to Peterborough about two weeks ago to a home where there isn't much beyond the barest necessities to offer them. Supplies of any type or fruit or vegetables from large gardens would also be welcomed here. Telephone 2934W and things will be called for.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CRICKET

While Uncle Wiggily was hopping along a path in the woods one day with Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit girl suddenly dropped the flowers she had been picking and cried:

"Oh, Unke Wig! Look at this!"

"What is it?" inquired Mr. Longears. "Have you found a new sort of blossom?"

"No, but I have found a black grasshopper!" shouted Bunty. "Oh, what a naughty little grasshopper boy he must be, never to have washed! All black! Fie for shame!" and Bunty pointed one paw at something on the ground. Uncle Wiggily hopped over beside her.

"Un-Uncle Wig-gig-gily," sobbed the Bear.

"That isn't a black grasshopper," said the rabbit gentleman with a laugh. "Oh, Bunty, how funny you are!"

"What is it, then?" she asked.

"It is a cricket and crickets are always black—at least I never saw any who were not," answered Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, well, if it's all right for him to be black, never mind then, and I'm sorry I laughed at him and thought he was a black grasshopper," said Bunty, picking up her flowers.

"Pray do not mention it," chirped the cricket in a sad, discontented and doleful voice. "I certainly jump around like a grasshopper, though I am not big enough to be one."

"No, I see you aren't," admitted Bunty. "Some grasshoppers came to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow yesterday and brought sugar for a cake," went on Bunty. "Well, I am glad to meet you, Mr. Cricket!"

"But why are you so sad?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the black, jumping insect.

"Because I do not seem to be of any use in this world," the cricket replied. Bunty strolled on gathering flowers, and Uncle Wiggily remained on the path with the little black chap. "I can't seem do do a bit of good," the cricket went on. "The grasshoppers brought you sugar, even the prickly porcupine helped you by driving the Bob Cat away. But, as for me—all I can do is hop and chirp."

"Ah, but that is just it!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Your cheerful, chirping song, Mr. Cricket, does more good than you think."

"I can scarcely believe that," murmured the black chap.

"Well, perhaps I can prove it to you before the day is over," said the bunny gentleman. "Here, hop into my pocket and come adventuring with me. We shall see what happens."

So the cricket hopped into the rabbit gentleman's pocket and Uncle Wiggily went along the woodland path. Baby Bunty called to say that she was going to take her flowers to the bungalow, so this left Mr. Longears and the cricket by themselves.

On and on hopped the rabbit gentleman up hill and down dale and it was so snug, cozy and restful in the pocket that the black cricket went fast to sleep. It wasn't long after this before, all of a sudden, while Uncle Wiggily was looking around the corner of a big rock to see if an adventure might be hiding there, that something happened.

The Bushy Bear leaped out from where he was hiding in a hollow tree and caught Mr. Longears. And before Uncle Wiggily quite knew what it was all about the Bear had taken him to his den.

"At last I have you!" growled the shaggy chap. "For a long time I have been trying to get you and now I have. Let me see, now, which ear shall I nibble first?" He stood Uncle Wiggily in front of him and looked at the rabbit's ears. And then, all of a quickness, the cricket in the bunny's pocket awakened and began to chirp and sing.

The cricket sang of crisp, cool days in the fall, when the leaves on the trees begin to turn brown. The cricket sang of snpaping, crackling fires at which apples could be roasted and corn popped. The cricket sang of long nights when the stars sparkled in the sky and the cricket sang such a jolly, happy song that tears came into the eyes of the Bear.

"Un-Uncle Wig-gig-gily," sobbed the shaggy Bear. "I don't know wha-what is the matter with me, but I feel different, somehow. That singing reminded me of the days when I was a good little bear boy and didn't catch rabbit gentlemen. I-I haven't the heart to eat you now! That song has made me want to be good—at least for a little while. And if you will take my advice you will get out of my den as soon as you can before the effect wears off and I turn bad again. A cricket's song! Ah, what memories it brings of my happy boyhood! Go! Go! If I had known there was a cricket in my den, to break me all up this way, I never would have let him stay here! Go!" With tears streaming from his eyes the Bear pointed to the door of his den and the rabbit quickly hopped out.

"There you see, Mr. Cricket," said Mr. Longears to his little black friend, "what a cheerful song can do! You saved my life!"

"I never would have believed it!" said the chirping insect.

But that is really what happened, and ever after that the hopping black bug was content.

TWO HOLD-UPS IN BELLEVILLE

Local Chinese Is Held Up By Two Masked Bandits.

SUNDAY NIGHT.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., August 30. — Mack Fang, a local Chinese, who has a laundry on the west side of the river, was held up by two masked bandits with guns about midnight on Sunday and relieved of $1.65. Eleven dollars in his hip pocket was left untouched by the thugs in their hurry to get away.

The Chinese told police that he had come out of his laundry to go to a store, and when near Coleman and West Bridge Streets two men stepped from the dark shadows of the near-by building, and, sticking guns into his stomach, told him to put his hands up.

Another hold-up was reported earlier by an American tourist to the Provincial Police, but investigation proved nothing. The tourist stated that between Shannonville and this city he saw a man with a mask on and a gun "frisking" a pedestrian. He did not stop, but hurried to the city and reported it to the police.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, August 30. —(Canadian Press)—Four would-be channel swimmers were forging their way through the treacherous waterway to-day with England as their objective. They were Miss Mona MacLellan, English woman doctor; Miss Ivy Hawke, English swimmer, Rene Doria of Switzerland and Dr. Schiff a German veteran.

Free from corns
For the First time in Twenty years

Why despair of ridding yourself of corns? Here is a lady who had suffered 20 years. Eventually she tried Radox. She put a tablespoonful into a footbath and bathed her feet for a quarter of an hour. After a few times Radox enabled the corns to be lifted out, root and all. Have you got YOUR corns out with Radox yet? Read the letter:

"My husband and I find Radox Bath Salts a wonderful remedy for sore and tired feet and as a relief for corns. For the first time in 20 years I am free from corns. I attribute this to the prompt use of Radox. We already know Radox as a great remedy for rheumatism and stiffness, and are glad to repeat that it is just as satisfactory for corns."

9th April, 1927. Mrs. J. A. C.

When you dip your feet into a footbath containing Radox Bath Salts, the dead skin of the corn combines with the Radox Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in the water, and so softens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily. Radox does not affect the living skin, but dissolves the dead skin—the corn. 60c. "RHEUMATIC DISORDERS"

The various forms of rheumatism may be conveniently classed under either of the two headings, "acute" or "chronic." I realize that many other classifications could be made, and that many "authorities" will disagree with my classification and with my theories regarding the cause and cure of these disorders.

Most physicians believe that rheumatic fever as well as articular rheumatism, arthritis deformans, gonorrheal and tubercular arthritis are all caused by specific bacterial infections. Laboratory findings, however, have not proved this to be true. Where bacteria are found in the tonsils, joints or other parts of the body of the rheumatic patient, they vary in kind, and just when an investigator has found the specific micro-organism which is responsible in a certain form of rheumatism, he is disappointed in the next case to find this bacterium absent, or some other kind in its place.

The reason rheumatism has proved such a stubborn disease is mostly because physicians have been so busy searching for a specific bacterial cause they have overlooked the fundamental principle that all diseases have their root in the soil of some toxemia, and that even if bacteria can be considered a contributory cause, they can not be the direct cause any more than vegetables can be the cause of well-fertilized ground.

It is this writer's opinion that those suffering from either rheumatic fever or arthritis must have a definite toxicosis or diathesis before an acute attack can develop, or before any chronic form shows in painful or enlarged joints. It is unquestionably true that small forms of vegetable micro-organisms are present in every disease, but the folly is to allow our attention to be side-tracked into considering these ever-present bacteria as fundamental causes of disease. May we not be helped by the death-bed suggestion of the man who originated the germ theory of disease when he said: "If I had my life to live over again, it would be spent in proving that germs are not primarily the cause of disease, but rather that they have the faculty of finding a suitable soil in which to grow."

The rheumatic patients coming into my office have invariably had their tonsils removed, teeth extracted, sinuses and antrums drained, and many have had their gall-bladders or appendices removed as the result of the search by different physicians to catch the elusive germ believed to have caused their trouble. The few who have been even temporarily helped have been so few as to make it plain that rheumatism can not be cut out with a knife; neither can you poison it away, or drug or dope it out of the system. Cleansing the blood stream by eliminative measures will be found to be the only way that any form of rheumatism can be permanently cured.

In tomorrow's article I will explain some causes of acute rheumatic fever.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: G. E. W. W. writes: "Two years ago my sister had her gall-bladder removed. Now she has a rash all over her body, and her doctor tells her it is because she has no gall-bladder. What can she do? Would an orange juice fast do her any good? I have tried the orange juice fast, myself, for eight days and feel like a different person."

ANSWER: There is probably no connection between the removal of your sister's gall-bladder and the rash which she is now bothered with. The gall-bladder, if infected or diseased, may become a regular cesspool of poison. After such a gall-bladder is removed, patient should feel better for a year or two, but if the same habits continue which produced the gall-bladder trouble in the first place, other symptoms and disorders must inevitably result. The orange juice fast would certainly be a good treatment for her to take to cleanse the liver and remove excess toxins. Tell your sister to be especially careful afterwards to use good food combinations.

QUESTIIN: Joyce writes: "I wish you would tell me something about cucumbers. I am very fond of them, but even while eating them I have a secret fear that they are kind of poison or something."

ANSWER: Cucumbers are not only harmless, but a really valuable sal ad vegetable when used in proper combination with other foods. Its bad reputation is due to the fact that whenever it is eaten with an improperly balanced meal and there is trouble, the cucumber is immediately blamed, when the vinegar and onions with which it was "prepared" are the offenders. Use cucumbers quartered or sliced, without adding salt or oil, and you will quickly decide there is nothing "poison" about the cucumber.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WHEN I BUILD MY HOUSE.

When I build my house it will be
Just big enough for two or three,
The ceilings won't be very high,
Like houses that the big folks buy;
The doors will be just half as wide,
With little, tiny rooms inside;
For all the houses I have seen
Are twice too big—for me, I mean.

When I build my house all the chairs
Will just be half the size of theirs,
And at the table I can sit
And never have to reach a bit.

I'll have a little kitchen, too,
Just like the Teenie Weenies do,
And I won't have electric lights,
But Chinese lanterns burning nights.

When I build my house, then I plan
To marry just a little man.
I'll want a husband, I presume,
But one that won't take up much room.
And I won't let him go away,
But we'll just play and play and play.
I think a little house is best;
They always seem the happiest.

BRAZIL SEARCHES FOR PAUL REDFERN

Rumour Says Aviator Was Seen Over Mouth of Orinoco River.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 30—(Canadian Press). — Every effort is being made by the Brazilian Government to locate Paul Redfern, who started from Brunswick, Georgia, last Thursday on a non-stop flight to Brazil and who has not been heard of since. Efforts were redoubled since a rumour was received that the aviator had been seen at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, plowing through the sky above the northern rim of South American Continent at the mouth of the Orinoco River.

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she is betrothed. Murtough joins a bootlegging band and Sheila is befriended by the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional lightweight boxer. Murtough, influenced by a cabaret girl, betrays his band. He deserts Sheila at a dance and Rory thrashes him. The rival gang raids the hiding place on Long Island revealed by Murtough and carries away $150,000 of contraband.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

Clarice had taken Murtough to a hospital, where the cuts in his face from Rory's fists were treated. Several stitches were taken in the wounds across his brows.

"Looks like you had been in a battle," said Schermer when he met them.

"There was a row at the dance last night," explained Clarice. She did not care so much for Murtough with the ludicrous bandages covering his face. "Of course you ought to see the other fellow," she laughed.

"Always," said Schermer. He guided them into the garage office. There he counted out five thousand dollars and handed it to Murtough. "You did a good job, Murtough," he said. "It was well worth every cent of this. Now I suppose you and your sweetie will get married and settle down, eh?"

"We're going west," said Clarice. "I don't think it would be healthy for Emmett as long as Clocker's around. He had a quarrel with him last night and I'll bet a new hat that Clocker suspects him the minute he finds out about the raid."

"I wouldn't be surprised," admitted Schermer.

"But you said there wasn't a chance of a tiff-off to him," protested Murtough.

"Well, you can never tell, some of our boys might leak. I don't say they would, but it certainly will be safer for you out of town than in."

"Then let's get started now," exclaimed Murtough. Schermer went out to a high powered car in which a driver was seated. "Drive my friends to Bridgeport," he ordered. He looked at his watch. "You should be reaching Ossining at a quarter to seven. Do you understand?"

"Sure," said the chauffeur, and shortly after the car backed out and turned north, carrying Clarice, Murtough and two suitcases.

"You certainly look bad," said Clarice. "I knew that Rory could fight, but I never thought he could lick a big man like you."

"I never boxed; he's been a boxer all his life. I could beat him any day in a rough and tumble fight. But I couldn't dodge his fists."

The car rolled on, the chauffeur watching his clock and adjusting his speed to the schedule Schermer had announced in the garage. Neither Clarice nor Murtough gave thought to time.

"But we got a great start haven't we, sweetheart?" said Murtough. "With this we can get into business for ourselves and make a lot of money."

"Sure we can, and I know just what to do and how to do it, Big Boy. You follow in the steps of your little Clarice and she'll make us both rich."

"Do you want to go to Detroit, and how far west is that?" Murtough asked.

"We'll see what's best. We'll lay low up here until I can get some information from my friends out there. Then we'll decide what to do."

Dusk had come when the machine approached Ossining, and the clock on the dashboard read twenty minutes to seven. The car swung around a curve; there was a grinding of brakes and a stop so sudden that both Clarice and Murtough were thrown forward across the back of the driver's seat. A car stood across the roadway, preventing further passage.

"Climb out, you," a voice ordered, and two men stepped from behind the strange car. Both wore masks. Murtough, Clarice and the chauffeur dismounted. Swiftly the one who had given the command frisked Murtough and took the huge roll of bills. "Good enough," he murmured. He looked at his watch. "Come on, get in here," he ordered Murtough, pointing to the tonneau of his machine. Murtough climbed in and found himself sitting by a stranger, also masked, who shoved a gun into his side. The leader turned to the man who remained in the road. "You guard the girl and the driver until I get back." He leaped into the seat beside Murtough.

"Now, you thick head," he said curtly, "here's a through ticket to Chicago and $250. That's enough for you. And take it from me you'd better start in carrying a bod. You haven't got brains enough to be a crook. This train stops here in five minutes. I'll take you to the steps of the car and unless you want to be carried in a box you'd better hop that train and stay there."

"Who are you?" demanded Murtough.

"Just a friend of yours," replied his captor as he slipped off the mask and faced Murtough.

"Schermer!"

"You certainly didn't think I was going to let you get away with that five grand, did you?" sneered Schermer. "Why, you poor boob, you never had a chance. And so you won't think you have a chance, let me tell you that I've already tipped off Clocker that it was you who gave us the information. I'm doing you a favor by sending you out of town.

"And listen, dumb-bell, you go straight when you get out there. Keep away from cards, because you don't fit in."

At the station Schermer and Murtough stepped from the car just as the train came to a stop. Schermer took his arm as though he was a friend helping a sick man and led him to the train. As the conductor cried "All aboard!" he assisted Murtough up the steps of the car. Murtough passed within, bound for the west and a career, which, he decided in those brief minutes, would be honest from then on.

As Schermer's car drove back to Clarice he again slipped the mask over his eyes. He climbed in beside the frightened girl.

"Where is he? What did you do to him?" she cried.

"Oh, he's safe enough."

"You didn't hurt him?"

"No."

Schermer took her hand. "You're kind of a nice kid, you are," he said. Leaning forward he told the chauffeur to return to New York. As the car swung about Schermer asked: "Don't you know me?"

"Not with the cheaters on" pertly answered Clarice.

"How about it now?" Again the mask was removed.

"Gus!"

"That's me! You didn't think I'd let that sap get away with five grand, did you?"

"But what about me?"

"Oh, that's different. I'll take care of you, kid. How about a thousand now and some more when you need it?"

"Oh, Gus, you're the smartest guy I've ever met. You're the kind of a guy a girl could really love."

"Think you could, then let's," he smiled and he counted out ten one hundred dollar bills. "Put that in the bank, kid, but remember there'll be more when you want it. Now let's stop off some place and get a decent dinner."

"Okey with me. I need food," accepted Clarice as she snuggled down in the seat against Schermer and sighed with relief.

Old Tom Kildare was the only person who inquired about the absence of Murtough as the days passed and no word came from him. Rory had learned that Murtough had been working with the Clocker band, but he did not tell the truth to Sheila. Murtough had vanished. Why should he blacken the memory of the man more than his own actions had done thought Rory. But Old Tom persisted, and it was Devlin who told him all about Murtough one evening at the Club.

"Murtough was driving for Clocker," Devlin told him "and he put over a double cross which cost Clocker $150,000 in real stuff. Not only that, the double crossing dog let two of our men get killed on his account. If he ever shows his face in New York again Clocker will get him and get him good."

This Kildare related to Sheila several weeks after Murtough had disappeared. The old man held no brief for Murtough now. He was a boaster and a braggart and a ne'er-do-well. He had deceived even his best friend, Old Tom himself. Sheila was a lucky girl to be rid of him.

(To be continued)

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, Aug. 30.—Threshing is one of the features of farm work just now, many having to thresh in order to get barn room. The grain is yielding fairly well. Alsiki is not doing as well as last year.

There is a great amount of grain out yet.

On Sunday evening in Cavan circuit, the Rev. Mr. Storey, Bowmanville, missionary on furlough from South America, had charge of the services. He exhibited slides illustrating the missionary work in that country and delivered addresses in the three churches of the circuit.

Next Sunday the pastor, Rev. J. O. Totten, will again be in charge after his three weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Armstrong, Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Matchett.

Mr. Carley, Toronto, has been making a business trip through Cavan tuning pianos.

"Ship Wreck" Kelly Is Flag Pole Champion

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(United Press.)—"Shipwreck" Kelly is now looking for new flag poles to conquer. He became the flag pole champion of the world early Monday morning when he climbed down from the Hotel Belvidere perch after 23 hours and 13 minutes of standing in the rain. He may try for the non-stop flagpole standing-sitting-standing title next he said.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30.—John E. Conway, Codrington, appeared in police court here yesterday to answer to two charges of breach of the L.C.A., to a charge of having other than Government liquor in his possession. Convey pleaded not guilty. N. Alex. MacColl, counsel for the accused, proved to the satisfaction of the bench that while the liquor was not in a Government bottle, it was Government liquor. It had been transferred to its present container for medicinal purposes. In spite of Chief Constable Light's evidence, and some rather contradictory evidence from the accused, Mr. MacColl persisted that there was no grounds upon which to lay a charge. He based his claim on Section 72, sub-section 2. There was some difference of opinion regarding the exact interpretation of this section. Magistrate Payne could not be absolutely certain. After careful and detailed examination of the evidence submitted, he dismissed the case and proceeded with the second charge.

Through his counsel, Mr. MacColl, Convey pleaded guilty to a breach of Section 80 of the same Act, and was fined forty dollars and costs of the court, in all forty-nine dollars and ten cents. In the event of failure to pay the fine, Magistrate Payne imposed a sentence of twenty days. The defendant elected to pay his fine. The Magistrate further ordered Convey's liquor permit to be cancelled for a period of thirty days, the seized liquor to be forwarded to the Board.

Chief of Police Light began investigations yesterday regarding the motor car which has been abandoned by the roadside near here. The dismantled machine is on the side of the road leading east from County Road 72 at the top of the hill known as French's Hill, and about a hundred yards from the top of the hill. It bears the Ontario license number 332-690, McLaughlin, model D-60, open, touring, about the year 1921. Its serial number is 10775, and the engine number 017309. At the present time, all available information indicates that the vehicle was abandoned on or about August 16. Further information is being obtained by the police.

BUSINESS REMAINS GOOD WHILE AWAITING HARVEST

Crops Give Promise of Being Good Though Rather Late.

CONFIDENCE INDICATED.

Few Complaints of Poor Business—Cotton Mills Very

The following is a brief summary of information received by the Bank of Montreal from its branches throughout Canada and from its offices abroad:

As is usual at this season, business waits upon the harvest, but meanwhile the higher plane established during the current year has been maintained. The weather for the past few weeks has been highly favourable, and although the crops are still slightly less advanced than is usual at this time, an ample supply of moisture in the soil in almost every district in the Dominion is promoting rapid growth and giving substantial grounds for the anticipation of good crops. How much the general business of the country depends upon a satisfactory outcome may be realized from the fact that the estimated aggregate value of the field crops for the year 1926 was $1,131,241,000, and in the previous year $1,153,394,000.

Stability of commodity prices promotes confidence in carriers of stocks and induces buying. From few departments of trade come complaints, and these principally from the woollen industry affected by foreign competition. Cotton mills are busy, working well up to capacity and finding a full demand for their products. Iron and steel industries are moderately active under conditions of keen competition and close selling. Another major industry, newsprint, maintains its output, though the percentage to capacity has been further reduced. Automobile manufacturers are well ahead of last year in sales, while makers of agricultural implements find a wider market both at home and abroad. The boot and shoe trade reports a moderate movement, production in Canada in the first five months of the current year being 385,000 pairs in excess of last year.

There is a considerable carry-over of wheat from last season, the visible supply in Canada on July 16th having been 35,327,000, or 6,000,000 bushels in excess of the quantity a year ago. The quantity of grain passed through elevators at Montreal for the current year to date exceeds 70,000,000 bushels, or 8,000,000 bushels more than at the corresponding date a year ago. The make of dairy produce does not appear to vary widely. Exports of cheese from Montreal since May 1st at 183,697 boxes compare with 329,079 last year, and exports of butter have dwindled almost to the vanishing point; on the other hand, shipments of cream and milk to the United States are large. Stocks in store of both cheese and butter were above average on July 1st.

The merchandise movement as indicated by carloadings maintain a volume larger than last year. The double holiday halted traffic in the first week of the current month, but in the week ending July 9th loadings show an increase of 10,008 cars over the preceding week, and 2,229 cars in excess of the like period last year.

Bank clearings in June ran well ahead of a year ago in nearly all reporting cities, the gain being marked in Montreal and Toronto owing to stock market activity. Bank note circulation at the end of May was slightly larger thanlast year, notice deposits higher by $55,000,000, commercial loans up $96,200,000 and call loans in Canada up $34,000,000. Bank debits in June amounted to $2,879,000,000, an increase of almost $200,000,000 over the corresponding month last year.

Prevailing prosperity is reflected in the output of automobiles, which in the month of May exceeded all previous like periods, 25,768 cars having been produced, while in the first five months of this year the output was 107,600 cars of the value of $68,212,000, a gain of 4% in quantity and 9% in value over 1926.

The annual influx of tourists is now nearing its height, and reports indicate that the volume will be well in excess of last year. It is estimated by the Dominion Commissioner of Highways that last year the outlays of foreign motor tourists in Canada amounted to $203,197,000 and that the amount spent by Canadian motorists in the United States was $60,000,000, leaving a favourable balance of $143,197,000.

Security markets have experienced the usual midsummer inactivity and no large new issues of Government or Municipal bonds have made their appearance. Prices have been steadier and the tendency somewhat firmer, although the low yields at which recent issues of high grade bonds have been offered have had the effect of curtailing the general demand for this class of security.

During the past month all foreign exchanges have moved within narrow limits, with two exceptions. German marks were firmer and advanced 10 points, while Italian lire suffered a slight setback from the recent advance. New York funds have continued steady at a premium of ⅛ to 5-32%.

Quebec.

Wholesale trade is fair; retail trade satisfactory, although the movement of summer goods requires the stimulus of continued warm weather. Collections are normal. Textile mills are running full time; steel mills and iron foundries are busy and shipyards are actively employed on repairs and new construction. Increased prices of leather have checked production of boots and shoes. The clothing industry continues fairly active. Furniture factories, paint and varnish factories and sugar refineries are working at capacity.

Much building and construction is in progress, maintenance and construction of highways providing employment for large numbers of men. There is slightly improved demand for lumber for domestic use and for export to the United States. The market for groundwood pulp is steady, with prices firm; the position of chemical pulp is not so strong. Production of dairy produce is now at the peak, with prices showing a tendency to weaken. Light offerings in livestock markets have been readily cleared. The agricultural situation in general is promising.

Ontario.

Wholesale trade generally is satisfactory; retail trade somewhat above normal. Collections are fair. Knitting mills are running close to full-time basis. The woollen textile industry continues below normal but cotton textile companies and linen mills are well employed. Automobile accessory manufacturers with a few exceptions are very busy, and some companies report record production. Agricultural implement manufacturers find the volume of business substantially ahead of last year.

In the packing and milling industries domestic trade is good, but the export market remains quiet. Furniture factories are normally busy. Tanneries report a scarcity of hides, with a consequent advance in prices. Agricultural conditions are favourable and indications point to a good crop. Operations in the mining industry are proceeding with unabated activity, and a new high grade gold discovery in the Township of Fripp, fifteen miles south-east of Kamiskotia, has resulted in many miners and prospectors staking claims in this section.

Prairie Provinces.

Wholesale trade in general has been somewhat below last year although hardware, auto accessories and groceries show an increase. Retail trade is quiet. Collections fair. There is a substantial amount of building in progress, the greater portion being residential. Cash wheat closed at 163¾ on 20th July compared with 161 on the same date last year. Lake freight rates from Fort William and Port Arthur have been unusually low owing to a lack of export demand for grain. As compared with last year, choice steers are $1.50 higher, good sheep $1.50 lower, and select bacon hogs down $5.85 per hundred.

Mennonites who left Manitoba and Saskatchewan last year for Paraguay are reported to be dissatisfied and anxious to return. Oil production in Alberta continues to increase. While the season has been retarded owing to excessive rainfall in the spring, tourists are now arriving in numbers in excess of last year. Traffic by rail from the East is about 35% to 40% over last year, with an estimated increase of 25% in rail traffic from across the border.

British Columbia.

Wholesale and retail merchants carrying seasonable lines report business quiet as a result of unusual weather conditions. The demand for staple goods, however, is satisfactory, and in some cases sales show an increase over last year. Lumber production is now at normal capacity; the mills report a satisfactory volume of business offering but profit margins remain small. A surplus of hemlock and cedar logs still exists and prices continue weak; fir prices are firm.

The salmon catch to date has been disappointing, but with improved weather a good run is still anticipated. Otter shipments continue heavy, and white metal prices have further declined, with low production costs, satisfactory profits are realized. During the first six months of this year 31,400 motor cars carrying 109,103 passengers entered British Columbia from the South, representing a 20% increase over the corresponding period a year ago.

Maritime Provinces.

Wholesale and retail trade is satisfactory and there has been a general improvement in collections. Nearly all manufactories are busy with a few working overtime on rush orders. The coal mines are working full time, but production may shortly be curtailed until the balance of last winter's banked coal is moved. Lath prices have declined. The fish trade is quiet, though a better demand for high grade dried fish is in evidence. Agricultural conditions are excellent; seeding has been completed and haying will commence shortly. The apple blossoms have set well, and with favourable weather a good crop is predicted.

Newfoundland.

General trade is less active than usual, largely because less credit has been given to fishermen for outfitting. Collections are fair. There is a more cheerful feeling in fishing circles due to the fact that the Norwegian fishery is about 25% less than last year. Supplying for the Newfoundland fishery was on a smaller scale this spring than is usual, but it is too early to forecast how the catch will compare with former years; early cargoes are realizing satisfactory prices in European markets and consumption is good. Production of paper mills has been stepped up from 600 to 700 tons per day. Iron ore operations at Bell Island continue normal. Very optimistic reports are being received concerning the Buchan's Zinc, Lead and Silver Mine, and these have stimulated prospecting operations. An experimental shipment of sea-shell for poultry food has been made to New Jersey from the Labrador Coast, where it is reported there are unlimited quantities of this product.

Great Britain.

While trade returns for June are somewhat disappointing, figures for the half-year show a gradual recovery. The coal industry is, however, in an unsatisfactory condition, being unable to sell the full output, and many pits have closed down. Shipbuilding yards continue busy; for the first time, motor tonnage under construction exceeds that of steam. Owing to the approach of the holiday season there are signs of slackening of activities in the steel, textile and other staple industries, but the commercial prosperity of the country is well maintained. Bank loans are the highest on record since the resumption of post-war publication. Unemployment figures are again in excess of one million. If the stock markets prices have held notwithstanding many new issues, the latter for the first half of the year exceeding the same period of 1926 by 28,000,000.

United States.

The shortest corn crop in many years is indicated by the July Government report forecasting 2,274,424,000 bushels—about half a million bushels below the average of the last five years. This year's indicated total wheat crop is 853,634,000 bushels, or about 22,000,000 bushels more than last year. In general, farming prospects are fairly promising although various causes have resulted in diminished acreage for some of the more important crops. The operating schedules of steel companies are averaging slightly over 60% of capacity as compared with 80% at this date last year; tin mills are more active. The June sales of chain stores show gains of from 14% to 32% over the corresponding month of last year. Wholesale prices have again receded, reaching the lowest point in recent years. The leather industry is in good condition, with an improving statistical position and a more even balance between production and consumption. A high volume of building construction is being maintained. Burlap shipments from Calcutta to the United States during the last month were the largest since February, 1925. In the stock markets prices continue to rise and the average is somewhat higher than last year. The output of crude petroleum has reached a new high record.

France.

The Chamber of Deputies has adjourned for three months, and though recent proposals caused a certain amount of tension, the Government obtained substantial majorities whenever the Premier put the Cabinet's fate into the issue. The agricultural situation was normal in June, but heavy rains have since caused some damage. Imports for the first six months of 1927 decreased in value Frs. 2,300,000,000 but increased in weight 2,654,000 metric tons. Exports increased in value Frs. 199,000,000 and 2,386,000 metric tons in weight. The general tone of the Stock Exchange has been more satisfactory, though Government bonds are slightly depressed; first class securities and International stocks are in stronger demand. It is estimated unofficially that subscriptions to the new Government loan already total Frs. 5,000,000,000; applications are being received until the end of July. Official figures show a steady decline in unemployment.

Mexico.

In the mining and steel industries business is normal, and automobile sales are reported to be satisfactory. General business continues dull. A decided strengthening in the price of sugar has occurred, and there is a strong demand for cotton. Prior to the 1st instant, the Government had deposited $3,901,173 with the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, in New York, on account of the first six months of this year's interest on their foreign indebtedness, leaving a balance of $1,604,777 owing. Mexican foreign trade in 1926 totalled $1,053,874,337 pesos as against $1,073,480,000 pesos in 1925. The Mexican silver peso is firm at a discount of 6.10%. There has been no change during the past fortnight in the quotation for Mexican gold pesos against U. S. dollars, this remaining steady at 46.45.

WEDDING BELLS.

McKEE—LOWE.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Trinity Church parsonage, Omemee, on Saturday, August 27, at 8 o'clock a.m., when Vera Isabel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Lowe, of Omemee, was united in marriage to James Henry McKee, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKee, of Omemee. Rev. E. W Rowland performed the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a French gown of rose blush georgette over flat crepe with insets of beige filet, extensively embroidered in rose and trimmed with rhinestone ornaments, shoes, stockings and gloves of rose-blush, wild rose scarf, and hat trimmed with opal ornaments, and navy blue poiret twill coat trimmed with natural grey squirrel.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple left by motor for Toronto and other points. Upon their return they will reside on the the groom's farm east of Omemee.

JARDINE—BRUNTON.

The marriage took place quietly to-day at half-past two o'clock, at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, of Anna M., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brunton, 544 Murray street, and Mr. R. A. Jardine, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jardine, of Winnipeg, Manitoba. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. A. Rodger, who is officiating at St. Paul's church in the absence of Rev. William Allan.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. A. Murdoch, of Watertown, Ontario, wore a gown of blue georgette, grey shoes and hose and blue velvet hat. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses, and wore the gift of the bridegroom, a string of pearls.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ina Brunton, sister of the bride, was in sand taffeta, with hat, shoes and hose to match, and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses.

Mr. Samuel Jardine of Toronto, supported the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, where the house was decorated with asters and gladioli. Mr. and Mrs. Jardine left later for a trip to Toronto, Detroit and Chicago, en route to Winnipeg, where they will reside. The bride, who was a member of the nursing staff of the Guelph Hospital, travelled in a gown of French grey georgette, with shoes, hose and felt hat of grey, and coat of blue, with collar and cuffs of wolf fur.

POGUE—McBRIDE.

The following notice is of local interest, as it refers to the wedding at Inglewood on Saturday afternoon of Mr. James Pogue, eldest son of Rev. Robert and Mrs. Pogue, formerly of Peterborough:

On Saturday afternoon, August 27, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Inglewood, Ontario, when their daughter, Sadie Myrtle (Sally) became the bride of James Alexander Pogue, eldest son of Rev. Robert and Mrs. Pogue, Fairview Blvd., Toronto. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was daintily gowned in a French frock of morning glow georgette over ivory lace, wearing a fine net veil falling from a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses and baby's breath. Her only attendant was her little niece, Miss Ruth Hormer, of Toronto, who acted as ring-bearer, dressed in powder blue taffeta and carrying a basket of carnations and sweet peas.

The wedding music was played by Miss Isobel Pogue, sister of the groom, and after the wedding vows had been sealed, Miss Anna Elsley, of Campbellville, sang, "I Love You Truly." The happy couple were united in marriage by Rev. Robert Pogue, father of the groom and pastor of St. Enoch's United Church, Toronto. Following the ceremony a reception was held, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of orchid crepe with corsage bouquet of sweet peas, accompanied by the groom's mother, who wore a handsome gown of beige georgette.

Several of the bride's friends served a dainty buffet luncheon, the dining-room being decorated with pink and white gladioli, asters, snapdragon, and ferns. Later the happy couple left on a boat trip down the Saguenay, the bride travelling in a black and white suit, with hat and shoes to match. On their return they will reside in North Toronto.

WOMAN EVANGELIST TO TELL LIFE STORY

From a Helpless Invalid To Perfect Health Is History of Mrs. Berg.

Mrs. Virginia Brandt Berg, who has come to Peterboro for a few weeks of evangelistic services, is drawing good crowds to Bethany Tabernacle. Splendid gatherings greeted Mrs. Berg on the opening day of her meetings here, the Sunday evening attendance nearly filling the building. With the slight change that has been again made in the seating the auditorium will seat over five hundred.

Mrs. Berg is a pleasing and interesting speaker, both forceful and convincing in winning the hearts of her hearers every service. Her message last evening to the splendid company who dared the rain, from story of Elijah being sent of God to be cared for by the widow of Zarephath in I Kings 17, was convincing and forceful, giving emphasis on the prophet's words: "Make for me a little cake first." Mrs. Berg taught and led her aurience in a bright chorus: "My religion don't depend upon the weather" before the message.

In speaking of her experience regarding her healing, Mrs. Berg has said to friends: "I was a pitiable invalid for nearly five years, being confined to bed or a wheel chair, was finally given up by the doctors and specialists as without the slightest chance for recovery. This was caused by a bad fall, which broke my back, and left me paralyzed from my waist down. An operation which almost took my life, after many months, left me with partial use of my lower limbs, and then followed one after another such diseases as angina of the heart, stomach and intestinal troubles, etc., until practically every organ of my body was diseased.

In desperation my husband sought and learned that God's provision for our physical bodies might be as taught in the Holy Scriptures; it was convincing beyond a doubt that God was able and willing to heal our bodies through the prayer of faith—just as in the time of Christ—and together we made application for healing of my many diseases, according to divine prescription, and I was instantly raised and made whole from a bed of unspeakable suffering. I weighed but 82 pounds then, and I am to-day weighing 152 pounds, and rejoicing in the opportunity to tell people that what Christ did for me He is not only able but willing to do for anyone who will take Him at His word."

To-night the evangelist will tell her complete story. Do not miss this most thrilling story of God's grace and goodness to those who trust Him wholly.

Stocks Are Weak On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Stocks were inclined to lose ground on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, Brazilian, one of the active leaders, being the weakest with a loss of 1½ points at 183 1-8. Walker, leader of the liquor stocks, lost nearly a point at 49 and Massey Harris in heavy dealings eased an eighth at 39. Alberta Pacific grain was a point lower at 27. Page Hersey firmed fractionally at 80½ and Industrial Alcohol was firmer at 33 7-8. British American and Imperial Oils were steady around 26½ and 49. Internal Nickel was heavily traded in, but after passing 68 it eased to 67½, a net gain of half.

Amulet and Area Sell Down On Mining Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Brice changes were comparatively small in heavy trading on the standard mining exchange to-day. Amulet sold down four at 4.93 and its companion Area lost nearly three points at 79½. Ribago, also very active, lost a point at 32. Central Manitoba eased two at 180. Gold Hill was greatly in demand and it sold up to 36, later easing to 33½ for a gain of 1½.

Leading Industrials Establish High Record

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment imparted decidedly irregular price trend in to-day's stock market which was again featured by the establishment of record high prices by several of the leading industrials. Cotton prices broke about $2.50 bale on the publication of the government's boll weevil report, but recovered more than half their loss by early afternoon.

United States' Steel common and General Electric advanced 3½ points to new highs at 148 and 140 3-8 respectively. American Can and Goodrich also attained new tops. Motors ran into heavy profit taking but held within a few points of the record top.

Wheat Undergoes Moderate But General Setback

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Wheat sales to-day showed an early tendency to sag with the bears effectively contending that the size of the Canadan crops is the key to world prices. Favorable weather conditions for the European harvest were also an influence. Opening unchanged to 3-8 cents lower, wheat subsequently underwent a moderate general setback. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, corn starting at ⅛ cent to 1½c. decline, but later rallying somewhat.

Price quotations:

Wheat, September, 1.33 7-8c., December 1.38. Corn, September 1.06 5-8, December 111 5-8. Oats, September 43 7-8, December 48 3-8.

Argonaut—We expect any day now that work on this property will cut the downward extension of vein 1014 on the 1125 and 1250 foot levels. We consider the cutting of this vein to have a very important bearing on the future of Argonaut and from several personal inspections of the vein on the 1000 foot level we feel that its strength and general character is such that it will not only be cut on the two lower levels but will show a very considerable improvement over its importance as shown on the 1000 foot level. On this latter level it appeared to be the top of an important orebody and a short distance above the 1000 foot level showed broken up conditions due to more or less erratic formation and irregularity. This condition showed some improvement on the 1000 foot level and as an inspection of the 1125 and 1250 foot levels shows the general formation and structure to be much more favourable for ore deposition than on the upper levels we look for 1014 to improve accordingly.

Vein 1037 now being stoped over a length of 155 feet above the 1000 foot level continues to be the most important deposit, particularly in regard to gold values, on the property. This vein will be cut on the lower levels within six weeks and we look for it to at least continue to show the same strength and value as it showed on the 1000 foot level. Vein 1018 continues to show 3% to 5% copper and $6 to $8 in gold in the work from the 1125 foot level. Its downward extension on the 1250 foot level should be opened up any day now, and we anticipate important results.

The property now is in a position where it should within the next two months at the most have developed three new important ore faces on the 1125 foot level and three on the 1250 foot level. This ore should enable the management to continue operations and from production pay for all the ordinary operating costs. If this proves to be the case, and we are of the opinion that it will, then the $350,000 recently raised by new financing will be available almost entirely for new exploration and development. With this money available it will give the management a chance, which they have not had for a considerable period of time, of carrying on an intensive exploration campaign without having to worry about keeping up production from new development. In other words, the property will not be at the mercy of the mill, which is one of the biggest handicaps that a property can have.

New equipment is on order, which will furnish the property with sufficient air, etc., to carry on its extensive exploration campaign without, as was the case formerly, having to cut down on this work in order to keep sufficient machines running, breaking ore for the mill. This new equipment will also enable the management to proceed with their shaft sinking campaign to a depth of 2000 feet.

With finances in the shape that they are, and with the ore possibilities mentioned above, in one section of the property only, we consider that at the present time Argonaut has better speculative possibilities than it has had for some years.

PORCUPINE DISTRICT

Dome Mines—The find on surface close to the Preston East Dome property, on the south claim of Dome, has not improved. Values obtained continue to show from $3 to $5 per ton over a wedth of 4 feet. Its importance, as far as Dome is concerned, can in our opinion be considered as negligible.

Production at the property for July shows $329,904 as against $332,527 in June. This slight drop in production cannot be considered as being at all important. The first seven months of 1927 show a production of $2,270,802 as against $2,310,231 during the same period of 1926. It will be seen that production is being maintained at approximately the same rate as last year. This means a very decided increase in surplus for the year's operation.

There is nothing particularly new underground. Ore is being drawn from all parts of the mine, and practically all development work is being confined to the sinking of the shaft to the 3000 feet level. This level will likely be reached next month when the drive to the east, as mentioned recently will be immediately started, and as soon as it has reached the required length extensive diamond drilling north and south will be undertaken.

Nothing new in regard to the field activities of this Company at present prices we consider shares in this Company to be just about a good liquidation proposition, with nothing allowed for speculation possibilities which we consider to be very fair.

MATHESON COPPER AREA

Potter Doal Mines—A recent visit to this property shows very importans developments taking place. This wat covered first by a wire. Recently, a new find of copper and iron sulphides associated with galena was made in the north-eastern section of the property. This find is just being opened up and its outline is still indefinite. All surface work for the present is being confined to this showing. We should have something definite as to dimensions in the near future. In the meantime indications are that it will prove to be of much more importance than the original discovery from which a carload of high grade ore was shipped.

Diamond drilling is now under way on a zone 1500 feet in length where extremely favorable results were obtained by the electrical survey. The holes being put down will be comparatively shallow and will go to depths of from 100 to 300 feet. The extent of the drilling to be done will depend on the results obtained in the first hole. We believe that this drilling will indicate very important ore.

The galena vein reported before is not being opened up at present. It shows a width of from 1 to 1½ inches, carrying high silver values in places. This vein is located 400 feet north of the original find and has been uncovered in various sections of the property for a length of 7000 feet. It is possible that a vein of this type may develop importantly at length.

Potter Doal at the present time is an attractive speculation. The great length of ore indicated by the electrical survey and partially proven by the recent surface discovery gives great promise for the successful development of the property. Exploration is continuing in an intelligent manner and we fee that the next few months will be highly important for this property and for the district in general.

Area—With the information recently obtained it should be a matter of a very few weeks before drilling on Area will yield important results. There is every indication that ore will be obtained and if these indications prove correct then on the first news that Area has struck ore we expect the shares to show a very appreciable advance.

It must be remembered that up to date Area have little or nothing except favorable geology and the possibility of similar ore deposition as that which is being found close to their line on the Amulet property. It may be that they will find no ore and for that reason it must be considered as being at present purely speculative with a strong possibility of locating the expected ore deposition.

Duprat—Continuing active exploration of their claims in Montbray. While there have been reports to the effect that massive chalcopyrite has been found on these claims, a visit by us to the property failed to locate such ore. The property has favorable geology and work is being intelligently pursued. Finances are in good shape and it can be considered as a fair prospect. We do not attach a great dea of weight to the properties reported as being optioned by Duprat in the Kamascotia district.

Amulet—A visit to the property shows further important results since last report. North and West of the No. 8 ore body surface exploration has uncovered four other orebodies of very considerable importance. It is too early as yet to say what dimensions these four ore bodies will have but at present they show on surface average widths of approximately 25 feet with neither width or length as yet determined. They are similar to No. 8, standing near y vertical, and in all cases show ore which will average well over $20 per ton.

Diamond drilling is continuing in this section of the property which lies north and west of No. 4 shaft. The fact must not be overlooked that No. 8 ore body which shows a width of at least 40 feet and a depth of 210 feet known now with an average value of between $50 and $65 per ton was found at a point only 300 feet northwest of the No. 4 shaft. In the No. 4 shaft there is known to be 34 feet of ore that will average approximately $30 per ton. Whether this ore connects up with the No. 8 orebody has still to be proven. Its close proximity, however to the highly important No. 8 body, together with its general appearance, indicated that it will prove to be very closely connected. If this proves to be the case, and we think it will, then a very small amount of work will add tremendously to the indicated ore reserves.

CHICAGO THEATRES CLOSED TO PUBLIC

Managements Bring Struggle With Labor Unions To a Head.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press). — Four hundred theatres today were dark in Chicago as the managements joined in the threatened finish struggle with the Union Labor, Operators, Musicians, Ushers and stage hands. Fifteen thousand union men were without jobs while a daily loss of two hundred thousand dollars is sustained by the theatres while the trouble lasts.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH

compartment failed to reveal anything untoward.

Untouched.

There remained one more room to be searched, the store room containing the skull. The door was rattling loudly as if shaken by a powerful inside occupant. A voice was heard calling, "Let me out, let me out," but the plucky caretaker refused to be daunted. Bracing himself ready for a sudden attack, he threw open the door. The clamor died instantly and he stepped inside. By the glare of his flashlight, he saw the skull, its white teeth gleaming in the light, exactly in the position where he had left it. The room is small and affords little scope for concealment.

Satisfied that he had done enough to ensure the safety of the property under his care, Mr. Muir went back to bed. Not until the morning did he consider the affair susceptible of anything but a reasonable explanation, but an acquaintance from the south of Ireland, familiar with legends of banshees, declared that the clamor was caused by the spirit of the dead men protesting against the dismemberment of the skeleton. An interesting feature of the case is the fact that local gossip has failed to agree as to whether the skull is that of a white man or an Indian. Just outside the window, which looks from the store room to Confederation Park are buried some bones that were uncovered during the digging for the foundations of the Armouries.

The skull has been buried in St. Peter's Cemetery, and Mr. Muir declares no more trouble has been experienced.

DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS REDUCED OR MONEY BACK

This Simple Home Treatment Is Giving Amazing Results

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flow That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply as directed night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly relieved. Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., Ltd., McDermid & Jury sells lots of it.

JUSTICE ORDE SAYS RE-TRIAL

Many Cases Held in Abeyance On Account of Death of Mr. Justice Lennox.

25 IN WINDSOR.

TORONTO, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press). — Mr. Justice Orde has issued orders that a list of cases which the late Mr. Justice Lennox had under consideration when he died, be withheld from publication until the litigants themselves in each case move for judgment before the appellate division.

Twenty-five civil cases in Windsor whose disposition was placed in abeyance by the Judge's death are listed for retrial at the Fall Assizes.

OPPONENTS ACCLAIM CECIL'S RESIGNATION

Manchester Guardian Says It Is a Most Disabling Blow at Government.

LONDON, August 30. — United Press. — The Liberals and Labor, the former particularly, are rejoicing at resignation of Viscount Cecil from the Cabinet which the Manchester Guardian calls "A moral blow at the Government of the greatest severity" and "a most disabling blow."

The government, however, is not unduly perturbed, although the acidity of Premier Baldwin's reply to Cecil's letter on the subject of his resignation, reveals that he thought the time and circumstances most inappropriate for such a step.

compartment failed to reveal anything untoward.

Untouched.

There remained one more room to be searched, the store room containing the skull. The door was rattling loudly as if shaken by a powerful inside occupant. A voice was heard calling, "Let me out, let me out," but the plucky caretaker refused to be daunted. Bracing himself ready for a sudden attack, he threw open the door. The clamor died instantly and he stepped inside. By the glare of his flashlight, he saw the skull, its white teeth gleaming in the light, exactly in the position where he had left it. The room is small and affords little scope for concealment.

Satisfied that he had done enough to ensure the safety of the property under his care, Mr. Muir went back to bed. Not until the morning did he consider the affair susceptible of anything but a reasonable explanation, but an acquaintance from the south of Ireland, familiar with legends of banshees, declared that the clamor was caused by the spirit of the dead men protesting against the dismemberment of the skeleton. An interesting feature of the case is the fact that local gossip has failed to agree as to whether the skull is that of a white man or an Indian. Just outside the window, which looks from the store room to Confederation Park are buried some bones that were uncovered during the digging for the foundations of the Armouries.

The skull has been buried in St. Peter's Cemetery, and Mr. Muir declares no more trouble has been experienced.

IN MEMORIAM.

FROST: In loving memory of Pte. Arthur Frost, killed in action, Aug. 30, 1918:

There's a rough hewn bit of limestone
O'er the spot where Arthur lies,
Bears a proper soldier's tribute.
Brave men never die.
Duty called him, he was there
To do his bit and take his share;
His heart was good, his spirit brave,
He is sleeping in a soldier's grave.

PAUL MANNING RECEIVES GIFT OF PORTFOLIO

Popular Member of E. I. C. is Guest of Honor.

FAREWELL DINNER.

Leaves City To Take Up Position in St. Catharines.

Many flattering things were said of Paul Manning at a farewell meeting held in Hoover's dining room last night when Mr. Manning was made the recipient of a fine travelling portfolio, the gift of his fellow members of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institue of Canada, marking his impending departure to take up a position in St. Catharines. The presentation was made by E. R. Shirley who, as the chairman, Arthur E. Caddy, remarked, was president of the branch when Mr. Manning was secretary.

Mr. Shirley said that as a professional co-worker of Mr. Manning both professionally and in civic life, he wanted to express the general gratitude of the community to Mr. Manning for his past labors and especially the thanks of the branch for his untiring efforts. The duty he was called upon to perform was both pleasant and unpleasant. It was pleasant to be given the opportunity to say nice things of Mr. Manning and to thank him for what he had done. It was unpleasant because the meeting marked the loss of a valued member of the branch. Mr. Manning came to Peterborough soon after the inception of the local branch and ever since he had been a source of strength and a potent factor in its development. His departure would create a loss that would be very hard to make up. Mr. Manning had been active in every phase of the work, any work that was to be done in connection with branch activities found Mr. Manning ready to get down to business. He was both at the back and the front of things. Although they would miss him they congratulated the other branch on gaining him. They hoped he would take every opportunity of coming back to renew old acquaintances in Peteborough.

Mr. Manning on rising to reply was greeted by the singing of the chorus "See him smiling." He said he was not enjoying the dinner at all. (Laughter). He would have enjoyed himself much better had he been down at the end rather than at the head table. He was one of the unluckiest individuals alive. He had a wonderful speech ready for the corn roast that was to be held last night (Monday). But the rain came and spoiled the whole thing, and he had forgotten his speech. Last year they had a very successful corn roast down the river. He had heard various whispers since then that it might be a good idea to have another. So they had made him the goat. (Laughter). They had made his going away the occasion for gettting together for a good feed. He hated to leave Peterborough and the boys of the E.I.C. He had tried to do his best for the branch. During the last few days he made a discovery. In going among the younger engineers in an effort to get recruits for the branch the question had often been put to him, 'What is there in it?" It was only in these last days that he had discovered what was in it. There was nothing more in it than fellowship. When they reflected, they would find this to be the case as he had found it. If anyone had said to him six weeks ago that he would be in such a gathering to see him away, he would not have credited it. He urged the desirability of getting the younger engineers into the branch. Peterborough was known as a lively branch. He urged them to keep it up. They had something to live up to. What they would get out of the branch would depend on what they put into it. If a man put nothing into the branch, he would certainly get nothing out of it. He was going to St. Catharines.

Lead Of Two Miles Held By German Quickly Cut Down By Burditt As 14 Mile Mark Is Passed—Miss Hertle Close.

TORONTO, August 31. — (Canadian Press.) — Swimming forty eight strokes to the minutes, Ernest Vierkoeter, German baker, retained commanding lead of approximately two miles over Mendall Burditt of Toronto, the nearest swimmer, in the $50,000 Lake Ontario twenty-one mile swim this afternoon. Vierkoeter's strokes were not so impressive as the afternoon advanced and he neared the thirteen miles mark, but his handlers reported he was swimming with ease in the cold water.

Vierkoeter was confident of winning. Burditt was also carrying on pluckily and some distance behind. Ethel Hertle of New York was displaying wonderful form and more than holding her own with the other leaders. Miss Hertle's performance excited tremendous interest. Behind Miss Hertle was Georges Michel, while Howard D. Chaffee of California was fifth and John O'Halloran of Barrie sixth.

Vierkoeter Leads at Turn.

Ernst Vierkoeter, German, was well in the lead as the first lap of the course was completed. With one third of the whole marathon over, he had a lead of about two miles, going strongly. There were far more swimmers left, however, than had been expected at this stage. The water was very cold.

Vierkoeter had left Young far behind before boats began to gather around the Catalina conqueror, who was suffering from cramps.

Ethel Hertle of New York was leading the women swimmers while Louis Hardy of Toronto was also among the leaders. About a dozen men swimmers were in front of Miss Hertle.

The crowd, which had greatly increased, gave cheers as Vierkoeter rounded the turn to begin the second lap.

BOARD ENDS CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON

Royal Commission Returns To Ottawa After Conference at Capital.

INVESTIGATE U. S. SYSTEM.

Would Increase Border Patrol In Buffalo-Lake Huron District.

WASHINGTON, August 31 —(Canadian Press). — The Royal Canadian Customs Commission left for home last night. It had held four formal meetings and several informal meetings with State, Customs, Coast Guard and Prohibition authoritites. It has been permitted to look into the workings of the United States' anti-smuggling machinery.

It has investigated the efficacy of the United States customs system in general and three or four branches of the system in particular. It has received some suggestions from the United States authorities for improvement of conditions along the border. The commission will take all these things into its consideration while it is preparing its report to the Canadian Government after the close of the Ottawa sittings which begin on Thursday.

The commission while in Washington has confined itself strictly to enquiry into procedure in the United States and any negotiations for a change in existing agreements between Canada and the United States will be instituted later on by the governments themselves.

Tighten Up on Treaty.

Little information has been given out as to what actually happened at the conference here, but in unofficial talks with newspapermen United States officials have let it be known that they are working towards tightening up of the 1924 anti-smuggling treaty between Canada and the United States. Yesterday, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of customs, prohibition and coast guard, announced that the border patrol would be increased from 200 to 400 men in the Buffalo-Lake Huron district and prophesied that the United States would greatly increase in number of its coast guard vessels on the Great Lakes if the smuggling of liquor by this route continued.

It is also known that the United States would like Canada to establish her own consular agents in this country. The commission no doubt has been told that this would make it easier to prevent smuggling both ways and that consular certificates would go far toward mimimizing fraudulent invoicing and double invoicing, which methods are now being used to cheat the Canadian government of revenue.

Another hint of what the United States government will seek from Canada when the 1924 treaty is reopened in the near future is contained in some newspapers generally considered to be mouthpieces for the administration. These newspapers suggest that Canada should take steps to prevent shipment of any alcoholic beverages from Canada to the United States and should legislate against despatch of any liquor or beer to United States nationals. The present system of notifying the United States government of despatch of such shipments does not go far enough, it is suggested and Canada, having recognized the general principle of co-operation in enforcing the laws of a friendly country should go the whole way.

Would Double Patrol.

Announcement of plans for doubling the border patrol along the International Boundary between Buffalo and Lake Huron was made at the treasury. Assistant Secretary Lowman also said that he proposed to inquire immediately into enforcement conditions in the Pacific north-west. The secretary said the plans contemplated increasing the patrol force in the Buffalo-Huron area, which also includes Detroit, from 200 to 400 men as rapidly as possible and that Summer C. Sleeper, formerly in charge of the Maine patrol, would be assigned to head the enlarged unit.

The prohibition enforcement unit proposes, it was added, to transfer agents from other sections into this area and that Sleeper would co-operate in the patrolling of the border with Thomas E. Stone, selected last week to take over the office of administrator for the Michigan district.

Lowman in referring to the Pacific situation said Roy C. Lyle had been summoned to Washington to explain why so much liquor flows into the North-west." He expects to confer to-morrow with Lyle, who is administrator for Washington, Oregon and Alaska.

It has been indicated that if Lyle should not explain conditions satisfactorily in the north-west area that "positive steps" would be taken and the district partially re-organized. It also has been reported at the capital that Lyle might leave the service.

LONDON FLIERS WILL RE-FUEL AT THE COAST

Abandon Plan For Non-Stop Flight To English Capital.

FLIERS IN ACCORD.

Because of Inadequate Facilities For Storing Gasoline Aboard Plane.

LONDON, August 31. — Canadian Press. — Because of inadequate facilities for storing gasoline the London to London mondplane of Capt. Terrance Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf had Harbor Grace ,Newfoundland, as its first destination when it took off from the London air field on Monday in an attempt to reach England's capital.

Capt. Tully and Lieut. Medcalfe, co-pilots of the Carling plane, abandoned their plan for a 3700 mile non-stop flight on the eve of their departure and obtained permission from the donors of the $25,000 Carling prize to re-fuel at the coast.

Refuel at Coast.

When the fliers take off again it will be with the idea of re-fueling at Harbor Grace.

The flight committee, the fliers, and a number of London citizens yesterday openedly discussed all details which since Monday's take-off have been the subject of rumor and street talk. A statement was handed out yesterday. The fliers themselves also issued brief official statements.

Fliers in Accord.

Tully and Medcalf were emphatic in their contradiction of reports which had them "at odds" and in disagreement with each other because the first flight attempt resulted only in a cruise east of Lake Ontario and an unexpected return to London. Lieut. Medcalf said that the responsibility for turning back rested with him as much as it did with his fellow pilot Tully.

"There is not a word of truth in the story that I disagreed with Terry when he asked me if I thought it were not best to return to London, and await better weather," Medcalf said yesterday. "We are certainly not at odds with each other. We will take the ship to Newfoundland tomorrow if the weather is O.K."

The plan of the London to London pilots when they left here Monday morning, arrived at after long consultation the night before with Chas Burns, donor of the $25,000 prize, and Arthur C. Carty, flight manager, was to go direct to Harbor Grace, load up with more gasoline, and start immediately across the Atlantic if the weather was favorable.

that the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane could not be loaded safely with sufficient gasoline for a non-stop flight to England. When 450 gallons of gasoline were put on board the machine on Sunday night in the regular tanks and special tins, it left no room for food rations and other equipments, such as the fliers' emergency raft and radio. The heavy load meant an extremely hazardous take off. The small gas tins were piled atop the larger special tank in the centre of the cabin of the machine.

Medcalf explained that in a take-off there was a possibility of these falling forward on the shoulders of the pilots which would likely, jar them against the controls and would dash the ship nose down, on to the field. The machine, in this event, would undoubtedly catch fire, he explained.

Sunday night when Tully and Medcalf consulted with the flight management regarding a take off early the next morning, after a fairly favorable weather report had been received from Sir Frederick Stupart, head of the Meteorological Bureau at Toronto, the danger of a heavy load in the Stinson-Detroiter plane was explained. After much discussion it was decided that the London to London flight would not be upset if the Sir John Carling re-fuels at Newfoundland, and the pilots were given permission to carry out the flight to London, England, on this condition, with the prize money to remain the same.

WANT PREMIER TO RECONSIDER HIS DECISION

Howard Ferguson Will Be Urged To Accept Tory Leadership.

ROGERS IN RUNNING.

Strong Agitation in His Favor in the Eastern Provinces.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31.—Hope is expressed in Eastern Canada that Premier Howard Ferguson, of Ontario, can be persuaded to reconsider his decision not to let his name go before the Dominion Conservative convention as leader of the party, declared W. J. Tupper, K.C., youngest son of Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., one of the Fathers of Confederation, on his return from attending the Canadian Bar Association's annual convention.

"There is a strong agitation in the east in favor of Premier G. H. Perguson, and strong pressure will be brought on him in the course of the next few weeks," he added.

In referring to other prospective nominees for the leadership, Mr. Tupper said the names of two westerners were prominently mentioned, these being Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P. for Calgary, and Hon. Robert Rogers, of Winnipeg.

No Platform.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—While the convention will be a law unto itself and do as it pleases, the idea of those who are arranging for it is adverse to the Conservative party adopting a platform when it foregathers in Winnipeg in October. Instead the present plan is that apart from selecting a leader, the convention should adopt a number of resolutions setting forth its views on national and external affairs without building a series of declarations into a formal platform.

The Conservatives have never had a national convention, but the Liberals have had two, at each of which a platform was adopted. Experience shows it to have been a fruitful source of embarrassment. It has also been demonstrated in provincial spheres, that, where an opposition party proclaimed certain policies well in advance of a general election the most of them were expropriated by the Government, which got credit even though the idea originated with their opponents.

Such considerations suggest to the organizing committee the impracticability of going further in the direction of passing general resolutions.

The national convention is to meet here to-morrow to review the arrangements already made and Junkers Plane Being Fuelled For Second Atlantic Flight.

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press). — The work of fuelling the junkers plane Bremen was commenced after the plane was rolled on the runway here this afternoon. It was hoped to start a second trans-Atlantic attempt within a few hours, with Friedrich Loose, Herman Koehal, and Baron Huenefield on board.

BRITISH PLANE BEGINS FLIGHT ACROSS OCEAN

Capt. Hamilton, Col. Minchin, and Princess Wertheim on Board.

START FROM UPAVON.

Big Monoplane Carries Fuel Enough For 44 Hours—Blessed By Archibshop.

UPAVON, England, August 31 (Canadian Press). — After waiting at the Army Aerodrome here for ten days for favourable weather, Capt. Leslie Hamilton and Lieut.-Col. F. F. Minchin, with Princess Lowenstein Wertheim as a passenger, left here at 7.32 o'clock this morning in the monoplane St. Raphael in an attempt to fly to Canada.

They had fuel for a 44-hour flight, but expected to reach Ottawa in 37 hours. After landing at Ottawa, they hope to go on to London, Ontario, to claim the prize of $25,000 for a London-to-London flight. The plane was reported later passing over Tipperary, Ireland.

They made a beautiful take-off, although narrowly missing crashing into a hangar at the edge of the field.

Princess Wertheim was the financier of the flight, and was clad in a purple leather flying outfit.

"Of course we are going to make it," she said. "There is no doubt about it."

The plane was blessed by the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cardiff before starting. It is equipped with a five hundred horse-power Bristol-Jupiter engine, and does not carry radio, but has a collapsible rubber boat. The Princess is sixty-one years of age, and is the first woman to attempt a flight across the Atlantic.

LEVINE AWAITS RESULT.

LONDON, August 31 (United Press) —Charles A. Levine announced today that he would abandon his plans for a trans-Atlantic flight if the monoplane St. Raphael, with two men and a woman aboard, succeeded in the effort begun to-day to fly from England to Ottawa, Canada.

Levine said he would make a flight eastward in an attempt to establish a new long distance and endurance record if the St. Raphael was successful.

WILL FOLLOW RIVERS.

Young Seems Normal As He Leaves Launch

TORONTO, Ont., August 31 (Canadian Press). — "Dad, I can't stay in the race for a hundred yards more, and I'll kill myself," said George Young as he collapsed in the swim just after he had yielded the lead to Vierkoeter.

The cause of George's mishap was not known, but when he was taken to the hospital he appeared almost normal.

The Toronto swimming marvel was heavy-eyed and bowed down with disappointment as he climbed from his motor launch, which bore the ill-fated number 13, at the Emergency Hospital. O'Byrne threw out the suggestion that the cause was "think-

INTERNATONAL PRESS PARLEY CONCLUDES SESSION AT GENEVA

Conference Submits Ideas To League To Aid News Collection.

CENSORSHIP CONDEMNED.

Resolutions Unanimously Accepted By Delegates From Thirty-eight Nations.

GENEVA, August 31. — The first International Conference of Press Experts, convoked under the auspices of the League of Nations, ended last night after five days' sessions. Most of the resolutions adopted for presentation to the League Council, with the request that the League seek to have them accepted by the nations of the world, bear the unanimous approval of the sixty-three delegates from thirty-eight nations, including both members and non-members of the League.

The delegations, who were accompanied by fifty-five other experts, represented not only the different continents of the world, but also different categories within the press itself, for they included newspaper proprietors, directors of news agencies, correspondents, and members of official press bureaux.

Lord Burnham of England, chairman of the conference, congratulated the delegates on their efforts and declared the meeting the greatest gathering of journalists ever assembled.

League officials were both amazed and pleased at the manner in which the conference conducted itself. It was evident from the start that the members all knew what they wanted and intended to waste no time, but they were often ready to entertain compromises between widely divergent views in order to obtain unanimous results.

Freedom of News Stressed.

According to the preamble of a resolution, the final programme was adopted "in order that journalists may have every facility in residing or travelling, in securing news and improving their professional equipment, and that news itself may be free at its source, expedited in every possible way in its transmission, protected before and after publication against unfair appropriation and given the widest possible dissemination to the end that the work of the press may be made more effective in its great and responsible mission of accurately and conscientiously informing world public opinion, and hence contributing directly to peace and the advancement of civilization."

The final day was marked by the passage of specific resolutions covering identity cards for journalists, declaring for equality of journalists of all nationalities in each nation, opposing expulsion of a foreign journalist by any nation without a full hearing ebfore a journalistic commission and urging abolition of censorship in peace time.

The last motion was supported by representatives of the Italian press, which is now operating under a censorship. In the discussion of this subject Miguel Asturias of Guatemala criticized the alleged actions of American officials in Central American nations in what he declared was a semi-censorship for protecting the American companies.

A motion thanking Lord Burnham for his efficient direction of the conference was made by Mr. Sharkey, a substitute delegate.

A REAL SPORT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31.—Walter James Owens, better known to his friends, and that means almost every person in town, as Watt is a twenty-two-year-old local lad who has that rare ability of being able to turn his hand to anything and make a good job of it. Not only that, but he has a rare sense of humor as well. In the field of sport, his team-mates have plucked up their courage when all was apparently lost and come through for a win. There never seemed to be any logical explanation for it, but a quiet investigation will usually reveal the fact that Watt has "kidded" them into the proper form and the day has been saved.

To hear him making "wise cracks" from the side lines, a stranger might be of the opinion that Watt was educated with funny papers and comic strips as text books. But his academical training was well drilled into him in the local public and high schools by a staff of teachers that has a reputation for penetrating the most solid of ivory. He can figure in more than a mathematical way.

The local season for Watt to "lam" a soft ball "over the fence" is over for another year. Hard ball is finished too, as far as any league is concerned. But the ice will soon be here, and Watt is not worrying about what is to be done "if winter comes." He never does worry anyway. It is against his principles. He can climb a Hydro pole, weave a bolt of cloth, drive a five-ton truck or anything else you require. In another few weeks there will be keen competition between local clubs for his services because he can play hockey too.

When you see a tall awkward looking person try to catch a ball with his hands a foot apart and look up foolishly when he misses it, that's most likely Watt Owens. But do not think he didn't do it purposely. And his simple grin is mere camouflage, the same as his awkward movements. When the times comes to play the game, Watt Owens is all present. The only thing is, he believes in getting all the fun life has to offer. If others are afforded any amusement, all the better. It takes a wise man to play the fool. Watt says so.

Bad Weather Halts Grand Circuit Bill

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—Rain halted the Grand Circuit programme at the New York State Fair yesterday after four heats of racing. The Hambletonia and Empire State stakes were put off because of the wet track, which received another drenching yesterday and may not round into shape before to-morrow.

David Fellows, Egan Up and Captain Grattan, driven by Frazer, won heats in the 2.07 pace, which will be finished to-day. Tommy Murphy's filly Catherine won a heat in the 2.12 trot and Bennett, Tommy Berry's speedy sidewheeler, took the only heat raced in the 2.07 pace.

The two divisions of the wet weather stake for two-year-old trotters, the two-year-old pace, and a claiming race for pacers are scheduled for to-day, in addition to the other races named.

CABINET SHIFT IS CONSIDERED

Time Opportune Now That Cecil Has Resigned, Say Supporters.

RUMORS DENIED.

LONDON, August 31. — United Press. — It is unlikely that a successor to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, will be appointed until Premier Baldwin's return to London, although there are a number of keen applicants for the post of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Tory circles discount the reports that the entire cabinet will be shuffled, but some of the government supporters are insisting that the time is opportune to re-organize it.

Stomach Troubles That Are Dangerous

(CUT THIS OUT)

Some forms of stomach trouble, if neglected, often lead to dangerous conditions—ulcers or cancers—then, a surgical operation is about the only hope.

For this reason, even the most simple stomach ailments should be given prompt and careful attention. So, don't neglect acid stomach, sourness, gas or bloating! And don't waste time with unknown or unreliable treatments. At the very first signs of distress, go to any good drug store and obtain a few cents' worth of pure Bisurated Magnesia. This special Magnesia Compound is safe and pleasant to take—quickly, almost instantly, effective and does not act as a laxative. Be sure and ask for BISURATED Magnesia for stomach troubles only.

Mr. Orville Burgess has returned home after spending a week's vacation.

Mr. Boyd Johnson visited Millbrook friends on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bell and two children, Bernetta and Jack, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chris Laplain.

Gate Is Left Open Cow Breaks Leg In Ditch

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 31.—Leaving a gate open cost James Carnrite a valuable cow on Monday morning. The animal got out on the highway through the open gate and was chased by a watch dog. The cow fell into the ditch breaking its leg, and Constable Seaborn was summoned to shoot the animal.

287 SWIMMERS START; TWO OUT IN FIFTY YARDS

Jostling For Position Burns Out Some Contestants Early.

LAKE SHORE, Toronto, Aug. 31.—With Ernst Vierkoeter of Germany, swimming strongly, 200 yards ahead in the $50,000 Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim, George Young, conqueror of the Catalina channel, was pulled from the water at the five mile mark suffering from cramps. The removal of the favorite caused excitement in German boat and when word was officially conveyed to Vierkoeter's handlers they broke into loud cheering. The German is now a mile and a half in front of Byron Summer of California. Edward Keating was third, a short distance back.

TORONTO, August 31. Canadian Press. — Two hundred and eighty-seven swimmers including the most noted in the world, commenced a twenty-one mile grind to win $50,000 in prizes at 8.32 a.m., to-day, when Premier Ferguson fired the starting gun.

Fully a hundred thousand people lined the lake front of the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, and an immense flotilla of boats was on the water

There was no delay about the start—about one hundred and fifty jumped immediately with the gun, while the rest waited until the crowd was out of the way before entering the water.

There was a great jostle for position in the first few yards while some burned themselves out in a few strokes. Two swimmers were taken out before they had gone 50 yards.

The pack started to string out before the hundred yard mark was reached, with the speed artists in the front rank. It was a wonderful spectacle as the swimmers crawled up the mile long lane to the first turn where boats waited to find their own swimmers.

George Young was leading the field by a quarter of a mile well into the lake leg of the Marathon swim.

After 65 minutes swimming it was definitely determined that George Young, the Catalina Channel champion, was in the van near the two mile mark, with Byron Summers of California second, and Ernst Vierkoeter, the German swimmer third; about a quarter of a mile behind the Toronto boy.

George Coombs, of Sudbury, Ont., who is legless, climbed on to the breakwater just before the end of the mile. The cold water forced him to withdraw. Life guards were busily engaged in rescuing swimmers.

The better swimmers with the water as calm as it possibly could be, were wasting no time.

At ten thirty, two hours after the start, George Young had a lead of 200 yards. Ernst Vierkoeter, German was in second place, and Byron Summers third. Edward Keating was in fourth, just ahead of Clarence Ross. At this stage, about seventy swimmers had left the cold water, the remainder of about 210 being strung out a mile to the rear.

DRIVER KILLED.

Milwaukee Automobile Race Driver Loses Life at Fair Park.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., August 31 (Canadian Press). — Jack Mattes, Milwaukee automobile race driver, was killed at State Fair Park yesterday when he crashed into a fence after straightening out in a turn. William Tetzlaff, Milwaukee, policeman, was struck by the car and seriously injured. The races were being held as part of the entertainment for State Fair visitors.

Leaders Lose Ground By Taking Wrong Turn

TORONTO, Aug. 31. —(Canadian Press). — The officials running the Marathon Swim had their first thrill half an hour after the start when George Young of Toronto, leading and Byron Summers, of California, following him, went through the inside of the course and the other swimmers started after them. The others turned back but Young and Summers went on, cutting off a big corner on the first turn. After a few minutes however both turned and went back to the proper turning putting themselves level with three or four other leaders, much to the relief of the officials. They were not disqualified.

Princes Will Spend Wednesday at Ottawa

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales and Prince George concluded their visit at 2 o'clock this morning. They then left for Ottawa, where Wednesday will be spent.

During their day and a half in Toronto, the Royal brothers had to face unfavorable weather. On Monday, although dressed for the links, they had to abandon golf for squash rackets. Yesterday, the programme was not changed. But ten thousand veterans who marched past their Royal Highnesses at the Exhibition Grounds had to plough their way through mud and rain. A continued drizzle did not keep the two princes from the links in the afternoon. They were out quite early, playing with two members of their staff, Capt. Lascelles and Major the Hon. Piers Legh.

LEGION MEETING IS POSTPONED

Many Members of Campbellford Branch Away For Warriors' Day Parade.

WILL MEET SEPT. 13.

Campbellford, August 31. — The meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, which was to be held in their club rooms at the armouries at eight o'clock last night, was postponed till Tuesday, September 13, at the same hour and place. This action was considered advisable since there were so few members present. Most of the Legionaires are attending the Toronto exhibition.

During the evening various subjects were discussed in an unofficial manner. The president suggested that a request be broadcast for all returned men or ex-service men of the Great or any other war, to hand in their names to the secretary, Jack MacEacheran, or to any member of the Legion. As Campbellford will be prominent in the military affairs at Brighton on September 18, and at Roseneath one week later, immediate and sincere co-operation is necessary from not only the members but all ex-service men.

The Bishop of Ontario has also appointed Rev. John Montague Cecil Levason, of the diocese of Athabasca, as rector of Rawdon, the appointment to take effect on October 1st.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31. — Wheat prices followed an erratic course on the Winnipeg grain exchanges, although fluctuations worked within the narrow range of 2 cents. Early weakness was inspired by a slump at Chicago, but values recovered when buying support developed on the downtrend. Seaboard houses were credited with small purchases.

Wheat closed unchauged to &c. higher; oats, 5-8c. to 7-8c. higher; barley, 1-8c. up; flax, 1 3-8c. to 1½c. higher, and rye, 1-4c. lower.

KALUGA, Russia (United Press). —Thirty-two people were made deaf and one was killed when a double bolt of lightning, striking like a salvo of artillery, threw a large massmeeting into panic here. A leaping flame ploughed up 40 feet of earth within a few feet of a column of marching girls of the Communist Youth organization. Another bolt from the same cloud tore into a wooden grand stand and haystack, setting the latter afire.

Jaw Dislocated While In a Dream

BRITISH UNIONS CENSURE SOVIET

Break May Be the Outcome of the Edinburgh Congress.

STOOD REPEATED ABUSE.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Reds are contemptuous at the way in which the British trade union movement is being saddled and violent charges against British Labor leaders are going to be ventilated at the coming congress in Edinburgh. This may lead to a break between the British trade unions and the Soviet. The general council of the British movement for co-operation between British and Russian trade unions reports that it has been agreed not to interfere in each other's international affairs. Tomsky, however, attacked the British movement through a Communist paper in London, and when asked to explain, he "indulged in flippant polemics."

The council now states that it has "shown the utmost patience and restraint in its dealings with the all-Russian Council of the trade unions" and that it has "repeatedly endured abuse and the most bitter criticism and found it difficult to co-operate with representatives of an organization which publicly stigmatizes the representatives of other organizations as traitors, renegades and capitalist lackeys.

In all, he participated in 113 innings, in reality about 12 full ball games, yet he was a most valued member of the staff. I can recall no other pitcher with so unusual a first year performance.

SEIZES STILL.

Constable Finds Still and Twenty Gallons in Moonshine.

KINGSTON, Aug. 31.—Provincial Constable Thompson paid a visit to the home of Reuben Shipman, at Napanee, on Saturday night and seized a still and twenty gallons of moonshine. Before Magistrate Rankin at Napanee, on Monday morning, Shipman pleaded guilty to having the still and operating it without a permit. For operating the still he was fined $200 and costs and for having it on his premises he was fined $100 and costs.

IF you are investing $150 to $500 in a new chesterfield suite, you should be sure of getting absolute protection against moths. What is the use of paying for beauty, comfort and quality, if there is no insurance against moths?

It Must Be MOTHPROOF

So, ask this question and "nail him down to it": "Is this suite guaranteed MOTHPROOF?"

If you are assured it has been "treated" for moths, drive the nail to the head. Ask this:

"Do you give a written guarantee of replacement?"

Only "Sani-Bilt" Upholstered Living-Room Furniture carries a guarantee of replacement in the event of moths ever doing any damage. Such a guarantee accompanies every piece of genuine "Sani-Bilt" Furniture. Read it.

The Blazer Jacket is Smart

This two-piece suit is decidedly smart for the young boy and a style suitable for all seasons. Contrasting material is introduced in the facing of the front opening blazer jacket, the laps on the set-in pockets, and the cuffs finishing the sleeves. The trousers are of the side-closing type. No. 1538 is in sizes 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 6 years requires 2 yards 36-inch material, or 1½ yards 54-inch, and ⅝ yard 36-inch contrasting. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically, by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out. Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make, without difficulty, an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

IRISH COUNTESS HAD LIVELY CAREER

First Woman Elected To Imperial Parliament—Once Condemned.

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 31 (by the Canadian Press).—The 'Guardian,' writing of the recent death of Countess Markievicz, says:—Constance Georgine, Countess de Markievicz, was the eldest daughter of the late Sir Henry William Gore-Booth of Lisadell, County Sligo, and sister of the present baronet and of the late Miss Eva Gore-Booth, well-known as a social worker here.

Countess de Markievicz spent the usual life of a well-connected young Irish lady in her earlier years, but showed an original bent by not merely taking up art as a profession, but going to Paris by herself to study it there. She remained in Paris for several years, and was an exhibitor at the Salon. While in Paris she made the acquaintance of Count Casimir Dunin de Markievicz, a young Polish nobleman, who was also an art student and whom she married in 1900. There is one daughter of the marriage, Miss Maeve de Markievicz. The young couple ultimately separated, though it is understood with great mutual regard, owing to incompatibility of disposition.

The Countess was one of the early members of the women's suffrage movement: at more than one by-election she made something of a sensation by driving a four-in-hand through the streets. In the course of the Irish rising of 1916 she was in charge of a small body of the rebels. After the surrender she was imprisoned and put on trial. She was indeed sentenced to death, but was reprieved, the sentence being commuted to penal servitude for life. She was released the following year. She took part in the general election of 1918, standing as the Sinn Fein candidate for St. Patrick's, Dublin. She was elected, and thus had the distinction of being the first woman ever elected to the Imperial Parliament. She never, however, took her seat in the British House.

In the Irish Republican Government set up in 1919 she was given the post of Minister of Labour. She was one of the strong opponents of the Anglo-Irish Treaty of 1921, and was twice returned as a member of the Dail on the Republican ticket, but never took her seat in that body. As a public speaker, although she appeared on many platforms and had a fairly ready command of words, she was not an orator of much weight. In private life her genuine sympathy for the poor and suffering gained her many friends and the respect of many of those who were almost in every other respect opposed to her.

PRIMITIVE INSECTS FOUND ON GLACIERS

Many Brought Out From British Columbia Mountains.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 31 (by the Canadian Press).—Miss Norma Ford of the Biological Department of Toronto University, brought home from British Columbia this summer 30 grylloblattae, one of the most primitive insects now living on the earth. Miss Ford captured these rare specimens in their ice-bound mountain retreats, whither she was escorted by guides and a few of the more adventurous young people attending the Girl Guide Jubilee Camp at Victoria.

"A grylloblatta," she says, "is a very primitive insect, one of the most primitive at present living on the earth. It is only found where it is very cold and particularly thrives near the icy water flowing from glaciers. It lives on moss and other insects and will even eat one of its own kind."

This rare and primitive insect, was discovered for the first time in 1913 by Professor Walker of the University of Toronto, and, since then, similar insects have been found in the mountains of Japan.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith, who had crept back to her own bed, lay tense and rigid, her wide, burning eyes black against the chalky pallor of her face. She must think, she told herself feverishly, think for herself and Cherry, too. Cherry's uplifted, tragic little face, bathed in the white radiance of self-sacrifice, as she proclaimed the most unselfish decision of her spoiled, pampered young life, swam before Faith's eyes. "I'll go back to Caris if he'll give me my baby unharmed. Nothing matters but my baby!—" Cherry had said in a queer, unearthly voice. Selfish, impulsive, adorable and always adored Cherry, whose whole life had been devoted to getting what she wanted! Could she—should she let Cherry make what would be a supreme sacrifice for the sake of an infant that she had not wanted, and to whom she had played only the role of a big little girl with an intricate and lovely toy, never the role of mother?

Faith, her nails digging into her palms, prayed for help in the battle she was fighting. Ever since she could remember, she had loved Cherry more than any person in the world. Her little sister's irresponsibility, her selfishness, her flashes of amazing generosity, her outbursts of passionate love for the sister who had been more a mother to her than the poor, heavy-bodied, complaining woman who was dead, her very waywardness, had endeared her to Faith, had so bound the two of them together that Faith could not visualize life without Cherry. And now Cherry, exalted by suddenly awakened mother-love, risen to undreamed-of heights of self-sacrifice, was planning to give up more than her life for her baby. What would it mean to Cherry to go back to Caris Wiley, the man she had married on the very day she was to have married another man, the husband whose conjugal love she had been able to endure only one dreadful night—a night that had hardened Cherry, had mysteriously embittered her, had changed her from a selfish but adorable child into a cynical opportunist, disillusioned as to love and determined to wring the most out of the fatuous devotion which she inevitably aroused in men?

"I could persuade her not to go back to Chris," Faith's white lips whispered. "She has always leaned on me—"

But did she, Faith, have any right to make this decision for Cherry? If Hope—fragrant, downy, exquisite little Hope—should die under Caris' bungling care, could she ever forgive herself? But to sacrifice Cherry, to let her give herself back to the man she despised, whose touch she could not bear, whose very name caused her to shudder with disgust—

"Sleeping, darling?" It was Bob. "The police have located Chris' car. It's in the garage where he always keeps it. He drove it in himself at one o'clock—"

"Then they've found hope?" Faith cried, sitting up in bed, incredible relief flooding her ravaged face.

"No, honey. I'm sorry. The mechanic says Chris was alone when he drove the car in, and he didn't notice which way he went when he left the garage."

Faith fell back upon her pillows, despair making her face bleak and white again. "Have the police gone to his apartment?"

"Of course," Bob answered, dropping wearily to the edge of the bed. "He wasn't there. No one had seen him all evening or this morning. His bed hadn't been slept in. You mustn't despair, honey. After all, he's the baby's father. He wouldn't harm her. Oh, for God's sake, don't cry like that! I can't stand it!"

FALL FASHIONS FEATURE FINE FURS AND FABRICS

TWO THREE FOUR FIVE

Richer fabrics and mode complicated treatment of fall coats shown at recent fashion shows in Chicago and New York emphasize the dawn of a season of more elaborate dressing for women. These are six typical models:

ONE—The importance of tweed in fall sports wear is justified by this imported green and gray plaid top coat. Trick revers, strapped cuffs, high waistline belt and raglan sleeves give it distinction. It is double-breasted for warmth and its patch pockets are built for room as well as appearance.

TWO—Luxuriously soft is this brown Alexa coat with its rich Kolinsky trimmings. Its shawl collar has an entirely new way of rippling down to form graceful jabots reaching to the waistline. Deep fur cuffs shape to the elbows. Only a rich hat, such as the gold embroidered one shown, could fitly top such a luxurious coat.

THREE—Fall introduces long coats for suits. Here is a long-coated ensemble fashioned from brown tweed flecked with russet lights and enriched by a seal collar. Tan jersey forms the blouse. Novelty gloves in fancy spotted pigskin add an unusual touch.

FOUR—Five bone buttons accentuate the diagonal closing of this smart kittens'-ear suit coat. A band, some fox lends a pelt for the collar. The skirt features side pleatings and a yoke with bone buttons fastening it on the side. Curious little geometric pieces of black and blue velvet work out a charming patch-work hat which has only a black banding to relieve it.

FIVE—The epitome of formal elegance is reached when white ermine joins forces with rich sable to fashion an opera wrap. Its shawl collar stands from the neck in a dignified manner while a deep hem of sable adds a youthful note to the mode that is ever complimentary to women. It is lined with brocaded white, with a touch of gold in its weave to give it a soft gleam.

SIX—Velvet, unadorned, is favorite for autumn wear. But when royal blue velvet fashions a graceful evening coat such as this, the Elizabethan collar and Chinaman's cuffs of white fox give it irresistible charm. Its sleeve fullness, the up-in-the-front curve of the hemline and the luscious pink velvet lining are noticeably new features.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Helen Wills has set the fashion for pastel-colored sweaters among tennis players. This is of soft pastel blue wool with a monogram in white on the pocket.

Few women attempt to knit their own sweaters nowadays—and that is perhaps why the sweater has been revived with such enthusiasm. Very few women can knit sweaters that are really satisfactory—sweaters that compare in smartness with the sort you buy—and machine-made sweaters you may have noticed are far less apt to pull out of shape and "catch" than the home-brew variety.

Oddly enough the pastel-colored sweater seems to have come back into favor for late summer and early spring. It is like finding daffodils and apple blossoms in your garden in September. Helen Wills came home from Europe some weeks ago with any number of pastel-colored sweaters, and other young sportswomen are showing the same fondness for the lighter tones for late summer wear.

They say that every woman can wear green—it is simply a question of finding the right shade of green; and so every woman can wear a sweater of some sort. It is just a question of getting the right sort. I used to hold to the opinion that the sweater should be avoided by the very thin and the unmistakably stout. But I have changed my mind. The present-day machine-knitted sweaters of firm, not too yielding texture do not show imperfections of outline as the old-type, clinging hand-knit sweaters did.

Horizontal strips should, however, be avoided by the over-stout. So, too, should the slip-on sweater with square or round neck. For these buxom ladies the best choice is the cardigan or jacket sweater with the long lines at the front to accentuate slenderness. And the jacket type of sweater is perhaps best for the very thin girl, since it may be worn with a frill-fronted blouse that hides possible scrawniness beneath.

FASHION NOTES.

ABOUT GARMENTERIAS.

(United Press Fashion Editor.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (United Press)—Nickle-in-the-slot restaurants are said to have caused many a calloused thumb on upper Broadway. Garmenterias, down on the lower part of that thoroughfare, turn out hundreds of calloused souls each day.

Dresses, in these wait-on-yourself shops, sell for $9.95, the identical models costing $15 further uptown. All you have to do to save $5 is to fight through a crowd of dress-hungry East-siders to a dress-rack a quarter of a block long where women of your particular size have accumulated. You then sneak up on a dress which no one in the immediate vicinity happens to hanker for, ask permission of the hard-faced young girl who stands upon a kitchen chair at the end of the rack to take the dress to the fitting barracks and in this wee room, amid the aroma of garlic and thirty or more women who are huddled like sheep in various states of denudement. Park your hat, pocketbook and accessories on the floor and then worm into the garmenteria dress.

A jab in the solar plexis from your nearest neighbor but tends to spur you on in your five-dollar saving effort. Once in the dress, you gather your own hat, dress and purse from the floor and push toward the mirror.

For, by this time, you're sure to decide upon taking the dress (it's become a part of you) and the next thing is to locate the cute little automatic wrapping machine and the only thing that isn't self-service in the shop,—the girl who gives you car-fare back from your $10 bill.

Limping past the doorman with your purchase, you're apt to get a slap on the hips. He's not trying to be sociable but to make sure that you're not getting away with another dress besides the one you've paid for. Richer by $5, and wiser, you emerge, too wise perhaps to get caught in a garmenteria again. Just around the corner is a $1 hat shop and a $3.95 shoe shop. Thus a complete outfit can be purchased for $15 after an afternoon of labor.

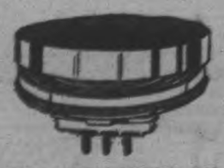
"HOW can I go to church and cook dinner at the same time?" the housewife of old used to say. "It simply can't be done."

But what couldn't be done a few years ago is done by thousands of Canadian women today. With roast and vegetables baking in McClary's Hermetite Oven you can attend to your other activities, feeling perfectly confident that the whole meal will be deliciously cooked.

The reason is "stored heat". McClary's Hermetite is doubly insulated. The walls are packed with heat-proof material and surrounded by dead air space—the best insulation known to science. You have only to close the door to make the oven almost hermetically tight. The heat is thus retained inside the oven long after the current is turned off. Your foods go on baking without using up a bit more electricity.

You'll be as charmed with the other time and money-saving features of McClary's Electric Range as you are with the Hermetite Oven. You'll be delighted with its all-white, porcelain enameled finish—its great economy—its famous Speediron Elements.

Made in the very style and size you require, and sold at a price you can afford.



SPEEDIRON

McClary's Speediron Element is the greatest electric range improvement of modern times. Unlike old-fashioned elements, the coils of the Speediron are protected. If coils burn out after long service you simply lift the element out and have coils replaced easily and quickly—at the cost of a few cents. The only removable, reversible protected element on the market.

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 31 1927.

WE WANT YOU TO COME.

The Examiner would like to suggest to its many readers throughout the district that they endeavour to arrange to come to Peterborough during Exhibition week.

Don't be satisfied with a day's visit; there is a hearty welcome waiting for you during the whole week, and the citizens of Peterborough would like you to see something of their city, as well as of the Exhibition, while you are here.

In the first place, it is useless to hope to see all the Exhibition's features of interest in one day; it simply can't be done.

The Peterborough Industrial passed that stage some years ago; it has graduated into the big fair class, and merits more attention than can possibly be given it in one visit.

And besides, we want you to see Peterborough as well; there is a great deal here to interest you and much of it many of our friends in the district have missed.

Our parks, our industries, our stores, the Lift Lock and many other features are well worth a visit.

Come along Exhibition week and spend a few days in Peterborough; you'll thank us afterward for suggesting it to you.

TIME TO PUT ON THE CURB.

The decision of the Ontario Government to use more drastic methods to eliminate reckless driving from the highways of the Province should be echoed by a similar resolve on the part of municipal authorities in regard to city streets.

Careless driving is by no means confined to the highways.

On the contrary, it probably exists in urban streets to a much more dangerous extent than on the Provincial roads.

The Examiner has repeatedly called attention to the fact that there is too much fast driving on through streets and dangerous speeding over intersections.

Drivers, however, continue to ignore the regulations covering these points; and if anything, fast driving in places where such practice is a menace to safety seems to be increasing, rather than diminishing.

Municipal police should co-operate with the Provincial authorities; if the reckless driver and the dangerous speeder are to be chased off the highways they should also be banished from the streets of municipalities.

They have been "getting away with it" too long in Peterborough, and it is time to put on the curb.

IT HAS AN ARMY OF FRIENDS.

One outstanding reason for the great success that has been scored by the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition in recent years is the changed attitude of the people of the city and district.

The Exhibition, to use a hackneyed business term, has been sold to the citizens of Peterborough and of this part of Ontario.

They have come to regard it as their own fair, to take a pride in its development and success, and to invite their friends to see it.

It was not always thus.

The time has not long passed when there was apathy on the part of many people toward the Exhibition.

They were at best lukewarm in their attitude, and their indifference made the task of the management a difficult one indeed.

Today, however, the whole district is behind the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

It has an army of enthusiastic boosters everywhere who thrill with the yearly expansion that has been recorded, and who are not slow in letting the world know of their faith in Peterborough's big fair as one of the best district exhibitions in Canada.

That spirit, with the driving power of a Board of Directors full of enthusiasm and energy, will give the Industrial Exhibition of 1927 a new level of achievement.

STERNER MEASURES COMING.

The pressure of public opinion in favour of more earnest efforts to check the ever-increasing number of motor accidents has borne fruit.

The Ontario Government has been endeavouring to meet the situation by a campaign of education, but Premier Ferguson admits that "notwithstanding these efforts, the appalling total of death and damage continues."

The reckless driver, however, is now given warning that stern methods are to be adopted by the Government in a new effort to make Ontario's highways safer.

The Premier makes this plain.

"In our determination to eliminate or reduce to a minimum the menace to life and property created by the speed fiend and the careless driver," he said Monday in an interview, "it has become necessary to adopt drastic measures."

Accordingly the force of motorcycle officers in the employ of the Department of Highways is being doubled, and these officers are being given strict orders to rigidly enforce the law.

With these steps motorists can find no fault.

They have been made necessary by those careless or reckless drivers who have ignored the Government's appeals for safe driving.

These drivers whom the Premier describes "as a large number of people who give no consideration to the lives or safety of others" are, as Mr. Ferguson puts it, "not entitled themselves to any consideration at the hands of the law."

They have been deaf to reasonable requests, and from now on must take their chances.

In a short time, if the statement of the Premier means anything at all, they are likely to find the privilege of handling a car taken away from them.

SPEEDING THE DAY.

Commercial flying, schools of aviation, and taxi air services which take passengers up into the empyrean, are performing a laudable service today, heralding as they are the advent of general flying which is almost certain to come within the next ten years. The feverish long distance record seeking, and all other phases of modern aviation, are signs of the coming days when almost every family will fly a plane.

The public is getting used to flying. That is what will create a demand for a fool-safe plane in which the head of a family can take his flock up.

The demand creates the supply and inventions will come. Those with what appears to be vision believe that the progress of flying will be more rapid than that of motoring, for motoring has shown the way. It will need no publicity to put flying on the map, for the people have been trained to the world of new experiences by the motor industry and are like Alexander looking for new worlds of experience to conquer.

Some today may think commercial aviation and taxi air services are too big a risk. Undoubtedly the flier takes risk and so do his passengers, but they are not as great as might be expected, while the flier and the passenger who go up and help in the development of flying on a commercial scale are performing a public service which cannot be over-estimated. With a record of the service of the motor car to mankind, there is little possibility of aviation failing to play a great role in the days to be—and not so far distant at that.

Those who are risking lives in flying today are pioneers of the new transportation. What may it ultimately mean? A large exporter of cattle said the other day he expected to see the time when cattle would go by plane from British Isles to South America. That gives food for thought and imagination.—Belleville Ontario.

THE COST OF EDUCATION.

Every person who pays taxes knows that the cost of education in this Province has soared out of all proportion to the increased attendance in the schools and the improved facilities for imparting knowledge which are now in operation, and every person, consequently, is anxious to know the reason for this increase and how, if possible, the burden resting upon him to maintain the schools may be reduced.

This is a problem which the Urban School Trustees' Association of Ontario, an organization representative of the boards which administer the schools and thus representative of citizens at large, is attempting to solve, and there is interest for every ratepayer in a pamphlet bearing upon the subject which has been issued by the association and which contains the report of a special committee on the cost of education, formed at the annual meeting of 1926, with Cecil Bethune, of Ottawa, as Chairman. This committee has found that while the ratio of pupils per 1,000 of the population has remained substantially the same in the elementary schools of the Province, there has been a large increase in that ratio as applied to the secondary schools. The increase, in fact, has been from 11.6 per cent. to 28.2 per cent.—more than a doubling when 1920 is compared with 1926. The committee ascribes this increase to the lack of employment for boys and girls, to the Adolescent School Attendance Act which makes it obligatory for every child to attend school until he or she has reached the age of 16 years, or to "an abnormal thirst for knowledge which has developed since the Act was put into force," and it suggests, with not a little reason, that the Act should be modified to permit boys and girls to choose between attendance at school or suitable employment after the age of 14. It makes the further suggestion that greater effort should be made to inform parents and pupils of the facilities offered by the technical and commercial schools which are situated in the chief cities for the acquisition of an education which is non-academic in its character.

There is reason to believe that should the terms of the Adolescent School Attendance Act be relaxed to enable children over the age of 14 to enter into employment if they choose, the effect would be immediately felt in a reduction of the costs of education, and the same effect might well follow the placing of greater emphasis upon the instruction provided in the technical and commercial schools. At the moment there are many pupils absorbing book-learning in the academic schools who will never find occasion to employ it, and who would be far better fitted for their future labors did they receive training in manual arts or commercial pursuits.

Other recommendations made by the committee are not without exceptional interest to those who are studying the situation and value in attempting to reach a solution of the problem. Amongst other things the committee recommends that "some means should be taken to utilize our buildings and equipment to a much greater extent than is being done at present. Out of 313 working days in a year Primary Schools are open only about 190 days and the Secondary Schools about 180 days, and in most cases not more than six hours a day.

"Teachers who are employed regularly by the board and paid their salary up till the end of June should not be paid extra by their own board for presiding at departmental and entrance examinations held before the end of June.

"There is danger of there being a needless expenditure by the number of teachers being in excess of the number of classes and the small number of pupils in some of the classes.

"There is a strong feeling in some quarters that as an important contribution to the reduction of the cost of education, some fees should be imposed in all Collegiate Institutes, Technical and Commercial High Schools, provided, however, that free scholarships should be instituted to assist all able pupils to obtain an education commensurate with their industry and ability.

"That the Department of Education have standardized financial information provided and published, giving the comparative cost per pupil to each Board of Education for elementary, academic, commercial and technical schools. If such a report was published it would enable school boards to make intelligent comparisons and profit thereby."

The cumulative effect of the adoption of these recommendations would undoubtedly be to reduce the cost of education and thus to reduce the burden which rests very heavily upon every ratepayer. From study of the situation upon a scientific and business-like basis, with the co-operation of the Department of Education and other interested bodies, there may yet be evolved plans which will bring much-needed relief.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

This is one day at least in which Toronto is in the swim.

Every Peterborough citizen is expected to be a booster for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, this year bigger in all departments than ever before.

At least George Young has proved that he is not superstitious. He chose "13" as his number in today's big swim.

"Emperor" Cook declares that he is going to organize a million miners for another revolt. Mr. Cook should be officially invited to take a non-stop flight.

Mr. Ferguson is probably going to appoint a strong

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—With cattle receipts of 694 head together with about 700 head of left-overs from Monday, trading at the Union Stock Yards yesterday opened slowly on all grades of butcher cows. Good cows sold steadily at prices of from $5.50 to $6.00 a hundred.

Indications are that trading will be slow, although as steady prices on steers and heifers. Ordinary quality stockers sold at from 5 to 6.25 a hundred.

Calves, of which 432 were received yesterday, sold steadily at prices of from $13.50 to $14.00 for choice with common vealers downward to $7 a hundred.

There were 618 hogs received for disposition. The prices on these remained unsettled with bids of $11.40 off cars for selects and no sales offered at time of writing.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 31 (Canadian Press). — The only business done on the Montreal grain market yesterday was the sale of a few loads of American hard wheat to the United Kingdom. The bids received for Canadian spring wheat grades were five to six cents per bushel below working basis, and coarse grades were neglected.

Trading in cash grain in the local market was slow owing to the absence of demand from exporters and the fact that domestic buyers seemed well supplied for the time being. The undertone was firm.

The trade in spring wheat grades of flour showed no improvement, and the undertone continued easy, but there was no further change in the prices. The market for winter wheat flour was steady, with a small trade passing.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained under a good demand. The volume of business was small owing to the scarcity of supplies. There was no change in the prices for standard grades of rolled

A fair amount of business was done in fresh and storage eggs, and the prices for all grades were firm. The receipts were 723 cases.

A feature of the butter trade was the stronger feeling that developed, and prices scored an advance of ¼c per pound. This was attributed to the stronger cable advices. The demand was fair. The receipts were 574 packages.

The undertone to the cheese market was firm and the trade was fairly active. The receipts were 10,139 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 31 (Canadian Press). — Surprising power to absorb offerings developed in the wheat market yesterday, and prices rallied strongly at the last. A turn for the worse in Canadian harvest conditions was reported as the day drew to an end. Wheat closed irregular at ¼c net decline to ½c advance; corn, 1c to 1½c down; oats, ¼c off to a shade higher; and provisions unchanged to a setback of 30c.

Milling interests and previous speculative sellers led the buying movement which developed in the wheat market after prices most of the time had ranged a good deal under Monday's finish. The fact that rain was reported over a wide area of Canada, and that wet, cold weather was spreading, did much to emphasize assertions that the Canadian crop was not made yet. Previously the market had shown itself responsive to despatches telling of auspicious harvest conditions both in Canada and Europe and to talk that the size of the Canadian crop was the key to world prices.

According to trade estimates telegraphed to Chicago yesterday from Winnipeg, Saskatchewan, and Alberta will each produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, and Manitoba 25,000,000. In this connection gossip was current that Canadian elevators and the Canadian growers' pool were selling heavily against expected receipts in the country during the next two weeks. However, these factors were rather lost sight of when word came that the Canadian harvest outlook appeared to have changed for at least the time being. Incidentally, Minneapolis to-day reported the best demand yet for flour this season.

Corn and oats, as well as wheat, rallied from early declines, but nevertheless the finish in corn was at a decided loss from the previous day. Weather throughout the corn belt was moderately favourable, and Fort Worth, Texas, was reported as having sold some No. 2 corn to come here.

Provisions were easier.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL POLICY.

Editor, Evening Examiner.

Dear Sir: In view of the charges levelled against Great Britain of breaking up the recent Naval Disarmament Conference, the enclosed quotation by Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, made in December, 1918, proves the sincerity of British proposals. Would you kindly print the enclosed speech, either as an editorial or in the "Voice of the People" column? Thank you.

—Britannia Forever.

On the Navy.

Our safety from invasion, our daily bread, every means whereby we maintain our existence as an independent people, our unity as an Empire, or federation of commonwealths and dependencies—all these float from hour to hour on our naval defence.

If that defence is weakened, neglected, or fettered, we should be in continual danger of subjugation or starvation. We should be forced to live in continued anxiety. If that naval defence were overthrown or outmatched by any other navy, or probably by a combination of navies, we should hold, no merely our possessions, but our lives and liberties only on sufferance.

Where else in the whole world can such conditions be paralleled? We have the right to demand from all other nations, friend and foe alike, full recognition of these facts. We are also entitled to point out that this naval strength that we require, and which we are determined to preserve, has never been used in history in a selfish and aggressive manner, and that it has, on four separate occasions, in four separate centuries—against Philip II. of Spain, Louis XIV., Napoleon, and the Kaiser—successfully defended civilization from military tyranny, and particularly preserved the independence of the Low Countries.

In this greatest of all wars, the British Navy shielded America from all menace of serious danger; and, when she resolved to act, it was the British Navy that transported and escorted the greater proportion of her troops to France. Our record, in a hundred years of unquestioned naval sway since Trafalgar, proves the sobriety of our policy and the righteousness of our intentions. Almost the only ports in the world open freely to the commerce of all nations were those of our Islands. Its possessions and our coaling-stations were used freely and fully by ships of all nations. We suppressed the slave trade. We put down piracy. We put it down the other day. Even our coastwise traffic, so jealously guarded by every power in the world, was thrown open to all-comers on even terms, by that ancient people in whose keeping the world has been wisely ready to intrust the freedom of the seas.—(By Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, December, 1918.)

A Thought For To-day

THE PROBLEM.

(By Clarence E. Flynn)

Thou God of little children,
And Parent of us all,
Who knowest all our struggles,
And hearest every call,
Disclose to us the secret,
And tell us what to do
To keep our children little
And have them grow up, too.

We treasure the devotion,
The little velvet hands,
The tender little greetings
Love always understands;
And yet we want them coming
To strength and prospects new,
How can we keep them little
And have them grow up, too?

A Page Of Applesauce And Wise Cracks

Mike

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

WHAT boy wouldn't like a dog, just any kind of a dog to worship him! When all friends and playmates fail his dog is always there, quiet and sympathetic alongside of him in his lavish troubles, barking and full of hysterical joy when his master is happy. There is perhaps no better investment for a boy than to get him a dog, for at the same time the dog is a constant and desirable playfellow, he requires care and indicates a certain responsibility. He is alive and cannot be neglected like a toy and for that reason inspires real emotions and feelings on the part of his small master. He is an excellent example of devotion and trustworthiness and almost unfailingly prompts the most desirable reactions on the boy's part. Yes a dog is a good investment!

JIM BRAYTON has a dog I'd like.
A dog he found, and named him Mike.
Mike didn't seem to have a home
But just was roaming round alone.
He has a kind o' limpy leg and isn't very much on looks
But you should see how smart he is! He begs to carry Jimmie's books.
He plays dead dog, can catch a ball,
And walks our fence without a fall.
He won't let anyone hurt Jim
Since Braytons have adopted him.
He talks to Jim—that is he tries,
And, Boy, he's got the nicest eyes!
He's awfully smart, yet it's the rule
That dogs can't come inside of school.
So Mike hangs 'round the door each day
And waits for Jim to come and play.
He takes a little nap perhaps or makes excursions round the block,
But every trip he hurries back on time for twelve or four o'clock.
He seems to know just when it's time
For school to close, and rain or shine
He meets his master without fail
With joyful waggings of his tail.
You bet us fellers all would like
A dog as nice and smart as Mike!

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

"Papa, what was the Stone Age?"

"That was the glorious period, my son, when a man axed a woman to marry him."—Answers.

ALL TOO TRUE

Wife: Every time you see a pretty girl, you forget you're married.

Husband: You're wrong, my dear. Nothing brings home the fact with so much force.—Judge.

SOMETHING WRONG

"Don't you think she is older than she makes out?"

"Well, anyhow, she is not as young as she makes up."—Gaiety.

THAT'S ENOUGH

Lawyer: What grounds do you have for divorce?

Peggy: Well, I'm married, ain't I?—Judge.

ENJOYED IT

"Someone told me you entertained your neighbors informally last night."

"Yes I had a quarrel with my husband on the front porch."—Answers.

JUST THE SAME

"You're suffering from indigestion. Drink a cup of hot water every morning."

"I've been doing that for some time, dotor, only my wife calls it coffee."—Answers.

A HOT TIME

Guest: Mr. Manager, the minute I came in your waiter poured a plate of hot soup over me.

Innkeeper (to waiter): Fritz, you mustn't greet the guests too warmly.—Passing Show.

NOT LASTING

He: When you promised to obey at the altar you waived certain rights.

She: Yes, but it wasn't a permanent waive.—Passing Show.

POETIC JUSTICE

CRAWFORD: How is it you gave up singing and retired from the musical world?

MISS SQUALLER: The doctor says I've ruined my voice smoking the cigarets I've been recommending.—Life.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Constant worry is something to worry about.

SHE KNOWS THE RULES

"It makes me nervous to see Betty swim so far out; she might take a cramp."

"Oh, she'll get along all right—there's no life guard about."—Life.

NO TIME TO WASTE

SICK CHORUS GIRL: I have a confession to make.

DOCTOR: Do you want a priest?

S. C. G.: No. Send for a publisher.—Life.

HAD NO LUCK

Hostess: Why didn't you bring your friend with you?

Guest: We drew lots to see who would come.

Hostess: And you won?

Guest: On the contrary, I lost.—Pele Mele, Paris.

CROP REPORTS.

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General.

In the Prairie Provinces crops are maturing rapidly. Cutting has started and should be general next week. Considerable lodging of grain has occurred especially in Alberta, while frost and rust are reported from some sections in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. In Quebec harvesting is now geenral, but settled weather is needed to assist operations and mature late crops. In contrast to the heavy yields of hay and grain in Ontario, indications are that all other crops will be below average. In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia rust is appearing on potatoes but good average crops are still in prospect, and pasturage is good. In Prince Edward Island conditions are excellent. In British Columbia weather conditions continue favorable for all crops. Threshing is general and a good average crop of high quality seems assured. Details follow:—

Prairie Provinces.

ALBERTA WESTERN AREA—With favorable weather cutting will be general by the end of the month, except from Lethbridge south, where heavy rains will further delay harvesting. Otherwise prospects generally are good. ALBERTA NORTHEASTERN AREA—Grains are maturing rapidly. Cutting has commenced but harvesting will not be general until the end of this week. Prospects generally are favourable. ALBERTA SOUTHEASTERN AREA—The rye crop is cut and cutting of wheat is reported from certain parts and will be general by 31st August. Prospects continue favorable for a very fair yield. SASKATCHEWAN NORTHERN AREA — Harvesting should be general by the end of the month. Crops are heavy but the yield will be reduced by frost and rust. SASKATCHEWAN SOUTHERN AREA—Some cutting is now being done and late grains are progressing well. Frost has caused extensive damage in certain areas. Rust is now prevalent and will affect returns from late crops. MANITOBA—Cutting of early wheat is under way and should be general by the end of the week. It is feared that damage from rust and frost will affect the grades and yields considerably.

Province of Quebec.

Harvesting of a good stand of grain is now general. Threshing has commenced. Haying is practically completed. The crop of small fruits and berries is heavy, but apples are below average in size and quality. Tobacco is ripening rapidly and is of good appearance. Pasturage is good.

Province of Ontario.

Threshing is general. Rust is reported from many sections but in spite of this all grain and straw are good samples. Buckwheat with a good acreage is a heavy yield. Clover seed on the whole is disappointing. Corn is a poor crop. The corn borer is more prevalent than last year. Sugar beets, turnips and mangolds promise well, but potatoes, beans and tobacco appear only average. Apples are a light crop, but peaches are showing better than expected.

Maritime Provinces.

In New Brunswick potatoes are showing signs of rust and the yield may yet be materially reduced. Haying has been delayed by wet weather, and the quality impaired. Oats are well headed with good straw. In Nova Scotia some early apples have been shipped. The estimated yield is now 1,300,000 barrels or about 80 per cent of a five year average. Haying has been delayed by rain, which is adversely affecting the quality. Potatoes are doing fairly well. In Prince Edward Island, potatoes are looking well and prospects good for all crops.

British Columbia.

Roots are standing up well, recent rains have been beneficial. The former estimate of 70 per cent to 75 per cent for apples, plums and prunes is well maintained. Pears and peaches are still much below average. A heavy crop of Wealthy apples is being picked. Harvesting of a satisfactory tobacco crop is now proceeding. A good yield of hops is anticipated. Pasturage is plentiful.

"The wonder metal of the age" is a fitting term for Aluminum. Its lightness, brightness, freedom from rust, and many other good qualities, make it a container par excellence for good tea—Red Rose Tea is packed only in this modern metal package. 17

PLAIN MR. YORK OF YORK, YORKS, will soon be here!

NORWOOD NEWS

NORWOOD, Aug. 31.—Miss Laura Buck, Spring Street, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower given on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Vera Finlay.

Mrs. Tighe (nee Jennie MacNaughton) and son, who have spent the past two months with Mrs. Tighe's mother, Mrs. John MacNaughton, left on Saturday for their home at Gore Bay.

Mrs. Pifer and daughter of Toronto are guests of Mrs. Thomas Buck. Mrs. Pifer rendered a solo at the morning service in the United church on Sunday and delighted the audience with her number.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cumming of Edmonton, Alta., former residents of Norwood, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brethen.

Mrs. M. Roberts and sons of North Bay are spending a holiday with her mother, Mrs. B. Moffatt.

Mrs. Charlie Steele (nee Alethia Duffield) of Weybourn, Sask., is spending a couple of weeks in Toronto the guest of her brother, Mr. Arthur Duffield.

Miss Lila Kirk was in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mrs. B. W. Squire left on Sunday to spend a two weeks holiday with her sister, Miss O. Stephenson, of Toronto.

Mr. Stevenson of Hastings is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Beavis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gardner of Trenton spent a couple of days in the village during the week.

Taken as a whole the crops in the vicinity of Norwood have turned out good. The threshing machine is heard in the district and the farmers are nearly through with their harvest.

BAILIEBORO NEWS.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Wharton of Winnipeg, Man., are visiting friends and relations at Baileboro. Mr. and Mrs. Wharton are touring Eastern Canada as far as Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thompson of Peterborough spent the week end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard.

The many friends of Mr. Stanley Fry will be pleased to hear that he is recovering from his recent illness.

Mr. George Fletcher left on Sunday for the West.

Rev. W. H. Foley of the Fraserville circuit is home after a two weeks' holiday at Bobcaygeon.

Teachers Changed.

Several schools in the district have changed teachers. The local teachers for the coming year will be:

Miss Ethel Falls at "The Brick" school.

Miss Edith Doyell at "Lakeview" school.

Miss Viola Nurse at "Benfort" school.

Miss Francis Bonnycastle at "Centreville" school.

Miss Mary Foley at "Pine Grove" school.

Miss Edna Wallace and Mae Earl will continue as teachers of the continuation and public schools in Baileboro for the coming year.

Wild Ducks Seen.

Several large flocks of wild ducks have been seen flying to Rice Lake. There seems to be an abundance of ducks. Over forty black ducks were seen in one flock. No doubt the tourists and local sports will not be disappointed in the yearly duck hunt.

The rice beds of Rice Lake are favorite feeding places for ducks and the lake is much frequented by the hunters.

It is Serious When The Kidneys Go Wrong

These letters tell of two cases in which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills afforded the desired relief.

For about half a century Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been known to the public as an effective treatment for the relief of kidney ills." Before that they had been for years proven in private practice. Surely they have stood the test of time. And to-day they are more popular than ever before. Why? Simply because they produce the desired results. You know when you use them that you are not experimenting with an untried medicine.

Mrs. Fred Martin, Box 61, Bradford, Ont., writes:—

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's K. & L. Pills, as I used to suffer agonies with gravel in the kidneys and tried several medicines with no results, until one day I decided to try Dr. Chase's K. & L. Pills and obtained so much benefit from them that I am now never without a box in use and one in reserve. I certainly wish Dr. Chase's Medicines every success."

Miss Mary Pettipas, 158, Upper Water St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—

"I suffered for two years with kidney trouble and tried a great deal of medicines, which did not help me at all. I was so nervous I could not rest at night. A neighbour advised me to try your K. & L. Pills and since taking them I feel like a new person and now sleep soundly at nights, thanks to Dr. Chase."

AVIATOR SETS HIGH RECORD

Jean Callizo Tops Own Record By 1,700 Feet.

NEW MARK 42,651.

PARIS, August 31. —(Canadian Press). — Aviators intent on breaking the world's altitude record must climb higher than 42,651 feet in consequence of the feat of Jean Callize who yesterday topped his own record by almost 1,700 feet. Callizo's former altitude record was 12,442 meters and the new mark is 13,000 meters.

"Never again. I don't want to fall off the earth," exclaimed the diminutive Frenchman when informed yesday that he had attained a height never before reached by a human being.

Callizo was picturesque in his description of his ascent:

"Progressively as one soars the sky becomes more and more an intense blue—yes, insultingly blue.

"My climb was rather commonplace at first reaching 5,000 meters in 16 minutes, then 10,00 meters after 41 minutes. The sensation of despondency and isolation is terrible. The eye sees nothing; the ear is paralyzed That is the altitude record. Then comes the drop back to earth."

The barograph which recorded the feat is in the hands of officials who are expected to confirm the mark within a couple of days, but the new record is already accepted as for as out doing the old mark.

Land Near Belgrade.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Aug. 31. —(Canadian Press). — Five hundred miles were added to the record of the "Pride of Detroit" yesterday, when the aviators, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee landed at the aerodrome near Belgrade at 12.03 o'clock. They went into the air at 6.25 in the morning at Muhich intending, if conditions were favorable, to fly to Constantinople, 1,000 miles away.- But they encountred rain and fog which delayed progress and they decided to come down at Belgrade.

A warm welcome awaited them and the airmen remarked smilingly that they did not regreat the stopover, even at the expense of a little time. They navigated by earth inductor compass, and also followed the Danube river when visible.

One of the needs of the airmen is good maps and these will be provided by Captain Sondermayer, Jugo Slav ace, who made a Belgrade to Bombay flight this year. He has given them valuable information concerning air current and atmospheric conditions.

Made Good Time.

Altogether, Brock and Schlee feel that they have made good time. From America to Belgrade in four days is a world's record ,and they hope to continue their record-making voyage. Their speed at times yesterday was well over a hundred miles an hour, but on occasion they clowed down because of the fog to make certain of their bearings. When informed that severe thunderstorms prevailed over Bulgaria they decided to stay for the night at Belgrade and start for Constantinople early tomorrow morning.

A motor-boat conveyed the fliers from the aerodrome to the city where they paid a visit to the United States legation and were entertained at dinner by the Jugo Slav aero club.

BRITISH PLANE BEGINS FLIGHT

tal, landing at the Hunt Club Field. If the flight is successful, the plane should be here to-morrow afternoon or evening.

Heard at Inverman.

INVERNAN, County Galway, Ireland, Aug. 31. —(Canadian Press).— The throbbing of the trans-Atlantic plane was plainly heard as Capt. Hamilton and Col. Minchin, pilots, headed out over the Atlantic on the flight to Canada today. The machine sped over the ocean between western extremity of Ireland and Inishmore, the most northerly of Arran Islands.

Mrs. Hamilton Confident.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press). — So confident is Mrs. Hamilton, wife of Capt. Leslie Hamilton that her husband will succeed in the trans-Atlantic venture with Col. Minchin and the Princess Wertheim, that upon learning that the plane had hopped off, she immediately left for Ottawa.

Princess Wertheim is the first woman to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight. She was clad for the part, purple leather flying suit with knee breeches, black crush hat, black silk stockings and high heeled fur lined boots.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN SWIM

Peterborough People Follow Progress — News From Many Sources.

EXAMINER BULLETINS.

Peterborough is agog to-day over the big swim in front of the Exhibition Park, Toronto. The citizens gathered together in groups on the streets and discussed the different entrants. There was much enthusiasm during the morning when George Young was leading the field but with his dropping out the progress of the other entrants who were not known so well was watched. Large crowds gathered around the Examiner bulletin boards where half hour reports were issued. • Grant and Thorpe put their radio loud speaker on the street and a fine programme was given all day. Direct reports were received from Exhibition Park, Toronto. J. W. Watson also rendered splendid service with his radio to many citizens.

The Examiner switchboard operator had a very busy day giving reports of the race. To-night the Examiner will receive bulletins until the race is ended. These will be posted and there will also be a telephone service maintained.

ALDERMEN VISIT BASEBALL PARK

Consider Making Improvements in James Stevenson Park.

MAY REMOVE STANDS.

Alderman Greene, chairman of the Parks Committee of the City Council, called a meeting of that committee for last night in James Stevenson Park, but only Aldermen Stocker, Denne, Greene, and Hancock turned up, which did not make a quorum.

The aldermen present looked over the park and made several suggestions, but nothing definite was put in the form of a motion.

They were greatly surprised when they walked across the baseball diamond, to find that it was very rough. The committee has over $750 to spend this year, and it is expected that the outer part of the park will be levelled up. Before anything definite is done, a Government expert will look over the ground and make suggestions as to the best way of beautifying the park.

There was some discussion of doing away with the baseball park, but nothing like that will happen this year. The stands at present are in bad condition, the fence will soon fall down, and some of the aldermen thought it was an opportune time to have all baseball played at the Exhibition Park.

HUMAN ARM FOUND LYING BESIDE ROAD

Thought To Have Been Thrown Away By Medical Student.

RENFREW, Ont., Aug. 31.—Patrick Manion, a farmer near Admaston, on his way home from work saw his dog eagerly gnawing at something on the roadside, and upon investigation believed it to be a human arm. His suspicions were shortly afterwards confirmed by Dr. N. C. McCormack, medical health officer of the township, who declared it to be that of a woman, who died approximately two months ago. He gave his opinion that it it had been possessed by some medical student who concluded to throw it away.

GENERAL SYNOD MEETS SEPT. 14

Central Body of Church of England in Canada Convenes at Kingston.

MUCH BUSINESS.

With His Grace, Most Rev. Dr. S. P. Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, Primate of All Canada, presiding, the eleventh session of Upper and Lower Houses of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada will commence on September 14. The meeting place will be St. George's Hall, Kingston, Ont., and the session will last for ten days.

The General Synod proceedings will open at 10.30 a.m. on September 14, in St. George's Cathedral, when the preacher will be Rt. Rev. Dr. W. C. White, Bishop of Honan, China, who recently returned to Canada from his diocese in the Orient.

It is stated that the business coming before the Synod will be of great importance and interest to the entire Church. The matters to be discussed will include the establishment of a consolidated trust fund, as authorized by the Church of England Trust Fund Act; clerical pensions; the creation of uniform parish registers, and the establishment of a newspaper, the official organ of the Church of Canada.

Attending the session of the Synod will be Most Rev. Dr. C. L. Worrell, Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Metropolitan of Eastern Canada; Most Rev. Dr. David Williams, Archbishop of Huron and Metropolitan of Ontario; Rt. Rev. J. F. Sweeny, Bishop of Toronto; Most Rev. Dr. A. U. DePencier, Archbishop of New Westminster and Metropolitan of British Columbia, together with all the bishops of the various dioceses of the Church in Canada, as well as lay and clerical delegates from each and every diocese.

VIERKOETER LEADS IN MARATHON SWIM

adian Press). — With more than one-third of the course covered, Ernst Vierkoeter of Germany had established a two-mile lead in the $50,000 Marathon of twenty-one miles at one p.m. to-day. His time for the eight miles was about four hours and twenty seconds. With George Young out of the race, the contention was supplied by Byron Summers of California.

Edward Keating, a threat to Summers, was taken out of the water at the seven-mile mark. Vierkoeter appeared to be slowly increasing his lead over Summers, who was accompanied by a band.

Mendill Burritt, Toronto was third, and John O'Halloran, of Barrie, Ont., fourth. Miss Ethel Hertle was fifth, swimming easily, and Georges Michel, French Channel swimmer, was in sixth place.

At 1.30 the swimmers left in the water were just under the hundred mark.

One eyed Connelly crashed the gate at the swim to-day. He is aboard the Macassa, the official boat.

CARS COLLIDE; BOTH DAMAGED

Two Drivers Sustain Arm Injuries in Accident Last Night.

AT STREET CORNER.

A large crowd gathered at Charlotte and Reid Streets, last night when two cars collided. The driver of a touring car proceeding west, turned south on Reid Street and came to a stop. Just as he started on his course again, a coach coming east appeared in view and being unable to clear the touring car, struck it on the rear right side with considerable force.

Both cars were damaged, the coach having the front right wheel and the running board broken and the touring car the rear right wheel and running board smashed.

Both drivers, whose names have not yet been ascertained, sustained arm injuries.

DROPS OUT.

Toronto Market Quiet General Trend Is Down

TORONTO, August 31. Canadian Press. — Trading quieted down on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and with the exception of a downward turn in Alberta Pacific grain no losses or gains of any account were made There was a slight downward tendency. Pacific grain lost 1 7-8 at 25 1-8, and Brazilian eased fractionally at 182¾. Cosmos at 28¾ and International Nickel at 66¼ were both lower, while Massey Harris lost 5-8 at 38. Walkers (leader of the liquor stocks) was steady at 49, but G. and W. eased ¾ at 48¾. British American Oil firmed ½ at 26.

Kirkland and Quebec Shares Lead in Mines

TORONTO, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press.) — The Kirkland Lake and Quebec groups shared leadership in the hectic session of the standard mining exchange to-day when the turnover approached the million share mark. Kirkland Hunton was the feature, climbing to 23½ and closing at noon at 19, up six points. Kirkland Lake was up eleven at 204. Amulet was weakest of the Quebec stocks, opening at 530 and selling down to 510. Area eased one at 82½. Central Manitoba gained one at 192 and Wright Hargreaves firmed a point at 107.

Wheat Prices Fall On News From Abroad

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.— (Canadian Press.) — Influenced by the unexpected weakness of the Liverpool market, wheat prices here averaged lower in the early dealings to-day. Rallies developed, though, in connection with reports that frost damage in Canada has been severe over large sections. Opening at 3-8 cent to ¼ cent decline, wheat subsequently at times recovered most of the loss.

Corn was weak, starting 3-8 cent to 1 1-8 cent off and later holding near to the initial range. Oats were relatively firm. Provisions tended to sag.

Opening prices were:

Wheat, September 1.33 1-8, December 1.37½. Corn, September 1.05 5-8, December 1.10 3-8. Oats, September 44, December 48½.

Downward Trend Today On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, August 31. Canadian Press. — Stock prices turned reactionary to-day under the weight of heavy selling for both accounts. United States steel common selling ex-dividend $1.75, dropped from an early high of 146 7-8 to 143½. General Motors, American Smelting, Paramount-Famous Players, General Railway Signal, and a number of other leading industrials sold down 2 points or more.

A break of 4 points in Pathe 'A' to a new low level for the year at 28¾ caused sympathetic selling of the other amusement issues. Acute weakness also developed in the New York traction stocks, which sank to new low levels for the year.

A further run up of 4 points in Western Maryland was one of the few features of the railroad group, in which declines again predominated.

LOCAL LEGION IN BIG PARADE

Several Members of Peterborough Branch Pass Before Prince.

COL. ACKERMAN ACTIVE.

Peterborough was well represented in the parade yesterday before the Prince of Wales in the Warriors' Day Review at the Canadian National Exhibition. Lt.-Col. C. H. The Peterborough contingent also included James Abraham, Dr. N. H. Sutton, D. H. Maconomy, Herbert Miller, J. Allen, J. Playford, S. Lowe, C. Griffin, Fred Smith and Harold Devey. Mrs. R. J. Devey, Provincial Treasurer of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, also attended the review and took part in an executive meeting of the Auxiliary held yesterday in Toronto. Col. Ackerman and Dr. Sutton attended a meeting of the executive of the Ontario Command.

MRS. GRANT MAKES 'EAGLE' AT NINTH

First Local Lady To Win Mercury Mills Prize.

Playing in an inter-club match yesterday against the ladies of Cobourg, Mrs. R. Grant, of Peterborough, got an eagle two at the 9th hole, a distance of 268 yards. Mrs. Grant is the first local lady to win the prize donated for this feat by the Mercury Mills Co. of Hamilton. This is open to any lady golfer who is a member of a Canadian club.

Twelve ladies were present from the Cobourg Club and Peterborough had eight wins, Cobourg two and two were tied.

The Peterborough ladies were: Mesdames Grant, E. S. Martin, J. A. Aylmer, C. G. Graham, F. L. Roy, J. E. L. Goodwill, G. Wood, J. F. Strickland, E. Wood, J. Wearing, Misses Hatton and Edwards.

JURY NAMES DRIVER WHO CAUSED DEATH

William Parent Killed By Car Driven By August

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 31 —That William Parent came to his death at a camp of the northern development branch of the Ontario Government, near Bellevue, from injuries received by being struck by a car driven by August Stepeng, was the verdict in the inquest held into the death of William Parent, aged 34, who was killed early on Sunday evening, when he was crushed between the bumper of a car, driven by Stepeng, and a stump

IN POLICE COURT.

It took exactly two tires, one rim, three tubes, and one motor rug to repair a blow-out experienced on the Chemong Road by a party of four motoring in a car belonging to Ernest Bonner, eighteen years of age and unmarried. And because none of the accessories already mentioned belonged to any of the quartette, the guilty, was one that was becoming William Bonner, twenty-two, married, John King, twenty-two, single, and Fred Moore, eighteen, single, were sentenced this morning by Magistrate O. A. Langley, in the County Magistrate's Court, held in the City Court Room, to fifteen days in the common jail.

The offence was committed at an early hour on Monday morning. A complaint was lodged in the forenoon. Before the afternoon had expired. Provincial Constable N. F. Maker had recovered the stolen property, part of it in North Monaghan and part in Otonabee, and had placed the culprits under arrest, capturing two of them in the former township and two in the latter.

On being arraigned this morning, all the accused elected summary trial. Ernest Bonner and John King pleaded guilty. William Bonner and Fred Moore, declaring that they had never left the car at the time of the theft, pleaded not guilty, but after a whispered consultation in the dock they amended their plea to one of guilty.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., acting for the prosecution, declared that the type of offence to which the prisoners had pleaded guilty, was one that was becoming more prevalent. There had evidently been a conspiracy to go out and get what they needed. Two of them remained by the car on the roadway and the others went into the farmhouse on Chemong Road. Going into the barn, in the middle of the night, as they did, was an offence that should be severely dealt with. They might have set the place on fire or have committed an assault resulting in manslaughter. He was told that they worked occasionally with farmers or where they could pick up a job.

The Magistrate gave each of the accused an opportunity to say something in his own behalf. William Bonner said they had a blow-out, and Ernest and King went into the farmhouse to get a tire. He was not in favour of their taking the property of the farmer, for whom he had worked at one time.

Constable Maker said that so far as he knew none of them had prison records.

In passing sentence the Magistrate said the offence was a serious one, but he did not want to make habitual criminals of them.

Other Cases.

There was a large number of minor cases before the Court. Five fines of five dollars were imposed for infractions of the stop street regulations and lighting regulations.

A local man was given suspended sentence, and called upon to enter into a bond guaranteeing good behaviour, following his pleading guilty to wife assault.

WATERING TROUGH IS PUT IN REPAIR

City Workmen Clean Out Pipes at Confederation Square.

Cleaning the pipes feeding the water trough on the north side of Confederation Square, near George street, workmen employed by the city have put this boon to farmers and teamsters in good working condition once more. The pipes on being taken out were found to be choked by vegetable organisms, the removal of which occasioned little difficulty.

SPORTING WRITER CALLED BY DEATH

H. J. P. Good, Well Known in Athletic Circles, Dies in Toronto.

The death occurred this morning of H. J. P. Good, well-known newspaper man who for some years past had been in semi-retirement, although frequently contributing special articles to the press from time to time on sporting subjects. Only a few days ago Mr. Good had a timely article in one of the Toronto papers which was much commented upon.

In the early days of The Mail before it absorbed the Empire, Mr. Good established what is conceded to be the first separate sporting department of a daily newspaper. Prior to this it was customary to include sporting items along with the general news of the day. Mr. Good conceived the idea of keeping it altogether and with the approval of the Mail's then editor, the late T. C. Patteson, established a sporting department of which he became editor, Mr. Good therefore can be termed the first sporting editor in America if not in the world.

Mr. Good was born near Birmingham Eng., on November 22, 1848. He was educated by private tuition at Shoreham and King's College. His wife was Miss MacClude. He migrated to Canada in 1869.

He was for some years a governor and secretary for Ontario of the Canadian National Bureau of Breeding a former president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, also a president of the Canadian Bowlers' Association. He was in turn editor of the Toronto Sunday World, and for many years editor of the Canadian Sportsman. Other positions held by Mr. Good were those of secretary and manger of the Toronto Open Air Parade Association, and an officer of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition Association.

In 1910 he was appointed manager of the Dominion Exhibition at St. John, N. B., and in 1911 handled the Vancouver Exhibition. He was a member of the Albany Club, Toronto.

Surviving are three sons: Chas. H. of Toronto Star staff, William and Harry, and two daughters: Mrs W. H. Thomas and Mrs. J. A. Davidson.

Mr. Good died at his residence, 643 Bathurst Street, and notice of his funeral will be given later.

Helen Wills Retains United States Tennis Title

HELEN WILLS WINS LAURELS FOR 4TH TIME

"Poker Face" Defeats Betty Nuthall, 16-Year-Old Challenger.

IN STRAIGHT SETS.

Youthful English Star Stages Final Rally Before Accepting Defeat.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 31. — Associated Press. — Helen Wills, the 21 year old California girl, with the "poker face" and fiery strokes, is again the tennis queen of the United States.

In a title match packed with thrills and color Miss Wills turned back the plucky challenge of Betty Nuthall, a 16 year old English star and carried off the national women's singles championship for the fourth time in five years.

The scores were 6-1, 6-4, decisive enough to leave no doubt of the Californian's superiority, but likewise revealing the story of a final rally in which blond and blue-eyed Betty staged a stirring battle before accepting defeat.

Overwhelmed in the first act,seemingly put to route by the withering fire that came from Miss Mills' flashing racquet, Miss Nuthall fought back brilliantly, matching drive for drive in a spurt that fell only one game short of deucing the second set.

It was a spectacular, magnificent rally by which the English girl pulled up from a count of 1-4 to take three out of four games from one of the hardest hitters that women's tennis has ever developed. It exhibited Betty as a campaigner with resources far above the average for her years ,and the determination of a fighter that refuses to know when she's licked. It aroused a tremendous enthusiasm in a gallery of 8000 fans whose sympathies seemed with the English girl in spite of an evident desire also to see the Californian regain her throne.

Miss Nuthall lost her second bid for the United States championship when she and her partner Joan Fry, were defeated in the doubles final. This title went overseas to Britain, anyway, for the victors were Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Miss E. H. Harvey. They won by scores of 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, in an all-English final that took the doubles cup overseas for the second time in five seasons.

The doubles final brought out a stirring duel in which the greater experience and steadiness of Mrs. Godfree and Miss Harvey prevailed over their younger countrywomen.

Miss Nuthall performed conspicuously, leading another uphill cause, when she and Miss Fry overcame a deficit of 1-4 in the second set and run off five straight games to square the match. They made a close fight of it in the final set, but Miss Fry's service was broken through in the tenth game for the deciding points.

The result of the Wills-Nuthall match was inevitable from the outset. It was the case of an experienced, resourceful star, with entirely too much power for a younger, more aggressive, but less seasoned opponent. This power checked Betty's dash and settled the question of women's supremacy for 1927.

It took Miss Wilsl only 30 minutes to down her youthful foe but it was a picturesque tussle between two contrasting personalities and an interesting duel of tennis while it lasted.

Miss Wills reeled off five games in a row in the opening set with the loss of only 6 points. Against such a withering fire as the American ace directed at the baseline, Miss Nuthall seemed helpless. Any other player but 'Beaming Betty' might have been discouraged, and as the saying goes, "folded up." Not so the smiling English girl, whose determination has carried her through numerous uphill fights in reaching the final round.

Instead of wilting, Betty rallied. She had been down as another saying goes but she wasn't out. Her first success was a "break" through Miss Wills' service in the second game of the final set. She paid dearly for this by dropping the next three games in a row as Miss Wills appeared to have victory in her grasp. But Betty was not to be "counted out" as quickly. Again she pierced the perfect delivery of the American in the first game then won her unorthodox underhand service at love.

The gallery at this point was cheering Miss Nuthall wildly and its enthusiasm was only temporarily checked as Miss Wills made her own service good and assumed a lead of 5-3 on games. The English girl came back to take her own serivice once more. She had her drives well under control as she mixed her pace softened or added power to her attack. She needed only one game more to force Miss Wills to a deuce battle for the first time in the tournament, but Betty wasn't quite equal to this. She tried gallantly but the best she could do in the deciding game was to score one brilliant point on a cross court placement.

Miss Nuthall, even when making feeble or wild returns of Miss Wills' smoking drives, was constantly seeking the aggressive. When she could control her smashing forehand strokes they carried scarcely less pace than those of the American. She took most of the chances and missed many of her shots by close margins.

Miss Wills, sensing that her opponent was willing to take most of the risks ,played a defensive game, keeping Miss Nuthall on the run, content to gain her points chiefly on errors. How well this strategy worked was shown by the fact that Betty made 37 "outs" as compared with only 20 for Helen.

Otherwise there was little difference in their games as revealed by the stroke analysis.

Former Heavy Champ Has Idle Day At Camp

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey indulged in another day of idleness yesterday, his second day in a row away from the boxing gloves. He had expected to crawl into the ring with his sparring partner,but Manager Flynn at the last minute ordered Dempsey to suspend operations, after deciding that Dempsey's seven-mile hike on the roads yesterday was sufficient.

Along about 2.30 o'clock after Dempsey had taken his daily nap, he looked out the window and saw about 2,500 people outside the gates of Lincoln Fields muttering and murmuring because they could not pay their $1.10 to see him box.

Dempsey knew they were disappointed because the newspapers said he would go into action in the afternoon. So he motioned the gatekeepers to let everybody in free and sent seven sparring partners out to provide the glove entertainment.

Dempsey appeared on the balcony of the club-house to watch the boxing.

BISONS WIN FROM SKEETERS

Play 15 Innings For 7-6 Victory —Second Game Postponed.

SYRACUSE CALLED.

NEW YORK, August 31. —(Canadian Press). — It took the Bisons 15 innings to vanquish the Skeeters at Buffalo yesterday by a score of 7 to 6. Jackson travelled the whole distance for the Jersey City team, while Falk, who started for Buffalo, was relived by Hollingsworth in the eighth.

The winning run was scored by a single by Fisher and a double by Bisonette.

The second game was postponed on account of impending darkness.

At Syracuse the Stars got a break in the weather when a timely deluge of rain forced Umpire Gaston to call the game with the Orioles leading 4 to 1. Baltimore had taken its bat to start the fifth. Ira Smith, third sacker, first man up the Stars' half had a ball called on him when the thunder shower broke. Baltimore got away to a four run start in the first inning when Frank Barnes issued two free tickets to first and the Orioles connected for four blows.

GIANTS TAKE FULL SERIES

Defeat League-Leading Cubs in Final Game 7 to 3.

PITCHERS WILD.

NEW YORK, August 31. —(Canadian Press). — Defeating the league-leading Chicago Cubs by 7 to 3 for a clean sweep of a three-game series, the fast-travelling New York Giants yesterday advanced to within two and a half games of first place. The victory was their seventh straight and their twenty second in the last 28 games. Only the Pirates who did it twice, have been able to beat the Giants in their present home stand of 14 games.

A home run by Leslie Mann, substitute fielder, on the first ball pitched sent the Giants away to a fast start yesterday. Jones, who started in the box for the leaders, was wild and ineffective. Three more runs were score in the second frame on three bases on balls. Jones' wild throw and a single base hit. The Cubs were unable to hit in the pinches and threw away scoring chances by poor base running. A late Chicago rally in the ninth was checked by Fitzsimmons, who relieved Burleigh Grimes. Chicago used four pitchers.

The Phillies held Pittsburgh to an even break in a double- header-header at Philadelphia yesterday, winning the first game by a 3-2 score in 10 innings and dropping the second 12-6. Hub Pruett outpitched Kremer in the opened and gained the verdict when his teammates clubbed two runs over in the tenth after the Pirates had scored a run in their half of the inning. A pinch double by Jack Scott and singles by Spalding, Wrightstone and each scored the winning tallies.

"Moon" Harries starred in the second game by hitting three singles and a double and driving in six of the Pirates' runs. He hit a double that scored three runs in the seventh inning and broke up a 6-6 tie.

Hugh McQuillan had the better of Pete Donohue in a pitchers' battle at Boston that went 11 innings, and Boston defeated Cincinnati, 2 to1. The former Giant star held the Reds to four scattered hits and up to the ninth th evisitors had obtained only one safe blow. Donohue was hit hard, but was strong in the pinches. The winning run came when Richbourg, with bases filled, sent a single over Kelly's head in the eleventh. Ed. Brown, who was sent into the game late, raised his total of successive games played to 5.0.

Dazzy Vance and his Brooklyn Robin team-mates handed the St. Louis Cardinals a 5 to 3 beating at Brooklyn that shoved them back to third place in the league. Vance fanned eight men with his fast ball and allowed but six scotter hits. The speed ball king also helped to win his own ball game by getting a single and a double in four times up, driving in one run and scoring twice.

Billie Sherdel, Cardinal slow ball artist, was touched for 13 hits in less than eight eight innings.

PAUL MANNING

When he went into the Institute meeting there he would greet his brother engineers, but he would not have felt so free to do this if he had not been ready to act his part in the branch here, Fellowship was the most valuable asset of the branch. Much had been said about what he had done for the branch. He did not desire to accept all these compliments. What he had done had been through the co-operation of the whole branch.

A. L. Killaly.

Mr. Killaly on being called on said he was taken somewhat unawares but it was not hard to say something about Paul. Every organization had men who would take hold of the work and others who would do work if there were men to take hold. Paul was one of those who were prepared to hold. If the executive had a job, Paul was the man to do it. With the rest of them he was sorry to see Paul go, but he hoped he would continue his work in the Institute.

R. L. Dobbin.

Ross L. Dobbin said what he said to Paul was usually said in private and he found it rather embarrassing to say it in public. The progress of the Engineering Institute was wrapped up in the efforts of Paul Manning,

The City of Peterborough would miss Paul whose services especially in connection with the celebration at the Diamond Jubilee celebrations were greatly appreciated.

B. L. Barns.

Mr. Barn in a few well chosen words expressed appreciation at the efforts Mr. Manning had made. Mr. Manning, he said, was a fair square fellow who was willing to see both sides of the question.

Even although he might not agree entirely with what was proposed he was nevertheless willing to pitch in and do his best. This was a very valuable quality in any man and he personally was sorry to see Mr. Manning go from among them.

George Birchall.

George Birchall, chairman of the juniors and students branch said that on him had fallen part of the work of making arrangements for the dinner at which they were present. Others had stated that they would miss Mr. Manning after he had gone. Mr. Birchall, said he already missed Mr. Manning before he had gone. He was sorry he could not ask Paul to make the arrangements. With the assistance of three or four others, declared the speaker, he had succeeded in doing what Paul had often done alone.

W. E. Ross.

W. E. Ross, said that as secretary he appreciated the amount of work that Mr. Manning had put into the organization. Last year, things were very nice for him. Under the plea of ignorance he could wander into the office of Mr. Manning and get what assistance he required. Now he was faced with the situation that Mr Manning was going away. He appreciated the work done by Mr. Manning particularly the secretarial work. Mr. Manning's other activities were well-known. To enumerate them would be to paint the lily. If any man by his departure left a hole that would be difficult to fill that man was Paul Manning.

Pictures Shown.

The programme concluded with the showing of a large number of moving pictures taken by Ross L. Dobbin. The films showed the various members of the E. I. C. at work on the famous model of the Quebec Bridge which adorned George Street near Murray at the Jubilee celebrations. Then came views of the procession and the favorite exhibits were loudly cheered as they appeared on the screen. Two reels of pictures taken by Mr. Dobbin when sailing across the Great Lakes and on his tour through parts of Alberta and Jasper Park on the occasion of his visit to Edmonton attending the convention of Knights Templar brought an enjoyable programme to a close.

Fails In Attempt To Swim Delaware

LEWIS, Del., Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—Maxine Meitzner, 17-year-old Riverton girl, failed in her attempt yesterday to swim across Delaware Bay from Cape May Point, N.J., to Lewis. She was taken from the water at 7.45 p.m., within a mile and a half of her goal. She started the swim at 9.01 o'clock yesterday morning.

Partners In England Goddesses in America

LONDON, Aug. 30. — (United Press). — "England is the only country in the world that knows the proper place for women," said Canon W. H. Dawson, head master of Brighton College in a speech here. "In France she is a plaything, in Germany a drudge, in America a goddess, and in England she is a partner."

RUM RUNNERS FEAR TWO LOST

Two Men Left Port Colborne On Monday in Low Built Boat.

SEAS VERY HIGH.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Aug. 31.— Lost or forced to land in some unknown spot along the shores of Lake Erie? This is the question facing the local rum-running fraternity here yesterday, when two of their number failed to return to port, after heading out late Monday night for United States shores with a $3,000 cargo of ale, whiskey and champagne. Meantime efforts were made to try and locate the men or get some word of them.

The "Dancer," 60-foot motor boat, left here with a cargo of approximately 500 bags of ale, 25 acses of whiskey and 25 cases of champagne. The boat was stated to be going to Buffalo, but it is understood that it was really headed for a small town east of Erie, Pa. The boat is owned by Buffalo interests and the owner is reported to have told the crew to stay in on account of the very heavy seas Monday night. They ignored his advice. The remainder of the rum fleet have kept in port all day, as the heavy seas are still a menace to their successful landing of any cargo.

The lost rum runner was a very low-built boat and despite the optimistic views of the local runners, it is hardly possible that it could have gone across without being swamped in the heavy seas that have been prevailing for the past 48 hours. One local man and one from Buffalo comprised the crew of the "Dancer." A tug attempted to leave this port yesterday to look for the men, but was forced to turn back owing to the stormy waters. A wire was then sent to Erie, Pa., and a request made that a tug leave that harbor. It is not known as yet whether the tug managed to leave there or not. Another group of runners motored to Port Maitland to look into a report that two men had been brought into that port. Customs officials and Provincial Police Officer Gage, of Dunnville, stated last night that the rumor was not correct and that no bodies had been reported to them as found outside that port.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 31. — Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Watson report a delightful trip over the week-end. They motored to Kingston and spent Sunday cruising through the Thousand Islands. Miss Maynard, Miss Watson of Ottawa, Mr. Cecil Watt, and Maynard Watson were also members of the party.

With the first sign of clear weather yesterday, the tennis club courts had their full complement of players. Campbellford is very anxious to make a good showing in the events which they are still to play.

The Davidson Garage is minus a gasoline pump, due to the fact that an unobservant motorist managed to back into one and do considerable damage. The remainder of the battery of pumps is feeling the pressure.

REGENT UNDERGOES INTERIOR CHANGES

Re-opens To-morrow After Month's Closing For Renovation and Repair.

That a small theatre can be made very attractive and up-to-date has been proved by the recent renovations to the Regent on Hunter Street.

Gilt paint, carpets and wall decorations have not been spared to change the old interior into one very presentable.

A ladies' waiting-room is a new acquisition which will no doubt be appreciated.

Many new and comfortable seats have replaced the old ones, and the Regent will re-open to-morrow, September 1, for the coming season.

TUNNEY TRAINS FOR COMING BOUT

Has Seven Round Workout With Partners at Training Quarters.

SPECULATOR N. Y., August 31.—(Canadian Press). — Gene Tunney is finding himself with two tasks on his hands, one the job of conditioning himself for the battle with Jack Dempsey in Chicago next month, the other the now popular indoor Adirondack sport of guessing when and how long it will rain.

Despite the chilly squalls that tore through the heavyweight champion's quarters on the edge of Lake Pleasant yesterday, Gene outguessed the elements long enough to edge in a seven round workout with two sparring partners and a light punching bag. The bag took a licking for three rounds while Chuck Wiggin, Indianapolis light heavy weight, and Billy Vidabeck, faced the title-holder for two sessions apiece.

Wiggin worked the heavy-weight king at top speed every moment of the six minutes alloted him. Tunney stopped to grin at the veteran's antics at times and slow the pace when clean right smashes dropped on Wiggin's chin but for the most part the going was hot and heavy.

By rolling his head, Chuck found he had more success than Vidabeck in avoiding Tunney's right counter to the jaw. Gene switched at times to a body attack and drew grunts from Wiggin with well timed left hoods to the stomach. The champion made little effort to score heavily on either men, however, being content with a shifty display of foot work.

287 SWIMMERS

At this point, four miles had been covered and Vierkoeter was closing in a little on Young. The latter, however, was swimming easily. Summers was slowing up a little, threatened by Edward Keating. Young's lead over Vierkoeter at the four mile mark was a minute and a quarter.

At eleven a.m., Vierkoeter, the German, took the lead from Young, along the third leg, going about fifty yards in front.

Ethel Hertle, the first of the women, was among the ten leaders.

Young, swimming 51 strokes to the minute, was quite cool as Vierkoeter took the lead from him at the four and a half mile mark. He is said to have told his handlers, "It's a long way yet."

Vierkoeter was a hundred yards in front at 11 a.m. Both were going without effort, heads well down.

It cost the Fairmount Jockey Club $62,500 in State license fees for its 25 days' Fall meeting at Collinsville, beginning August 27.

OMEMEE COUPLE 20 YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Lamb Celebrate Happy Event Recently.

OMEMEE, Aug. 31.—The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamb was the scene of a happy event on the evening of Saturday, August 27th, when many former school friends and others of the host and hostess called to extend their good wishes, the occasion being the twentieth anniversary of their wedding.

The spacious rooms were gayly decorted with a profusion of beautiful gladiolii, asters, golden glow and marigolds, with Chinese lanterns adorning the archways. The color scheme being somewhat confined to the anniversary colors of red and yellow. An added feature of the dining room decorations was the bride's table which was adorned with snowy cloth centred with a three story wedding cake and surrounded by tall, red and gold candles and deep red gladiolii.

A very pleasant evening was spent in solving a musical contest the winners of which were Mrs. G. N. Earle and Rev. P. B. Thornton. A brief programme followed with solos by Mrs. H. Hickson, of Reaboro, Reeve Southworth, and Rev. E. W. Rowland and a brilliant piano selection by Mrs. Cecil Corneil. Community singing was indulged in and much enjoyed by all.

A dainty luncheon was served at eleven o'clock, the final item on the menu being the wedding cake, which was cut by the bride of twenty years ago.

Congratulatory and humorous addresses followed by Rev. E. W. Rowlan, Reeve L. A. Southworth, Rev. P. B. Thornton and F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., which were followed by a happy response by Mr. Lamb.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought to a conclusion a very happy event.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FLOP DOWN

"When are we going to the seashore, Wiggy?" asked the rabbit gentleman's wife of him one hot day when the sun was fairly sizzling down even in cool Woodland.

"Why I think we shall take a little trip down to the ocean tomorrow," was the answer. "There are very few more adventures left in these woods, so I must look for some new ones at the shore."

"I wish we could go today," sighed Mrs. Longears who sat on the porch of the hollow stump bungalow using a big, green burdock leaf as a fan, flopping it to and fro.

"I wish you would use something else to cool yourself with, my dear," spoke Uncle Wiggily, gently.

"Why?" asked his wife.

"Because," answered Mr. Longears rubbing a yellow egg spot off his vest, "the sight of that leaf reminds me of what happened yesterday when I kicked away my old hat."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the lady rabbit. "That was funny! To see you standing on the porch, all dripping with the whites and yellows of eggs! Oh, my dear! Such a sight! But it's too hot to laugh!"

However, Mrs. Longears could not help laughing a little. And those of you who read the story last night know why. Those of you who wish to go, may now be excused for a few minutes to read the tale.

But all this did not make it any cooler around Uncle Wiggily's bungalow, and as he saw his wife sitting there, panting for breath, the rabbit gentleman said:

"I will make a little seashore right here for you."

"How can you?" asked the lady rabbit.

"Easily," her husband answered. "It will cool you off until we can go to the real shore tomorrow." So Uncle Wiggily emptied a big bag of salt in the duck pond. Then he found a sandy place and stuck up in it a big red sun umbrella such as you often see at the beach. Then the bunny put an electric fan, with long wires from his bungalow, near a stool which he set under the sun umbrella.

When the fan was whizzing it made a breeze and what with the smell of salt water in the duck pond, and the sun umbrella, really it did look like a little bit of the summer shore.

"Oh, this is delightful!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears as she sat beneath the big umbrella on the stool and let the salty breezes from the electric fan cool her pink nose.

"I am glad you like it," said Uncle Wiggily. "I will now hop to the station and get our tickets so we can go to the real shore tomorrow.

When Uncle Wiggily returned with the tickets, he saw his wife still sitting where he had left her. But when he asked her how she liked it she answered:

"Everything is lovely except the flop down."

"The flop down!" cried Mr. Longears. "I don't see any flop down!"

"You are looking right at it," his wife said. "I mean this sun umbrella. Something seems to be the matter. Every once in a while this red sun umbrella shuts up and flops down on my head, making me jump. That's why I call it a flop down and—"

Mrs. Longears could say no more for the moment as, just then, the big, red umbrella flopped down, shutting itself up with the rabbit lady under it.

"Oh, my dear!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "It isn't fastened properly. Here, I'll fix it!" He hoisted the umbrella again, while Mrs. Longears rubbed her pink nose where it had been hit, and her husband said: "Now it's all right!"

But he had no sooner spoken than—"Whish!" the umbrella flopped down again, closing so suddenly that Uncle Wiggily was banged on the head and his wife was knocked from her chair.

"This surely is a flop down!" cried the bunny gentleman when he had once more hoisted it. "I must call the plumber to fix it and—"

Just then, around the corner of the spice bush, ran the Fuzzy Fox who barked:

"I can fix you, Uncle Wiggily, without a plumber!" The Fox made a dash for Mr. Longears, but the two rabbits hopped away. In chasing them the Fox ran under the open umbrella and, all of a sudden, it flopped down so hard that it banged him head over heels, knocking the bad chap into the duck pond. There the salt water got in his eyes and he could hardly see to swim out. But at last he did, wet and bedraggled and he slunk away, very much ashamed of himself.

"Well, the old flop down sun umbrella saved us!" chuckled Mr. Longears, when the Fox had gone. And by that time it was night and quite cool, so everything was all right.

FARRELL TO DIRECT STEEL CORPORATION

Following Failure of Directors To Elect Chairman of Board.

NEW YORK, August 31 (Canadian Press). — Failure of the directors of the United States Steel Corporation to elect a chairman of the Board and of the Finance Committee to succeed the late Elbert H. Gary, leaves active direction of the corporation, for the present, at least, in the hands of President James A. Farrell.

Under the by-laws of the corporation, the directors are empowered to elect the Finance Committee from their own group and to designate a chairman. In the absence of such chairman, the by-law states, the president presides at meetings of the directors and of stockholders and "subject to the Board of Directors and the Finance Committee, he shall have general charge of the business of the corporation relating to manufacturing, mining and transportation and general operation." The president has the power also to "sign and execute all authorized bonds, contracts, cheques, or other obligations in the name of the corporation," and must perform such other duties as the directors may assign.

Although a quorum was present at the lengthy meeting yesterday, it was announced that only routine business was transacted and that a resolution expressing sorrow at the death of Mr. Gary was adopted. It is believed that the Board may have postponed action on Mr. Gary's successor until certain members have returned from abroad.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

MAMIE SMITH AND HER GANG. A Badge of Distinctive Progress. A Show that is a Direct Contradiction to the Name.

"Mamie Smith and Her Gang," the name of a show that is scheduled to appear at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday conjures up visions of trifling, happy-go-lucky darkies such as delights the mind of cartoon artists. As a matter of fact, the production is one of the finest exhibitions of what the Negro Race has done in the matter of making progress that has been presented in recent years. However, this exhibit is not made at the expense of the rich harmony and the great comedy values potent in the American Negro, for the show is an excellent blending of the music for which colored folks are famed and enough natural comedy for several attractions.

Youth, beauty, voice, figure, personality, instinct and training are the seven characteristics of the perfect chorus, according to the dictum of our greatest stage directors. Mamie Smith who staged the show has added even more. Of course, that's a woman's privilege. Hence there is deportment, precision, diversity of color, assortment of types and natural love of jazz in her chorus.

Ragtime, Jazz, Blues and the crooning melodies were born in the cabins of the pre-war slaves. It has been fifty years since they were first handed to the public by word of mouth. In recent years these quaint songs have become our national musical standard. They have become commercialized by the music publishers. It is but natural that the descendants of those same slaves, not musically educated to a high degree should sing their own inheritances better than can any other people. That's why the singing in the Mamie Smith show, the all colored musical comedy is so good.

USE MORE FRESH CIDER

The consumption of cider has increased a great deal in the last few years, both in Canada and the United States. More fresh cider is being used and also, in some places, a large amount of fermented cider which often contains as much as 8% of alcohol. More of both the sweet and hard kind is being sold each day from fruit-juice stands and the drug-stores.

Apple juice is not improved, in any way, by fermentation but is really more palatable and wholesome if used as soon as possible after being squeezed out.

Cider making may be carried on at home as there is nothing complicated about the making of it. All it is necessary to do is to grind the apples to a pulp and then press the pulp to extract its juice. Small presses can be purchased for use in the home. In the fall apple cider may be made at very little expense by those who live in sections where apples are plentiful. During the later winter months, and in the spring, the price of apples, out of which cider can be made, is almost prohibitive for those of moderate means.

In many places large companies are now meeting the need for fresh cider by storing away cheap grades of apples and using them all during the year, making the cider fresh and delivering it fresh to soft drink stands and soda fountains each day. It is possible, for some time, to keep sweet cider from fermenting by using powdered wood charcoal in the ratio of about a pint to a barrel. The use of preservative in the cider made for beverage purposes is undesirable, and is unnecessary if it is carefully made and barrelled or bottled and stored under favorable conditions. The bottles or barrels of cider must be kept in a cool place. The cooler the cider is kept, the less fermentation will develop.

The best way to use cider is to drink a glassful or two in place of a meal, or a glassful may be taken an hour before meals or just before retiring.

I find I have very good results from fasting patients on an exclusive diet of apple-juice and water. A glassful may then be taken every two hours during the day. Cider has a mild laxative effect and this effect is noticed even when no other food is taken. The bowels usually do not move during a fast except with enemas, but on the cider diet one will often have several evacuations daily.

It would be a good idea if more cider were used by school children at the lunch hours in place of taking milk, sandwiches, etc., which foods are hard to digest and remain in the stomach to interfere with the next meal. The nourishing part of cider is quickly assimilated and the liquid passes out of the stomach. Fresh cider is sweet enough to satisfy the child's desire for sweets, and a glassful or two a day will supply the system with some good vitamins, and at the same time, will insure freedom from constipation.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE THINGS WE NEVER WEARY OF

The things we never weary of—
This is the only way to prove
The things worth while. If love can tire
It was not love; it was desire.
And if a song or if a word
Can sound less sweet when often heard
'Twas but a semblance all along,
'Twas but a tune and not a song.

The things that never weary, these Alone are worthy. Colors please,
But, if the eye shall find too bright
The garment once that gave delight,
What seemed the costume of a queen
At last grows common, often seen,
This was not beauty—for no eye
Has ever seen true beauty die.

We never weary of the things
Worth while. Oh, let the song one sings
Be music, let the garb we wear
Be such that none will turn to stare.
Yes, let us fill our lives with these,
The great unchanging harmonies:
Music and beauty, and true love,
The things we never weary of.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she is betrothed. Murtough joins a bootlegging band and Sheila is befriended by the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer. Murtough, influenced by a cabaret girl, betrays his band and the rivals carry away $150,000 contraband. The hi-jackers in turn double cross him and he is exiled with threats of death. Rory begins to court Sheila to the delight of his parents.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

"Soon you'll be stopping work, Sheila," Rory said to her one night when he called to take her home. "And I've got a surprise for you, some good news."

"An' what can it be, Rory?"

"I'm going into business."

"With Tim?"

"With Tim himself. We settled it last night. I'm putting in my money toward buying a new truck he needs, and that'll give me a share in the profits. Oh, it isn't much, but I'm to earn fair wages at the same time."

"You're not going to fight any more?"

Rory laughed. He held out his right hand then so she might examine it under the lamplight. "Not with that mit," he said.

In the hearts of Sheila and Rory O'Shea there was singing.

"An' what happened to it?" asked Sheila.

"Oh, I fought a bare knuckle fight for the biggest prize in the world one night," he said.

"An' ye told me nothing about it?"

"Nor am I going to tell you now. It's forgotten, but I had to take up a business and give up my profession," he smiled. Nor would he say more. But Old Mike O'Shea, who now looked upon Sheila as a new daughter come to grace his family, did tell her and proudly, for the old man took pride in the son that could win so fine a girl.

"Ye see, they told it to me at the Club, for sure, an' Rory would never say a word about it, an' him weighing a little over a hundred and thirty-three, the big one weighing more like a hundred and seventy."

"But who was he?"

"It was your fine friend, Murtough, and it was the night of the dance. D'ye remember now, when Rory came back, what with his eye turning black and half shut and a bump on his jaw as big as me hand?" That was exaggeration for Mike O'Shea had a hand so large that it would cover both jaws of a man. "An' Rory took him into the storeroom and they had a fight. It must a been a grand sight, an' I've never forgiven Rory for not calling me down to see it!

"Your former friend Murtough, was as strong as a bull, so Mannie Clocker told me, but he didn't know the science that my lad knew an' he whaled and flailed into Rory, but sure he was like a cat, now here and then gone again. And Rory stepping in and tearing his face to ribbons. But Rory had to finish the job, so he waited an' when his chance came he struck out with his right an' the great jaw of Murtough took the blow. An', Rory followed it up with another to the chin! That finished his hand, three of his knuckles were broken, an' he must a' been in great pain, but ye didn't hear him whisper even about it the whole night, now did ye?"

"But why did they fight? I knew they had, but what was it about?"

"Sure, an' didn't Murtough get ye engaged to himself, while all the time he was telling this other girl that he was engaged to her too, an' Rory didn't like to have ye deceived, darling."

"But Rory never told me."

"An' he wouldn't. Sure an' it's unbecoming of me to praise my own son, but, Sheila, he's a fine boy and ye' could do no better than to marry him."

Sheila blushed. "But he hasn't asked me," she admitted.

"Hasn't asked ye!" Old Mike was astounded. "Sure, the young devil, i'll be talking to him this night. I will."

"But, I think, Father O'Shea," whispered Sheila into his ear, "that maybe he is going to."

"An' what kind of a girl are ye, that would be walking out with a man every single night an' not steering him into proposing, I'd like to know," declared the elder O'Shea indignantly, but with a twinkle in his eye. "It seems to be ye're not such a smart girl after all at all."

"An' d'ye think I'd be leading such a poor innocent into a noose, Daddy O'Shea?" cried Sheila. "Is it that kind of a girl ye'll be thinking me to be?"

The old man laughed. "Poor innocent! An' him giving ye orders the very first night he takes ye under his arm."

"Orders?"

"Sure, an' didn't I hear then, when he sent us home an' paraded ye among all his friends at the Dance," Old Michael laughed again. "Indeed an' indeed ye'll be finding out what the O'Shea family is, Miss Kildare, when ye become a part of it! I'll tell ye' 'tis the men that rule the house and—"

"Michael!" Kathie's voice sounded from the kitchen.

Old Mike O'Shea started. Here he was in the midst of a great boast, and there was Kathie! He looked at Sheila and then he smiled and his eyes twinkled again.

"But no man can rule his own house unless he has the right wife," he said.

"Michael!"

"Yes, my dear."

Sheila laughed and in the very middle of her laughter a sob rose in her throat. How dear, how dear was this dear, dear couple, the father and mother of her own Rory!

"Oh, Daddy O'Shea, 'tis brave ye are an' if only Rory takes after ye, I'll be happy for all my days." And Sheila flung her arms about him and kissed him full upon the lips. Kathie walked in.

"Is it all the men in my family ye want?" demanded the old lady.

"Oh, an' maybe I do, maybe I do, Mother O'Shea," Sheila cried as she ran to her and kissed her.

It was upon this scene that Rory entered and he said no word to his father, but running to Kathie and Sheila he gathered the two women he loved most in his arms and held them.

"Rory," cried Sheila. "an' ye're putting yer arms around me."

"And it's there that I'll be keeping them, Sheila, darling."

"That's not the way to say it," spoke up old Mike. "That was not the way when yer mother an' me took to the winding roads beyond Knockbotherum. Why don't ye ask her, lad? Why don't ye ask her?"

"Yes, and would it be here with a lot of people about, and maybe my tongue will hesitate and the words won't come out, and what will I do then?" And Rory seemed to be at his most serious moment.

"Mother," said Michael, "let us see how the supper is."

"Michael," said Kathie, "let us see how the supper is getting on."

"Indeed we will, Kathie," said old man O'Shea, as he followed his wife into the kitchen in the back.

"Rory, Rory!" Sheila whispered the name.

"An' will ye marry me?" asked Rory.

"'Tis the first time ye've asked me," she objected as she felt his arms surround her. A knock on the door.

"But will you marry me?" insisted the O'Shea.

"Yer father tells me ye are hard men, the O'Sheas," murmured Sheila against his breast. "An' that ye do rule the house."

"Michael! Have ye forgotten all yer reason? To be putting the kettle on without any water in it!"

"Dear, Rory, what hard men the O'Sheas are!"

A kiss and Rory disengaged himself as another rap sounded on the door. He walked to the door and Sheila primply addressed herself to the business of looking less flushed and very calmly Rory opened the door. At the entrance stood Old Tom Kildare.

"Mister Kildare, an' will ye be the first to congratulate us?"

Old Tom looked at the pair of them. He sniffed at the moment the flavor of supper about to be laid.

"Ye were made for her, boy," he said, "an' she could not do better in all Killanmanl."

"Come into the kitchen, Mr. Kildare," cried Michael. "There's a bit of something waiting for ye here."

Old Tom passed through the door and Rory O'Shea gathered Sheila in his arms.

"Rory!"

And in the heart of Sheila and in the heart of Rory O'Shea there was a singing that which only Irish Hearts can hear.

THE END.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30.— Mr. Joel McArthur and family motored to Toronto this morning to spend a few days at the Exhibition. They are keenly interested in the Marathon swim.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Linton and Mrs. J. Ernest Birks motored to Toronto to-day to spend a few days at the Fair. Mr. Bennet Morton was also a member of the party.

Mr. Howard Davidson and Mr. Christie left to-day by mototr for Kemptville, where they have taken positions with the Ontario Amiesite Car Fleet of Toronto.

Mrs. Hector Wynn of Toronto is the guest of Mrs. John Shand, Sebastapol street. Mrs. Wynn motored from Toronto to-day in company with Mrs. Jack Martin of Toronto, who is visiting her parents here for a few days.

The deluge that has swept the town for the last forty-eight hours has disappointed the bowling and tennis fans who anticipated an active week end on the greens and courts. It is expected that the matches which could not be played on account of the weather conditions will be arranged for later in the week.

The programme at the Regent Theatre for the first half of the week is particularly attractive. The Pathe comedy is exciting from beginning to end, a horse racing plot without the faintest trace of "slap stick." There is also a new serial picture beginning. It is a tale of a titled lady of the English nobility who must submit to certain conditions in order to fulfill the conditions of her ancestors' will and inherit a rich California gold mine. Even the most caustic critic could find little or nothing in this picture to criticize. It is one of the few serials that the average movie fan can not easily foretell the ultimate ending.

The feature picture, Take It From Me, is a swift moving dramatic affair with plenty of laughs for any brand of humor known. It is the old story of a fool and his money. Only in this case, it is three fools with one fool's money. And they make certain that the fool parts with it. Were it not for a cool headed little business woman's persistence in having her employer see her way of things, and the fact that the beautiful blonde lady who was his fiancee being so keen on marrying a fortune, the tale would have been entirely different. If you say "What Happened to Jones' 'and liked it, you will like Take It From Me. If you missed the former picture, this is the next best thing.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

BUSINESS IN CANADA GOOD AS HARVEST IS PROMISING

Should be Good Average Yield of Field and Fruit Crops.

WHEAT CROP BETTER

Bank Note Circulation Higher —Foreign Trade Less Favorable.

The close of the midsummer season finds business in Canada in excellent condition. Crop prospects engage principal attention at this time, the extent of the harvest being so influential a factor in determining the state of business. Indications are favourable and there is scarcely room for doubt that, given good weather for the next two weeks, a full average field and fruit crop will be garnered. The estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as at July 31st places the wheat crop for all Canada at 357,367,000 bushels as against an estimate of 316,960,000 bushels at the same date in 1926.

The latest Canadian bank statement reflects this year's betterment of business. In June, note circulation rose $13,100,000, and while there was a slight decrease in notice deposits, this item shows an increase of $52,000,000 over the figure a year ago. Commercial loans were up $4,400,000 in June and $96,000,000 in the twelve months. Dominion revenue is buoyant, both Customs and Excise collections being considerably in excess of those of last year.

The foreign trade of Canada was less favourable in July than for many months past, the aggregate value being $28,000,000 below last year. Imports, indeed, rose $2,700,000, the gain being wholly in dutiable goods, while exports of domestic merchandise declined $30,000,000, one-half of this being in wheat. In the last four months imports have risen $27,100,000 to $361,097,000, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago, while exports of domestic products have decreased $8,000,000 to $372,194,600, bringing the favourable balance down to $11,100,000.

The commodity movement is well maintained, carloadings in the three weeks ending August 6th having been 7,199 cars in excess of the corresponding period last year, the notable increase being in general merchandise. While gross railway earnings hold up, net returns are reduced by higher operating cost. In the first half of the year Canadian Pacific net decreased $944,000 and Canadian National $1,487,000, wage increases contributing largely to the reduction. The approaching stock issue of $37,500,000 by the Canadian Pacific Railway for extensions and equipment will be a favourable factor in the business situation.

Increasingly important in the economic situation in Canada is the tourist trade, and this has been in full swing during the past month, with every indication that the total volume will show the same progressive enlargement which has been manifested in recent years. It is expected that the money left in the country by foreign motor tourists will be well ahead of last year's total, officially estimated at over one-fifth of a billion dollars.

The tide of immigration is now at the ebb, and while the volume has not yet reached the absorbing capacity of the country, gratifying growth has occurred, the number of settlers entering Canada in the first quarter of the current fiscal year, 77,434, being 60% in excess of the figures for the corresponding period last year. Emigration to the United States has decreased.

Commodity prices keep fairly stable, variation being seasonal in character. Output and sales of agricultural implements, of autos and accessories, both at home and abroad, compare favourably with last year, and the iron and steel industry reports moderate activity. Building construction does not abate, erection of large edifices being under way in Montreal and other cities, and allied trades are profiting therefrom. Exports of dairy products still lag behind last year, but milk shipments to the United States are large and dairy products in store are not excessive.

The bond market has been seasonably dull, but with marked strength in the tax free issues.

In the foreign exchanges, the reduction in the New York Federal Reserve rate was responsible for a better market for sterling, and cables rose from 4.85½ to 4.86 1-8. This had the effect of slightly raising those Continental rates (French, Belgian and Italian) which are actually or practically stabilized, New York Funds continue at a slight premium, which is unusual at this season of the year, under normal conditions.

Quebec.—Wholesale trade is quiet and retail trade dull, but seasonable weather has aided the movement of Summer goods. Collections are fair. Manufacturers generally are busy. Paint and varnish manufacturers, textile mills, furniture factories and sugar refineries are fully employed. Iron foundries, steel mills and car companies are less active. Clothing manufacturers are not over-busy and woollen mills report business quiet. The boot and shoe industry shows some improvement notwithstanding the higher cost of leather. The grocery trade is normal. Construction continues at a high rate and labour is well employed. The lumber trade is fairly active. The demand for pulpwood has fallen off; chemical pulp is fairly steady, with groundwood in good supply. The production of newsprint is maintained at about 80% capacity of the mills. The livestock markets are slow, with prices holding steady. The production of dairy produce continues at acpacity. Agricultural conditions generally are satisfactory. Hay was partly damaged by rain, but the harvesting of a heavy crop is practically completed.

Ontario.—Wholesale trade has increased during the month and is considerably larger than in the same period last year. Retail trade has benefitted from unusually heavy tourist traffic. Chain stores report an increase and extension of their business, and small retail stores are adversely affected. Collections are only fair. Flour mills are busy. Seasonal demands for radio equipment have added to the activity of furniture manufacturers, who report business good but the margin of profit narrow. Knitting mills are operating at about 85% capacity. There is a good demand for leather at higher prices. Shoe manufacturers are busy. Canning companies report that the pack of peas, tomatoes and corn will be less than last year. While automobile firms are experiencing the usual seasonal slackening of business, tire firms are unusually busy. Agricultural implement firms are operating at full capacity with special demands for binders and threshers for the West. A heavy grain crop is being harvested. The hay crop has been heavy, but was damaged by rain. The recent warm weather is proving beneficial to corn, tobacco and root crops, which are backward. Tree fruits will be a light crop with a considerable blight on apples.

Prairie Provinces.—Wholesalers report prospects of better than usual autumn business. Retail trade is slightly under average at present. Implement sales are ahead of last year. Collections are fair. Following the report of frost in Saskatchewan on 7th August, the wheat market has displayed considerable activity and a good export business is reported. Cash wheat closed on 20th August at 161 5-8 against 163 3-8 on 20th July. The livestock market is slow, being oversupplied with inferior grades. Better grades are in fair demand. Cattle prices are slightly below last month; sheep remain about the same and hogs are up $1.60. The number of poultry in the three Prairie Provinces has almost doubled in the past ten years and represents 40% of the total for all Canada. Mining development in Manitoba is proceeding quietly along business lines with encouraging prospects. A record price of $76 per acre for school lands in Saskatchewan was established recently; several quarter sections sold at $60 an acre. The Russian Government is purchasing 4,000 light horses in the West and shipments are now under way. Further proof of the wealth of the Alberta oil fields appears in Provincial Government Report of two strikes made recently in the Turner Valley field.

British Columbia.—Wholesale trade generally is satisfactory, but retail business is only fair, although the hot weather of the past few weeks has helped sales somewhat. The influx of tourists, which is substantially greater than last year, has also been a beneficial factor. Lumber mills report a fair volume of business on hand with favourable prospects for increased demand during the Autumn. Stocks of logs in water are sufficient and prices remain steady. The salmon run is the lowest in fifteen years and the pack to date shows a pronounced decrease over 1926. The scarcity seems to be general along the entire coast, including Alaska and Puget Sound. The halibut pack so far equals that of last year. Mining production continues satisfactory and much development work is being done with very encouraging results. Crops, which were backward until a few weeks ago, are now at normal maturity.

Maritime Provinces.—Wholesale and retail trades report seasonable slackness, but on the average somewhat improved conditions obtain. Manufacturers are fairly busy, with some signs of improvement. Coal production has been somewhat curtailed by labour disputes which caused temporary stoppages. Lumber markets continue quiet. Fresh fishing is at a low ebb with a number of steam trawlers laid up. Reports from the Bank fishing fleet indicate an average catch so far. The price for the second Spring catch has been set at $5.80 per quintal as against $6.35 for the first catch. Several shipyards are re-opening. All crops look promising and have benefited by recent dry weather, though a heavy rain damaged hay and oats in Nova Scotia on the 15th instant. Apples are growing well and market conditions are favourable. Tourists are more numerous than last year.

Newfoundland.

The catch of codfish is fully average, but the weather, particularly on the south coast, has been unsuitable for curing; the result will be substantial quantities of low grade fish. Consumption has been good in European markets but prices now show a weakening tendency. Exchange conditions in Oporto are an adverse factor. Sterling being difficult to obtain. General trade continues quiet with collections fair. The paper mills are working at capacity and shipments of iron ore from Bell Island are being made to Europe and Sydney, N.S. The Government has introduced legislation sanctioning the purchase of the Newfoundland Power Paper Company, Limited, by the International Paper Company, and stipulating for the establishment of a paper industry on the Gander River. Owing to interest aroused by Buchan's Mine, an important Canadian mining corporation has acquired mining rights over a large area in that neighbourhood.

Great Britain.

Overseas trade figures for July showed a decline in import values, as compared with June, of about 6,000,000, pounds, or 6%. British exports were slightly higher, viz., 0.2%. Business generally is quiet owing to the holiday season. A better foreign demand for Welsh coal has improved the outlook. Shipbuilding continues active, but conditions in the iron and steel trades and cotton industry remain disappointing. The money market is finding credit scarce and discount rates are very firm. The stock markets are inactive but the tone generally is fairly satisfactory. Gilt-edged securities are firm and some industrials have been actively supported. The Government has announced its intention of paying off the 5% and 4% National War Bonds due 1st October next. It is estimated that not more than 20,000,000 pounds of these securities is outstanding. The Clearing Banks' statements for July showed a further increase of about 4,000,000 pounds in advances, bringing the proportion of advances to deposit liabilities up to the high percentage of 54.4.

United States.

General retail distribution has been stimulated by vacation needs and buying for the Autumn trade is increasing. No immediate general expansion of trade is expected, yet there is confidence in the gradual enlargement of recently developed gains in some basic industries. Orders in the steel industry show an increase and prices are fairly well maintained. An increased demand is noted in the textile industry and wholesale trade shows improvement. The wheat harvest is well under way and the largest crop since 1922 is anticipated. Despite the detrimental influence of the Spring floods upon the cotton yield, there are now indications of improvement. The lowering of the re-discount rates and the general ease in money have been reflected in rising bond prices and in the demand for high grade investment stocks.

France.

Owing to the adjournment of the Chamber and the holiday season, conditions generally are quiet. The Government has granted a certain degree of latitude to bona fide travellers in the amount of money they may take out of the country, but otherwise the law remains in complete vigour and no funds can be exported for investment. For the first time since the war, the five great French railways show a combined profit over all expenses, which for the year 1926 amounted to Frs. 553,000,000. Tax collections for July brought in 4,670 million francs, nearly 1,500 millions over July, 1926. For seven months collections totalled 22,600 millions. The stock exchange is dominated by the holiday spirit; there is little activity and quotations are barely steady. The Treasury has reduced the rate of interest on sight deposits to 1.23% net and this has caused considerable withdrawals for employment elsewhere, but funds remain very plentiful.

Mexico.

A slight improvement in the cotton industry, attributable to the favourable prices now prevailing, has occurred. Other industries are operating along the usual basis. Within the last month two oil companies have been successful in obtaining producing wells; one in the San Diego district is now producing 1,000 barrels daily. Exports of light and heavy crude oil for the first six months of this year were 30,244,796 barrels, as against 46,444,597 for the same period in 1926. The Acapulco Highway, now under construction between Mexico City and the South-West Coast of Mexico, will open up a rich zone, and is expected to attract tourist traffic. Silver has firmed during the past two weeks, and is now being quoted at 5.30% against gold. Mexican gold pesos against United States dollars have strengthened, the present quotation being 47.50.

SHOWER ROOMS ARE REPAINTED

Plunge at Y.M.C.A. Also To Receive Fresh Coat of Paint.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

For the past few weeks the plunge and shower rooms of the local Y. M. C. A. have been passing through a period of transition at the hands of interior decorators, and the transformaion promises a vast improvement. The walls and ceiling are are being cleaned and painted over in cream, and the floors are boasting a shinny coat of fresh grey to replace the indeterminate hue of former days. The regular showers are disconnected and one for utility purposes is suspended over the plunge. The plunge, itself, is to be cleaned and repainted at some not far distant date.

The process should be completed this week and it is doubtful if the old "Swimming Hole" and surroundings will maintain any aspect of familiarity in their resplendent garb.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ELIZABETH PARNELL.

One of the older residents of the city and district passed away on Monday night in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Parnell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee.

Mrs. Parnell was born on the Communication road in the township of Smith 77 years ago and has lived in this district ever since. She was a member of George street United church and was highly respected and loved by all who knew her.

Her husband predeceased her 21 years ago. There are left to mourn her loss three sons and one daughter, Herbert of Saskatoon, and Richard and Roy of this city, and Mrs. William Herron of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held to-morrow (Thursday) at 2.00 p.m. from the residence of her son, Roy Parnell, 625 Aylmer street, with interment in Little Lake cemetery. In the absence of the Rev. J. E. Todd, minister of George street United church, the Rev. Mr. Brown will officiate.

MARRIED.

PENGELLY — WINTON. — Married at St. John's church, August 31st, at 9 a.m., Miss Audrey Winton of Ramsgate, England, to James S. Pengelly, The "Brocklands" Bailieboro, Rev. Mr. Bousfield officiating.

PARKER — ROSE. — At the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, on August 17, 1927, Mary Matilda, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Rose 539 Patterson street, to Matthew Robert Parker, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker, 13 Brown Park Drive, Dennestoun, Glasgow, Scotland.

IN MEMORIAM.

DAFOE: — In loving memory of my dear son and brother, Frank V. Dafoe, who passed away on August 31st, 1926:

Father, in Thy gracious keeping,
Leave we now our dear one sleeping.

—Inserted by his mother and two sisters and brother

IN MEMORIAM.

LEAN: In ever loving memory of my dear friend, Pte. Wilbert A. Lean, who died of wounds in the battle fields of France, August 28, 1918:

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
A beautiful memory left behind

Far beyond the land of changes,
Far beyond the land of care,
We shall meet our missing loved ones,
In our Father's mansion fair.

PLENTY OF ROOM IN BUSINESS WORLD

Good Office Positions Await Capable Young Men and Young Women.

Realizing that the teaching profession is overcrowded, young men and young women are turning in growing numbers every year to a business career rather than that of teaching as a means of livelihood. Striking evidence of this fact is found in the ever-increasing demand upon the resources of the Peterborough Business College, 358 George Street, where the enrollment this fall promises to exceed even the most sanguine expectations of Mr. McKone, the principal.

Modernly equipped in every way to train young people for meeting the progressive requirements of business and commerce, this school's graduates are in demand both at home and abroad, and every year the president places scores of its capable students in remunerative office positions. Then modern business men prefer applicants who are armed with the diploma of the Business Educators' Association of Canada, and that diploma can be acquired at the Peterborough Business College.

The courses of instruction at this outstanding educational institution are: Commercial, shorthand (including Gregg shorthand), touch typewriting, penmanship, spelling, correspondence, business forms and rapid calculation, and a complete office training. These courses are supplemented by practical instruction in the use of the book-keeping posting machine, Dalton and Burroughs adding machine, and the mimeograph duplicating machine, with which labor-saving devices all modern offices are to-day equipped. In fact this is one of the best equipped colleges in Canada, and it enjoys an enviable reputation for excelling in the number of students who make good in an exacting business world.

Satisfied and grateful graduates enjoying good incomes, and with a prosperous future in sight, cheerfully testify that they owe their success to the efficient training by competent teachers at the Peterborough Business College, coupled with the active and effective interest taken in their welfare after graduating by President J. A. McKone.

EVANGELIST TELLS OF HER CONVERSION

Mrs. Virginia Brandt Berg Heard By Many at Tabernacle.

Mrs. Virginia Brandt Berg told the story of her miraculous deliverance from a death bed condition to health, to a gathering of interested people that filled Bethany Tabernacle last night.

The most thrilling story of God's power to quicken the mortal body that has ever been heard in this city, was told by Mrs. Berg in a way that touched responsive and tender chords in the hearts of her listeners.

The narration of this story was free from extravagant or sensational statements, and no attempt was made to force on the hearers personal beliefs or stressing doctrinal views Mrs. Berg sought to as much as possibe in telling a personal story, to keep herself in the background—seeking at all times to exalt Christ who wrought so marvellously in the healing of her body.

At the close of the story Mrs. Berg called all who would to come forward and she led prayer, asking Divine blessing upon the testimony that was given only to bring glory to the God who is still touched with the feelings of our infirmities, and who is still able as in the days of the earthly ministry of Christ, to meet every need of His children.

The pastor of the church in the opening of the service announced the cottage prayer meetings which are being held over the city in the interest in these meetings.

Mrs. Berg will be speaking in Bethany every night this week. Her subject to-night will be: "How the Devil gets Christians."

Mrs. Berg stated last evening that on Thursday evening she would pray with the sick.

WEDDING BELLS.

HENDRICKS—NORTHCOTT.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Regent street parsonage, Lakefield, on Saturday at 2 o'clock, when Mary, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Northcott, of Lakefield, became the bride of Francis J. Hendricks, youngest son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Hendricks, of Trenton, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Kemp.

The bride was daintily gowned in a frock of rose biege georgette crepe with hat, shoes and hose to match.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ella Northcott, of Lakefield, while Mr. Albert Manders of Peterborough, supported the groom.

Many lovely gifts were received by the young couple, testifying to the high esteem in which they were held. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks will reside near Trenton.

WELLS—HEIDEN.

The following account, from "The Herald", of Maywood, Illinois, refers to the wedding of Mr. Alfred George Wells, Junior, a former resident of Peterborough, and now visiting relatives in the city:

"A pretty church wedding in which a Maywood young man figured was that of Miss Veritas Heiden, daughter of Mrs. Laura Heiden of Franklin Boulevard, Chicago, and Alfred George Wells, 1616 South Fourteenth avenue, which took place Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Calvary Presbyterian church, Jackson Boulevard and Kostner avenue.

"Rev. Francis James Martin read the service in the presence of several hundred friends.

"The music was furnished by John Williams of Chicago, who rendered prior to the service the solo "The Sunshine of Your Smile." As the bridal party was entering the church he sang in splendid tenor voice "O, Promise Me." After the ceremony he rendered "Bridal Dawn."

"The bridal party to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march entered the church in the following order:

"Miss Edna Smart, maid of honor, Miss Lucille Mengersen and Miss Helen Martin, bridesmaids, wearing gowns of pastel shades, pink, green, and orchid; the little flower girl, Virginia Mergensen, looking cunning as she preceded the bride scattering rose petals in her path.

"Last the bride appeared, who was given in marriage by her brother, Arthur Heiden. She wore a beautiful creation of white satin, court train and full length veil. The veil was worn in coronet style and fastened about the head with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

"The groom, attended by Sidney Gerrans, met his bride at the altar, where the impressive ceremony took place. The ushers were Messrs. Brown and Heiden.

"On leaving the church to the music of Mendelssohn's recessional, seventy-five of the relatives and intimate friends assembled at the Oak Park Arms hotel, where the reception and wedding supper was served.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wells left that night for Lake Geneva, where they remained until Tuesday, when they returned to accompany the bridegroom's parents on a tour of Canada, and on their return will reside at 806 South eighteen avenue.

"The bridegroom has lived in Maywood only six weeks, coming here from Chicago to occupy the home his parents erected at 1616 South Fourteenth avenue."

Judges in twenty States of the Union where women now serve on juries report that the latter have acquitted themselves well.

TAKE A MINUTE TO READ THIS

In order to avoid too much rush on the opening day of the FALL TERM, TUESDAY, SEPT. 6th, we would suggest that those who find it convenient make final arrangements some day this week by calling at our office.

We can, at more leisure, plan the courses—arrange for books, seats and other details that take up time. This suggestion is made so that we may serve the better those who are planning a course with us. We have more enrollments to date than in many years, and this will mean more rush, and require more time to serve everybody.

Please give this matter your early attention.

SUGGEST PLANS FOR IMPROVING CITY'S TRAFFIC

The Automobile Club Members Would Decrease Parking Angle.

LEAVE MORE ROOM.

Want Stop and Go Lights Erected at Five Busy Corners.

At a meeting of the Peterborough Automobile Club on Monday, several suggestions were discussed and passed in the form of resolutions which will be forwarded to the authorities concerned. The resolutions which follow contain proposals which, it is thought, will improve the traffic conditions in the city and safeguard the public:

"That the executive and members of the Peterborough Automobile Club, in view of the narrowness of George Street, urge the city authorities to consider altering the angles at present marked out to guide motorists in parking.

"From actual observation and measurements taken, it has been demonstrated that it is possible by altering the present angle to widen the section of George Street available for traffic by four feet.

"It is also recommended that further markings on George Street include a line parallel with the sidewalk. It is felt that this would correct the tendency of some motorists to park their cars leaving the right hand front wheel at distances varying from one to two feet from the curb."

"That the executive and members of the Peterborough Automobile Club urge the City Council to instruct the Police Department to rigidly enforce the by-law passed limiting parking in the business section to one-half hour."

"That the executive and members of the Peterborough Automobile Club recommend the erections of electric, automatic "Stop" and "Go" signals at the following intersections:

Charlotte and Aylmer.
Charlotte and George.
George and Simcoe.
George and Hunter.
George and Brock."

"That the Executive and members of the Peterborough Automobile Club petition the City Council to consider the enforcement of present regulations prohibiting slow-moving or horse-drawn vehicles the use of George street, particularly in the business section, except in cases where a direct call at the front of the premises is necessary. It has been noticed that many drays and other cumbersome vehicles have formed a practice of proceeding through George street to the north and south of the city, when less congested sections could have been traversed."

"That the Executive and members of the Peterborough Automobile Club petition the City Council to instruct the Engineer's Department to proceed at once with the marking of the freshly paved area in front of the Canadian General offices in such a way as to regulate vehicular traffic and indicate the areas to be used by pedestrians and cars."

LOCAL AGENT AGAIN WINNER

One of Nalaco Club Members —Will Attend the Convention.

GETS THIRD PRIZE.

J. McLaren, 200 Antrim street, who is with the North American Life Assurance Company, has received notice from the company that he has again qualified for membership in the Nalaco Club of that company, having done over $100,000.00, in paid for business during the current year.

Mr. McLaren also qualified last year in the same club.

He also won third place this year in the renewal contest, and is leaving on Friday with Mrs. McLaren for St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea, N. B., where the prize will be awarded at the convention to be held, Sept. 5th to 7th inclusive.

SCHOOL WILL BENEFIT CITY

J. W. Worth, Former Trustee, Pleased To See Technical School Started.

LONG SUPPORTED IT.

J. W. Worth, now of Los Angeles, who was three times elected to the Board of Education on a Technical School ticket, is very pleased to see that such a school is now being built, and believes that the city will be better off for it. He rather regrets, however, that he was not here to have a share in the actual building.

Speaking of his tour of Europe, Mr. Worth says that there are apparently good times in England. He was at Blackpool during Bank Holiday week and the people all seemed prosperous. The unemployment is distributed so that some members of a family have work.

Mr. Worth reports that the Peterborough colony in Los Angeles is prospering. He referred particularly to W. H. Barry, who is at present engaged in superintending the erection of a large church there. Mr. Worth and his brother are still in the woollen business, and their factory is working on double shifts.

RUMOR RAISES HOPE FOR FLIER

Reported That Redfern Has Landed Far Off Course.

AT ALEMQUER, BRAZIL.

BRUNSWICK, Georgia, September 1. Canadian Press. — An unconfirmed report from Para, Brazil, that Paul Redfern, had fallen at Alemquer, Brazil, prompted the expression of opinion that the Brunswick to Brazil flier might have been blown off his course by the winds, or might have lost his bearings.

Alemquer is more than 200 miles west of the point on Redfern's course where he planned to drop a flare to indicate whether he would go to Rio de Janeiro or turn towards Pernambuco. He left here a week ago today.

COSTES WOULD CROSS ATLANTIC BY ROUTE OVER AZORES ISLANDS

French Airman Counts On More Favorable Winds There.

ALL READY TO START.

Will Not Set Out Till Weather Conditions Are Really Good.

PARIS, September 1. — With Drouhin and Levine out, Dieudonne Costes with his Breguet plane, Leon Givon with his big slow Farman, and Paul Tarascon with his still unfinished Barnard remain the only contestants from France for the flight across the Atlantic from East to West.

Costes is ready. After long consultations with the French weather experts he has definitely decided that he will take the southern route by the Azores Islands.

"I hope to start in three or four days," he said yesterday, "when one or two small depressions are likely to be eliminated. Here for the first time in many weeks the weather is at last favourable, but there are two or three 'holes' over the Atlantic which seem likely to get filled up during the next two days and make conditions really good.

"From the first I have been determined to take no unnecessary chances in this business. An airman at the bottom of the Atlantic proves nothing. I want to fly from Paris to New York and not fail half-way.

"My choice of the southern route has been decided by many factors. The old sailing ships used to take that route because they found that the winds favoured them, going counter-clockwise, as they always do in anticyclonic regions. Of course, the distance is longer, but I expect to have gas enough left for another 500 miles when I reach New York.

"We will strike south-west to begin with, across Spain and Portugal, and it would be really best to pass 200 miles south of the Azores to get the full benefit from the winds. I am convinced that ultimately this southern route will be taken by everybody for crossing the Atlantic from either side. There is too great likelihood of fog, wild weather, and adverse wind on the road Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and Schlee have come.

"The Germans proved how useless it is to attempt a flight with a strong head wind, and during nine out of ten months of the year the wind over the Atlantic is from the west or north-west, dead on the nose.

"Another thing I have proved during this waiting time has been the necessity for a fast plane. We have compared weather records during three years and we have found that there has seldom been a period of more than thirty-six and almost never a period exceeding forty-eight hours of really good weather over the whole course. That means that a slow-flying plane is bound to run into bad weather some time on the route."

While the meteorologists are busy helping her husband to work out the weather chart, Mme. Costes is convinced that the present improvement in the weather is due entirely to the fact that four days ago she burned a candle to St. Genevieve.

Boy Able To Spell Truancy Case Fails

NEWRY, County Down, Ireland, Sept. 1 (United Press). — Because he was able to spell correctly and write neatly the name of the American river Mississippi, 12-year-old Paul Raymond escaped being sent to an industrial school. Paul had been attending school irregularly, but in truants' court his solicitor proposed a spelling test, from which Paul emerged triumphant after coping with Mississippi.

PORT REVENUE IS MUCH HIGHER

Customs Receipts For August Increase Eleven Thousand Dollars.

STAMP TAX DOWN.

The customs returns for the Port of Peterborough for the month of August show an increase over the same month last year. There has been a steady increase in returns every month this year with a gain of $11,973.26 last month. In August, 1926, the returns were $129,639.01 and for last month they were $141,612.27. This increase was accomplished notwithstanding the fact that there was a decrease of $2,185.50 in the stamp tax returns, which were $689.10.

Churchill Hit Hard—'Killed' in Manoeuvres; Again Passed Over When Premier is Away

LONDON, September 1 (United Press). — Winston Churchill has been "killed." During the Army manoeuvres on Salisbury Plains, he was caught in a dense cloud of mustard gas, owing to imprudently wandering about without a gas mask, and had he been participating he would have been officially reckoned "dead." Political humorists are making the most of the occasion because it follows the discomfiture of Churchill in seeing Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain abroad, and Viscount Cave appointed as Acting Premier when the Chancellor of the Exchequer should have automatically taken the post. It is recalled that on the last occasion, when Premier Baldwin was in Canada, Churchill was overlooked in favour of Chamberlain, and the reason may be that the Tories cannot stomach the idea of Churchill acting as Premier.

NOTHING HEARD FROM BRITISH OCEAN FLIGHT

Anxiety Felt in London and Ottawa As Silence Continues.

OTHERS WELL ON WAY.

Carling Far Down St. Lawrence —Windsor Passes Oshawa.

At 1.45 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, no word had been received of the progress of the British monoplane St. Raphael, with the aged Princess Wertheim as a passenger, and Captain Hamilton and Lt. Minchin as pilots. Anxiety was beginning to be felt in London and Ottawa at the continued silence regarding the attempt to fly from England to Canada.

Canada's two trans-Atlantic ventures were well away at this hour. The Sir John Carling, which will refuel at Newfoundalnd had travelled from London, Ontario, over New York State and well up the St. Lawrence. The Royal Windsor, bound directly for England, started both later and further westward than the Carling, but passed Oshawa east of Toronto, at 1.15 this afternoon, about five hours behind the Carling.

St. Raphael Not Seen

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The Mauretania reports she had not sighted the St. Raphael. The big ship is considerably south of the projected route taken by the plane, however.

No Trace of Plane

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—A complete check-up of the Government radio stations fails to reveal any word of the whereabouts of the St. Raphael, flying from England to Canada and due at Newfoundland this morning.

Plane Crosses Quebec

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The signal service of the Marine Department receives word from the Imperial Oil agent at St. Malo Quebec, that an aluminum monoplane flying high in a northwesterly direction passed over their camp at 11.05, daylight saving time.

Rumor Exploded

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—Great excitement aroused by the report that the St. Raphael plane had been sighted in Quebec Province was quenched when it was found that the plane belonged to Capt Sanders, flying from Lake St. Joseph. He reported strong east winds about seven thousand feet high along the course to be followed by the English plane. Up to noon no word had been received of the fliers.

Carling Well on Way

PHILLIPSBURG, Que., Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The Sir John Carling plane is evidently winging its way truly and speedily toward Newfoundland. It passed Alberg, N.Y., at 10.17 a.m. Standard time and was sighted over House's Point and Maloney. It flew past this village at $10.28, flying low and fast.

STRANDED PEOPLE PICNIC ON ROCKS

Wait Arrival of Relief Ship To Take Them To Vancouver.

WRANGELL, Alaska, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—The aftermath of a shipwreck was turned into a picnic to-day as 270 tourists from the steamer Princess Charlotte, rescued when the vessel struck a reef on Tuesday night, plunged into a program of social events while awaiting the arrival of a relief ship to take them to Vancouver.

Stilt Walking Latest In Endurance Tests

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 1 (United Press).—Marathon stilt walking has displaced flagpole roosting as the latest endurance test here. Joseph (Longfellow) Devirgilio, nine feet and eight inches tall including his stilts, waddled down Washington Street last night and announced he had "stilted" the 45 miles between Providence, R.I., and Boston in 12 hours, 20 minutes.

Joe spends several hours a day on stilts as an advertising stunt man in Boston's business district.

POLLUTION OF RIVER STOPPED

All Places Which Emptied Into Water Given Sewer Connection.

YEAR'S WORK RECOUNTED.

Pollution of the waters of the Otonabee from public works and private dwellings in the city of Peterborough is now a thing of the past, says A G. Metheral, plumbing inspector. During the present year, the sewerage systems of the Auburn and Quaker Oats factories, which had been discharging into the river were connected to the city sewers, the Quaker Oats plant in the month of February and the Auburn on July 15.

From the Canadian Pacific quarters, where formerly a septic tank was in use, a line has been led to the city mains.

A new sewer has been constructed on Crescent Street, and several houses which until lately had the old unsanitary type of dry closets have been given sewer connections.

FINAL CUSTOMS SITTING OPENS

Master of Margaret Tells of Returning Cargo of Liquor.

ORDERS FROM OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press) —The opening day of the final sitting of the Customs Commission brought further information about liquor operations on the Atlantic coast. J. B. Mitchell, of Halifax, was interrogated by the Hon. N. W. Rowell, Commission counsel, with respect to forged United States revenue stamps and denied any knowledge of them. Capt. Alfred Lecouvee, master of the famous Customs preventive cruiser Margaret, told of a rum cargo seized by him and then returned on instructions from Ottawa, which he was at a loss to explain. Later he had been instructed to place the liquor on board a rum-runner in Halifax Harbor.

WOMEN MAY GET AWARDS

C. N. E. Committee To Determine Disposition of Rest of Prizes.

THREE UNDISPUTED.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The disposition of the prize money, outside of the first three awards, which are undisputed, will be decided on at a meeting of the Athletic Committee of the Canadian National Exhibition. It is expected some recognition will be given the women swimmers who stayed in the water longest, although they did not finish the course.

DEFENDS DARWINIAN THEORY AT SCIENTISTS' GATHERING

Sir Arthur Keith Delivers Presidential Address Before British Association.

MAN'S REMOTE HISTORY.

Transformation of Outlook on Man's Origin One of Present Day Wonders.

LEEDS, England, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Taking as his subject the formidable text, "Darwin's theory of Man's Descent As It Stands To-day," and giving him an antiquity of one million years, Prof. Sir Arthur Keith delivered last evening the inaugural presidential address here of the 96th annual gathering of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"The subject of my address is Man's remote history," said the distinguished scientist, whose "Antiquity of Man" is a standard work, and whose most recent publication, a couple of years ago, was, "Religion of a Darwinist." "Fifty-five years," he said, "have come and gone since Charles Darwin wrote a history of Man's Descent. How does his work stand the test of time?"

"As I address these words to you I cannot help marvelling over the differences between our outlook today and that of the audience which Sir Richard Owen had to face in this city 69 years ago. The vast assemblage which confronted him was convinced, almost without a dissentient, that Man had appeared on earth by a special act of creation; whereas the audience which I have now the honor of addressing, and that larger congregation which the wonders of wireless bring within the reach of my voice, if not convinced Darwinists are yet prepared to believe, when full proofs are forthcoming, that Man began his career as a humble primitive animal and has reached his present state by the action and reaction of biological forces which have been and are ever at work within his body and brain.

One of Marvels.

"This transformation of outlook on Man's origin is one of the marvels of the nineteenth century . . . Many a soldier of truth had attempted this citadel before Darwin's day but they failed because they had neither his generalship nor his artillery.

"Will Darwin's victory endure for all time? Before attempting to answer this question, let us look at what kind of book the Descent of Man is. It is a book of history—the history of Man, written in a new way—the way discovered by Charles Darwin . . . . He gathered historical documents from the body and behaviour of man and compared them with observations made on the body and behaviour of every animal which showed the least resemblance to Man. He studied all that was known in his day of Man's embryological history and noted resemblances and differences in the corresponding histories of other animals. He took into consideration the manner in which the living tissues of Man react to disease, to drugs, and to environment; he had to account for the existence of diverse races of mankind. By a logical analysis of his facts Darwin reconstructed and wrote a history of Man.

New Evidence Poured In.

"Fifty-six years have come and gone since that history was written; an enormous body of new evidence has poured in upon us. We are now able to fill in many pages which Darwin had perforce to leave blank and we have found it necessary to alter details in this narrative, but the fundamentals of Darwin's outline of Man's history remain unshaken.

"Why do I say so confidently that Darwin's position has become impregnable? It is because of what has happened since his death in 1882. Since then we have succeeded in tracing man by means of his fossil remains and by his stone implements backwards in time to the very beginning of that period of the earth's history to which the name Pleistocene is given. We thus reach a point in history which is distant from us at least 200,000 years, perhaps three times that amount. Nay, we have gone further, and traced him into the older and longer period which preceded the Pleistocene—the Pliocene. It was in strata laid down by a stream in Java during the latter part of the Pliocene period that Dr. Eugene Dubois found, ten years after Darwin's death, the fossil remains of that remarkable representative of primitive humanity to which he gave the name of Pithecanthropus, or Ape-man; from Pliocene deposits of East Anglia Mr. Reid Moir has recovered rude stone implements. If Darwin was right, then as we trace Man backwards in the scale of time he should become more bestial in form—nearer to the ape. That is what we have found. But if we regard Pithecanthropus with his small and simple yet human brain as a fair representative of the men of the Pliocene period, then evolution must have proceeded at an unexpectedly rapid rate to culminate to-day in the higher races of Mankind.

"The evidence of Man's evolution from an ape-like being, obtained from a study of fossil remains, is definite and irrefutable, but the process has been infinitely more complex than was suspected in Darwin's time. Our older and discarded conception of Man's transformation was depicted in that well known diagram which

Ernst Vierkoetter Crosses Over Line With 4 Mile Lead

Triumphs Over 21 Miles of Icy Cold Lake Ontario Waters in 11 Hours, 42 Minute Battle To Win the C.N.E. Marathon.

GEORGES MICHEL COMES IN SECOND REACHES GOAL SOME FIVE HOURS LATER

Tumultuous Acclaim Greets Winner As He Crosses Line of Victory—Erickson Is Third, Three Hours Behind Michel.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The reported official time of Vierkoetter, winner of the twenty-one mile swimming Marathon here yesterday was 11 hours, 42 minutes, and 8.2/5 seconds

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—The world's long-distance swimming honors have passed from George Young, of Toronto, to Ernst Vierkoetter, of Germany. That happened yesterday during the Second Wrigley Marathon in front of the Exhibition Grounds, when one hundred and seventy-four swimmers took the plunge at eight-thirty in the morning for the twenty-one mile event, and when the German led the field to the finishing post eleven hours, forty-two minutes, eight and two-fifths seconds later.

Georges Michel, the Frenchman, finished in second place, covering the distance in 16 hours and 15 minutes. George Young passed out of the picture after leading the party and setting the pace for approximately five miles. The Canadian took the lead from the crack of the pistol, set a stiff course until he reached the third leg of the seven-mile triangle which marked the route, and then weakened suddenly. The race, so far as Young was concerned, was lost in less than a mile, for in that distance Vierkoetter closed up a quarter mile lead, passed the local swimmer and drew away. Young quit when the German was approximately two hundred yards in the fore.

Two other Canadians, Mendell Burditt and Edith Heden of Toronto made remarkably fine showings. After a gruelling pace for thirteen or fourteen miles, Burditt crawled up to second position, but the grind was too much for his endurance, and he passed out of the scene at seven-fifteen while still holding the position, after being in the water for eleven hours and forty-five minutes. Miss Heden appeared to be doing nicely and was in tenth position at nine forty-five, with the bulk of the swimmers driven from the contest by cramps, chills and a variety of disasters, when the lamprey eels attached her and forced her to send out the distress signal.

Vierkoetter's win nets him $30,000 of the prize money, and the Frenchman, by taking second place, will bank $7,500. Apart from that, it looks as though the balance of the $50,000 prize purse would be saved to the donors, as when Michel crossed the line at twelve forty-five there was only one swimmer left in the water. That was William Erickson, who enjoys the reputation of being the world's long-time "floater." Several weeks ago Erickson broke his previous "floating" record and almost drove the citizens of the Lake George district to distraction by remaining in the water a day and a night, and a part of the following day.

Several others gave promise of attacking Erickson's record for endurance, and among them were three women swimmers. They were Lottie Schoemmel, Martha Stager and Norma Bovanizer, all of whom were taken from the lake shortly after midnight. Myron Cox, Harry Sullivan and Herr Von Pepenful also lasted until another day began.

At 12.08 this (Thursday) morning Martha Stager, of Portland, Oregon, was the last woman entrant to be taken from the water.

Ovation to Winner.

The scene along the Exhibition waterfront which greeted the victory of Vierkoetter and his arrival at the winning post was one of the most spectacular outbursts which has been seen in this city for many months. Thousands of interested citizens had stood for hours, with their hands firmly gripped along the fence railings, in a determination not to be crowded from their positions, no matter who come or went, and when Vierkoetter turned through the gap in the sea wall and started down the last stretch, a remarkable outburst of acclaim greeted him. Doubtless it cheered him along that last weary leg of his twenty-one mile journey through the water, for the German sprinted the last five hundred yards and showed no evidence of exhaustion.

During the last hundred yards he paused from time to time to acknowledge the reception of Canadian citizenship. He stopped his crawl stroke, tread water and waved both hands in the air time and again, and each one of the black arms, which still bore some evidence of their coating of grease, was the signal for another outburst.

Judge Refers Clergy To Verse On Lawsuits

CAMBRIDGE, England, Sept. 1 (United Press). — The Rev. Charles Henry Scott of Ely Cathedral sued the Rev. Montague Robert Bethune of Limington. He alleged that Bethune had misrepresented the value of an oak altar and equipment sold to Scott for $100.

Judge Farrant dismissed the case and referred the holy men to the Bible, first verse, sixth chapter, of First Corinthians.

The verse is as follows: "Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust and not before the saints."

MORE PERMITS DURING AUGUST

Building For Month, However, Less Extensive Than Last Year.

TOTAL FOR YEAR UP.

There have been a number of permits for the building of new houses and garages this month, totalling $9,435. This is not so much as last month, as no very large buildings were contracted for.

The number of permits issued was twenty-two as compared with fourteen for last year in August, although the cost of buildings for August last year was $53,395, approximately $42,000 more than August, 1927.

The total estimated cost of buildings to date this year is $551,320, showing an increase of almost $300,000 over the corresponding months last year.

Many new dwellings are being built along the outskirts of the city, and although some are leaving the city there seems to be an influx to correspond, as is evidenced by the scarcity of houses and apartments of medium size.

Usual Drop In Contracts.

During the past month construction awards throughout Canada have fallen off to the usual pre-fall levels. Compared with the past few years the total is quite normal. $29,881,000 worth of contracts is the estimate of awards during August. The total for the first eight months of this year now stands at $272,086,000 or 4.6 p.c. in excess of that for the same period of 1926. Contemplated new work continues at high level indicating that there is much work in prospect for this year.

According to MacLean Building Reports Ltd., residential work came to the front again during August, hav-

PLANES START FOR ENGLAND AGAIN TO-DAY

Sir John Carling Seen Crossing Toronto Hour After Start.

LEAVES AT 6.34 E. D. T.

Royal Windsor Hops Off From Windsor at 8.55, Standard Time.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The Sir John Carling plane, with Captain Tully as pilot and Lieut. Jimmy Medcalf as navigator, took off at 6.34 a.m., eastern daylight saving time, on the first leg of the flight to London, England. It was reported passing Toronto, 130 miles from the start, at 7.45, giving it a speed of about 115 miles an hour.

ROYAL WINDSOR STARTS.

WINDSOR, Ont., September 1 (Canadian Press). — Two Canadian attempts at trans-Atlantic crossing were under way to-day. After the Carling plane left London, the plane Royal Windsor hopped off from here at 8.55, eastern standard time, this morning, bound for Windsor, England. Lieut. C. A. Schiller and Phil Wood were on board. While the Carling is headed for Newfoundland to re-fuel, it is believed the Windsor will attempt a non-stop flight to England.

British Not Seen.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—Up to 5.30 (eastern standard time) this morning nothing had been reported of the British monoplane St. Raphael, in which Capt. Leslie Hamilton and Col. F. F. Minchin started out from England yesterday, with the aged Princess Weirtheim as a passenger, in an attempt to fly to Canada. The last seen of the plane was when it roared out over the Atlantic from the Irish coast.

A light north-easterly wind was blowing here, with fog, but indications were that the weather would clear.

An unofficial message at midnight said the plane was still going strong.

Vigilant Watch.

Lighthouse keepers had kept a ceaseless vigil throughout the night, but they renewed their efforts as the hour approached when the giant monoplane should be sighted as it raced towards the mainland. Radio stations, vessels, and aviation centres were all on the alert for the plane. Although it appeared about an hour or so overdue, it was realized that it might have either been delayed by conditions at sea, or else might have passed the coast in the fog and headed inland without being seen.

Although the weather was not exactly ideal, it is believed no storms would be encountered on the Atlantic by the plane. The distance from its start at Upavon to Newfoundland is 2,270 miles and 650 miles more to Ottawa.

With the largest world telescope on Mt. Wilson, Cal., man can look trillions of miles into space. He is able to see stars separated from him by the distance light could travel in 72,000 years at the rate of 186,000 miles a second.

NEW BRUNSWICK TO HAVE POLICE

Provincial Force Will Come Into Being Officially on Sept. 1st.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The New Brunswick Provincial Police will come into being officially to-day, and will begin its existence with a strength of twenty-three of all ranks. This is greater than was originally intended, the recommendation of Commissioner E. P. C. Salt to start with increased strength having been approved by the Provincial Government at its meeting which began Tuesday night.

Fredericton will be the headquarters of the force which will begin its existence with the following strength: One commissioner, one assistant commissioner, one detective, two senior constables, seventeen constables and one stenographer. For rapid travel the force will have ten motorcycles each of which can carry two persons, and two cars. Stations will be established at various places in New Brunswick.

Further additions to the strength will be made from the list of applicants already in the hands of Commissioner Salt. The waiting list contains 75 names. The needs of the situation will be considered when any further increase in strength is made when the Provincial Government having approved of a policy of caution.

The force of prohibition some sixty strong which has had in its charge the enforcement of the intoxicating liquor act 1917 will automatically pass out of existence with liquor control act of 1927 coming into effect September 6.

OBITUARY.

MISS MABEL KELLY.

NORWOOD, September 1. — The remains of the late Miss Mabel Kelly, who died in Toronto on Tuesday morning will arrive in the village on the C.P.R. train on Thursday at noon. The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. Frank Kelly and Mrs. Kelly, and was 19 years of age.

MRS. WILLIAM KING.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 1. — The funeral of the late Mrs. William King, who passed away on Sunday night, took place from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McAdam, on Tuesday afternoon, a large number of relatives and friends gathering for the service, which was conducted by Rev. G. E. Lougheed, assisted by Rev. W. R. Archer, and Mrs. Gainsforth of Trenton.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Cora Alma May McAdam, was born in Belmont twenty-four years ago.

She leaves to mourn her loss, beside her husband and parents, two children, Fred, aged four years, and Jean, aged six months; one sister, Mrs. Vance of Niagara Falls, N. Y., two brothers, Harry of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and William, of town.

The late Mrs. McAdam underwent an operation last week, and it was not known until Sunday that her condition was critical so that her sudden death came as a great shock to her many friends. The numerous beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which she had been held. Interment took place in Maple Grove cemetery.

YIELD IS GOOD NEAR STIRLING

From 30 To 50 Bushels To the Acre Reported in District.

PLOUGHING MADE EASIER.

STIRLING, Sept. 1.—Threshing seems to be the principal occupation of the farmers these days and with good success as the grain is yielding better in general than for several years, being anywhere from 30 to 50 bushels to the acre.

The recent rains will enable the fall ploughing to proceed as it was almost impossible to plough in some cases on account of the hard condition of the soil.

Some farmers are waiting to complete their harvesting by stook threshing which has become quite common of late years.

HIAWATHA CHURCH NEWLY DECORATED

Re-opening Services and Social Held Last Week.

HIAWATHA, Sept. 1.—On the afternoon and evening of August 25, the festival given in the community hall and the re-opening services of the United church, Hiawatha, were a great success in every way. Perfect weather was granted and car loads of people came from all directions and filled the hall and church to overflowing.

The pastor, Rev. R. Garratt, who acted as chairman, gave a brief address. Rev. and Mrs. Christie of Toronto gave two inspiring addresses. Miss Nelson and Miss Crowe gave recitations, rich in reverance and thought for God's house. The widely appreciated musical talents of Miss Bryce and Mrs. Edwards and many other musical friends of Keene United church were also displayed.

Exclamations of delight were expressed at the transformation of the interior of the church from ceiling to floor. There is a complete set of new chandeliers, which show up the glistening tints of ivory, pink and pale green paint, also all the windows newly embellished with frosting. The pulpit is draped in rich green which completes a delightful harmony of color.

The Canadian and American "nimrods" of this section of Rice Lake are gladly welcoming the 1st of September, the opening of the duck shooting season.

ALBERTA WHEAT.

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The Alberta wheat pool is now royal patronage, the announcement being made in the current issue of the "U.F.A." The official organ of the United Farmers of Alberta published on Wednesday that Professor W. L. Carlyle, the manager of the 'E.P.' ranch, on behalf of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, had signed a pool contract covering 1,000 acres.

This announcement will be received with much interest by farmers generally throughout Western Canada.

THRESHING DELAYED.

Recent Rain Storms Delay Threshing in Warsaw District.

WARSAW, Sept. 1.—Monday's downpour of rain has delayed threshing. The threshers report that generally there is a good yield of grain to the straw.

While several farmers are all through harvest, there is still a good deal of grain out, and Monday's rain has completely soaked the standing stooks.

Several have reported potato rot and we hear very little of very large potatoes.

Sea Captain Reports Fog Off Grand Bank

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The master of the liner Cameronia in a message, timed at 11.29 a.m. eastern daylight time, reported dense fog off the Grand Banks, giving his position as about 100 miles southeast of Cape Race, New Foundland.

The positon given by the ship was about 200 miles south of the great circle course which the plane St. Raphael with Captain Leslie Hamilton, Colonel Frederick F. Minchin, and Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim is flying on its way from London to Ottawa.

Scientists' observations indicate that the sun radiated 4 per cent. less heat in 1922 than in previous years, and that since then it has not sent out a normal amount of heat. The life of the sun, however, is estimated to be 30,000,000,000,000 years.

NOW—

You Can Heat those "Hard to Heat" Rooms

MANY home owners blame their furnace for cold rooms. Yet most furnaces produce enough heat to keep the entire house warm. The difficulty is that sluggish heat lags in the pipes or follows the path of least resistance—up the chimney and out of doors.

Why not eliminate this waste by attaching a Miles Automatic Furnace Fan to your present furnace? On cold winter mornings you simply press a conveniently placed switch. In less than five minutes Miles Automatic Fan forces warm, healthful, circulating air into every corner of every room.

This greatest of all home heating inventions will give you quick and uniform distribution of heat—Four changes of air every hour in every room—From 60% to 100% more heat volume—Cool air through registers in summer, making your furnace a year-round servant.

Can be attached to any warm air furnace, old or new. Mail coupon for particulars.

TRAY IS GIVEN TO JOHN CRANE

Retiring Manager of the Dominion Bank Honored By Colleagues.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED.

Presentation of a silver tray suitably inscribed was made to John Crane ,until yesterday manager of the Dominion Bank in Peterborough, was made on the occasion of his retirement by the members of the Peterborough Clearing House, meeting at the Peterborough Club. The gift was handed to Mr. Crane by Evan S. J. Martin, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and president of the Clearing House, who spoke in high terms of the qualities exhibited by Mr. Crane during his years at the Dominion Bank.

Appreciation of Mr. Crane was also voiced by J. W. Fraser, E. J. H. Vanston, A. J. Reynolds, C. S. Cummer, and Vincent Eastwood, who dwelt on Mr Crane's knowledge of the technique of the business and declared that while in one sense Mr. Crane was being lost from among them, he would remain as a honorary member. Those who spoke congratulated themselves on the fact that the valued services of Mr. Crane would still be available when needed.

OSCULATION BY TAR AMUSES SPECTATORS

Sailor Chooses George Street For Conferring Resounding Kiss On Loved One.

A sailor's kiss in public furnished cheap entertainment to some of Peterborough's citizens who were watching with interest the antics of two yachtsmen following the purchase from the Ontario Government of what was until the earlier half of this year a prohibited article.

Dressed in smart white ducks, white shoes, blue double-breasted brass-buttoned coats and deep-sea caps, these dapper members of the crew of a cruiser visiting Peterborough came uptown to purchase refreshments from a store with a cream colored front on George street.

The purchase made, the Vikings, tightly hugging their goods, entered the waiting car. While the driver was tinkering with the car, the two buyers sat patiently in the rear seat. Perhaps their thoughts reverted to similar occasions before Volstead became a name to conjure with. Or perhaps they were thinking of the happy time soon to come. Whatever the reason, they both fondled their purchases very lovingly. One of them unwrapped the covering, held the container at arms length ("It must be the 'rale MacKay'," was the suggestion of an onlooker) drew several deep sighs and affectionately raised it to his lips. The kiss could be heard a long way off. It sure was from the heart.

HOW TO BANISH PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

This Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting, he discovered the cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay. McDermid & Jury, McDermid Drug Store and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

AROUND THE CITY

The bank clearings for the week were $722,997.

The duck season opens to-day and many are already preparing for the birds. The local hunters and many tourists are leaving for the feeding grounds of the flocks and a good season is expected.

During the past few weeks the tourist traffic has been diminishing although there are still quite a number passing through the city, and inquiries are numerous at the Chamber of Commerce.

GERMAN WILL MEET ANYBODY

Offers To Race Young At Any Distance—Receives Many Congratulations.

MESSAGE FROM YOUNG.

TORONTO, Ont., September 1 (Canadian Press).—As the champion swimmer of the world, Vierkoeter is willing to meet all comers. His manager made this statement on behalf of the husky German swimmer this afternoon. Any challenge from George Young for any distance from one to twenty miles would be accepted, he said. Vierkoeter was up at 6.30 to-day walking in his garden, showing no signs of the tremendous physical ordeal he endured.

Among the congratulations he received from all parts of the world was the message: "Heartiest congratulations on your great achievement.—George Young."

TOURISTS CATCH PLENTY OF FISH

One of Party Gets Big 'Lunge —Others Catch Bass.

AT TRENT RIVER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — The Americans who are holidaying at Mrs. George Dunham's cottage, Healey Falls, have at last been thoroughly convinced that all the big ones do not get away. At the present time Russel Cahill of Lakewood, Ohio, is very proud of the fact that he landed a muskie which measured forty-one inches from tip to tip and weighed twenty-two pounds. When interviewed, Mr. Cahill was undecided as to the disposal of his specimen, but was inclined to favor the idea of having the fish mounted as a trophy.

Whilst the other members of the party did not equal Cahill's catch in size, they made up the deficiency in numbers. They report a large day's catch of black bass and pickerel. The American fisher folk who consider their game license such a good investment are Mr. and Mrs. Russel Cahill and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butler of Lakewood, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths, Sandusky, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. George Pefer of Cleveland, Ohio. It is this sort of advertisement that is making the Trent River more widely and favorably known to tourists each season.

TUNNEL PLANS ARE REVEALED

Windsor-Detroit Tube Will Cost About Twenty Millions.

LAND PURCHASED.

DETROIT, September 1. — Plans of the promoters of the proposed vehicular tunnel from Detroit to Windsor were revealed yesterday at the opening of a hearing before the Council, requested by the Detroit-Ontario Subways, Incorporated.

Judson Bradway announced that the company had acquired blocks of property on both sides of the river. That on the Windsor side is now occupied by St. Mary's Academy. Eugene Klapp, engineer of New York, described the proposed tunnel which is to be 27 feet in diameter, with a 24 feet runway for vehicles. Traffic through the tunnel will be entirely vehicular.

Houston Rawls of New York, said the tunnel would cost between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000. Real estate valued at more than $4,000,000 has already been purchased, he said.

Bonds will be floated by nationally known brokerage firms, he said, and the bonds will go on sale as soon as the ordinance is approved. The tunnel, he said, would take about two years to build and should be ready for use early in 1930.

Mr. Rawls said the chief financial backers were Wendell W. Anderson, son of John W. Anderson, a former stockholder in the Ford Motor Co., the Miller Estate of Toronto; Mr. Bradway, Mr. Comstock and himself. Land on the Canadian side of the project would cost about $2,600,000, and on the Americacn side $2,100,000. Approaches, buildings,ventilating devices and buses, which the company proposes to operate, will cost $7,320,000, to the middle of the river from the American side. The cost for the Canadian half would be $6,180,000,he said.

Mr. Rawls said a survey showed that by 1930 more than 22,000,000 pedestrians would cross the river in a year. This alone, he said, would "swing" the tunnel. He admitted that the new bridge would get about 90 per cent. of the tourist traffic.

HURRICANE KILLS MANY IN POLAND

Large Loss of Life and Heavy Property Damage Reported.

BERLIN, Sept. 1. — United Press. —Reports from Warsaw said a terrific hurricane struck the Markowec district of Poland to-day, causing loss of life and large property damage.

The wind was accompanied by heavy rain. Extensive inundation was reported, especially in Galicia.

A despatch from Lemberg to the Telegraph Union to-day said 150 persons had been drowned in Galicia.

REPRESENTATIVES OF REBELLION FAMILIES MEET

At the Canadian Bar Association garden party at Toronto, Ont., Premier King met Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hughes. Toronto Market Dull; Most Stocks Are Firm

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—Firmness was shown in rather dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, Brazilian being the feature with a two-point gain at 1.83. International Nickel firmed only a quarter at 66¼, and Massey Harris at 38½, Laura Secord at 39, and Seagram at 21¼ were all fractionally better. Canners at 51 was a point higher. In the unlisted, little change was made, Walker, Carlings, and Bakeries all being unchanged from yesterday, while Gooderham and Worts eased a half at 48

Changes Are Small In Active Mine Session

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—Little headway was made in heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Amulet slumped thirteen points at 5.09, and Noranda gained 23 at 24.00, these being the most divergent movements. Central Manitoba, at 1.90, was five lower, but Wright Hargreaves gained one at 708. Area was affected by Amulet's weakness only to the extent of a point loss at 84, and Kirkland Lake advanced five at 210.

Wheat Prices Firm Following Liverpool

CHICAGO, September 1. Canadain Press. — Wheat prices took an early swing upward to-day, owing largely to an unlooked for advance at Liverpool. Besides unofficial estiamest of the probable yield of domestic wheat showed a material decrease as compared with last month's figures.

Opening at 3-8c decline to 5-8c advance Chicago wheat soon made decided gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, corn starting 1-8c off to 1 1-8c up, and subsequently scoring a general upturn.

Opening prices were:

Wheat, September 1.32 7-8; December 1.37⅜; corn, September 1.06¼; December 1.09 5-8; oats, September 44; December 48¼.

Strong Buying Support In Wall Street To-day

NEW YORK, September 1 (Canadian Press). — Strong buying support made its appearance in to-day's stock market, and the reactionary tendencies which developed yesterday quickly disappeared as the market moved forward under the leadership, first of rails and then of industrials. Early gains in the railroad group took place in the face of disappointing July earnings statements.

Accumulative interest switched to the industrials. United States Steel Common and General Motors were in the vanguard of the advance. Sharp gains also took place in some of the industrial specialties ,Dupont soaring nearly nine points and United States Cast Iron Pipe six points. Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck mounted to new high levels.

Laval-Quebec—While this Company is continuing active exploration of their Montbray and Pelletier Lake holdings, we feel that their greatest possibilities lie in the development of their Desmeloizes property adjoining Abana on the southeast. Here they have indicated a strong zone of attraction similar to that obtained on the Abana, on which property the indicated zones have been definitely proven by underground work to exist in the form of highly commercial ore. The Laval property is situated so that they will benefit by the strike of the ore zone which extends from the Abbey property southeast across the Abana and on to the Laval. While this property is still in the prospective stage, particularly in the northwest section of this property, we feel that they have excellent chances of obtaining similar results to those being obtained by Abaga.

In Montbray, near the north boundary, surface exploration has recently opened up mineralization showing considerable promise. It is too early as yet to say how important this mineralization will prove to be but at present it is decidedly attractive. Fair prospect.

Abana Mines—A visit to this property shows shaft sinking to have reached a depth of 300 feet where a station is being cut. From this station cross cuts will be driven north and south o cut the downwards extensions of the ore bodies which are known to exist on the upper levels and on surface. The north cross cut should get into ore within 20 feet while the south cross cut should cut the No. 3 ore body at 15 feet. An inspection of the underground workings shows one deposit of ore at the 200 foot level to be 16 feet in width. Assay values on this ore shows $32.80 per ton. Diamond drilling at this level shows a further 20 ft. of massive chalcopyrite which will average $45 per ton.

What stands out as being one of the most interesting facts which can be seen from an underground inspection here is that the ore bodies are phenomenally larger. An ore body found at the 100 foot, level can be traced and depended upon as lower levels are reached and as lateral work is carried on. There appears to be no faulting of a serious nature which would throw either of the three known ore bodies out of place, so that their development should be rapidly and comparatively easy to accomplish. We look for extremely important results to be met with almost immediately by the cross-cutting getting under way on the 300 ft. level. We do not see how this work can fail to cut the orebodies mentioned above, and from their strength and general character we look for them to be still more important at this level.

Towagmac (Aldermac)—Shaft sinking has reached a depth of 500 feet. Here a station was cut and in cutting it a width of 20 feet of good grade ore was encountered. This ore will, from the looks of it, average around 15% copper. This is the downward extension of the ore cut in the shaft at a depth of 430 feet and is likely the downward extension of the No. 4 ore body. This ore was reported first by our wire and later through the Bulletin.

The most important development in regard to this property recently has been the cutting by diamond drill at an incline depth of 1320 feet of a width of 34 ft. high grade ore. This will be at a vertical depth of around 1100 feet and is the deepest ore known in the District. It sets at rest any doubt as to ore in this section extending to depth, and when further developed will add very greatly to ore reserves on this property.

Lateral work is getting under way from the 500 foot level and we can look for highly important additions to ore reserves during the next few months.

This property is well away and will not only prove to be a big asset for Noranda but will assure Towagmac shareholders of important returns from production. Good speculation.

EXTRADITION SOUGHT MURDER CHARGE

Extradition proceedings are under way to bring back to Quebec the woman and two men arrested at Butte, Montana, on fraud charges. They posed as Mr. and Mrs. Carter and their chaffeur, Dayton. They have been identified, however, as George C. McDonald, Julia Palmer, known in New York as a cabaret dancer, and Fred Palmer. All three, who have other aliases, are wanted in connection with the murder near Huntingdon, Quebec, of Adelard Bouchard, a Montreal taxi driver. The three are shown ABOVE as they appeared at Butte, McDonald at the LEFT, Mrs. Palmer in the CENTRE, and PALMER at the RIGHT.

Women Buy Smokes In Cosmetic Section

CHICAGO, Ill., September 1 (United Press). — A separate tobacco department for women has been established by a Chicago department store. While more expensive brands of cigarettes in fancy packages are displayed in the women's department, most sales are of the popular-priced cigarettes in paper packages, many of which are priced at cut rates.

The women's cigarette department is adjacent to the cosmetics section, and women clerks are employed.

Crippled Boy Hits; Mate Runs For Him

A good example of youthful refusal to be daunted by circumstances, was noted yesterday at King Edward Park. One of the players in a very juvenile game of softball, was a lad who suffers from a crippled leg. This handicap did not hinder him from wielding a lusty bat and his hits reached farther than those of any of the other competitors. But he could not run and a much smaller boy was pressed into service for this part of the procedure. Eventually the substitute was run out.

FLOUR PRICES DOWN 50 CENTS

Three Drops Made By Local Mills in the Past Ten Days.

BIG CROP IS CAUSE.

In the last ten days the Quaker Oats Company has made three reductions in the price of flour, totalling in all 50 cents per barrel. The reasons for these reductions are the favorable crop reports in the west the amount of 1926 wheat crop not yet milled, and the supply of flour on hand.

The retail price for Quaker flour made from Manitoba wheat was quoted to-day at $4.60 a hundred.

The Maple Leaf Milling Company and the Peterborough Cereal also announced a similar drop in the price of their grades of flour.

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETING TO-DAY

Sittings Held in Private in Preparation For Assembly Next Week.

VILLEGAS PRESIDES.

GENEVA, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—The forty-sixth session of the League of Nations Council was opened to-day under the presidency of Enrigue Villegas, Chilean Ambassador to Italy. Paul Boncour, France, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Britain, Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany, and Dr. Benes of Czecho-Slovakia were present. Administrative questions occupied the meeting, which was held in private. The Assembly opens next Monday with disarmament the main problem.

By geographical divisions the August contracts were divided as follows: Ontario 40 p.c. or $11,944,500; Quebec 32.4 p.c. or $9,677,900; British Columbia 12.5 p.c. or $3,730,100; Prairie Provinces 12.3 p.c. or $3,690,100 and the Maritime Provinces 2.8 p.c. or $838,400.

The extensive development this year of building coming under the heading of business buildings puts this classification well in the lead for the first eight months of this year. 34.5 p.c. of all construction has been undertaken in this classification at a valuation of $93,923,600. Residential construction, which includes apartment houses, keeps right up with the usual levels having accounted for 29.8 p.c. or $81,027,700. Public works and utilities now show a total of $66,847,000 or 24.6 p.c. Industrial work is down considerably from a year ago on its total of $30,287,700 or 11.1 p.c.

Over forty-four per cent. of all construction to September 1st has been undertaken in the province of Ontario where the investments have been made to the extent of $120,650,400. In the province of Quebec 32 p.c. has been awarded or $87,016,300. The Prairie Provinces record $37,187,600 or 13.7 during this period. British Columbia has undertaken 7.6 p.c. or $20,545,900 and the Maritime Provinces $6,685, or 2.4 p.c.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1927.

A BIGGER FAIR.

The expansion of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition into a week's fair has put the local Exhibition into the major league class, and has made it easier to attract exhibitors and arrange a larger and more varied programme.

The result will be seen this year in the biggest Exhibition ever held here, and in all probability the largest attendance record.

Every department expects to show an increase, and this optimism would seem to be thoroughly justified.

SCRAPPING THE BALL PLANT.

The City Council, The Examiner understands, is soon to be called upon to deal with a proposal that James Stevenson Park be converted into a public recreation grounds, the fences to be removed and the stands torn down.

This is a programme that deserves more than a passing consideration.

At present the city in the enclosed portion of this property possesses one of the finest baseball plants in Ontario.

Its upkeep has been largely, up to this year at least, taken care of by revenues received from the Senior Baseball Club.

Whether it would be good business to abandon an ideal ball grounds in favour of a recreation park is a matter that should be thoughtfully weighed by members of the Council, in view of the fact that the city already possesses a park of this description in Nicholls' Oval, which has never been used to anything like its capacity, and in the face of the further fact that the scrapping of the present plant would leave Peterborough without an enclosed athletic ground within the city limits.

It is true that Exhibition Park offers splendid facilities for baseball, but if Peterborough is to continue to be represented in the various Ontario series from the bantams up to the senior ranks, it is obvious that the Exhibition Grounds cannot supply accommodation for all these teams, and the general cause of baseball—the major summer sport here—would be jeopardized were the James Stevenson grounds not available.

THE PUBLIC APPROVES.

The announcement of the intention of the Ontario Government to use more drastic measures in dealing with reckless driving has been received with so general praise from the newspapers of the Province that it is evident that public opinion strongly endorses vigorous efforts to make Ontario's highways safer.

The vast majority of motorists are in favour of such measures.

They realize that their safety, no matter how carefully they themselves may drive, is constantly menaced by the recklessness of other motorists, and they are ready in co-operating with the Government in dealing with those who have chosen to disregard the general safety.

"There are many drivers," as The Border Cities Star puts it, "who have no regard for anyone else. They seem to become absessed when they get behind a wheel. A speed mania seizes them in its grip. It forces them to drive to the peril of themselves and everyone else in their immediate vicinity. This is the type of driver who has to be cured or driven off the roads of Ontario."

The Star merely makes vocal the sentiment of citizens generally in regard to dangerous driving, and the Government in doubling its motorcycle staff and taking other steps to check reckless motorists can feel assured that the public will back its efforts.

YESTERDAY'S MARATHON.

Although the early collapse of George Young, Canadian favourite in yesterday's great swimming marathon at the Canadian National Exhibition, one of the most spectacular sporting events ever staged, took some of the interest out of the contest, the convincing victory of Ernest Vierkoetter, German swimmer, has won the admiration of all Canada.

Vierkoetter may safely claim to be the world's finest long-distance champion in view of his fast time in swimming the English Channel and his crushing defeat of the cream of marathoners yesterday.

From the time that the German raced George Young into submission, five and a half miles from the start, it was a procession.

Never afterward was the European contestant challenged; he won as he pleased in time that was remarkably fast, and the demonstration that greeted him as he sprinted the last one hundred yards of his 21-mile swim through the cold waters of Lake Ontario won a spontaneous recognition of one of the greatest feats of speed and endurance in the annals of swimming.

The crumpling up of George Young, hero of the Catalina swim and Canada's chief hope, was a bitter disappointment to Canadians generally; few anticipated that before the first lap of the long swim had been completed Young would be taken out of the water.

While Vierkoetter was in a class by himself, the race developed some striking examples of determination and ability, especially by Burditt, an unheralded Toronto swimmer who was in second place with the race half over, and Edith Hertle, plucky New York girl who gave astonishing display of speed over the greater part of the distance.

As a publicity agency and as a box-office attraction for the Canadian National Exhibition the big swim was completely successful.

Few more colourful sporting events have been chronicled than yesterday's contest.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE PEACE BRIDGE.

The press is making much, and rightly so, of the symbolism of the Peace Bridge as a perpetual reminder of the will to peace existing between the two greatest nations of the world. The Christian Science Monitor says: "There are unplumbed depths of meaning in what the Prince of Wales said at the dedication of the great new bridge spanning the Niagara River, when he urged that it might be not merely a physical and material link between Canada and the United States but also symbolical of the maintenance of their friendly contacts by those who live on both sides of this frontier."

Conferences may be held and dissolved without leaving much evidence of practical fruits; leagues may be formed and broken; even treaties may be torn up as scraps of paper; but for centuries and ages to come there will span the river which marks the boundary line between the two great and powerful English-speaking nations of the world a monument in steel and stone of the eternal friendship pledged between these nations for their own good and happiness and for the peace of the whole world. This fact was emphasized, on the occasion of the opening of the bridge, by the American representative, Charles G. Dawes, when he said: "This bridge represents a bridge of understanding, because it cements a friendship between the English-speaking peoples founded on common principles in government, of individual liberty under law, and on the instinct of self-preservation, the most deep-seated of mankind." Such principles indeed are more enduring than the stone and steel of which the peace bridge is built. Some great physical catastrophe may destroy the proudest work of man, but the principles on which the friendship of these two nations is founded is as eternal as the heavens.

How deep and real is the bond symbolized by the bridge of peace is illustrated by an assertion of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, to the effect that while he was the head of the largest ordinance works in the world, he would gladly see the entire production of armaments cease and the material of war thrown into the sea, if peace could be assured.—The New Outlook.

NEW ORDER IN RE FREIGHT RATES.

The decision of the Railway Commission which was published in The Journal on Saturday is important for two reasons. It is a generous concession to the most westerly sections of the prairies inasmuch as the rate to Vancouver from Calgary and Edmonton is reduced to the same as from these points to Fort William, three times the distance, namely from 21 cents to 18 cents per bushel. The discrimination in rates as between Fort William and Vancouver was an obvious one which British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan joined hands successfully to eliminate. Mr. G. G. McGeer, the British Columbia counsel for some years back in this matter of freight rates, hails the order as a victory for that Province, but that is more seeming than real, inasmuch as the new reduction applies only to grain and flour, and these commodities are exported through Vancouver to the Orient, South America and Europe. It increases the importance of Vancouver as a seaport, provided always that the Pacific grain carriers, as they did on a previous occasion, do not raise the ocean rates to an amount equal to the reduction. The reduction westward, however, is a real boon to the farmers of Alberta and western Saskatchewan to the extent of three cents a bushel. A concession also has been made to the C.P.R. The rates from Calgary to Vancouver, 642 miles, are to be the same as those from Edmonton, 766 miles. This concession would appear to be a compensation for the extra cost of the heavier grades through the mountains on the C.P.R.

Just what effect the new tariff will have in diverting traffic from the United States seaports remains to be seen as the result of actual operations; but the reduction east from Fort William, Westfort and Armstrong, Ont., by nearly fifty per cent. is a substantial one, and should enable the Canadian Transcontinental line to be utilized to a much larger extent than formerly and compete with the water route.

The attitude of the Maritime Provinces remains to be seen. The claim asserted in their behalf that they were entitled to the restoration of the rate basis they enjoyed previous to 1919 was withdrawn in view of the adoption of the Duncan report, whereby rates were reduced by twenty per cent., on traffic which originated and terminated in the Atlantic division. Their claim as a consequence is not discussed in the report upon which the order is based. On the face of it they do not seem to have any reason to complain.

What Ontario, though bearing its share of the cost of the long hearing before the board of Railway Commissioners, reaps in the way of benefit is a problem rather for the railway traffic experts than for laymen. There is nothing more intricate and difficult for the ordinary man to understand than just how railway rates affect business. While there are reductions in rates from the heads of the Lakes and Georgian Bay to Quebec, there is no apparent reduction to the Ontario consumer, as there does not seem to be any to the consumer in British Columbia from the new rates westward from Calgary and Edmonton. Paragraph three of the order respecting provisions as to distributing tariffs in the Western Rates Case extends these so as to include all Canadian National lines as well as those of the C.P.R. to which they were formerly limited. This may mean something to shippers of commodities to prairie points on the Canadian National, but time will tell.

Two other important considerations arise. One is it means a reduction of revenues to the railways, for although the volume of traffic may increase somewhat—considerably this year on account of the immensity of the wheat yield—the net profit of hauling must be less. We shall see in the next annual reports of the Canadian National, in which every Canadian who pay taxes is personally interested, and of the C.P.R. how it will affect them. The other is as to how it is going to affect the wages of the railway employees. They have been expecting and hoping for an order that would increase railway revenues rather than reduce them. They have been claiming that railway wages are less in Canada than the United States, and the railway companies have taken the ground that they could not increase wages without an increase in railway rates. Just what the general result will be in these two respects will be looked forward to with increasing interest. It cannot be predicated at the present moment.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Although George Young has faded from the picture, his splendid victory at Catalina should not be forgotten.

Among those connected with yesterday's swimming marathon who should get a special prize for endurance are the radio announcers.

Several of the contestants yesterday quit in the first hundred yards. Perhaps they didn't like the look of the crowd with whom they had to swim.

We'll leave it to The Toronto Star to say that Ernest Vierkoetter, the German baker, swims so determinedly because he "needs the dough."

Premier Ferguson started yesterday's race, but whether or not it tempted him to take a plunge on his own account into Federal politics has not yet been officially announced.

The harvesters' excursions give a few thousand young Canadians from Eastern Ontario a chance to observe Western conditions. It would not be a bad thing for Canada if more such opportunities were more general.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., September 1 (Canadian Press). — There was no improvement in the demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday, but a moderate amount of business was worked in American hard wheat with the Continent.

The only business of importance done in the local cash grain market was a sale of several loads of American No. 2 hard winter wheat at 12 cents per bushel over the Chicago September option, f.o.b. Montreal, and several cars of Ontario No. 2 white oats at 65c per bushel, ex-track.

Owing to the continued weakness in cash wheat market at Winnipeg, a weaker feeling developed in the local spring wheat flour trade, and prices were reduced another 10c per barrel. This makes a decline within the past two weeks of 50 cents per barrel. The local and export trade was fair.

In spite of the above, a steady feeling prevailed in the market for winter wheat flour, and prices were unchanged. This was attributed to the fact that the offerings from Ontario millers were smaller than usual.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained under a good demand. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet but firm.

The egg market was without any new feature to note, prices being steady and the volume of business fair. The receipts were 1,475 cases.

The butter trade was quiet, but the undertone was stronger and prices scored another advance of ¼c per pound. The receipts were 57 packages.

The foreign demand for cheese was quiet, but the local trade was fair, and prices were about steady. Receipts were 6,118 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 1 (Canadian Press). — Faced by possible big deliveries here to-day and by uncertainty over monthly private crop reports, wheat yesterday finished at the lowest level in many weeks. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at ½c to 1¾c net decline; corn, 1c to 1¾c down; oats unchanged to ½c off; and provisons varying from 25c drop to a rise of 2c.

Most traders expected that wheat deliveries in Chicago to-day on September contracts would amount to between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bushels. There was also rather general expectation that monthly unofficial estimates of the domestic wheat yield would prove bearish, and that some Canadian crop figures which were also in pospect would likewise favour the bear side.

Unexpected weakness of the Liverpool market yesterday accounted further as a weight on values here, being associated with a British forecast that world import requirements this season would total 748,000,000 bushels against 792,000,000 bushels last year.

On the other hand advices were current that frost damage in Canada has been severe over large sections, and that thousands of acres of lowlands will not pay harvest. Combined injury by frost and rust in some districts were reported as amounting to fully 50 per cent. There was also news from Europe that bad weather up to the last few days had caused considerable harm. Scattered liquidation sales here, however, were again in evidence, and at the windup there was no particular rally.

In corn and oats, as well as in wheat, rallies failed to hold. Corn crop comments were somewhat more bearish, and it was general gossip that trade reports to be given out to-day would show a fairly good-sized increase of indicated yields of corn.

Provisions showed a downward tendency, despite an upturn in hog values.

A Thought For To-day

HOW TO GET A REAL THRILL

I once knew an old lady who had the habit of secreting small change in all sorts of queer hiding places.

She was a tidy woman, a good housekeeper and seldom a day of house cleaning passed but what she enjoyed the thrill of finding dimes and dollars she had quite forgotten she possessed.

Her daily dusting and tidying up often resulted in the reward of pennies and nickels in which she delighted as the small boy who finds a "cash" of chipped marbles, rusty fish hooks and sundry items that some boy, endowed with the provident instinct of primitive man, has provided for his treasures.

Thrift we should have, and putting our small savings in a good bank is a safe and sure way of providing a real thrill of satisfaction in an hour of need or when some worth-while desire or ambition is to be gratified.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

AT KEENE.

Two large congregations attended the services in Keene United church on Sunday to hear the Rev. Mr. Christie of Rhodes Ave. Church, Toronto, speak on "The Plowman" in the morning and "The Covenanters" in the evening.

Miss Garrow, of Oshawa, was the visiting soloist, in the morning singing "Thy Will Be Done" and in the evening "Land of Hope and Glory."

Miss Garrow has a splendid voice and sings with great feeling. Many comments were made on Miss Garrows' fine singing. The choir contributed the anthems, "Great and Marvelous" in the morning and "Praise Ye the Father" in the evening and a mixed quartette composed of Miss Margaret Bryce, Mrs. F. A. Eason and Messrs. David Edwards and A. E. Fletcher.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Sept. 1.—Mr. Norman Masson returned to his home in Burnbrae on Sunday.

Miss Verna Miller is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James Dewart.

Rev. Hugh Brown took Dr. Munro's place on Sunday in the Presbyterian Sunday school, acting as superintendent and teaching the Bible class.

Rev. Mr. Scoville (Anglican) who is spending his vacation in North Dummer, occupied the United Church pulpit on Sunday evening. He spoke a few minutes, especially for children, urging them to prepare themselves for life by studying God's word and absorbing its teaching, and thus being prepared for temptations. He illustrated the thought by speaking of a plant which stores up nourishment for future use.

The sermon was on "Forgive and Forget."

THE HARVESTERS

Again the harvest season is here and the long train of harvesters cars, loaded to capacity with an almost inconceivable diversity of human beings from all conditions of life, serve as a reminder of the agricultural wealth of the country.

There is the eager, nervous youth boisterously laughing and joking to conceal his real emotions, crowding and pushing his way along the aisles in search of a bunk in which to deposit his large unwieldy bundles.

Then, standing quietly on one side or sitting unobtrusively in a corner of a seat, alone or with an old cronie of former expeditions, is seen the veteran campaigner, calmly viewing the chaotic confusion about him. Occasionally he delivers himself of a choice oath as some one or other of the crowd is thrown into violent contact with him, and relieves himself of a surplus of the essence of tobacco by judiciously expectorating through the window, if it happens to be open, or sharp-shooting at a kit-bag or straw hat further along the car.

Some are in attendance on their wives, who, determined not to allow their husbands to have all the pleasures of life unalloyed, have insisted on accompanying them to the land of glorious golden grain and flashing northern lights to say nothing of the romance of Mounted Police heroically galloping over the rolling prairies in pursuit of ferocious feathered Indians on calico ponies, as are so vividly described in the paper covered novels popularly favored by those of literary inclination on such an expedition.

The babel is interrupted by a shrill whistle, "All Aboard!"; the belated arrivals make a mad rush for the train and the huge engine at head of the calvalcade, after several preliminary puffs, inhales a few deep breaths and the train is under way.

Such was the sight which greeted an interested spectator in the early hours of Tuesday morning as the first of the harvest trains bore its human freight westward to the land of the setting sun.

The joyous sparkle of a rare old wine

HAPPILY and quickly go the evening hours when your entertaining drink is "Canada Dry."

To every glass and to every occasion it brings something of the joyous sparkle of a rare old wine . . . and a certain proud distinction, too, that you will find in no other ginger ale.

Served alone, or with other beverages it is a delightful treat at dinner, for your weekly bridge game, for the birthday party or the dance.

Here is Ida Bailey Allen's favorite recipe for punch—a most worthy addition to your cook book:

Continental Punch

Combine one quart of grape juice and a pint of orange juice with half-cup of sugar and a third-cup of lemon juice. Just before serving, add two quarts of crushed ice and four pint bottles of "Canada Dry." Mix. Garnish with eight sprigs of fresh mint. This recipe makes 36 to 40 glasses.

"CANADA DRY"

This is the Hostess Package of 12 bottles—the most convenient way to buy "Canada Dry."

THE KING OF COFFEES

ERNST VIERKOETTER CROSSES OVER LINE

A considerable area along the water front had been roped off the day before in order to provide space for the tables for working newspaper men and telegraph operators, who were sending the news of the big swim to all parts of the world. Up to the time of the appearance of the victor, on the last leg of his swim, the huge gathering respected the barriers. But the spectacle of the swimmer, with his black arms alternately cutting through the water and waving his friendly greetings, was too great a strain upon the patience of the citizens. They appeared to take it into their minds in the space of a few seconds to get a close-up of Ernst Vierkoetter and no mere wooden barrier was sufficient to withstand them. Not even the weight of a squad of police and the newspaper men and telegraph operators whose domain was threatened, was sufficient to hold back the tumult of enthusiasm which burst forth.

Had Steady Stroke.

Vierkoetter swam a beautiful race. Checked by the Canadian Press staff, he held to his steady stroke of 50 to the minute, exactly the same as he used when he started. Going into the turn at the last mile, he was escorted by pleasure, press, official and other boats, and as his trainer steadily guided him, the swimmer showed not the slightest excitement. There was no quickening of pace, no splashing, no looking back; instead, Vierkoetter simply buried his head in the water with every stroke, as he had done throughout the long day, and plowed steadily on. It was perhaps the greatest example of self-control, discipline and obedience that had ever been seen locally. As he took every stroke, spectators in the boats counted, while a crowd of well-wishers in a large sailboat sang "Show me the way to go home." Vierkoetter never smiled; he simply plowed on. The throb of his powerful legs, which churned the water behind him, and which helped to continue the momentum gained through his arm stroke, never faltered for an instant.

The only time he raised his head high was when the trainer's commands were heard, and this in spite of the fact that a fleet of boats accompanied him and he was swimming through a lane of cheering enthusiasts.

Paid Homage.

On the shore-line, as the swimmer neared the turn into the last mile, the greatest crowd that had ever witnessed an aquatic event in Canada had assembled to pay him homage. Just behind the turn, the new gates of the Canadian National Exhibition, which were opened Tuesday by the Prince of Wales, were surrounded by a mass of humanity.

Every place from which the lake could be seen was packed; every roof, every tree, and every vantage place held its quota. It was just sunset, and the lone swimmer headed through the gap in the breakwater from which he had started so long ago. To Vierkoetter it must have seemed ages ago. For a period of time that was probably ages to the swimmer; he had been putting one hand in front of the other, while his feet kept up the churning. Then, for the last mile, he swam up the channel between the breakwater and the shoreline. To speak of the crowd—a crowd which included war veterans and others who had lost relatives and acquaintances in the Great War, and who had suffered at the hands of Germany years ago, and who were now watching a German swim his way into fame and fortune before their eyes, would be useless without some mention of the sportsmanship displayed. Not because he was a German particularly; not because he had defeated Toronto's marathon hope; but because he had swam twenty-one miles in record-breaking time, and in icy cold water, did the crowd rise to its feet and cheer the swimmer to the echo. Had it been George Young himself, Toronto could not have exceeded the ovation it gave to the European.

Vierkoetter was tired; visibly so, and he was rushed away at once by his trainers. The grease with which he had been so liberally smeared in the early hours of the morning, had washed off in patches, and he presented somewhat of a piebald appearance as he was taken from the lake.

Showed Confidence.

The confidence which had featured his swimming all day was seen just as he neared the finishing line. Again critical eyes watched for the appearance of nervousness, which would be marked by an increased stroke and the tell-tale splash and turn. It did not come, however, the stolid German holding to his fifty-to-the-minute even when he saw that he was within arms' length of the major prize.

Few Left At Finish.

There weren't many left at the finish. Of the 180 or more who started yesterday morning, not more than nine or ten were left in the water. The last check made by the Canadian Press at 6 o'clock showed 13 swimmers remaining and a second check was made immediately. One certainty is that if nothing unforseen happens, Georges Michel, French swimmer, who holds the English Channel record, will be in second position.

There was a mad rush on the part of the crowd near the finishing line, excited newspapermen and telegraph operators were working under a great handicap as excited spectators leaned over them, until a platoon of mounted police were rushed to the scene and were used to hold the crowds away. This lessened the pressure to some extent, but probably a quarter of a million people were jammed almost to suffocation as they craned their necks to witness the finish.

Slowly plugging along, Vierkoetter, with Joe Wright, Sr., referee-in-chief, alongside in a power boat, crossed the finish line at 8.15 p.m., 11¾ hours after he left the start yesterday morning. His feet touched bottom, he raised his arms high in the air, and smiled. The race was over for Ernst Vierkoetter.

Michel Second.

While Ernst Vierkoetter was listening to the plaudits of the thousands who greeted him on the achievement of the prize, Georges Michel, who, like the German, had conquered the English Channel, was steadily plowing his way over the course two and a half miles back in the darkness and in an endeavor to capture the second prize of $7,500.

Throughout the day Michel, miles behind Vierkoetter and for hours miles behind many of the leading contenders who subsequently gave up the struggle, had proved a model of perseverance. One by one, George Young of Toronto, Byron Summers of California and Edward Keating of New York had made way for the Parisian to take the position of runner-up. Struggling behind were Arthur Compton, 14-year-old swimmer from Long Beach, Calif., and Lottie Schoemmel of New York, was swimming gamely, for $5,000 was to go to the first woman finishing, in addition to prize money she might obtain in the event she completed the course in second or third place.

Drift Until Dawn.

William Erickson, "the Atlantic City floater," was still exercising his art at 8.30 p.m., and apparently was content to drift until the dawn. The others forging steadily ahead in the darkness were Martha Stager of Portland, Ore., slow but courageous; Clarabelle Barrett, of Pelham, N.Y., English Channel aspirant; Edith Hedin, a local entrant, and Norma Bovanzeri, of Niagara Falls.

Others still swimming were Myron Cox, Los Angeles, Calif., and Herr Von Papenfus, of South Africa.

ERICKSON FINISHES.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—Only two men finished behind Ernst Vierkoetter, giant German winner of the twenty-one mile swimming marathon yesterday. Vierkoetter won at 8.15 p.m., but Georges Michel, Frenchman, who won second prize, did not finish until 12.45 this morning, while William Erickson ended the long grind at 3.31 a.m., and there were still thousands waiting to cheer him.

Every other swimmer but these three had dropped out. The last woman to give up was Martha Stager of Portland, Oregon, taken out of the water at 12.08 this morning.

DEFENDS DARWINIAN THEORY, ETC.

showed a single file of skeletons, the gibbon at one end and Man at the other. In our original simplicity we expected, as we traced Man backwards in time, that we should encounter a graded series of fossil forms—a series which would carry him in a straight line towards an anthropoid ancestor. We should never have made this initial mistake if we had remembered that the guide to the world of the past is the world of the present. In our time Man is represented not by one but my many and diverse races—black, brown, yellow and white; some of these are rapidly expanding, others are as rapidly disappearing. Our searches have shown that in remote times the world was peopled, sparsely it is true, with races showing an even greater diversity than those of to-day, and that already the same process of replacement was at work. To unravel Man's pedigree, we have to thread our way, not along the links of a chain, but through the meshes of a complicated net-work.

"We made another mistake. Seeing that in our search for Man's ancestry we expected to reach an age when the beings we should have to deal with would be simian rather than human, we ought to have marked the condition which prevails among living anthropoid apes. We ought to have been prepared to find, as we approached a distant point in the geological horizon, that the forms encountered would be as widely different as are the gorilla, chimpanzee and orang, and confined, as these great anthrepoids now are, to limited parts of the earth's surface. That is waht we are now realizing; as we go backwards in time we discover that mankind becomes broken us, not into separate races as in the world of to-day, but into numerous and separate species. When we go into a still more remote past they become so unlike that we have to regard them not as belonging to separate species but different genera. It is amongst this welter of extinct fossil forms which strew the ancient world that we have to trace the zig-zag line of Man's descent. Do you wonder we sometimes falter and follow false clues?

"We committed a still further blunder when we set out on the search for Man's ancestry; indeed, some of us are still making it. We expected that Man's evolution would pursue not only an orderly file of stages but that every part of his body—skull brain, jaws, teeth, skin, body, arms, and legs—would at each stage become a little less ape-like, a little more Man-like. Our searches have shown us that Man's evolution has not proceeded in this orderly manner. In some extinct races, while one part of the body has moved forwards another part has lagged behind. . .

"There are other difficulties; there still remain great blanks in the geological record of Man's evolution. As our search proceeds these blanks will be filled in, but in the meantime let us note their nature and their extent. By the discovery of fossil remains we have followed Man backwards to the close of the Pliocene—a period which endured at least for a quarter of a million years, but we have not yet succeeded in tracing him through this period. It is true that we have found fossil teeth in Pliocene deposits which may be those of an ape-like man or of man-like ape; until we find other parts of their bodies we cannot decide. When we pass into the still older Miocene period—one which was certainly twice as long as the Pliocene—we are in the heyday of anthropoid history.

"All the evidence now at our disposal supports the conclusion that Man has arisen, as Lamarck and Darwin suspected, from an anthropoid ape not higher in the zoological scale than a chimpansee, and that the date at which human and anthropoid lines of descent began to diverge lies near the beginning of the Miocene period. On our modest scale of reckoning, that gives Man the respectable antiquity of about one million years.

"Our geological search, which I have summarized all too briefly, has not produced so far the final and conclusive evidence of Man's anthropoid origin; we have not found as yet the human 'imago' emerging from its anthropoid encasement. Why, them, do modern anthropolists share the conviction that there has been an anthropoid stage in our ancestry? They are no more blind than you to the degree of difference which separates Man and ape in structure, in appearance and in behaviour. I must touch on the sources of this conviction only in a passing manner. Early in the present century Prof. G. H. F. Nuttall of Cambridge University discovered a trustworthy and exact method of determining the affinity of one species of animal to another by comparing the reactions of their blood. He found that the blood of Man and that of the great anthropoid apes gave almost the same reaction. Bacteriologists find that the living anthropoid body possesses almost the same susceptibilities to infections, and manifests the same reactions, as does the body of Man. So alike are the brains of Man and anthropoid in their structural organization that surgeons and physiologists transfer experimental observations from the one to the other. When the human embryo establishes itself in the womb it throws out structures of a most complex nature to effect a connection with the maternal body. We know know that exactly the same elaborate processes occur in the anthropoid womb and in no other. We find the same vestigial structures—the same 'evolutionary postmarks'—in the bodies of Man and anthropoid. The anthropoid mother fondles, nurses and suckles her young in the human manner. This is but a tithe of the striking and intimate points in which Man resembles the anthropoid ape. In what other way can such a myriad of coincidences be explained except by presuming a common ancestry for both?

"The crucial chapters in Darwin's 'Descent of Man' are those in which he seeks to give a historical account of the rise of Man's brain and of the varied functions which that organ subserves. How do these chapters stand today? Darwin was not a professional anatomist and therefore accepted Huxley's statement that there was no strucure in the human brain that was not already present in that of the anthropoid. In Huxley's opinion the human brain was but a richly annotated edition of the simpler and older anthropoid book, and that this edition, in turn, was but the expanded issue of the still older original primate publication. Since this statement was made thousands of anatomists and physiologists have studied and compared the brain of Man and ape. . . . The difference is only quantitative but its importance cannot be exaggerated. In the anthropoid brain are to be recognized all those parts which have become so enormous in the human brain. It is the expansion of just those parts which have given Man his powers of feeling, understanding, acting, speaking and learning.

"Darwin himself approached this problem not as an anatomist but as a psychologist and after many years of patient and exact observation, succeeded in convincing himself that, immeasurable as are the differences between the mentality of Man and ape, they are of degree, not of kind. Prolonged researches made by modern psychologists have but verified and extended Darwin's conclusion. No matter what line of evidence we select to follow—evidence gathered by anatomists, by embryologists, by physiologists or by psychologists—we reach the conviction that Man's brain has been evolved from that of an anthropoid ape and that in the process no new structure has been introduced and no new or strange faculty interpolated.

"In these days our knowledge of the elaborate architecture and delicate machinery of the human brain makes rapid progress, but I should mislead if I suggested that finality is in sight. Far from it; our enquiries are but begun. There is so much we do not yet understand. Will the day ever come when we can explain why the brain of man has made such great progress while that of his cousin the gorilla has fallen so far behind? Can we explain why inherited ability falls to one family and not to another, or why, in the matter of cerebral endowment, one race of mankind has fared so much better than another We have as yet no explanation to offer."

After sketching the advancement of scientific knowledge since Darwin's time, Sir Arthur Keith concluded: "With such sources of knowledge being ever extended and others of great importance, such as the study of Heredity, which have been left unmentioned, we are justified in the hope that Man will be able in due time not only to write his own history but to explain how and why events took the course they did.

"In a brief hour I have attempted to answer a question of momentous importance to all of us—what is Man's origin? Was Darwin right when he said that Man, under the action of biological forces which can be observed and measured, has been raised from a place among anthropoid apes to that which he now occupies? The answer is, Yes! And in returning this verdict I speak but as foreman of the jury—a jury which has been empanelled from men who have devoted a lifetime to weighing the evidence."

Few women anywhere in the world follow a more unusual occupation than that of one woman in England who earns her living by tearing and twisting the fringes of the tartan plaids which are worn by certain Highland regiments of the British army.

MORE BLASTS AT BROCKVILLE

Two Dynamite Explosions in Open Spaces Yesterday—No Damage Done.

ONE IN FAIR GROUNDS.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., August 31. — Shortly after eight o'clock another explosion similar to the two heard on Saturday night in that vicinity occurred in a field west of the Ormond street bridge. The explosion kicked up considerable earth but did no damage to property. The police investigating found a wooden box labelled "polar dynamite" the top of which had been partially blown off. During the evening a hole about the size of a washtub was blown in the race track at the fair grounds by some unknown party. It is believed dynamite was used. The shot was fired in the northwestern portion of the grounds, and caused no damage to any of the buildings.

RAZOR BLADE CACHE.

2,000,000 Seized as Imitations of the Gillette Brand.

IRVINGTON, N.J., Aug. 30. — (United Press.)—The discovery of more than 2,000,000 safety razor blades in houses here and in Matawan proved not to be a solution of what becomes of the old ones. The blades were new, and valued at $150,000. They were seized as imitations of the Gillette brand.

270 PASSENGERS WAITING ON BEACH

Taken Off Disabled Coast Vessel in Wrangell Narrows.

JUNEAN, Alaska, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press). — On a bleak and wind swept Alaskan beach, the 270 passengers of the disabled coastwise liner, Princess Charlote waited relief yesterday following their landing from the ship, which had been refloated in the early hours after striking a rock in Wrangell Narrows.

A jagged hole was torn in the brow of the crack liner, according to the radio reports, but the vessel appeared in no immediate danger of sinking.

ASSAULT CHARGE IS NOT SUSTAINED

Toronto Man Dismissed By Magistrate—Arrest Followed Fatality.

STRATFORD August 31. — Melvin Smith of Toronto, was dismissed on a charge of assault when he appeared for preliminary hearing before Magistrate J. A. Makins in the city police court yesterday morning.

Smith was arrested in Toronto following the death in the Stratford General hospital of Howard Bain a 21-year-old St. Mary's man, from injuries he received in a fight during the Old Boys' reunion at St. Mary's.

At the inquest into the young man's death, held in the courtroom on Monday night, the Coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

Has Many Proposals Through the Mails

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — Canadian Press). — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh can have $1,200,000 by going through a real marriage ceremony in front of a movie camera and $6,000,000 more by accepting the business offers tendered him since he made his non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, says Commander Fitzhugh Green, the lone Eagle's chief secretarial aide, in Popular Science Monthly.

Commander Green, who has completed a check-up on mail and other communications to Lindbergh, says that among the 3,500 letters and 100,000 telegrams and cables received, were at least three proposals that the young flier join in an attempt to reach the moon by a rocket shot from the earth.

Lindbergh also has received thousands of proposals of marriage. The aviator's mail included also 14,000 packages.

Lindbergh poems, sent in his mail, number 5,000, and upwards of $10,000 was received in return postage. More than 500 "close relatives" asked him to "do something for them." More letters came from women than from men, and letters from girls outnumbered those from boys four to one.

Col. Lindbergh answered many of the letters in long hand, but thousands found their way to the waste basket.

FALLS FROM BOAT; BOY IS DROWNED

Was Paddling With Friend in Old Leaky Vessel.

KINGSTON, Sept. 1. — John A Bond, aged 16 years, a ward of the British Immigration Colonial Association of Montreal, was drowned in the St. Lawrence River on Tuesday afternoon, near St. Lawrence Church, Pittsferry.

The lad was employed by W. H. Scott, a farmer residing at Pittsferry. He and Henry Eadie, a lad of about his own age, went out in an old leaky boat, which almost filled with water. Eadie fell out of the boat, it is said, and Bond succeeded in rescuing him. Afterward Bond fell out of the boat and was drowned in seven feet of water. The body was recovered shortly afterward.

Eadie paddled the boat to shore and ran to the home of John Paddle and gave the alarm. Dr. Sinclair, coroner at Gananoque, decided not to hold an inquest.

Rome Flight Delayed For the Third Time

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., August 31 (Canadian Press). — For the third time thousands gathered at this flying field yesterday to witness the take-off for Rome of the monoplane "Old Glory," and for the third time they were disappointed.

Until almost seven o'clock last evening hope was entertained by Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Hill, the pilots, that the wind might veer to the west. Then the breeze obstinately holding its south-west direction, a cross wind that precluded a hop, the great single motor was hooded and the flight officially called off for the night. Twice before preparations have eben made to leave, and have proved of no avail. One other time the wind direction was the obstacle, and the first attempt was balked by a burned out wheel bearing.

The first people to use kilts as national dress were the Assyrians.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 31.—Mrs. R Archie Moore entertained at a delightful bridge party on Wednesday, August 24th, at the Wantasa Tea Room. Among the guests were: Mrs. Cone and Miss Wright of New York, Miss Morrow, Mrs. Walker, Miss Effie Munro, Mrs. Fred Sawers and Mrs. Mackay of Toronto and Mrs. Currier of Ottwa.

Mrs. Walker and Miss Munro were the prize winners.

Miss Pat Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tyler of Toronto, entertained at dinner on August 17 at the Wantasa Tea rooms. Among the guests were Misses Margaret and Muriel Strickland, Winifred Culver, Esme Heward, Doris Score and O'Connell, and Messrs. Pat Hall and Eric Moore.

Mrs. Corson, who swam the Channel from Cape Griznez to Dover, wrote: "I relied to a very large extent upon Bovril. To the regular use of this food I attribute the excellent condition which enabled me to swim the English Channel."

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE RAIN?

Once upon a time boys and girls used to sing, "Rain, rain, go to Spain, and mind you, don't come back again!" For on rainy days they were kept indoors for fear they should get their feet wet or catch cold, or spoil their pretty little flower trimmed has. But boys and girls of 1927 need not be afraid of the rain! Rain Hats, Slickers and Rubbers keep them safe and dry from tip to toe, and let them go out on the wettest of days as happy as kings in sunshine!

MAN STOPS SEARCH OF LAKE FOR HIM

Calls Friend By 'Phone To Say He is Alive and Well.

BARRIE, Sept. 1.—The mystery man who, two weeks ago, rented a canoe from Carley's boathouse late at night, leaving a deposit of $20, and who failed to return, telephoned from Toronto yesterday morning to say that he was alive and kicking. He refused to divulge his identity.

Picking up his paper at the breakfast table, he read that he was supposed to be lost on the waters of Kempenfeldt Bay. No one knew the incorrectness of this assumption better than he, so he hurried to correct the impression and to tell the world to stop worrying, although he took a roundabout way of doing so.

Mysterious Message.

He called an equally mysterious friend at Big Bay Point, six miles down the bay from the boathouse, on the long-distance telephone, to send a messenger boy to tell Mr. Carley that he was safe in Toronto and that the canoe could be found at a given spot. The boy knew that much, and nothing more, or, if he did, refused to tell.

Likewise Mr. Carley, who found his canoe intact at the spot designated and, being well paid for its rental, is not concerned about further details.

"That's really all there is to it," said Mr. Carley. "The man is alive and well and I have the canoe. I am absolutely in the dark as to the identity of the man. However, I want to thank the Globe for getting me my craft."

Police Start Probe.

The police, to whom Carley reported the incident last Saturday morning, and who instituted a search, do not take so charitable a view, although admitting that things have turned out as favorable as could be hoped for. Naturally they do not relish the mystery which surrounds the identity of the Toronto man and his friend, and propose to conduct a further inquiry.

The distinction of being the healthiest country in the world is claimed for New Zealand, where the expectation of life is nearly 64 years, as compared with 58 years in America.

BELLEVILLE FAIR OPEN EXTRA DAY

Bad Weather Makes This Step Necessary—Closes on Saturday.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 1st. — Under threatening skies and with a chilling atmosphere the Belleville fair was opened yesterday afternoon. It was intended to close the fair on Friday evening, but owing to almost continuous rain the past two days, no track events could take place yesterday, and the management decided to keep the fair going until Saturday, thus advancing each day's program. Entries this year total 3500, being some hundreds in excess of former years, and never before was there a better grade of exhibits. There are 900 exhibits in the ladies' department. In the poultry department there are 117 exhibits.

Mayor Wilmot formally declared the fair opened after a brief address had been given by President G. F. Ostrom and some of the directors.

The prospects are that with fine weather prevailing the fair will be the best ever held in this section of the province.

DURING BABY'S TEETHING TIME

The Bowels Become Loose

Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps, etc., manifest themselves; the gums become swollen, and cankers form in the mouth. This is the time when the mother should use

DETROIT GIRL IS DROWNED

Heavy Meal Short Time Before Bathing Believed Responsible.

COMPANIONS HELD.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 1. — Helene Doherty, 15 years old, of Detroit, a student at Northwestern High School was drowned last night while swimming in the Detroit River, between Peche Island and the Canadian shore Her three companions Margaret Muir, 17; Milan L. Culver, 30; and Joseph Stadler, 27; were held by the police for questioning until noon yesterday. The party had been cruising in Culver's cabin cruiser, when the accident occurred. The police believe a heavy meal taken by the girl two hours before she leaped into the river for her swim caused cramps. The body was recovered.

DECLARE DIVIDEND.

ATLANTA, August 31 (Canadian Press). — Directors of the Coca-Cola Company here yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the 1,000,000 shares of common, payable October 1 to shareholders of record September 10. Net income for the second quarter before Federal taxes was announced as $3,049,981.24.

FACE LOOKED TERRIBLE

Pimples Were Awfully Painful. Cuticura Heals.

"A small pimple appeared on my chin and I scratched it causing more to come. The pimples were hard and sore and I used to keep scratching. They festered and were awful painful, and my face looked terrible. I was discouraged because when I went out it seemed as if everyone was looking at me.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a week's time I could see they were helping me. I continued using them for a month and the pimples disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) Mrs Harry Heffel, Borden, P. E. I., Nov. 19, 1926.

For every purpose of the toilet and bath, Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are excellent.

WHEAT YIELDS FORTY BUSHELS

Sample is Good, Grain Taken Directly From Mill To Elevator.

HARVESTING OVER.

BAILIEBORO, September 1.—The fine weather during the past week enabled the farmers of this district to get their grain under cover.

Many farmers have finished harvest and are preparing for fall wheat. The ground up to the recent rain was very dry and difficult to plow.

Those who grow alfalfa are busy cutting and drawing the second cutting. In many cases it is being stacked in the field as a result of full barns.

Two company and several syndicate mills are busy threshing both in the fields and in the barns. The pea crop is yielding better than was expected common peas running from 30 to 40 bushels per acre and fancy peas from 18 to 30 bushels per acre. Most of the peas are being threshed in the field and the "seed companies" send trucks and take the seed directly from the mill to the storehouse.

Wheat for the most part is yielding between 30 and 40 bushels per acre. The sample is good although some farmers complain of undersized grain.

Two million babies die in India every year.

SEBASTOPOL, Russia (United Press).—An earthquake which shook the Crimean peninsula late in June opened up many new springs of highly medicinal waters, according to Soviet state geologists, who left immediately to test the new waters and determine their powers. Southern Russia is in an earthquake belt of peculiar geological formation, and springs of sulphur water, bubbling drinking waters and other health-giivng minerals exist in large quantities there.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Young Mrs. Minnock came to summon Faith and Bob to breakfast, but Faith refused food, pleading so hysterically to be left alone to think that Bob did not insist.

"If I were Chris ——" she began, painfully, but for a dismaying length of time the conception seemed fantastically impossible of realization. Chris Wiley, cowardly, conceited of his power over women, doggedly determined to have the only woman who had resisted his charms—his own wife; Chris, evil-minded, unscrupulous, cunning, audacious. How could she imagine his mental processes? But she must do it. She had saved Cherry once before, had saved her very life, when she was on trial for the murder of Ralph Cluny, whom she had jilted to marry Chris Wiley. If Cherry and Hope—oh, Hope, Hope—could be saved now, both of them, without Cherry's being sacrificed to a man she hated, she would do it. She had never failed Cherry yet. And she would have to hurry, hurry, for the afternoon papers would be sending up reporters any minute, and Cherry's self-sacrificing decision to go back to Chris for the sake of her baby would be broadcast to the world—and to Chris. Her fingers dug deeper into her temples, desperately.

"If I were Chris," she forced herself to reason calmly, "I would be doing this awful thing to force Cherry to come back to me. I wouldn't know what to do with the baby, once I had it—if I were Chris. I would be angry when the baby cried and bewildered when it was hungry or needed fresh clothes. So—if I were Chris—I would get a woman to help me. Of course!" she drew a deep, shuddering sigh of relief. "Why didn't I think of that before? A woman! Now who would help Chris? Cherry says he has been living with Lola Gonzales, that half-breed Mexican girl who used to work for Bob as a stenographer. Would Lola help him take care of his baby—Cherry's baby? No, no! She would be jealous of Cherry! Chris wouldn't dare let her know his desperate plan for forcing Cherry to live with him again. Not Lola! Then—who?"

She dragged herself from her bed and ran to Cherry's room.

"Cherry, has Chris any relatives here? Please think! Any woman relative?" Faith went to her sister and fixed Cherry's blank, golden eyes with her burning brown ones.

"No—I don't know," Cherry shook her head in grief-dulled bewilderment. "Why, Faith? Oh, I can't think!" the wailed.

"You've got to think!" Faith sat down by Cherry and put her arms about her. "Please try to think of there is some woman to whom Chris might have gone for help in hiding and taking care of Hope."

Cherry's golden eyes flew wide, became warm and human again. "Oh, Faith! You're going to help me! I knew you would. Let me think!" Her little hands clasped tightly, her white forehead, with its wing-like bronze brows, knitted in a frown of concentration. "Of course! What's the matter with me? Old Aunt Chloe! She's an old colored woman, Faith, that Chris thinks the world of. She was his nurse and later his father's housekeeper after his mother died. Chris took me to see her once. He supports her—the only kind thing he's ever done."

"Quick, darling! Where does she live?" Faith cried, her arms almost crushing Cherry's tiny body.

"Let me see—oh, yes! In Peach Tree Hollow, Shantytown, they call it. You remember where you looked for old Phil the beggar, who turned out to be that awful Thompson who killed Mr. Cluny? There's where she lives ——"

But Faith was already calling Bob's name, her voice quivering and shrill with excitement and hope.

MASQUERADE BALL.

LAKEFIELD, September 1. — The annual masquerade at the Riverside Pavilion was held on Thursday evening last, with a capacity crowd present, although the number in costume was disappointingly small. However that did not detract in any degree from the pleasure of the evening as the floor was crowded for every dance and there were scores of spectators who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Excellent music was provided by the Collegians Orchestra.

The task of the judges was rendered difficult by the fact that while the number of costumes was not large, the quality was almost uniformly good. The judges were Miss Graham and Messrs. J. W. Ridpath and E. H. Northey.

The prize winners were:

Miss Doreen Burgess - Beggar Spanish Dancer.

Miss Margaret Bissonette—French girl.

Miss Theo Elmsley Peter Pan.

Mr. "Lefty" White—Mexican.

During the evening Miss Doreen Burgess danced a solo Charleston and a Spanish dance which was heartily applauded.

Miss Tiny Stuart—Ballet dancer.

Miss Eileen Brown—Bugler.

Miss Constance Stuart—Knave of Hearts.

Miss Loretta Lasiere—Clown.

Miss Maxwell Hamilton—Mexican.

Miss Kathleen Lawless—Highland Lassie.

Miss Margaret Lawless—Highland Lassie.

Miss Dell Watson—Pierrot.

Mr. Leo Lasure—Indian.

Mr. Herrick Brown—Clown.

SUNDAY TENNIS IS SUPPORTED

Winnipeg Tribune Says It Is On Same Footing With Golf.

ON MUNICIPAL GROUND.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 1 (by the Canadian Press).—The Tribune says, editorially: by a large majority vote the parks board decided last week that there should be no Sunday tennis in Sargent park. It is too much like trying to turn back the hands of the clock. The public attitude towards Sunday observance has changed for better or for worse, during the last decade or so. In any case, it is inconsistent to place the ban on Sunday tennis while permitting the playing of golf on the municipal links. The two games are on all fours. Like golf, tennis is a clean, healthy, outdoor game and one which should be encouraged. Further, it may be played without noise of any kind.

FASHION NOTES.

BY HEDDA HOYT

(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (United Press).—The return of the turban will be heralded by women of middle age if not by flappers. The prevalence, during the past few seasons, of severely tailored hats has almost driven dressy hats off the fashion map. Every hat had to be tailored in type. Soft lines were out of the question. Feathers and flower trimmings have been taboo for some seasons. In other words, hats have been designed for youthful faces of late. Matrons and elderly ladies had no alternative but to choose sports or semi-sports hats for most occasions.

Now comes the turban! To my mind, this is the most becoming hat which a mature woman can wear. It has dignity, softness of line and personality which the sports hat lacks. With the return of the turban comes word that velvet is to be the favorite medium for the fall and winter bonnet. This means that the older woman has an opportunity to get away from childish hats and skull caps which are not suited to her years.

Many varieties of turbans are being shown as advance models. Perhaps the most frequent type is the draped turban with folds crossing at the front and an inset of brocade above the eyes. This model can be carried out in two or more tones of velvet of the same general color to good effect. Unusual, too, is the turban which is shaped like a Bishop's cap. This is a bit more severe than the draped models and is usually carried out in hatter's plus or felt.

Among the many turbans shown recently is one combining a felt skull cap with folds of black velvet. Here the velvet folds are twined across the center of the cap from ear to ear, forming crushed drapery over the ear-tabs.

Glittering evening turbans are models which can be worn by young women as well as matrons. They may be made of silver fabric or brocade to good effect and they offer a change from the large dinner hat which is generally chosen for informal hotel affairs.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The new note of elegance which the French dressmakers are stressing is well shown in this evening gown of sky blue silver lame elaborately embroidered in strass and shaded blue beads.

"Fashion in women's dress is created by the modistes of Paris," says a learned college professor with a Ph.D. after his name.

For one thing—a modiste is not a dressmaker but a milliner. I really thought everyone knew that nowadays. And for another thing even dressmakers in Paris do not create the fashion—and no one would be more willing to admit it than the distinguished dressmaker himself—or herself.

Once upon a time when I was very, very young and had never been behind the scenes of the great French dressmaking establishments and really didn't know a blessed thing about fashions, I also thought that the dressmakers and designers made the fashions. I had a vague sort of idea that the artists that made the pictures for the paper pattern catalogues just sat down and made pretty pictures of any sort of frock that popped into their heads—and that was all there was to it.

The most you can say is that the great dressmaker proposes and woman disposes—but it would be a rash and foolish dressmaker who would propose any new fashion that did not seem to be the sort of thing that women were likely to approve. You have no idea—unless you have been behind the scenes—what a complicated, nerve-racking, hazardous game it is to design new clothes.

Quite often the dressmakers pull one way and women pull another. You know perhaps how hard the milliners have been trying to revive elaborately trimmed hats. Simply and frankly there was just about no profit at all in the simple untrimmed hats that women favore. The really wise milliner knows that women will wear fancy hats exactly when they choose and not a bit sooner.

We hear a great deal about the efforts of the French dressmakers to revive elaborate and elegant fashions. It would mean better business, and many of them feel that the very simple type of frock has run its course and the time really is ripe for a more elaborate mode. Well, we shall see—what we shall see.

About 15,000 students from India are studying in schools and colleges of Great Britain.

Keen's Timely Recipes for SEPTEMBER

As the Fall approaches we begin to feel the need of more substantial dishes.

The following seasonable recipes will help you to serve meals that are appetising and satisfying. The finest flavours in the ingredients are subtly developed by Keen's Mustard. Try them. Clip them for future reference.

ROAST BEEF BROILED

Mix the condiments and rub thoroughly into the slices of beef. Brush with melted butter and broil only enough to heat them through. Serve with lettuce and tiny pickles.

BAKED MEAT LOAF

1 cup chopped or minced meat—beef, ham or mutton—3 hard boiled eggs, (chopped); 5 soda crackers (chopped fine); 1 pint milk; butter size of an egg; 1 teaspoon flour; 1 teaspoon Keen's Mustard; pepper to taste.

Boil milk, thicken with flour, add butter, ham, crackers, eggs, Keen's Mustard and pepper. Bake 1 hour.

CHEESE PUDDING

Butter a baking dish. Place in it a layer of bread and butter cut in small squares, then a layer of grated cheese. Sprinkle with a very little Keen's Mustard and paprika and salt. Repeat until the dish is full. Beat up two eggs, stir them into one and one-half cups of milk. Pour this over the bread and bake thirty-five or forty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once. If desired, strips of bacon may be laid on top when the pudding is half done.

TOMATO SAVORY

6 large tomatoes (peeled); 2 large onions; 3 cups bread crumbs; 1 heaping teaspoon Keen's Mustard; ½ cup chopped parsley; any left-over meat; pepper and salt as desired.

Chop meat, parsley and onions or run through mincer; mix in bowl with crumbs, mustard, pepper and salt. Heap deep baking dish with alternate layers of crumb mixture and sliced tomatoes, having crumb layer at the top, dot with small pieces of butter and bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes. If tomatoes are not very ripe and juicy, pour in a little cold water at sides of dish before putting in oven.

SALMON HASH

Cut up in small square pieces 1½ lb. fresh salmon and place in a saucepan with ½ cup of water, a little salt, white pepper, 1 clove, 1 blade of mace, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 shallot and 1 teaspoonful Keen's Mustard mixed with ⅛ cup vinegar. Let boil and add 6 skinned tomatoes cut in small pieces, a few branches of parsley and a wineglass of sherry. Let the whole simmer gently for ¼ of an hour. Serve very hot, garnish with toasted bread cut triangular. This dish is also very appetizing when served cold at dinner or supper.

SEES NO NEED FOR WORRY ABOUT CROPS

Minister of Agriculture Strikes Optimistic Note at Exhibition Luncheon.

WORK OF RETAILERS.

J. T. Crowder Advocates Short Courses at Fair For Merchants.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—With food from British Columbia on the tables and the speakers representing the Retail Merchants and Service Clubs, yesterday's Exhibition luncheon was emblematic of the triple combination honored by the directors in the name of the day.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, paid high tribute to the Exhibition as a national institution. Speaking of the new livestock building, which was built by the Federal, Provincial and Civic Governments, he said that it would be regarded as a national rather than a provincial or local building. It was the finest thing of its kind he knew of, and the C.N.E. deserved it in recognition of their splendid efforts in the interests of livestock and agriculture during the last half century.

There was little need to worry about the crops in Canada this year, Hon. Mr. Motherwell pointed out. From present indications it looked as if there would be a bumper yield, and Alberta would have a banner year. More help would be needed to garner in this year's crop than had at first been estimated. The fact that the grain was such a heavy yield made it much harder to harvest, and as a result many men would be required. The speaker hoped that when the call came from the West for more laborers it would not fall on deaf ears, and that the quota of men required would respond to the call.

An echo of the recent World's Poultry Congress at Ottawa was sounded by Dr. Edward Brown, a past president of the Congress. He related how following the sessions of the Congress, delegates from many lands had toured the Western Provinces, and had been impressed with the boundless resources of the Dominion. He spoke of the Congress as a means of promoting world peace. People had been gathered together there with a common aim, to study poultry. It mattered not where they came from, or what language they spoke, they had a common interest and were interested in helping one another.

Instruction for Retailers.

Recommendations dealing with short courses for retailers at the Exhibition in future were advanced by J. T. Crowder of Vancouver, president of the Retail Merchants' Association.

Admitting that the Exhibition could not be conducted to appeal to any one group in particular, Mr. Crowder pointed out that if any class should receive special consideration, that class was the retail group.

"There are very few centres in Canada that will not have a retail merchant representative at the Exhibition," said Mr. Crowder. "These merchants in visiting the various exhibits see the designs of the different manufacturers and observe the attractive manner in which the displays are made. When the Exhibition closes its doors, the retailers of Canada return home and reproduce for their customers what they observed here.

"To some extent the Canadian National Exhibition is to the retailer what the colleges and hospitals are to the doctors who make a tour of inspection from time to time to keep abreast of their profession.

"Unfortunately, the elaborate and beautiful displays made by the manufacturers, often engaging expert display artists, leave the average retailer in much the same position as the art student who gazes upon the creation of a famous painter. The student may have a plentiful supply of the same canvas, paint and brushes, but it is not easy to reproduce that which engages his attention. And in this respect it might be possible for the Exhibition to be even more interesting to the retailer. At the present time the Exhibition is a gigantic show window, beautifully dressed and attractively arranged with all manners and kinds of merchandise, but the retailer's study of this display is left to his own discretion.

"But study of display is much like the study of literature or mathematics. The same amount of time devoted to study under the direction of a qualified teacher or guide would produce more and better results than if left to the individual impulse. The Exhibition might become to the retailer what the laboratory is to the chemist and the clinic to the physician. It might not only show the retailer beautiful displays of new and standard lines of merchandise, but might also show how these displays are made.

"In other cities short courses have been held successfully whereby experienced display experts and merchandise managers have demonstrated to the assembled retailers the modern and better ways of displaying and merchandising goods of various design. Such a course might be very successfully conducted during the morning hours of the Exhibition. By referring to the various exhibits, it would certainly mean that the retailers would not spend just a day or two at the Exhibition but would more likely remain for a week, attending the short course in the morning and examining the exhibits in the afternoon and evening at their leisure.

"By having exhibits of modern window display equipment and by having this in actual operation by skilled window dressers, the retailers of Canada would be better equipped to carry on displays for the manufacturers during the fifty weeks of the year that the Exhibition is closed.

Short Course Considered

"The officers of the Retail Merchants' Association are seriously considering the short course idea and hope to establish something in the nature of post graduate courses in merchandizing. This might be successfully worked out in conjunction with the regular Exhibition program. If so, I am sure the Retail Merchants' Association would be only too willing to co-operate with the Exhibition.

"When we stop to think that there are 10,000 retail grocers and general merchants in Ontario alone, the importance of such an influence can hardly be over-estimated. The Canadian National Exhibition is a constructive force growing more and more influential. If the retailer could be shown how to make more practical use of what she sees at the Exhibition, so much the better for the retailer and so much the better for the Exhibition.

"At the present time many thousands of dollars' worth of high-class, expensive advertising material is sent out by manufacturers and wasted by retailers who are not in a position to make the best use of the material. A better understanding on the part of the manufacturer and retailer of what is effective in display work would go a long way to bring about better co-operation in this respect.

"By making it possible for the thousands of retailers who visit the Exhibition to become familiar with the latest and best methods of display, the Exhibition would be rendering a real service to the retailer as well as to the manufacturer.

"If the manufacturers knew that the retailers of Canada would be attending the Exhibition to give their displays the most thorough examination for the express purpose of reproducing those features and displays that were most successful, it ought to mean that the manufacturers would be more interested. This increased interest could not help but react to the advantage of all concerned. The Retail Merchants' Association would be only too pleased to co-operate on such a program."

HOW TO MAKE A RAG FLOWER

THE frock shown consists of a pleated skirt, the right half made from red silk with white dots and the left from white silk with red dots. The jumper is of white silk and the shoulder flowers are made from the red with white dots and one from white with red dots.

How to Make It

To make the flowers cut out a pasteboard pattern according to the petal outline given here. Lay this pasteboard pattern on the silk or georgette or other material used and cut carefully around. If you are careful you can cut several petals at once by folding the material before cutting. You will need from twelve to twenty petals according to the thickness of the silk. Fringe them out as indicated in the design. Run through the base of the petals with a double threading of silk thread, and draw the petals together to form the rose. Sew directly to the shoulder of the frock as indicated.

If you want, you can make flowers of this sort for the shoulder of an evening frock—in georgette of the color of the frock and of another color—mauve and blue, for instance, pale yellow and pink, or any other interesting combination.

CAMPBELLFORD PERSONALS

CAMPBELLFORD, September 1.—Mrs. MacPhee and daughter, who have been visiting Mrs. MacFarlane, Ranney street, for the past few weeks, returned to their home in Litchfield, Minn., yesterday.

Misses Willena Duncalfe, Orpha and Lilian Meiklejohn, left yesterday evening for Toronto, where they will spend a few days at the Exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Dennis motored to their cottage at Crowe Lake, yesterday evening. They intend to enjoy a few days real duck shooting.

The local hardware dealers report heavy sales of duck hunting equipment. When the season opened at sunrise this morning every man who was not at the Toronto exhibition was probably somewhere in the marshes with all his accoutrements, but probably without any ducks.

TOMATOES WON'T SOUR

You will have no difficulty in keeping canned tomatoes when you use Parke's Preservine in them. It does not alter the natural flavor or color. Keeps other vegetables and canned fruit as well. 25c package. Bond's Drug Store, George and Hunter.

The organization of groups of women in the railroad business in various cities into clubs for business and social purposes has proceeded rapidly since the first was organized two or three years ago in St. Paul. There are now more than a dozen in these under the customary name of "Railway Women's Club" in the larger cities of the United States.

Keep false teeth "sweet" by a daily immersion in HYGEOL

cleans and sterilizes False teeth without Brushing

THE cleansing, purifying action of HYGEOL is complete. It sweeps away from dental plates all greasy film, discolorations, smoke and other odours, food particles—and thoroughly sterilizes at the same time.

Tedious brushing is entirely abolished. Simply leave the teeth for twenty minutes in a solution of one part HYGEOL to three parts water. Then, remove and rinse. The plate will be as glisteningly clean as it was when first received—all gold parts burnished, teeth pearly white and the whole entirely freed from slimy deposit. The refreshingly clean feel when the teeth are replaced will be a real joy.

Teeth can also be left to clean over night, if you prefer. One teaspoonful of HYGEOL to a glass of water is all that is necessary by this method.

Try HYGEOL without cost. Test HYGEOL'S value by securing the free sample bottle, which will be sent on receipt of the coupon. We will, also, send a booklet detailing HYGEOL'S many other uses.

Toronto Leafs Lose Double Header to Newark

NEWARK BEARS DEFEAT LEAFS IN 13TH FRAME

Burke's Error and Single By Casey Upset Doyle's Pitching.

STARS BREAK EVEN.

Rochester Takes Both Ends of Double Header From Keys.

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, Sept. 1.—Newark won the first game of the double-header here yesterday afternoon 2-0, but it took 13 innings to do it. Doyle and the left-handed Davies battled all down the line evenly. The break came in the 13th after two were out, when Burke, going after Lee's lift, dropped it, a run scoring. Casey drilled over third bag a moment later for a second run. Up to that point the game was a splendid battle.

Win Double Header.

Rochester closed its abbreviated series of two games with the Reading Keys by taking both ends of a double header by scores of 4 to 2 and 4 to 1.

The Stars and Baltimore broke even in a double header at Syracuse yesterday afternoon. The Orioles took the first game 10 to 9, while the Stars came back to win the seven inning affair 7 to 3. The Stars used 17 players in an effort to win the first contest. Manager Shotton and Bob Morrow were ejected from the field by Umpire Gaston.

Dempsey Out-Scored By Sparring Partner

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—After a two day lay off in training, Jack Dempsey eased back into harness yesterday to take his first workout of the week at his Lincoln Fields camp.

To the amazement of 3,500 spectators, Dempsey was outscored by Jack McCann in a bristling one-round session with the St. Paul heavyweight. The former champion boxed four rounds, facing four sparring mates for a round each. But his round with McCann furnished the fireworks.

Dempsey was practicing defense against straight right hands to the jaw, and McCann had no trouble in connecting squarely several times. None of them carried dynamite, but McCann scored right on the button with them.

Manager Flynn had Dempsey practicing against right hand counters, but the right hands that McCann landed were not even counters. They were deliberate leads.

McCann started out jabbing with his left, with Dempsey on the roll and weave, and then started leading with the right. Jack took the jab, trying to show that he could avoid them and then when McCann shot rights at him, he also took them.

CRICKET NEWS.

Indianapolis Pacer Equals Track Record

SYRACUSE N. Y., September 1. — Sep. Palin of Indianapolis, equalled the track record on the cinder course at the New York State Fair yesterday, winning the claiming race for pacers with Norman Grattan in straight heats. Palin's gelding paced the second mile in 2:04¾, thereby tying the mark set by George Loomis with Sir Roch several years ago.

Fire Glow, a chestnut colt from Walter Cox's stable won the Consolation division of the wet weather track stake in easy fashion in straight heats. Red Pluto made just as handy a job of the two year old pace with Palin up for his second victory of the day.

PROGRAMME SET FOR FINAL MATCHES

46th Annual National Doubles Championship at Longwood Cricket Club.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The way was cleared yesterday with but one upset, for a programme of fast quarter final matches in the 46th annual national doubles championships at the Longwood Cricket Club here today.

Yesterday's second round matches saw the 1927 "big four" of the United States come through unscathed in fighting trim for today. The Davis Cup team from France found things a "bit" rough for two of its players, Jean Borotra and Rene LaCoste, who had a hard tussle with the Providence pair, Arnold W. Jones, former Yale tennis captain, and William W. Ingraham, former leader of Yale's tennis men, before they won at 6-0, 1-6, 6-1, 8-6.

The upset of the day and the first in the tournament came late in the day when, after playing 57 games, Watson M. Washburn and Nathaniel W. Niles, Yankee veterans of Boston, eliminated the Belgian singles champion, Jean Washer, who, teamed with Frank W. Shields, of New York, 1927 national junior singles titleholder. The veteran Boston pair won, 7-5, 9-7, 1-6, 5-7, 6-4.

Jean Borotra and Rene LaCoste France, defeated Arnold W. Jones and William W. Ingraham, both of Providence, 6-0, 1-6, 6-1, 8-6.

William T. Tilden II, and Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N.Y., defeated W. A. Aydellotte and P. G. Rockafellow; both New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon of France defeated Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, and James Quick, Dallas, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., and George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago, defeated Lewis N. White, Austin, Texas, and Louis Thalheimer, Dallas, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4.

Richard N. Williams, Philadelphia and William Johnson, San Francisco defeated A. C. Watters and C. E. Granger, both of New Orleans, 6-3, 8-2, 7-5.

PIRATES CUT LEAGUE LEAD

Finish Eastern Invasion With Double-Header Triumph at Philadelphia.

PITCHERS' DUEL.

NEW YORK, September 1. — Canadian Press. — The Pittsburgh Pirates cut the idle Chicago Cubs' lead to one full game yesterday by finishing their eastern invasion with a double header triumph at Philadelphia. The Pirates' won the first game 3 to 2 by breaking up an overtime battle in the 13th inning and took the second by a score of 7-2.

Vic Aldridge and Frank Ulrich hooked up in hurling duel in the first game, the Phillies not scoring until the inning, when Fresco Thompson hit a two bagger that drove Wrightstone and Leach over the plate with the tying runs.

Aldridge was relieved in the tenth by Mike Cvengros who retired one batter and then gave way to Carmen Hill, who went the rest of the distance and received credit for the game, his 19th victory of the season.

The Pirates slammed Jack Scott for 15 hits in the second game but did not assume a commanding lead until they scored four runs in the ninth inning.

* * *

The Cardinals concluded their last eastern trip with a 3 to 1 victory over the Robins yesterday, earning an easy break in the four game series, as well as drawing up half a contest on the Cubs. Flint then pitched the distance for the world champions, holding Brooklyn to four hits. It was his first victory after seven successive setbacks. O'Farrell' double in the second inning drove across the first at St. Louis run. In the sixth Bottomley singled, went to third on Hafey's double and scored on an infield out. Henline tried to catch Hafey off third, but Barrett didn't cover the bag and the ball went into left field. Hafey walking home. Henline got the error.

Adolph Luque held the Braves to six scattered hits and the Cincinnati Reds took the last game they will play at Boston this season by a score of 1 to 0. A single by Hargraves, Luque's sacrifice, Dressen's single and Walker's sharp bounder that pulled Fourner off first base accounted for the lone Red tally in the eighth.

Only games scheduled.

Babe Ruth Connects For His 43rd Homer

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — Canadian Press. — Babe Ruth connected for homer No. 43 yesterday in the eighth inning of the New York-Red Sox mellee off Pitcher Welzer with none on base. The blow gave him a lead of two on Gehrig, who made a triple. Lazzeri corralled a pair of the Ruthian wallops for a total of 18.

RUTH CLOUTS 43RD HOMER

Leads Gehrig By Two Runs — Yanks Defeat Red Sox 10-3.

SENATORS WIN 5-3.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The Yanks nursed their latest winning streak to seven straight by drubbing the Red Sox by 10 to 3 on the resumption of hostilities here yesterday after a western invasion. Tony Lazzeri walloped two homers, one in the third and the other in the fourth for a total of 18, while Babe Ruth hammered out homer number 43 to top Gehrig by two runs. Irving Hadley, a recruit, pitched Washington to a 5 to 3 victory over Philadelphia smashing a jinx that has hovered over the Senators for an even dozen defeats and has tumbled them from the runner-up club to fourth place position.

In yesterday's game which marked the Senators' first home contest since the disastrous road trip, Hadley handed out 10 bases on balls and hit one batter.

Goslin took the lead in returning the Senators to the winning column by pounding out his 11th homer of the year and also a triple.

The game also celebrated Ty Cobb's start on his 23rd year in the American League. He pommelled out one hit in as many times at bat.

The St. Louis Browns ended their losing streak by taking both games of a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers today, 3 to 1 and 4 to 3. Home runs by Williams in the first game and Rice in the second game accounted for most of the Brown scoring.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

A LITTLE TROUBLE

I notice a dog has his troubles, too,
His little spats with the next door cats,
A fight now and then with a dog that's new
In the neighborhood—just like we folks do.

For people rock with their rocking chairs,
They squeeze his claws and they hurt his paws.
We have our troubles, and dogs have theirs:
There isn't a thing but has its cares.

I guess the Lord must have understood
What we didn't know: that a little woe,
Though it seems to hurt, does us both more good
Than ever a life too easy would.

That must be why that He fixed it thus,
Gave dogs their cares and gave people theirs.
The good Lord knows, though we fret and fuss,
A little trouble is good for us.

FLY-TOX WINS CUBAN AWARD

Because of its outstanding quality and effectiveness, Fly-Tox was awarded both the Silver Cup and Certificate of Honor in the GRAN TORNEO MERCANTILY PROFESIONAL de CUBA (Commercial and Professional Contest of Cuba.) Fly-Tox is the most widely known and generally used household insecticide in Cuba. It was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Fly-Tox kills moths, mosquitoes, roaches, ants and bed bugs, as well as flies.—Adv.

WATCHFUL WAITING.

The lecturer warmed to his subject. "The consequences of drunkenness are terrible. If I had my way, I would throw every cask of beer, every bottle of wine, every keg of brandy into the middle of the sea."

Voice from the Audience: Bravo, bravo!

BIG GAME FOR LABOUR DAY IN SENIOR SERIES

Oshawa and Petes To Meet Here in Third Fixture on Monday.

TITLE AT STAKE.

Holiday Baseball Fixture Will Be a Grim Battle to the Finish.

The second game of the five-game series for the championship of the Lake Shore League will be played at Oshawa on Saturday, and on Monday next, Labor Day, the Motors and Petes will clash at James Stevenson Park in the third fixture.

No matter what happens Saturday the Labor Day game should be full of excitement. Should the Petes take the game in Oshawa, the Motors will be fighting with their backs to the wall in the holiday contest, as a third defeat would put them out. On the other hand an Oshawa win Saturday would leave the teams all square and they would both be in there on Monday battling for the lead. In either case it will be a real struggle.

The fine form shown by the Petes in the first game delighted the fans and the home crew will have plenty of support on the holiday.

Jeff Hardill is expected to get the pitching assignment in Oshawa on Saturday while Al. Heckman, who blanked the Motors in the initial contest will be sent back at them Labor Day.

TUNNEY LEAVES CAMP ON FRIDAY

Champion Will Finish His Training For Fight Near Chicago.

DEMPSEY WORKS HARD.

CHICAGO, September 1. Canadian Press. — Gene Tunney comes here to-morrow for the final drive to the peak of physical condition and the challenge of Dempsey. With sparring partners, handlers and newspapermen, the champion motors from his camp to Utica to-day, and there entrains for this city.

Meanwhile Dempsey's chief aim in his camp near here is to develop a defense against left jabs.

Tunney's manager says that the champion ,win lose or draw in the fight, will make a world tour starting next month.

WOULD CROSS ATLANTIC

Edward Tierney and Dick Hayman in their twelve foot boat in which they expect to cross the Atlantic in thirty days are shown above. The craft is five feet deep, draws two feet of water and is built somewhat like a baby submarine. Entry can be made only through a small square hole in the top and in high seas this can be closed with a tiny conning power. A pedal arrangement permits them to tread water and aid in propelling it through the seas.

BURDITT BORN IN PETERBORO'

Swimmer Who Made Good Showing Born Here in 1899.

WORKS FOR C.N.R.

TORONTO, Ont., September 1. — One of the gratifying surprises of the big swim was the splendid showing made by the Toronto boy, Mendell Burditt, who, after swimming at a fast, even pace for several hours after the start, improved his position during the afternoon, and by late afternoon was progressing so well that there was considerable prospect of his gradually overcoming Vierkoetter and even winning the great race. Burditt, who during the afternoon progress of the race was looked upon as Toronto's "Hope," and, but for the fact that he was seized with cramps, likely would have given the German swimmer a race for the money, was one of the "dark horses" of the contest. His showing was all the more remarkable when it is considered that he was self-trained, except for some help given by his brother-in-law, Louis Rosenfeld.

Mendell Burditt, who is a clerk in the accounting department of the Canadian National Railways, 70 King Street East, was born in Peterborough, Ont., in 1899. He lives at 213A Roncesvalles Avenue, is married, and has two small children .

Great interest was taken in the fine showing of Burditt by Sir Henry Thornton who, while Burditt was still in the water, sent a telegram to him worded as follows:

"Have just learned of your fine performance, and offer you my best wishes. Hoping success will continue with you."

In speaking over the radio last evening Burditt stated that being seized with cramps had forced him to leave the water and retire from the race, but that he hoped to win the next one.

He joined the staff of the C.N.R. in Toronto in 1921 . In 1922, at the time of the co-ordination of the various systems comprising the C.N.R., he was transferred to Winnipeg and worked at the company's offices in the Western city until transferred back to Toronto in January of the present year. His parents live at 1947 Queen Street West. He has two brothers, one at Ingham Avenue and one in Winnipeg, and four sisters, Mrs. R. Welland, 1947 Queen West; Mrs. L. Rosenfeld, 58 Clifton Road; Mrs. B. Howard, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Arthur Taylor, of Winnipeg, at present in Toronto.

Theatres

AT THE REGENT.

Richard Barthelmess encountered new experiences of make-up during the filming of "The White Black Sheep," which comes to the Regent Theatre, Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

As a British soldier in Palestine who disguises as the beggar of Kefr Saba, Barthelmess was required to first grow a full-fledged beard. Then for his later shots he had to shave it leaving a trim moustache, which in turn come off during the final week of "shooting." It was Dick's first beard or moustache.

Dick had to wear the garb of an Arab beggar for several weeks during which time he was chased by Arab troops, beaten up by a Greek cafe owner, imprisoned in a dreary dungeon, and buried in sand up to his neck as a target for spear-throwers in a hair-raising torture scene.

Aside from these physical tribulations undergone by Barthelmess, the story itself inflicted upon him such mental trials as discovering his finance dishonest; being ejected from home by his father, and being branded a deserter.

Of course, all are mistakes.

Advance reports claim for Barthelmess new histrionic achievements in "The White Black Sheep," which Sidney Olcott directed. The cast is of exceptional proportions with Patsy Ruth Miller playing the leading femininte role.

LAUGHING AWAY BILIOUSNESS

Many explanations have been given as to the cause of laughter. The great scientist and philosopher, Herbert Spencer, believed that laughing was simply an overflow of excessive nervous energy. Henri Bergson, a French philosopher, claimed that laughing was evolved by the race as a means of discipline.

A good explanation is made by Professor McDougal of Harvard who believes that Nature has developed laughter in order to guard us against the excessive working of the instinct of sympathy.

When we laugh the mind is carried away from situations that might otherwise tend to cause depression. No matter what causes us to laugh, it is certainly true that the chemistry of the body is considerably altered with benefit to the whole organism. The effect s just opposite to that which is produced by destructive emotions such as fear, anger, jealousy, hatred, etc. Laughter is always exhilerating, while these other vicious emotional states are alway depressing.

There is also another factor which I consider quite important. If one laughs heartily, it is necessary to use the muscles of the diaphragm. This shaking or churning of the diaphragm has a pronounced effect upon stimulating the liver in a mechanical way. The heartier the laugh, the more the liver and gall-bladder will be affected. A real good vigoro s laugh each day will do you about as much good as if you had a treatment over the live by manipulation.

It is a noticeable fact that patients who are pessimistic and mentally irritable are the most subject to biliousness and also to adhesions around the liver and gall-bladder section. The person who laughs a great deal invariably has a freely moveable diaphragm and a heal hier condition in those organs which are located in the thorax just above the diaphragm. Those who are inclined to biliousness will do well to treat themselves to a laughing period each day. This can be accomplished by reading humorous stories out of he current funny magazines.

An excellent laughing treatment may be taken while inhaling and exhaling before an open window. Inhale slowly and while exhaling repeat the words "Ha, ha, ha!" The first time you exhale repeat "Ha" five times; the next exhalation increa e the repetition of this word to ten times, the next fifteen times and the next twenty. While exhaling do not run the words together, but cut them on and off with precision, something like the sound of a Gatling gun.

This is an excellent breathing exercise for developing streng h of the diaphragmatic muscles, and after a few "ha's," you will find you will be compelled to laugh and really enjoy the experien e as you would if you had heard a good joke.

Add this laughing exercise to your regular daily calisthenics.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Royals who disposed of Oshawa in the first round of the O.B.A.A. Juvenile semi-finals, will next meet Ottawa, the first game to be played at Ottawa next Wednesday, and the second contest here on the following Saturday. A win of this series will send Royals into the finals with the western winner.

Crescents are playing at Deloro this afternoon, with Umpires Kay and LeBarr in charge of the game. The contest is billed to start at four o'clock, and Billingsley is the likely starter for the Crescents.

Port Hope eliminated Stouffville in the third game at Oshawa yesterday afternoon.

WHAT KRUSCHEN IS
Not one salt only—but six!

SODIUM SULPHATE Very valuable medicinal salt. Aperient. Diuretic. Purifies the blood. Prevents absorption of toxins.	1.
SODIUM CHLORIDE Medicine and food. Improves digestion. Maintains alkalinity of the blood serum. Antiseptic. Prevents fermentation.	2.
MAGNESIUM SULPHATE A most valuable item in medicine. Bitter tonic. Improves appetite. Useful in all gouty conditions. Excellent remedy for Dropsy and Gravel.	3.
POTASSIUM IODIDE Affects favourably every organ and tissue. Fortifies body and brain. Many governments put it in drinking water, table salt, etc.	4.
POTASSIUM CHLORIDE Of great benefit in cases of high blood pressure. Valuable for Gout and Rheumatism.	5.
POTASSIUM SULPHATE Similar saline action to Sodium Sulphate. Dissolves Uric Acid.	6.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR

The excellent reason why Kruschen Salts has such a wonderful effect on daily health is—that Kruschen is not one salt only, but SIX.

When you take the little "daily dimeful", each morning, tastelessly in coffee or tea, you supply your body with the six salts it needs for perfect health. One salt alone could not do what these six do—build tissues, cleanse the blood, stimulate appetite and digestion, and sweep away impurities from the system.

The regular use of Kruschen will mean new health for you. Buy a bottle to-day!

ABSOLUTE PURITY
The proprietors of Kruschen Salts guarantee its absolute purity. Each ingredient attains a standard of purity far exceeding that demanded by the British Pharmacopoeia.

BOOM IN GEMS.

BOSTON, Sept. 1. — An extraordinary boom has started in the emerald market. As much as 1200 pounds a carat has been paid recently for the best specimens. The best diamonds bring about 500 pounds per carat. There is a wide disparity of opinion on the judgment of emeralds' value, dealers setting many different prizes on any one gem.

PLANES MAKE GOOD TAKE-OFF ON LONG HOPS

Carling Will Stop at Harbor Grace—Windsor Not To Stop.

CARLING PAST KINGSTON.

Large Crowds Witness Departure of Planes at Two Cities.

WINDSOR, September 1. Canadian Press. — At London the plane Sir John Carling took off perfectly under the hands of Lieut. Medcalfe and Captain Tully, despite a light ground haze. Warned by pre-arranged signals, the citizens of London were on hand in thousands at dawn, to bid the two airmen bon voyage in their attempted 3700 mile flight for a $25,000 prize.

Because of inadequate facilities the the Carling carries only about 350 gallons of gasoline. This is itself a very heavy load but it was found impossible to carry enough gas to attempt a non-stop flight to England, and Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, is the first objective of Tully and Medcalf.

There they will re-fuel and cross the Atlantic immediately if weather permits.

At Windsor everyone of the hundreds present seemed to realize that one of the biggest efforts of the whole venture was to get the Royal Windsor off the ground, and safely in the air, with the nose pointed towards England.

With Duke Schiller at the controls and Phil Wood as navigator, the big yellow monoplane roared down the field, attaining a speed of ninety miles an hour.

About one mile from the start the plane finally lifted, and the flight was on. It was a perfect take-off. Slowly climbing the plane cleared the low wires and the trees at the south end of the field. It flew south for about two miles, and then turned east on a course which is expected to land it, about 40 hours from the start, on Croydon Field, after circling Windsor Castle.

Carling Reported.

KINGSTON, September 1. Canadian Press. — The London to London plane Carling, passed east of here at 8.30 a.m., standard time.

AGED MAN KILLED IN HEAVY TRAFFIC

Tries To Walk Between Two Cars on Bloor Street, Toronto.

TORONTO, September 1. — William J. Phoenix, aged 70, a retired school teacher, living at the Aged Men's Home, Belmont street, was fatally injured last night at Bloor street, and Clendenan avenue, when struck by a motor car driven by Clare Langford, 258 Cheapside Ave., London, Ont. Phoenix died in St. Joseph's Hospital of a fractured skull soon after his admittance. The tragedy was investigated by Detectives McIlwrath and McMaster, and Langford was deemed not to blame for the mishap, and allowed to go.

Phoenix had attended the Paul Rader mission at Ravina Rink. He was on his way back, in the act of crossing Bloor street, to get a street car when the accident occurred.

Langford said that he was driving west on Bloor street in the wake of another automobile when the old man crossed in between the two cars. Langford said that he did not know whether his car struck Phoenix or whether the aged man walked into the side of it, the mishap happened so quickly.

Phoenix was unconscious and bleeding from the nose and ears when picked up. An ambulance was called and he was removed to the hospital, where he died. It was not for some time that he was identified. A receipt for a safety deposit box at the Dominion bank was found in his pocket with the name "William J. Phoenix" signed to it. A search of the city directory revealed only one William Phoenix, residing at the Aged Men's Home. On inquiry being made at that institution it was learned that Phoenix had left the Home for the Rader meeting and that he had not returned.

Phoenix had been an inmate of the Home for a considerable time He is believed to have realtives in the city but where the Home authorities are not certain.

GLOOMY DEAN SAYS AMERICANS TO RULE

Will Be Greatest Countries in the World By End of Century.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(A.P.)— The Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, dean of St. Paul's, predicts that in the year 2,000 the federation of the Latin-American republics and the United States will comprise the two greatest world powers, while the European States will be relatively unimportant, with the possible exception of Russia, against which he believes Austria and Germany will unite to prevent Western Europe from being overrun by Slavs.

In an article in the Evening Standard, Dean Inge says that nations in an isolated position with slight populations and great natural resources must necessarily outstrip the overpopulated countries of Europe which have hostile neighbors against whom they must arm. He believes that Canada and the United States will remain separate.

He estimates that the United States will have a population of 250,000,000 in the year 2,000, and asserts that Europe can save itself from decline into an unimportant position only by the formation of the United States of Europe. But he thinks this impossible because of national prejudices.

RUNNING A FAIR IS BIG BUSINESS

Peterborough Directors Have Made Many Advances in Recent Years.

AGRICULTURE LEADS.

Conducting a Fall Fair in the last ten years has developed into a big business, and it is only those fairs that are making the changed conditions that are surviving.

The Peterborough Fair Board recognized years ago the need of up-to-date buildings in which to show valuable stock, realizing that breeders would not show good stock when it had to stand the weather tied against a fence post or in dilapidated buildings, such as they had to contend with in Peterborough and other places some time ago.

Several years ago Peterborough built a fine up-to-date cattle barn, and this gave such an impetus to the entry list that another bigger and better cattle barn has been built this year. Horse barns have been erected, a Racing stable is on the grounds, a Poultry house, improved conditions for Pigs and Sheep, so that now so so far as a plant is concerned the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is equipped to take care of everything that comes.

The Directors of the Exhibition realize that the backbone of the Fair is the attention paid to agriculture, and consequently the prize list is a very healthy one, and every consideration is given to the product of the farm.

However a fair could not be carried along without other features and as a consequence the manufacturers of the city have erected a fine building for showing their manufactured products. Local merchants in numbers exhibit their newest designs and competition is invited in Art, Cooking, Needlework, Flowers ,etc.

Added to this the excellent grand stand performance, the horse races sporting events, and the Midway, make a well balanced week of education, relaxation and amusement.

The Peterborough Fair is now sold to the citizens of Peterborough, who are solidly behind the directors in all their Fair Board activities, and it is confidently expected that this year will break all records in attendance, and in the quality and number of entries in competition.

WEDDING BELLS.

JOHNSTON—BUCKHAM.

Knox Church, beautifully decorated with ferns, asters and gladioli, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Wednesday, when Violet Rosena, youngest daughter of Mrs. Buckham and the late Mr. John Buckham, was united in marriage to Ernest Gordon Johnston, son of Col. T. J. and Mrs. Johnston.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Frank Buckham, of South Monaghan, was becomingly attired in a gown of rose georgette, trimmed with cream and gold lace, a large rose hat and light blonde shoes and stockings. She carried a large bouquet of ophelia roses.

Witnesses to the signing of the register were Miss Dorothy Collins and Mr. Karl Huggins.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev. William McDonald, B.D. Mr. R. J. Devey played the wedding music. During the signing of the register Mrs. Ross Williamson rendered very sweetly, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy."

After the ceremony at the church, a dainty buffet luncheon was served to about thirty-five guests at the home of the bride.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left on a motor trip for Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Windsor. The bride travelled in a French blue coat trimmed with lynx fur, with small blonde hat, shoes and hose. On their return they will reside at 95 Morrow Street.

HENDRICKS—NORTHCOTT.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 1.—On Saturday, August 27th, Miss Mary Northcott of Lakefield was united in marriage to Frank J. Hendricks of Murray township. The couple was supported by Miss Ella Northcott of Lakefield and Mr. Albert Mander of Peterborough who acted as witnesses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Kemp at the parsonage of the Regent street United church. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks left by motor car for Kingston and points east and when they return will reside upon the York road farm belonging to the groom, about three miles west of the town of Trenton.

WEIR—FINLAY.

NORWOOD, September 1. — A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alf. Finlay, Norwood, on Wednesday morning, August 31, at 10.30 o'clock, when their only daughter, Vera Evelyn, was united in marriage to Armar MacLachlan Weir, second son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weir, also of Norwood. The house was tastefully decorated with cut flowers. The wedding march was played by Miss Pauline Weir, sister of the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. F. Stillman.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal couple left on a motor trip to Windsor, Sarnia, and other points in Western Ontario. Upon their return they will reside in the home recently vacated by Mr. F. C. McRae.

DE LAVAL DRAIN BEING COVERED

Open Ditch in Front of Plant To Be Tiled—Work Begun To-day.

SURVEY BEING MADE.

Work was commenced this afternoon under the supervision of City Engineer Parsons on the Park street drain in front of the De Laval property.

The De Laval which is one of the city's most progressive factories has wanted this work done for some time. Part of the drain runs through the township of North Monaghan. When the tiling is complete in front of the plant of the De Laval it will be lower than the suburban portion. This difficulty will be overcome and the whole district is being surveyed to determine the division of the cost.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Watley and family of Lakefield wish to thank attending doctors, also Mr. and Mrs. Woolrich, of Peterborough, and friends and neighbors, for floral tributes and kindness shown in the loss of their daughter and sister, Corena.

DEATH.

CLEGG.—In Peterborough, Thursday, Sept. 1, 1927, Charles Clegg.

The funeral will be held on Saturday, Sept. 3, 1927 (private), at 2 p.m., to the Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Dr. Blagrave officiating.

YOUTHS ADMIT KILLING FRIEND

Took Him Out in Rowboat and Pushed Him Overboard.

FACE HOMICIDE CHARGE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Two young men of scrawny build and pale complexion, who were graduated from street games to soda jerking only a year ago, confessed to District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Kings County last night that they had taken another youth out to the middle of Gravesend Bay last Thursday morning, pushed him in and rowed back to the shore while he went down with a bubbling cry of "help!" on his lips. The youth killed was Benjamin Goldstein, 22, whose parents had been worried for two years over his mysterious way of living without working. On his life, it developed yesterday were insurance policies aggregating $70,000.

Arrested with the two young men and locked up with them last night on a charge of homicide, was Joseph Lefjowitz, a middle-aged cloak and suit merchant of apparent good reputation, who is the beneficiary of these policies and is accused of engineering the death of young Goldstein.

TAKE A MINUTE TO READ THIS

In order to avoid too much rush on the opening day of the FALL TERM, TUESDAY, SEPT. 6th, we would suggest that those who find it convenient make final arrangements some day this week by calling at our office.

We can, at more leisure, plan the courses—arrange for books, seats and other details that take up time. This suggestion is made so that we may serve the better those who are planning a course with us. We have more enrollments to date than in many years, and this will mean more rush, and require more time to serve everybody.

Please give this matter your early attention.

Hope Fades For the Safety of British Fliers

Lack of Growth Is Due to Failure To Adopt Counsel

Ryerson Ritchie Also Favors Keeping City Council in Office for Longer Terms in Order to Get Value of Experience Gained.

DEVELOPING INDUSTRIAL GROWTH IS MOST IMPORTANT FEATURE

Peterborough Holds Strong Position Because of Diversity of Industries—Citizens Must Understand Civic Problems and Take Advantage of All Their Opportunities.

That Peterborough's neglect of the advice of Thomas Adams, one of the greatest living experts in community planning and development, accounts for her delay in making the progress that ought to have been made since the war is the opinion of Ryerson Ritchie, who holds that the city was never more fit for growth than she is today. Mr. Ritchie also raises an interesting point by his questioning of the wisdom of electing men for brief terms to offices like that of mayor and making a change just as the occupant of the office has made himself thoroughly familiar with the tasks pertaining to his position in the civic government.

Mr. Ritchie, who was born in Peterborough, was the secretary and executive officer of the Chambers of Commerce of Kansas City, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Boston and San Francisco during their periods of formation or reorganization and subsequent development, his service to each averaging four years. These institutions are nationally recognized as the leading bodies of their class in the U.S.

Mr. Ritchie has always been an optimist so far as Peterborough is concerned. Nine years ago at a "Get together luncheon" held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, then being re-organized, he declared that with enthusiasm and proper methods, Peterborough in the space of ten years could double the number of her inhabitants. "If we want to build a big city we have got to be big men" was one of the striking phrases of Mr. Ritchie in his address which attracted a great deal of attention.

In 1918 the population of the city was 20,904. Last year, less than a thousand more were recorded, 21,519.

Why has not Peterborough grown? Mr. Ritchie has often attempted to answer this question. Seated in the reading room of the Empress Hotel Mr. Ritchie drew from his rich store of experience as he once more discaussed the causes of Peterborough's slowness to reach the height at which she has aimed.

"Some of our people feel that Peterborough ought to grow faster than it is growing. What do you think of its prospects, Mr. Ritchie?"

"Peterborough may not be growing fast, but she is certainly growing sturdy, more self-reliant, more attractive. And she's prospering too, if one may judge from the extent and achitecture of building, the homes of the workers, the number and quality of motor cars, and from the good condition of manufacturing. Peterborough has more markings to the credit of community culture and enterprise than we realize. It is my belief the city was never so fit for growth as she is today.

"Industrially, Peterborough holds a strong, almost unique, position in Canada's rising commeree, because of her several distinctive manufactures. The domestic and export trade of the country is growing rapidly. More and more high-class British and American plants will locate in Canada. The more businesslike the community the more certain it is to attract them.

"Planning the policies, responsibilities, duties and business of the city is less important than the work of developing industrial growth. The latter affects our material interests.

"There need be no question of the future of Peterborough if her people respect and use the best brains they've got in devising and working to a practical plan of development. This city, so richly endowed by nature and good fortune, will be as big as her public spirit, as prosperous as her leadership, logically, proposes and labors for.

"May I mention but two American cities that were, not many years ago, much smaller than Peterborough? Schenectady, N.Y., gained more than 60,000 people in 18 years, because it is the home of the General Electric Company. Akron, Ohio, gained more than 150,000 within the last 15 years. It is the center of the great rubber industry, despite the fact that that city isn't the most economic location. I happen to know that Akron had the advantage of a highly supported Chamber of Commerce and, what is still more consequential, the loyal devotion and aid of her ablest business and professional men.

FIVE MEMBERS OF FIRM AWAY

TOBACCO COMPANY.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—The Royal Commission of Customs spent some time this morning endeavoring to solve the mysteries of transactions in alcohol by the Canadian Tobacco By-Products Company of Montreal. According to R. L. Calder, K.C., Commission counsel, five men connected with this company have disappeared. They might be able to explain why thousands of gallons of alcohol were removed from the company bond, put through a denaturing process of some kind, and then shipped out to parts unknown. According to the evidence given to-day, it was quite possible to remove the denaturants and have alcohol in its potable form.

W. Taylor, Commissioner of Excise, said he was satisfied that the company was using the flavoring business as a "camouflage," and that its real object was to sell the alcohol.

The Commission will be asked next Wednesday to recommend that a civil suit based on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the revenue be taken against the Compagnie des Produits Gauvin Ltee, of Montreal. R. L. Calder, K.C., Commission counsel, gave notice of this application just before the noon adjournment to-day. He stated that Canadian Tobacco By-Products Company had vanished into thin air so no action against it would be asked.

CAMPERS BACK FROM ROTARY

Last Group Makes Return Journey in Motor Boat.

BRINGS EQUIPMENT

The last group of campers returned from Rotary Camp Wednesday night, in the camp's boat, with Doug Loomis. They left the camp at 5 p.m. and took rather longer than usual on account of being forced to put themselves through a couple of the locks between here and Lakefield. There were about ten boys on the boat and they brought all the camp blankets and their personal equipment with them. The boat is large but makes a fair speed propelled by an outboard motor.

HUNTER SHOOTS GAME WARDEN

Official Had Stopped Two Men in Connection With Deer Hunting.

AT WESTFIELD, MAINE.

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine, September 2. Canadian Press. — Lee Parker, a game warden, was shot and instantly killed at Westfield, near here, to-day, by one of two men in an automobile, whom he had stopped to question in connection with suspected deer hunting activities.

O. A. Langley Is Head Ontario Magistrates

KINGSTON, Ont., September 2 (Canadian Press).—O. A. Langley of Peterborough was to-day elected president of the Ontario Magistrates' Association at their annual convention here. W. A. Mikel, Belleville, was elected as Vice-President.

The Association went on record as favoring the establishment of an institution for the confinement and treatment of narcotic addicts and chronic alcoholic cases.

WINDSOR MEN AWAIT CHANCE OF NEW START

Plane Is Repaired and Landing Place Provides Good Take-off.

ANXIETY IN LONDON.

French Fliers Turn Back When Fog Obscures Course Towards Atlantic.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—The "Royal Windsor" monoplane, en route to Windsor Castle, England, from here, which was forced down in a field between St. John's and St. Jean, Quebec, last night, to-day awaited an opportunity to take off for Britain, according to word received here by Justus Miller, backer of the flight.

Duke Schuller, pilot of the plane, 'phoned Mr. Miller that the blaze in the plane's wing did no damage, but that the tail skid was loosened. This was repaired by a blacksmith and the ship is ready for the second hop. Schiller and Phil Wood spent the night in a farm house and are all set to go. The field in which the plane landed provides a fine emergency flying ground and they anticipate little difficulty in a second take-off.

Base Hopes On Boat.

LONDON, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—As hours passed without definite news of the trans-Atlantic plane St. Raphael, anxiety deepened for the safety of Captain Hamilton and Col. Minchin and their passenger Princess Wertheim. If the plane landed at sea, whatever hope exists is based on the rubber boat which the St. Raphael carried.

Frenchmen Turn Back.

LE BOURGET, France, Sept. 2.—(United Press.)—Three and a half hours after starting an attempted non-stop flight to New York, Leon Givon and Pierre Corbu brought their heavily loaded Farman biplane 'Bluebird' safely to earth at 10 a.m. to-day (5 a.m. E.D.T.), abandoning temporarily at least a flight which they had planned for several months. A thick fog a short distance from Paris above which they were unable to rise, caused Givon, at the controls, to return to Le Bourget.

The giant plane was back over Le Bourget about two hours after it started, but for almost another hour the pilots circled over the field, hoping the haze would lighten. When it remained still thick, Givon began emptying the gasoline tanks. By then, the load had been reduced from 2,500 to 1,000 gallons, and the lightened ship was landed gracefully, the pilot and navigator bitterly disappointed over their failure. About 750 dollars worth of gasoline had been dumped so that the ship could be handled better, although Givon stated he had dropped the least possible amount. The ship at the start had weighed twelve tons, and it was hard to fly above thirteen hundred feet.

Fliers Leave For Bagdad.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—The round-the-world plane 'Pride of Detroit' left here to-day for Aleppo, Syria, and Bagdad. The latter is about a thousand miles away and they hope to reach Bagdad this afternoon.

THINK PLANE IN OCEAN.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 2 (Canadian Press). — Opinion prevails in official circles here that the monoplane St. Raphael never reached the shores of the North American continent after starting from Upavon, England, for Ottawa. The fate of the plane and its occupants, Princess Wertheim, Col. Minchin and Captain Hamilton, remained unknown at a late hour this morning. "We have pretty well combed the North Atlantic," Commander C. P. Edwards, director of radio, said today, "and have heard nothing of the plane. Our efforts will be continued."

WRECK KILLS FIVE.

Paris-Bordeaux Train Is Wrecked Near Tours.

TOURS, France, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press). — At least five persons, possibly more, were killed in the wreck of the Paris-Bordeaux express train here at midnight.

2 MISSING; 2 FLYING; 2 WAITING IS STATUS NOW OF BIG PLANES

British and American Fliers Overdue at Canada and Brazil—Whale and Pride of Detroit in the Air in Their Flights.

WINDSOR, CARLING, OLD GLORY, AND BLUE BIRD AWAITING SUITABLE WEATHER FOR TAKE-OFFS

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Two planes missing, two in the air and four held to the ground by unfavorable weather, was the status of the long distance flights today.

Missing were the British St. Raphael and the Brunswick plane of Paul Redfern, both long overdue at Canada and Brazil respectively.

In the air were Capt. Courtney with four others in the huge Whale flying boat, from Southampton to Plymouth, on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight, and the round-the-world plane Pride of Detroit, from Constantinople to Bagdad.

Held back were the Royal Windsor at St. Johns, Que., the Carling at Caribou, Maine; the Old Glory at New York, and the Blue Bird at Le Bourget.

PRINCE FINDS CANADA RICH

Material Wealth and Wealth of Character Stressed in Farewell Speech.

A GREAT COUNTRY.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales to-day bade farewell to Canada through the Canadian Club of Montreal, his words being addressed to the Association of Canadian clubs and to all the Dominion.

"Canada," he said, "the heart and soul of Canada, the possibilities of Canada, is a reef of precious metal so vast in extent that no man living can value it. The deeper you go, more astonished you become at the wealth, the material wealth and the wealth of character, which you find there, and the effect on one who leaves Canada is a feeling that here at any rate is a great country worthily fulfilling a very great destiny."

Brig.-Gen. E. B. Panet, president of the Canadian Club, and also in charge of the royal train, presided.

BIG CROWD SEES PRIZES PAID OUT

Grandstand at the C. N. E. Filled With Interested Spectators.

WINNERS TELL OF USES.

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press). — The huge grand stand at the Canadian National Exhibition Exhibition was crowded to capacity this afternoon as the prizes in the swimming marathon of Wednesday were awarded to the winner, second and third men, and to the four women who stayed in the water longest.

Ernst Vierkoetter was all smiles as he was handed a small slip of blue paper representing $30,000 and he thanked the officials and the crowd, through amplifiers, briefly but warmly.

Lottie Schommel received $3,500, more than any other woman. She said she was going to bank it for "George and Ruthie."

She remarked that her manager has entered into negotiations for a thousand mile swim down the Mississippi River.

George Michel, the runner up, received his $7,500, and bluff Bill Erickson $2,500. Ethel Hertle of New York, who received $3,000, says her money is going toward a home for her father and mother on Long Island.

Edith Hedin of Toronto is going to send her $2,000 over to her mother in Finland.

BRITISH PUNISH CHINESE PIRATES

Destroy Several Villages By Fire From Naval Vessels.

SHANGHAI, September 2. — Canadian Press. — British naval forces conducted a successful punitive expedition against the pirate stronghold, Bias Bay, near Hong Kong, yesterday, an official statement said to-day. No details were issued but the correspondent of the Westminster Gazette said that several of the villages were destroyed, but that there was no trace of the pirates.

No casualties, either to British or pirates, resulted from the raid. Pirates back in the hills watched the blue jackets wreck their strongholds with gunfire and dynamite. The British used the aircraft carrier Hermans, two cruisers, a sloop, and a destroyer in an ambitious attack.

LAWN PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Mrs. R. R. Hall and Mrs. T. Bell Win Two Classes.

49 MORE FIRES; LOSS SMALLER

Fire Marshal's Report Shows Less Damage Than in 1926.

FOR SEVEN MONTHS.

The report of the Ontario Fire Marshal for the month of July, 1927, shows an increase of 49 fires over the corresponding month last year, but the amount of the loss dropped from $864,140 to $688,037. During the first seven months of 1927 there was an increase of 33 fires over the first seven of last year, but the loss decreased $749,506. The loss not covered by insurance shows a decrease of $32,168 for the seven months, while that covered by insurance shows a decrease of $717,338.

The loss for the four leading classes of risks for the seven months shows an increase of three barns, increase in loss of $111,023; decrease of five dwellings with decrease in loss of $29,727; and in stores a decrease of 90 and in loss of $931,141; while in factories there was an increase to the number of seven, but the amount of loss decreased by $314,977.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Dies in Hospital Hour After Accident on the Highway.

NEAR HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, 23, a domestic maid, was fatally injured early to-day when struck by a motor car on the highway after alighting from a bus. A Hamilton woman was driving the car. The victim died in hospital an hour after the accident.

13 Days of Liberty Bring Four Charges

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Harry Nelson, recaptured after having dug his way to freedom from Sing Sing, will face four separate penalties for his thirteen days of liberty, it was stated yesterday.

Under prison rules he will remain in solitary confinement for week and seven months will be added to his term. He will also be prosecuted in Westchester County Court and may receive five years for jail-breaking and will be sent to dreaded Clinton prison in the Adirondack Mountains, where escape will be more difficult.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS START FROM CARIBOU

London-To-London Plane Is Held Up By Fog and Rain.

HAS GAS ENOUGH.

Will Not Need More For Flight To Harbor Grace, Pilot Says.

CARIBOU, Maine, September 2. — Canadian Press. — Adverse weather conditions threatened to-day to delay the take off for St. John, Newfoundland, of the London, Ont., to the London, Eng., plane, Sir John Carling, which came down here last night. A heavy mist was close to the ground, and flying conditions were poor.

Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. Jas Medcalf found it raining when they arose to-day, and said that they might stay over until to-morrow.

"We dont' mind the rain, but it looks as if we might run into the same fog that forced us back yesterday if we tried to take off to-day," Tully said. "I figure we covered 500 miles in the air yesterday, and most of the time we were trying to dodge fog. We have about 140 gallons of gas left, and I don't think we will have to take on any more here."

NO DELIVERY ON LABOR DAY

Post Office Will Be Open for Short Time in Morning.

On Labor Day, Monday, September 5, the Post Office wickets will be closed except between the hours of 8.30 a.m. and 10.30 a.m., during which period Postage Stamps will be on sale and the General Delivery and Registration wickets will be open.

There will be no delivery by Letter Carrier. All Money Order, Postal Note and Savings Bank wickets will be closed.

All outgoing mails due for despatch will be closed at the regular hour.

There will be two collections only made from the street letter boxes, commencing at 8.00 a.m. and 9.00 p.m.

STILL HOPE FOR BRUNSWICK MAN

Reports Now Indicate That He Was Sighted Over Venezuela.

NOT AT ALEMQUER.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., September 2.—Canadian Press. — Repeated disappointment in the wake of groundless rumors, concerning the fate of Paul Redfern, the missing airman, have failed to dim the hope that the flyer will be found alive soon. Although more than a week has passed since Redfern started the Brunswick to Brazil flight the populace were inclined to believe that reports of an unidentified plane being sighted in Venezuela, indicate that he has reached the South Continent.

A report that he had fallen at Alemquer was proved groundless.

SLEEPS, LOSES CLOTHES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. — It was a nice night in Central Park, so Christopher Dandurand lay down for nap, beneath a clump of bushes. Later he awoke and tried to pull his coat closer about him. To his horror, he found he had no coat, nor shoes, nor trousers. A taxi driver took him to a police station in a blanket.

Anxiety Increases For Safe Arrival Of "Flying Princess"

British Hopes Grow Less For Safety of Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and Her Co-Pilots in Daring Attempt To Span Atlantic, Westward.

AIR MINISTRY HEADQUARTERS REPORT NO NEWS RECEIVED SINCE WEDNESDAY

Levine Decided To Postpone Take-Off of Columbia Unless Missing Aviators Are Heard From—Bureau Reports Dense Fogs and Unfavorable Weather Over Atlantic.

LONDON, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press). — British hopes and fears hovered nervously over the Atlantic last night. The monoplane "St. Raphael," with Captain Hamilton, Colonel Minchin and Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim aboard, is now so many hours overdue, after making the greatest allowance for slower speed that it was thought she would develop that hopes still held in the afternoon grew fainter and fainter as the night wore on.

The presence of a woman in the plane, and that woman a Princess, makes public interest and anxiety all the greater.

The plane had a supply of petrol sufficient only for forty-four hours flying, and unless heard from within a very few hours the fate of the fliers must necessarily arouse the greatest anxiety.

Captain Hinchcliffe, the Columbia's new pilot, and others throughout the day maintained that anxiety was needless even if the "St. Raphael" was not heard from by ten o'clock last night. But that hour has passed and most of them are beginning to have the gravest fears, with the possibility remaining that the trio may have been rescued by some ship lacking a wireless outfit.

No News Since Wednesday

The Air Ministry has had no news whatever since the report from an unknown source Wednesday night stating "going strong at 1.30," which it was assumed came from a steamer in the Atlantic. Since then there has been complete silence.

Absence of news of the "St. Raphael," is having its effect on other prospective flights. Charles A. Levine has decided that unless the British aviators are heard from he was not likely to hop off today. He added that the weather reports were very unfavorable and that there were several things he wanted to have done to the Columbia.

Mayfair society circles talked on little yesterday but the waning chances of Princes Lowenstein-Wertheim. Many recalled the time when as a child she led an old-fashioned, carefully guarded life, contrasting greatly with the audacity of her later years. She was one of the first European women to interest herself in flying. Her last words spoken on English ground here were:

Had Every Confidence

"I have every confidence in my pilots and the plane. We have every chance of making our goal."

The Princess for the most part, however, was grimly silent. When the Archbishop of Cardiff blessed her, she almost fell while trying to kneel.

No anxiety is felt that the aviators would be starved; they carried provisions which the Upavon experts say might be stretched to last four days, and ample coffee.

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—This town, which has become a terminal point for trans-Atlantic flights, last night kept vigil for three planes, two eastbound, the other westbound, across the Atlantic. At 9 o'clock local time, which corresponds to 6.30 o'clock eastern standard, no word had come of any of the air voyagers.

At that hour the English monoplane St. Raphael, bearing the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim as passenger, Captain Leslie Hamilton, pilot, and Colonel F. F. Minchin, assistant pilot, was many hours overdue on its flight from Upavon, England, where it hopped off Wednesday morning for Ottawa. From the early hours of the morning lighthouses and wireless stations along the Newfoundland coast had kept watch in vain for the plane.

To the westward eyes were turned in search of the Canadian plane, Sir John Carling, expected to land on the Harbor Grace flying field last night, completing the first leg of a flight from London, Ont., to London, England. As the time drew near when the plane was to arrive, crowds gathered from the settlements along Conception Bay to greet Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf, pilot and navigator of the monoplane. Later in the night the monoplane Royal Windsor, in which Phil Wood and C. A. (Duke) Schiller are attempting a non-stop flight from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, was expected to pass over the colony. Visibility [illegible].

A light north-easterly wind prevailed throughout the afternoon, but light and visibility continued low, unfavor-

ANGLE PARKING SEEMS DOOMED

SEWAGE PLANT BETTER

The Board of Works decided last night to prepare a bylaw to rescind the angle parking bylaw. No more attempts will be made to draw up parking bylaws until a thorough study of the matter has been made.
